No. 2, entitled: "HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION REQUESTING THE GOVERNOR TO ADDRESS THE LEGISLATURE ASSEMBLED IN JOINT SESSION," resolving that the two Houses of the Legislature assemble in Joint Session in the Chambers of the House of Representatives at 10:00 a.m. on Monday, January 23, 2017, for the purpose of receiving such address or greetings from the Governor of Hawaii as he should be pleased to make, was jointly offered by Representatives Souki and Mizuno.

On motion by Representative Saiki, seconded by Representative Fukumoto and carried, H.C.R. No. 2 was adopted.

At 10:45 o'clock a.m., the Chair declared a recess subject to the call of the Chair.

At this time, the Members of the House, their guests and audience were entertained by Raiatea Helm.

The House of Representatives reconvened at 11:17 o'clock a.m.

At this time, the Speaker delivered his address, stating:

"I would like to make some introductions before beginning. Governor David Ige and his wife and son, Matthew. Lieutenant Governor Shan Tsutsui. As a special guest, Governor Hiroshi Ogawa from Fukuoka, thank you. As a special guest, Speaker Nakao, thank you for being here. And up in the gallery we have the Fukuoka assembly members sitting strong, aloha to you all. Thank you.

"Chief Justice Recktenwald, Justice Paula Nakayama, Justice Sabrina McKenna, Justice Richard Pollack, Justice Michael Wilson, and Office of Hawaiian Affairs Chair Rowena Akana.

"Former Governor Ariyoshi and Mrs. Ariyoshi, former Governor Waihee and Mrs. Waihee, former Governor Ben Cayetano and Mrs. Cayetano, and Governor Abercrombie. Also members from the Congressional delegation, for Senator Schatz, Chuck Freedman. For Senator Hirono, Alan Yamamoto. For Congresswoman Hanabusa, Christen Lee. For Congresswoman Gabbard, Shingai Masiya.

"For the mayors, our Mayor Kirk Caldwell, the Kauai Mayor Bernard Cravalho, from the Big Island Mayor Harry Kim, and representing Mayor Alan Arakawa is Keith Regan. We have County Chairs Ron Menor from the City and County of Honolulu, from Maui County, Chair Mike White, from Hawaii County, Chair Valerie Poindexter. Also, to our members of the consular corps, a little hand, please. And if there are any representatives of the armed forces, please give them a hand.

"And very important to me of course, my wife Frances Souki, my son Mark Souki and his fiancée Jeanine, my campaign chairman of many years and why I'm here, Leonard Oka, and a good old friend, John Radcliffe. Thank you all. Now if you can hold your breath, I will make my speech.

"My good friends, aloha and welcome to the House of Representatives, the People's House. After more than 35 years in the Legislature, I never tire of seeing this place come alive and bursting with activity at the start of each session. And I am always impressed with the diversity of people that come together under this rotunda.

"We come from Waianae and Waimanalo, from Hilo and Kona, from Poipu and Princeville, from Kaupo and Kaanapali, and all points in between. And while our reasons and motivations may vary widely, we all share a common purpose, to participate in this government and help shape our collective future.

"We in Hawaii have a strong and compelling sense of place, who we are. We all share this overarching sense of place, whether you were born and raised here or chose it for your adopted home. Hawaii does that to you. And when change comes to this place, as it must, we begrudgingly accept it, but only after making sure that it is in the best interest of Hawaii.

"When school curriculums must be updated for a changing world, when the way we measure academic success no longer applies, and when our education system must evolve from the way we've always done things, we push back and cautiously ask, why? Why are they no longer good enough? But I know the DOE and the administration are hard at work implementing sound and necessary changes, and we look forward to working with them to improve our schools.

"In Maui, when we could no longer afford to deliver health care on Maui the way we used to, we understandably pushed back because we are protective of others who may be affected by the change. But we needed to find a better way of change. And we did. So this July, we look forward to completing the privatization of Maui's public hospitals and initiating a new era of health care delivery on the Valley Isle.

"When gridlock chokes our daily commute and threatens the efficient operation of our businesses and our quality of life, we resist dramatic changes. We hope lesser incremental ones will do the job. But they won't, and only serve to cost us more in the long run.

"So we look to solutions like rail to relieve traffic on our roads. It does come with a high cost, but make no mistake, rail is the key to the future of Oahu. The Mayor of Honolulu has proposed extending the general excise tax as a way of financing the growing cost of rail. I agree. We need to remove the sunset date on the original financing bill, but only if we reduce the tax rate, with the city making up the difference. In addition, we should also lower the amount allocated for administrative costs from 10% to 5%. I believe it's time.

"But rail alone will not solve the entire problem of traffic congestion on Oahu. We must employ a multi-faceted approach, utilizing our buses, flex scheduling and technology that allows distance learning, tele medicine and alternative workplaces to reduce commuter travel.

"Another way would be elevated toll roads, privately owned and funded by users, could be a part of our efforts to mitigate congestion. These roads would allow tour buses and other businesses to operate more efficiently, while removing them from our grade level streets.

"Other cities across the country and the world have successfully integrated elevated toll roads as part of their transportation network, including Singapore, which has similar limited space and population density as Honolulu. Therefore, I am proposing that we do a feasibility study to see whether elevated toll roads make sense for Honolulu and how they might be integrated with rail, our buses and our existing highway system.

"We also seek change in the prisons. Change must also come to our prisons, where we can no longer house the numbers we are incarcerating. Presently, about 5,900 inmates fill our state prisons, 1,400 are in federal prisons, and 21,000 on probation. This totals to about 30,000 individuals who are being managed under our criminal justice system, either behind bars or under supervision.

"With no new prison in sight for at least 10 years, we need to find alternative ways for incarceration. So what can we do? The Legislature has already created a task force on improving the correctional system, and last year passed a law that allows the prison director to release some types of low-level nonviolent inmates. I think we read that in the paper this morning, it's beginning to move now, hopefully. We also provided funds for increasing the number of beds in Hilo, Maui and Kauai. But we must build on these efforts.

"For those awaiting trial and those guilty of misdemeanors, white collar or non-violent crimes, we can confine them to their homes by using electronic bracelets. With new technology, we can employ varying degrees of restrictions based on the crime committed, and monitor the movements of those under supervision.

