Comments:

Support SCR 149 and SR115. There should be consequences when acts by a current or former law enforcement officer, military personnel, politician, or any other government leader are contrary to their oath to uphold the constitution of the United States and the constitution of Hawai'i.

In light of what has happened at the US Capitol and other places around the US, the intent of this resolution makes sense. The question becomes, who determines the intent of the constitution of the US? We continually have disagreement on the amendments and their meanings, especially in regard to the first and second. Something to think about?
