HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES THIRTY-SECOND LEGISLATURE, 2023 STATE OF HAWAII H.R. NO. 199

HOUSE RESOLUTION

URGING THE STATE TO PURSUE AN EXEMPTION TO THE COMMERCE CLAUSE OF THE UNITED STATES CONSTITUTION FOR AGRICULTURAL PRODUCE GROWN OR RAISED IN THE STATE OF HAWAII.

WHEREAS, Hawaii imports more than eighty-five percent of 1 2 its food and is considered highly vulnerable in issues of food 3 security; and 4 WHEREAS, climate change significantly increases this 5 vulnerability with sea level rise and intensified weather 6 7 patterns in the Pacific, including unpredictable seas and 8 hurricanes; and 9 WHEREAS, the Merchant Marine Act of 1920, commonly known as 10 the Jones Act, requires that all goods that are shipped within 11 the United States be transported by United States-flagged 12 vessels that are primarily operated by United States citizens; 13 and 14 15 16 WHEREAS, much of Hawaii's cargo shipments require marine 17 transportation and are therefore subject to the Jones Act; and 18 19 WHEREAS, the requirements of the Jones Act create an 20 artificial scarcity of available ships, thus increasing transportation costs; and 21 22 23 WHEREAS, in addition to higher shipping costs, local farmers must contend with inflated costs to buy or lease land, 24 25 and high water rates, as well as one of the highest costs of 26 living in the country; and 27 28 WHEREAS, these factors make the costs of farming in Hawaii 29 the highest in the nation, creating an almost insurmountable hurdle for local farmers and an unfair advantage for 30 agricultural producers based in the continental United States; 31 and 32 33

H.R. NO. 199

1 WHEREAS, the United States Department of Agriculture defines small farms as those having no more than five hundred 2 3 acres; and 4 5 WHEREAS, the latest Hawaii Department of Agriculture surveys reveal that less than four percent of farms in Hawaii 6 7 surpass that threshold, with the vast majority, ninety-six 8 percent, being very small farms; and 9 WHEREAS, fifty-eight percent of the small farms in Hawaii 10 11 average sixteen or less acres in size; and 12 WHEREAS, the average small farm in Hawaii incurs losses of 13 almost $10,000 annually due to the high costs of farming; and 14 15 WHEREAS, the United States Constitution was written in 1787 16 at the Constitutional Convention, ratified in subsequent state 17 conventions, and took effect in 1789; and 18 19 WHEREAS, Article I, section 8, clause 3 of the United 20 States Constitution, commonly referred to as the Commerce 21 Clause, gives the United States Congress the power "to regulate 22 23 commerce with foreign nations, and among the several states, and 24 with the Indian tribes"; and 25 26 WHEREAS, historically, courts have interpreted the Commerce 27 Clause to include a prohibition against states passing 28 legislation that discriminates against or excessively burdens interstate commerce by, for example, creating an unfair 29 30 advantage for their own producers over those of any other state; and 31 32 33 WHEREAS, the effects of the Commerce Clause on individual states in the sector of agriculture is currently a highly 34 35 contested aspect of the law, due to the dominance of a small number of national corporate producers in all states; and 36 37 38 WHEREAS, despite this nation's apparent desire for federal 39 laws that prevent discrimination against interstate commerce, the United States Supreme Court has not yet addressed 40 discrimination or undue influence on interstate commerce caused 41 42 by federal law; and

WHEREAS, despite the fact that, on July 9, 2021, President 1 Joseph R. Biden signed Executive Order No. 14036, entitled 2 "Executive Order on Promoting Competition in the American 3 Economy, " which, among other things, sought to create a fairer, 4 more resilient meat and poultry industry by identifying 5 recurring unfair, unjustly discriminatory, or deceptive 6 practices, no federal law or executive order has yet addressed 7 the economic disparities experienced by vegetable and fruit 8 9 growers; and

WHEREAS, the intent behind the Commerce Clause was never to favor national corporate agriculture at the expense and survival of small local farms, but rather to ensure robust, diverse market competition; and

16 WHEREAS, at the time the United States Constitution was 17 written, Hawaii was still an independent nation and, hence, 18 Congress did not, nor has it currently, considered the 19 implications of the Commerce Clause on the Hawaiian Islands with 20 regard to current and future food security needs, the extra 21 burden of trans-ocean and intra-state ocean shipping, and 22 economic disparities; and

24 WHEREAS, an exemption from the Commerce Clause would help 25 to restore balance and fair markets to small agricultural 26 producers in the State of Hawaii; now, therefore, 27

BE IT RESOLVED by the House of Representatives of the Thirty-second Legislature of the State of Hawaii, Regular Session of 2023, that the Governor, the Legislature of the State of Hawaii, and its representatives in Congress are urged to pursue an exemption to the Commerce Clause of the United States Constitution for agricultural produce grown in Hawaii; and