"What I'm talking about is creating a whole new level of non-institutionalized incarceration. It would revamp our prison system, lessen the cost, and lessen the cost of incarceration. The benefits would not only include less crowded facilities, but allow us to better focus on rehabilitating the inmates.

"Protecting our residents also means keeping an eye on federal regulations that benefit our state. This session we will propose critical amendments to Hawaii's National Flood Insurance Program. We will amend our laws to comply with FEMA's floodplain management regulations. We will protect 60,000 flood insurance policyholders in jeopardy of losing this critical coverage. Since 1980, Hawaii has received more than $400 million from FEMA through this program. Rest assured, we will fix this situation and make sure flood insurance coverage continues.

"Along with our sense of place is our compassion for others. With the new Trump Administration about to be sworn in in Washington D.C., we know the rich will be well looked after, but it is now incumbent upon individual states, like Hawaii, to make sure low-income families are given support when needed.

"There is nothing more important to human dignity than food on the table and a roof over your head, therefore a priority of the House will be to continue to provide food and rental tax credits for families in need.

"At times, our compassion can also be severely tested. Nowhere is this more evident than in recent discussions about whether Hawaii should allow compassionate care or the right to die with dignity. Those who are suffering from a terminal illness and are of sound mind should be given the opportunity to decide how they will end their own lives. Therefore, I will be submitting a bill this session to decide this issue.

"We have a lot on our plate, members, for this session, and the last revenue forecast by the Council on Revenues does not make our job any easier. It certainly gave gray hairs to the Finance Chairman Luke. But we've been there before as lawmakers and as a community, and we will together find solutions to our most pressing issues.

"So I call on each and every one of you to roll up your sleeves and join me in doing what we need for all of Hawaii. May God bless you all. Thank you, aloha. Thank you very much."

The Chair then recognized Representative Fukumoto, the Minority Leader, to deliver remarks on behalf of the Minority Caucus:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker, members and guests. It's an honor to have the opportunity to serve you again this year as this body's Minority Leader, and to work with you, the Majority Leader, and the rest of my colleagues on solutions to our state's biggest problems. I'd also like to thank my minority colleagues for your unanimous vote to support me as leader this year.

"In my past opening day speeches, I didn't talk much about policy. Instead, I focused on the importance of working together and encouraging dialogue on every policy. Mr. Speaker, you and your majority have responded by listening to our ideas and incorporating our opinions in this legislature. Like in our state, I think we have learned that there is strength in diversity.

"That said, Mr. Speaker, I would like to talk a little more about issues this year, because I think our present situation demands it. This session we're facing a sizable budget deficit, as you've just mentioned, and the natural inclination of government is always to raise revenues and cut spending to find immediate solutions to impending problems. We may need to take some of those actions, Mr. Speaker, but we'd be doing a disservice to the people of Hawaii and to future generations if that is all we do.

"Two years ago, when I got elected as Minority Leader, I mentioned to this body that I was the first millennial to serve in this position. In 2016, I was also the youngest female in the country to hold a caucus leadership position. I give you these statistics to remind you that I speak for a growing demographic in this state who can no longer afford to live in a place that we grew up in and love. For us, Hawaii is not just paradise, it's our home, and we can't afford it anymore.

"Mr. Speaker, we talk a lot about the cost of living, and I know the Governor and others have already proposed tax increases. I'm sure there will be many more for us to look at this year. I hope that if your majority chooses to act on those increases, that you will do so with caution, and consider making those increases temporary.

"As minority members, we will be proposing measures to encourage tax equality and lessen the tax burden on middle and lower individual earners, recognizing that in the face of a deficit, these may be long-term ideas, but, as a body, we should never lose sight of the goal to make Hawaii more affordable for its residents.

"In terms of affordability, Mr. Speaker, the biggest thing we can do this session to help local families is to address our rising housing costs. In 2015, a nationwide survey of cities found that Honolulu had the fourth largest percentage of residents departing. When over 52% of a Hawaii resident's income goes towards fixed costs like housing and transportation, we can conclude that housing prices are a major reason for residents, particularly young people, leaving our state.

"This year, Mr. Speaker, you will see minority members contributing a variety of measures that offer housing solutions for individuals and families at every level of need, from homeless individuals who need temporary housing, to middle income wage earners that want to buy their first home at an affordable price.

"As a local economist pointed out, Hawaii has become a preferred place for the international 1% to buy property. This desire to purchase paradise is making it harder and harder for local residents to keep Hawaii their home. And Mr. Speaker, we look forward to working with you and the majority to reverse that trend.

"Every year this legislature comes up with a handful of measures to address housing and homelessness, but those are not enough. By 2025, we will be short nearly 65,000 housing units in our state, and many of our local families will be priced out of their communities if we don't increase the availability of affordable housing. This, Mr. Speaker, is a crisis. We need to start treating it like a crisis. Local families have watched this state become less and less affordable for decades. It's time to find the political courage to take risks, to pass real reform, and to solve that problem.

"Together we can take control of our future. We need to be leaders that listen to the needs of the people that we represent. We need to hear the concerns of recent college graduates who return home, only to find that their home has undervalued them in favor of out-of-state financiers. And we need to find a way to take care of those working families who can make an average wage but can't earn a sufficient living.

"We were once a state that not only took care of the everyday people, we made sure they felt accomplished. We made sure that anyone, regardless of race, ethnicity, gender, and socio-economic status, saw a better life as something achievable and something to aspire to.

"We can be that state again. We have difficult decisions in front of us, and most of those decisions will need to be made quickly. But a comprehensive plan to address housing at every level of need can't be put aside just because of a budget deficit.

"We can't keep planning our state's economy in two-year cycles. We may need some short-term fixes, but we also need a long-term economic plan. That long-term plan must include making it easier for our young people, our working families and our retirees to stay and live in this state that they call home.

"Mr. Speaker, we look forward to working with you and the majority on creating that long-term plan to reduce the cost of living for our local residents.

"Finally, Mr. Speaker, I want to close by acknowledging and thanking our Mililani High School students that are in the gallery and sitting with me today here on the floor. Everything we're doing here and everything I'm talking about is really to make a better future for you guys. So thanks, Mr. Speaker, thank you members and guests for listening."

The Chair then recognized Representative Saiki, the Majority Leader, to deliver remarks on behalf of the Majority Caucus:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I want to begin my comments with two acknowledgements. First, I wanted to take the liberty on behalf of all of the members to thank the residents of our respective communities for giving us the opportunity to represent them in the Legislature. And second, I wanted to acknowledge the newest Members of the House. So could they please stand when I introduce them?

"First, from District 2, a Hilo native, distribution manager, and Hilo High School coach, Representative Chris Todd. From District 14, a former managing director of Kauai County, Kauai County Councilmember, and a long time planner, Representative Nadine Nakamura. From District 29, a lifelong Kalihi resident, Kamehameha Schools graduate, and former Hawaii State Senate Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms, Representative Daniel Holt. From District 44, a lifelong Waianae resident, Waianae High School graduate, and former neighborhood board chair, Representative Cedric Gates. And finally from District 47, a bi-lingual former English teacher in China, successful small businessperson and wholesaler, and surfer and scuba diver, Representative Sean Quinlan. Can everyone please join me in again congratulating and welcoming our five freshman members?

"Mr. Speaker, I wanted to emphasize that the freshman members epitomize the best characteristics of your Majority Caucus. They are diverse, have ideas, and are resilient. They are a team. They aspire to be leaders and not politicians. They want to be constructive and to find common ground on some of our most pressing challenges which we know include the State's finances, public infrastructure, climate change, public schools, the economy, health care, and affordable housing.

"As we begin this session, I wanted to mention an overarching cause that has become more prevalent in Hawaii. The cause is justice, to protect the principles that are so important to us. The cause of justice has arisen in varying degrees and forms, and sometimes clashes with government initiatives and programs, for as we have seen, the advancement of Hawaii's economy and infrastructure sometimes conflicts with cultural, environmental and social principles.

"Our responsibility is to reconcile such principles with the modern challenges that face Hawaii. This will not be an easy process, but we must remember what President Obama said a few months ago. This is what he said, 'most issues are rarely black and white. That even when you're 100% right, getting things done requires compromise. That democracy doesn't work if we constantly demonize each other. That for progress to happen, we have to listen to each other, see ourselves in each other, fight for our principles but also fight to find common ground, no matter how elusive that may seem.'

"Mr. Speaker, our policy goals and the principles of justice are not mutually exclusive, and must be reconciled. True reconciliation comes from finding common ground through compromise. And I believe that the reconciliation of any differences must occur within the Legislature, and particularly the House of Representatives, and specifically within your Majority Democratic Caucus.

"The House has a distinct advantage to achieve reconciliation due to our composition. Our members are elected to two-year terms, our districts are the smallest units of government, our members are closest to the ground and have a pulse on what people are really thinking.

"Because of these circumstances, the House is uniquely positioned to carry out the fundamental duties of the Legislature, to approve the state budget, to appropriate funds, and to pass laws. But we rely on the executive branch to ably and efficiently implement our laws. And we also rely on the Judiciary to recognize and honor legislative intent when interpreting and applying our laws. Each branch of government must fulfill its respective constitutional duty. If one branch does not, government will become dysfunctional. If government is dysfunctional, the public interest suffers.

"The need for Hawaii to be functional has never been more critical. In just two days, the United States will undergo profound change. We need to be ready, and we need to overcome differences so that we can make Hawaii more effective and viable.

"So as we begin this legislative session, let's take a play out of our freshman Representatives' playbook. Let's be visionary, but also practical. Let's be independent, but also united. Let's be leaders, but not politicians. Mr. Speaker, thank you and best wishes for a productive year."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Representative Nakashima: "Mr. Speaker, at the appropriate time I would like to request a moment of silence, please. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. The moment of silence is for George Yokoyama, who has been a fixture in Big Island politics and around the Capitol here for decades. George had not been here on his own behalf but actually he was here advocating for the poor, the homeless, the elderly, and those who are in need of our assistance. I'm afraid that George has left us yesterday, and I'd like to request a moment of silence, please."

At this time, the Members of the House of Representatives stood for a moment of silence in honor of the late George Yokoyama.

The Speaker then presented to the Members of the Twenty-Ninth Legislature and the audience, the Honorable David Y. Ige, Governor of the State of Hawaii.

The Governor then addressed the Joint Session as follows:

"Mister Speaker, President Kouchi, former governors, distinguished justices of the courts, representatives of our congressional delegation, Members of the Hawaii State Legislature, elected officials, military leaders, honored guests, family and friends, aloha.

"Last December, I had the privilege of participating in ceremonies marking the 75th anniversary of Pearl Harbor, the day when all that was personal and intimate here in the islands collided head on with history.

"In 1941, my late father was about the same age as my children are today. He was young and just starting to plan out his life. We know how those events dramatically changed those plans for him and his entire generation. Life has a way of doing that, no matter how well our plans are laid out.

"It made me think deeply about both where we've been and where we're headed as a state. While we cannot predict the future, it's clear to me that we are living in very challenging and exciting times. And we face these times standing on solid ground.

"This year, as in previous years, our people are among the healthiest in the nation. Our unemployment rate is the third lowest in the country. Our personal income growth is ranked 17th, and in 2016, we added 14,000 new jobs. Our biggest industry, tourism, has had five successive record-setting years and is moving toward yet another.

"In many ways, the state of the State of Hawaii is sound and full of possibilities. Having said that, we all know there is still much work to be done.

"There are families out there that continue to struggle despite the overall state of our economy. I know there are those who are concerned about health care, child care and rent payments. That's why we need to press on with the progress we've made over the last two years, transforming our schools, reshaping our economy, addressing homelessness and building more affordable homes, and making government more efficient so that it can continue to work for the people. All of these goals are inextricably linked to each other.

"To transform our economy, we need to transform our schools, so our children can provide the brain power and fill the jobs required in a knowledge-based industry. To keep them here, we need to ensure that our economy provides challenging and satisfying careers and homes they can afford. And we need to protect our lands and natural resources, which underpin everything. These are tough challenges.

"What sets Hawaii apart from the rest of the world is that we have the ingenuity, the determination and the heart, values from our island culture, that built this great state. I truly believe our people can overcome any roadblock, and not just succeed, but do so in outstanding fashion.

"And for those who feel that I might have my head in the clouds, let me remind you about where we all came from, about how our great grandparents took a far flung Pacific outpost and transformed it into the leading provider of sugar in the world, through innovation, new technology and hard work, and how they did the same with pine.

"For those old enough to have worked summers in the canneries as teens, you may remember, like I do, the Ginaca machines that could peel and core a pineapple in seconds. That technology allowed Hawaii to completely dominate global markets and transform the industry. We did not wait for someone to show us how to grow and harvest sugar and pineapple better. We did it ourselves by being innovative and entrepreneurial.

"As we know, global competition, fueled by our own innovations, eventually contributed to both of their demise. So we set out to create a new industry and to take advantage of new technologies in air travel, the jet engine. We invested and attracted investment capital. And guess what? We proceeded to create the most desired and successful travel destination in the world, and hundreds of thousands of jobs.

"So where do we go from here? How do we once again respond to a changing world? For me, the answer is very clear. We shape our own destiny. I'm a problem solver and I'm excited about what we've accomplished and what we can continue to achieve. Together, we must pursue our own self-made opportunities through education, innovation and entrepreneurship. We must tap our greatest resource, our people, to find our way to the next great economic transformation, the development of an innovation sector.

"We have done much in the last two years to move us down that path. We have a blueprint for schools that will prepare our children to fill the jobs that the new economic sector will require. A strong university plays a key role in creating a new economy. The University of Hawaii has embraced innovation and has successfully launched a number of creative initiatives.

"We are already expanding the economy, focusing on areas such as energy, ocean and earth science, and astronomy, where we have expertise. And we are transforming the culture within state government to embrace change and drive innovation in every part of our economy.

"We have adapted to meet a changing world many times before, and we can do it again, beginning with the most important part of this transformation, our public schools. I believe that education reform in Hawaii starts with changing the current top-down bureaucracy in the DOE to a school-centered one.

"Our blueprint for Hawaii's schools is based on input from over 3,000 parents, teachers, community members from a statewide summit to dozens of meetings across the State, including on Molokai and Lanai. Some of the volunteers who worked so hard on that blueprint are here with us today. I'd like them to stand and be recognized.

"They've told us that we need to go beyond test scores and a one-size-fits-all approach. We need a school system that truly prepares students to think creatively and be problem solvers and innovators. Most importantly, I believe that those closest to the students best understand how they learn and what motivates them.

"I want a system that empowers schools and trusts teachers and principals to make meaningful decisions on curriculum and instruction, and the expenditure of school funds. Schools need to be able to design their own programs, implement their plans, and be accountable for their results. And they need to be encouraged to take risks and be creative. That's why in the executive budget before you, we've increased funds that go directly to schools.

"To further drive school-based changes, we will be proposing a new Innovation Grant Program to support school-level innovations that help us meet priorities of the Board of Education, such as closing the achievement gap for special needs, immigrants and low-income students.

"We know that programs focused on classrooms and schools pave the way to desired student outcomes. And we also know that the physical environment in which our students learn plays a role in their success.

"Last year I pledged to cool our schools. No one is more disappointed than I that implementation has lagged. But we haven't lowered our sights. We continue to press on. The capital budget before you includes $61.7 million to continue this effort.

"My budget includes more than $700 million in new schools, classrooms, science facilities, and repair and maintenance. I am also asking for $150 million for university facilities statewide. These are big numbers, but we must not let them obscure the real objective, to improve the learning environment to support students as they work toward their dreams of success.

"One national study predicts that 70% of Hawaii's jobs will require some postsecondary education by 2020. That's why I am proposing to expand the Early College Program. The University of Hawaii and the DOE are working together to dramatically increase the Early College Program that allows high school students to earn college credits.

"Imagine having a semester or more of credits under your belt when you start college, at no cost to you. I can see parents already calculating the savings in time and money. Studies show that this may be one of the most powerful tools to advance college enrollment and success among our public high school graduates, especially for low-income and first generation college students.

"I believe it is a great strategic advantage to keep the best students in our public schools. When Rovy Dipaysa immigrated to Hawaii in 2012, she barely spoke English. She threw herself into her studies with a passion, learning English in a class at Waipahu Intermediate.

"Rovy began her college career with a group of other rising freshmen in the summer of 2014, before she and her classmates took a single class at Waipahu High School. This group of students became known as the first early college high school Olympians in the State.

"Today, Rovy and 13 of her Olympian classmates anticipate being the first to complete all requirements for the Associate of Arts degree from Leeward Community College by May of 2018. If all goes according to plan, they will receive their AA degree before they graduate from Waipahu High School.

"Rovy and her mom, Victoria, are here with us today. Please help me recognize them for their hard work and determination.

"That kind of success is the reason why I want to expand the Early College Program to eventually include every public high school in the State.

"I am also proposing to establish the Hawaii Promise Program at the University of Hawaii that will fill the gap between what a qualifying family can afford and the cost of community college, without taking out a loan to cover tuition, fees and books.

"With students like Rovy and her cohorts, how can we not succeed in building a workforce more than equal to the challenges of the 21st century? And so we arm them with math and science, teach them to think critically and creatively, and anchor them with the social sciences and art, so they will know who they are, where they came from, and the beauty of it all.

"I've said it before, I strongly believe that the long-term sustainability of our economy must center on innovation. Innovation means developing new clean energy technologies that will create engineering and other high paying jobs, while reducing our dependence on fossil fuels and protecting the 'āina.

"Innovation means remaining on the cutting edge of health care, and that's why I'm proposing $5 million in each of the next two years to support the Cancer Center of Hawaii. Our families deserve access to the latest research and treatment for cancer.

"Innovation means new agricultural technologies, new local fashions, new apps for your computers and phones, and locally created digital media for multiple platforms. More importantly, the innovation sector offers the best promise of high quality, high wage jobs for our children.

"And it's not just the stuff of dreams. A recent report, sponsored by the Hawaii Business Roundtable, found that innovation jobs already make up 7% of Hawaii's economy. A Kauffmann Foundation report ranked Hawaii 13th in the nation for startup growth.

"Among those many success stories is the startup of Shaka Tea, owned by Bella Hughes and her husband Harrison Rice. Bella and Harrison have taken mamaki leaves, grown in Pahala on Hawaii Island, and used them to grow an exciting new local company.

"The benefits of the mamaki plant, native and found only in Hawaii, are well known among Native Hawaiians. Recent studies by the University of Hawaii have confirmed its health properties.

"But to make mamaki commercially viable as a ready-to-drink beverage, Bella and Harrison had to find a way to extend its shelf life so that it could be marketed beyond the islands. It took them over a year. But, working with R&D partners in Hawaii and on the mainland, they overcame that obstacle. Today, they are not only well established in local markets, but are looking to expand to the West and East Coast, Japan, and, of course, on the Internet.

"Bella and Harrison are with us today, and I'd like to ask them to stand and be recognized for their innovation and hard work.

"That kind of local success is the reason why I'm so excited about HI Growth, the state program to foster entrepreneurship in Hawaii. And I know the Senate President also recognizes the value of this program. From virtually nothing four years ago, local entrepreneurs today are supported by six startup accelerator programs, with three of them nationally recognized.

"In fact, about 145 startups have gone through the accelerator programs. With a $10 million investment, the startups have generated over $250 million in total capital. That's why the budget includes additional funds for the HI Growth program. It is a good investment in Hawaii's economy, and I hope you will support us in this endeavor.

"Innovation also creates a bigger tax base. That means resources to pay for government programs that address issues like homelessness and affordable housing.

"In addition to HI Growth, the State has undertaken other initiatives to utilize innovation to grow the bottom line. A good example is Hawaii's clean energy mandate. Our goal of generating 100% of our electricity from renewable sources by 2045 is good both for our economy and the environment. The mandate has stimulated demand for clean tech innovations, many of them running through our Hawaii Energy Accelerator.

"Because of the Legislature's action, we lead the nation in moving toward clean energy in many areas. Together, Oahu, Maui and Hawaii Island currently obtain 25% of our electricity from renewable sources, clearly the highest in the country. On Kauai the figure is 40%.

"With 65 renewable energy projects across the State, we are on schedule to meet the 2020 target for increasing renewable energy use. Earlier this month, the State's largest operating solar facility in Waianae successfully placed 28 megawatts into commercial operation. On Kauai, the nation's first closed-loop biomass to electricity plant began operations near Koloa, fueled by albizia and eucalyptus trees. The plant is putting out enough electricity to power 8,500 homes on Kauai and replace 3.7 million gallons of oil annually.

"I'm sure Mayor Carvalho appreciates this and the millions of dollars that stay in the local economy rather than going to purchase offshore fuel.

"On Oahu, new agreements promise an additional 61 megawatts from two solar facilities, enough electricity to power more than 22,000 homes for a year.

"Reducing our reliance on fossil fuels in transportation is also a key component of our renewable energy goals. The fuel cost for an electric vehicle is 30% cheaper than that of a gas powered car. That can mean as much as $500 in annual fuel savings per household for each electric vehicle.

"That's why my administration is participating in the Drive Electric Hawaii initiative. We will be using funds from the State's portion of the Volkswagen settlement to support the changeover to state-owned electric vehicles.

"Agriculture and our visitor industry are also experiencing significant transformations, aided by the same kind of technology and innovations utilized by the knowledge-based sector. In fact, agriculture has expanded statewide. Nowhere has our partnership with the Legislature been more productive than in making the State more self-sufficient and food secure.

"We have a goal to double local food production by 2020, with the purchase of farm lands, programs that support and encourage local farmers, incentives to grow organic, and incubators to help entrepreneurs create new food products and businesses.

"With your help, we purchased the Galbraith lands on Oahu, adding more acreage and employing 50 new farmers. We completed the purchase of the Turtle Bay mauka agricultural lands to preserve it for future ag use. And we also worked with you to secure $1 million each for the livestock revitalization and feed development programs, and for feed subsidies for qualified ranchers. All of these efforts move us closer to self-sufficiency and a more sustainable economy.

"Combating invasive species is a big part of protecting and expanding agriculture. That's why we developed the State's first interagency biosecurity plan, a 10-year blueprint to protect the State from invasive plants and animals. That's also why we are proposing the creation of an invasive species authority to direct these and future efforts. The State and our community partners will continue to work together to coordinate our efforts, which include new challenges due to climate change.

"Building on record visitor arrivals, we worked with our congressional delegation and the U.S. Customs and Border Protection to reestablish international flights at Kona International Airport. There are some who doubted that we could meet this aggressive deadline before the first scheduled flight last December. But we did.

"It is estimated that one daily international flight to Kona will result in more than $160 million in annual visitor spending. And we are in discussions with other airlines who are looking at Kona as a potential travel destination.

"International visitors will also spend tens of millions of dollars at local businesses and attractions, further boosting the economy and generating jobs. And that's why I'm requesting $50 million in CIP funding to build a permanent international facility at Kona.

"Tourism, like all of our industries, depends directly or indirectly on the good stewardship of our lands and natural resources. Certainly, both the House and the Senate have been consistent stewards of our environment, and our collaboration over the last two years has been very fruitful.

"We have set ambitious goals for the State. Last September at the World Conservation Congress, we unveiled our Sustainable Hawaii Initiative to protect our watershed forests, better manage our oceans, create a biosecurity plan, double our food production, and achieve 100% renewable energy by 2045. My budget includes $31 million in CIP funds for these sustainability initiatives. And I am also proposing that we invest $18.4 million in general funds to protect natural resources, watersheds, forests and oceans, and in our fight against harmful invasive species.

"I am proud that we've been able to protect tens of thousands of acres of watershed forests on Kauai, Oahu, Maui, Molokai and Hawaii Island, and help preserve precious shoreline along Turtle Bay and other iconic Hawaii lands. I'm proud of the work of the Departments of Agriculture and Land and Natural Resources, who are working closely with private and public partners, to combat the spread of rapid 'ōhi'a death.

"Last fall, when President Obama created the world's largest marine sanctuary in the Northwestern Hawaiian Islands, we asked him to make the Office of Hawaiian Affairs a co-trustee of the Papahānaumokuākea Marine National Monument. The monument is world-renowned for both its natural and cultural attributes.

"OHA's trustee role will ensure the protection of Native Hawaiian cultural features, and provide critical cultural sensitivity to decisions made to protect this unique natural treasure. I am so pleased to announce that a few weeks ago, our request was granted, and OHA is now a co-trustee of this national marine monument. An old Hawaiian proverb goes, as the ocean goes, so do we.

"Providing enough affordable homes has been a longstanding problem. Given our cost of living, limited land availability, some say it can't be done. As governor, I just don't buy that. And I don't believe that the housing chairs of both chambers do either. That's why I've asked the state housing agencies to focus on producing more rental units, because that's where we have an enormous need.

"As a result, we've produced a total of 1,050 units in the past two years, with more than 4,000 more in the pipeline, 80% of which will be rentals. To build on that momentum, I convened a group of affordable home developers and advocates to listen to their suggestions to maximize state financing tools and provide the infrastructure needed. Last year, we worked together to expand the application of state funding for roadways and other infrastructure, a prerequisite for the development of new communities.

"The Legislature infused the State's Dwelling Unit Revolving Fund with $25 million to finance regional infrastructure in conjunction with the counties and private home builders. And as Mayor Kim knows, we put that money to work on Hawaii Island for the construction of the Manawalea Street extension to help ease traffic congestion in Kona. The construction of this connector road was required before any new homes could be built. And as a result, last October, ground was broken for Kamakana Villages, which includes 170 units for seniors and low-income families.

"Our thanks to all of you in the Legislature for your support. We've also added $75 million in gap financing for more affordable rentals throughout the State. My budget for the next two years proposes to invest $123.4 million to promote new housing starts statewide.

"The Department of Hawaiian Home Lands also plays an important part in our affordable housing solution. Recently, DHHL conducted lot selection for Kakaina Hawaiian homestead in Waimanalo for qualified Native Hawaiian beneficiaries. Kakaina is one of two parcels being developed by DHHL to build homes for Native Hawaiians.

"The first 70 families in the homestead community of Maluohai in Kapolei signed their leases recently and fulfilled their dreams of becoming homeowners. In addition, Ka Makana Ali'i in Kapolei, which will be Oahu's second largest shopping center, will generate substantial revenues for DHHL's homestead development, and sustain its home building programs far into the future. Congratulations to Hawaiian Home Lands.

"Transit-oriented development remains one of the biggest game changers, and will allow us to build affordable homes, direct growth, protect open space and agriculture, and reinvigorate older neighborhoods such as Kakaako and Kalihi. In fact, the transformation of Kakaako can already be seen, with new affordable units for seniors and for middle- and low-income families.

"At the same time, perhaps no district is more representative of the plight of those who are homeless than Kakaako. The individual stories and the efforts on their behalf have been well documented.

"Let me be clear about this. We have a crisis and we are working urgently to fix it in a humane and compassionate manner. That is why my budget proposes $20.9 million each year for rent subsidies, supportive services, outreach services and enforcement. And we are making inroads. With the help of all of you, our congressional delegation, the counties, federal agencies, business and community service organizations, we have made significant strides in addressing homelessness in Hawaii.

"On Maui, Mayor Arakawa supported our statewide efforts to address homelessness and maximize existing housing inventory. When we put out a call to action, he stepped forward and convened a landlord summit that generated much needed housing units, while forging new relationships with realtors, homeless service providers, and the business community. Thank you, Mayor.

"On Oahu, we worked closely with Mayor Caldwell and his team to use state land, city funding for infrastructure, and private sector participation to convert a 13-acre paintball facility off Nimitz Highway into affordable rentals for homeless families.

"And I would be remiss if I didn't thank Duane Kurisu, whose AIO Foundation is building the plantation-style island neighborhood. Duane, could you stand to be recognized for your part in our homeless efforts.

"In Kakaako, we have reduced homelessness by two thirds. Over a year ago, there were 300 individuals camped near the waterfront park. Since then, over 290 homeless individuals from this area have transitioned into shelters or permanent housing.

"Statewide, we increased funding for homelessness prevention. This has contributed to a 25% reduction in the eviction rate. It's kept nearly 4,200 people from joining the ranks of the homeless. Working together, the State and our partners have assisted over 5,000 people in the past year. And more need our help.

"The Department of Human Services also recently announced the awarding of contracts to 33 homeless shelters, totaling $13 million over the next 12 months to serve the State's homeless population. Together, those awardees have pledged to add nearly 200 beds, increasing the total to 3,761, and to double the number of individuals they place in permanent housing from about 3,000 to over 6,200.

"For the same taxpayer investment as last year, we are doubling the number of people getting housed. We are finding better solutions, becoming more efficient, and creating better cooperation.

"A new family assessment center was opened last September to connect homeless individuals and families to services and help them transition into permanent housing. I would note that this site was one of the first identified by Chairs Luke and Tokuda as we embarked on our efforts for homelessness.

"And that's always been our ultimate goal. This is about more than increasing shelter beds, but finding people permanent supportive housing. That's why the budget before you includes $59 million for public housing improvements.

"And that's why public housing repairs and renovations have been expedited. Our public servants were enthusiastic about aiding people who need homes. These civil service employees helped develop a team approach that uses the broad talents of those in the Hawaii Public Housing Authority.

"I'm proud to report that the team members of the Multi-Skilled Worker Pilot Program have reduced the turnaround time from over seven months to just a week. As a result, over 400 units have been made available to families in record time.

"Two representatives from the team are here today. Let's thank Gregory Cuadra, who leads the DHS Team of the Year, and Andrew Medeiros, DHS Employee of the Year, for their remarkable service to the people of Hawaii. Please stand to be recognized. I have to say, that's the first time I've seen them wearing suits, so they look terrific.

"In fact, the Multi-Skilled Worker Pilot Program is just one example of how we are finding ways to tap into the talents of our public employees across departments to leverage their many skills.

"Three years ago, we set out to make government more efficient, effective and accountable to the people. One of the more exciting ways we're doing this is through a program with the Office of Enterprise Technology Services. To engage the local tech community in the modernization of state government, we began a code challenge. We brought local talent together to develop modern tools and applications to provide enhanced government services to the public.

"The challenge is based on a Hackathon, a problem solving event that brings together creative individuals to explore new technologies or programming language.

"One winning team converted visitor scheduling at OCCC, which was being done manually, to a web-based, self-service process. In the past, visitor scheduling was done by phone and Post-It notes, resulting in visits not being scheduled and families not being able to see their loved ones. The new concept, created by a group of Honolulu Community College students, is far more efficient and is being developed into an application that works better for the staff, inmates and their visitors.

"Two of the 19 members of the Hawaii Advanced Technology Society Team are with us today. I would like to ask Gerome Catbagan and Jayson Hayworth to stand and be recognized.

"One of my duties as governor is to be a responsible fiscal manager, and I am proud of our combined efforts to put the State back on sound fiscal footing. We have done this by building financial reserves, as the Speaker noted in his Opening Day remarks, for a rainy day that helps to reduce future financial strain on taxpayers, and by making lump-sum contributions at the beginning of the year to our pension and health benefit systems to grow investment funds by millions of dollars and save future taxpayer contributions.

"And while I'm on the subject of finances, let me add this. In recent weeks there has been much discussion about this year's budget. Building a budget is a long and complex process, which started last May. A month ago, the revenue forecast for the current fiscal year was a robust 5.5% increase. Two weeks ago it was reduced to 3%, resulting in an anticipated loss of more than $330 million over the biennium. Actual revenues collected for the first half of this year grew by less than 1%, signaling that growth in our economy has slowed.

"The economic assumptions upon which the budget was based have changed, and we will have to make adjustments. The finance chairs of both houses understand this very well, and I appreciate Senator Tokuda and Representative Luke's hard work and diligence. Believe me, I've been there. I understand how tough their jobs really are. So I will be submitting adjustments to our budget that reflect the changing economic forecast and ensure that we live within our means.

"I will be submitting a proposal to phase in increased payments to the retirement system to ensure that we can keep our promises to our retirees in a responsible way. And I will be planning for fair wage increases for all of our public employees. We cannot presuppose what agreement will be reached. That would be neither fair nor appropriate.

"I know that we can work together to craft a responsible budget that, at the end of the day, is not my budget, not the Legislature's budget, but really reflects the people's budget and addresses their priorities.

"As Speaker Souki noted last week, traffic congestion affects the quality of all of our lives. The fact is, we have not had sufficient funding for at least a decade now, to keep our roads well maintained and to increase capacity to meet our community plans.

"We have an aging transportation system on all islands that is in need of significant upgrades to increase durability, capacity and dependability. I want to work with you to find the funding to make significant upgrades to increase safety, reliability and capacity.

"For the same reasons, I want to work with the City and County of Honolulu and the Legislature to generate the funds needed to complete a rail system. This will give us a more comprehensive approach to traffic congestion on Oahu for the long term.

"I mentioned at the start of this address about my summers working in the pineapple cannery. Let me share a story about a friend of mine. Like me, she trimmed pineapples as they came out of the Ginaca machines. When she first started, the pineapples on her line would pile up. The experienced workers would laugh at her clumsiness in trying to keep up with the technology.

"She would go home at the end of her shift, tired, her hands and forearms red and blistering from the acid in the pine juices. Her mom would lather on cream and wrap her arms in wet cloth and Saran Wrap to replenish the oils from her skin. She said she cried herself to sleep at night because they hurt so much.

"But it was her first real job, and she was determined to see it through. By the end of the summer, she was trimming pineapple with the expertise and speed of the best of them.

"We here in Hawaii have a proud history of perseverance, hard work, and overcoming great odds. Our parents and grandparents have been outstanding role models, showing us that we can be and do anything we set our minds to. It's something to remember as we work our way through this important and often difficult transition to the 21st century.

"And that work doesn't begin in Washington, D.C. It begins right here in our own backyards, where the foundations of nation building have always been based. It begins in our places of worship, in our playgrounds, in our classrooms, at PTA meetings, and at work. It begins here in Hawaii, the place that I choose to call home.

"It is here where we celebrate our rich diversity and immigrant roots, the source of our strength. Where we respect working men and women and the unions that represent them, upon whose shoulders Hawaii was built. Where we honor our seniors and retirees and keep the promises we made to them. Where we understand the need for self-determination and to make right the wrongs of the past regarding Native Hawaiians. Where we value the importance of public education. Where we have long provided our citizens with access to health care. Where we take care of the 'āina because it is the life that sustains us. And where we march, not out of fear and anger, but out of confidence in the direction that we must take.

"We do this, not because of new leadership or direction from Washington, but because this is what we've always done right here in Hawaii. Because we have always been better together than alone, identifying ourselves as part of a greater 'ohana, bound by the spirit of aloha.

"Even as the world around us changes, I do not see that aspect of who we truly are changing. If our past is proof that we can do anything we set out to do, then let it be also our inspiration as we shape our future.

"Thank you, mahalo and aloha."

President Kouchi then rose and stated:

"Thank you, Governor Ige, for sharing your vision for Hawaii with everyone here this morning. How about another big hand for the Governor. As the person with the last word this morning, I'm going to take the liberty of summarizing what I just heard.

"As I look to the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, the 76 Members of the Legislature, the cabinet members, and our collective community gathered here, without question we have the collective knowledge to succeed and accomplish all of the goals laid out by the Governor.

"But I believe, in what I heard today, it is only if we choose to make the final decision with our hearts will we have the compassion and the capacity to meet the goal of having a budget for all of our people, and not a budget for the Governor and not a budget for the Legislature.

"As I listened to you, Governor, I thought, with the recent Martin Luther King holiday, of one of my favorite quotes from Dr. King. Darkness cannot drive out darkness, only the light can do that. Hate cannot drive out hate, only love can do that.

"So it my sincere wish to work together with you and your administration, Speaker Souki, my colleagues in the Senate, to provide the light of leadership to take us out of the darkness, and to do it in a way with love, so that we will deliver the greatest State of Hawaii in the history of this great state.

"I declare this joint session adjourned."

At 11:15 o'clock a.m., President Kouchi declared the Joint Session of the House of Representatives and the Senate of the Twenty-Ninth Legislature adjourned.

President Kouchi then presented to the Members of the Twenty-Ninth Legislature and the audience, the Chief Justice of the Hawaii Supreme Court, the Honorable Mark E. Recktenwald.

The Chief Justice then addressed the Joint Session as follows:

"President Kouchi, Speaker Souki, Governor and Mrs. Ige, Members of the Senate and House, Governor and Mrs. Ariyoshi, Governor Waihee, Governor and Mrs. Cayetano, Chief Justice Moon, my fellow justices, judges and Judiciary staff, members of the Consular Corps, members of the Royal Order of Kamehameha, distinguished guests and friends, good morning and aloha.

"I note with sadness the recent passing of Representative Clift Tsuji, who always made time to honor those attorneys who provide volunteer legal assistance to the community, and we will forever miss his warm presence here in the House.

"I thank the Legislature for its strong support of the Judiciary. We're grateful to all of you for funding construction of a new courthouse in Kona. More than 200 people came to the groundbreaking in October, the pride in the community was overwhelming, and when that courthouse opens in 2019, it will provide the people of West Hawaii with a modern, efficient, and secure place for obtaining justice. Thank you.

"I also thank Governor Ige for his strong support of the Kona courthouse, as well as for the Judiciary's efforts to increase access to our civil justice system.

"I deeply appreciate this opportunity to report to the Legislature and the public. We live in times of uncertainty, when people are rightfully asking tough questions. How are we ensuring that their voices will be heard? What are we doing to address the profound problems, such as public safety, homelessness, and drug abuse, that face us as a community?

"No one knows exactly what the future holds. What we do know is there will be tough questions along the way. There will be different visions of what Hawaii is and can be, and there will be divergent interests that will come into conflict.

"And that's where the Judiciary comes in. We provide the forum where people can obtain a just and fair resolution of their disputes.

"In performing our mission of deciding cases, we affect and touch the lives of virtually everyone in our community. The broad range of matters that come to our courts for resolution include criminal prosecutions, and disputes involving family relationships and children, the environment, land use, civil rights, employment, personal injury, collective bargaining, and business relations, among others.

"Our ability to perform that role comes from one thing, and only one thing, the public's trust in our integrity and impartiality. People must know that they'll get a fair shake in our courts, whatever their background or economic status, and even if their views are not popular or shared by the majority.

"Essential to our ability to decide cases fairly and impartially is the principle of judicial independence. This is a critical part of the separation of powers that is fundamental to our democracy.

"Judicial independence does not mean that judges are free to decide cases however they may want. To the contrary, they must follow the rule of law, and faithfully apply the constitutions and laws of the United States and Hawaii to the facts of each case.

"Judicial independence does mean that judges are able to decide cases impartially, free from passion, pressure, or outside influence. Only then can we expect the public to have confidence and trust in our decisions. We must earn that trust every day, and I am honored to be here this morning to share with you how we are doing so.

"One of the most fundamental roles of the courts is to ensure the safety and well-being of our community, and we do that in many different ways. First and foremost, we provide a fair and transparent forum for the peaceful resolution of disputes. We do a lot of that. This past fiscal year alone, more than 100,000 cases were filed in Hawaii's courts, along with hundreds of thousands of traffic and parking citations. I am grateful to our 82 full-time judges, many of whom are here today, and our dedicated staff who strive to ensure that everyone is treated with fairness and respect when they come before our courts. And can you please join me in recognizing them?

"We make every effort to enable parties to reach a resolution on their own. Mediation helps parties avoid the cost of litigating in court, can result in quicker resolutions, and helps to preserve relationships. The Judiciary provides free mediation services for all small claims and residential landlord-tenant cases statewide.

"But despite the availability of mediation, there are nevertheless parts of the State with significant increases in demand for our services. For example, on Maui, the last district court judge was added in 1982, when the population was less than half of what it is today. In the past five years alone, criminal case filings in Maui County have increased by 50%, significantly increasing the workload of each judge. Accordingly, we're respectfully requesting funding for an additional district court judge position on Maui, as well as family court judges on Oahu and Kauai.

"When a dispute does go to court, it's essential that it be decided in a way that's transparent. The media are welcome to bring cameras into most courtrooms, and all of our appellate court decisions are available online, along with many other court records. Simply put, the rule of law is best nurtured in the sunshine.

"But for all of the audiences that we strive to reach, there is one that is closest to our hearts: our young people. Our future depends on their understanding of our democracy and the constitution. Yet there are so many issues competing for the attention of our youth. How do we get them to focus on this one?

"The best way to make the judicial process real for our young people is to have them witness it firsthand. The Hawaii Supreme Court has been traveling to high schools across the State, holding oral arguments in actual cases, in what we call the Courts in the Community program. Hundreds of attorneys have volunteered their time to join teachers in educating the students about the case that will be argued.

"So far, the Supreme Court has convened at eight schools on Oahu and the neighbor islands, most recently at Waianae and McKinley High Schools. Nearly 2,800 students from 51 schools have participated, including students from Kau to Niihau. And we're excited to continue this unique educational opportunity, and to visit Maui this April.

"If we expect the public to trust the judicial system, we must provide a level playing field in our courts. Nowhere is this need more acute than in our civil courtrooms, where thousands of people must represent themselves each year because they cannot afford a lawyer.

"Going to court can be difficult, even under the best of circumstances. Imagine how it feels for a 19-year-old domestic violence survivor to stand alone before the court to confront the alleged abuser and seek a restraining order.

"How do we ensure that every person has their day in court? Partnerships and innovation have been the key. Our Access to Justice Commission, under the leadership of its Chair, Justice Simeon Acoba, has achieved amazing things with very limited resources.

"Self-help centers are successfully operating in courthouses from Hilo to Lihue, where volunteer attorneys provide information to individuals representing themselves in civil cases. Nearly 15,000 people have been assisted free of charge since the first center opened in 2011, at almost no cost to the public.

"Volunteer attorneys are assisting self-represented parties on appeal, where the issues can be particularly complex. We are utilizing digital resources to reach even more people. In October, Volunteer Legal Services of Hawaii rolled out a program called Hawaii Online Pro Bono, where people can ask legal questions online and obtain answers from volunteer attorneys.

"And the Legal Aid Society of Hawaii has developed an interactive software program that generates legal documents to file with the courts. This resource is available on our website, and on public computers at Hawaii State Public Library locations statewide.

"Now, these efforts have received national recognition. In 2016, the Justice Index survey ranked Hawaii among the top three states in the country for practices that provide access to justice. And we were also ranked number one for providing support for people with limited English proficiency. And this is another area in which the Legislature has provided vitally needed resources, which we deeply appreciate.

"Because of Hawaii's established track record, we were recently awarded a $100,000 grant to develop a roadmap for further expanding access to justice.

"We appreciate the Legislature's strong support of these efforts, including providing additional funding last session for civil legal services. Such funding makes economic sense. A recent study showed that for every dollar spent on civil legal services in Hawaii, more than $6 is returned to the economy.

"We also thank our other partners, the Access to Justice Commission, the Hawaii Justice Foundation, the Hawaii State Bar Association, including President Nadine Ando and Executive Director Pat Mau-Shimizu, the neighbor island bar associations, the William S. Richardson School of Law and its Dean, Avi Soifer, our civil legal service providers and their incredibly hardworking staff, and the hundreds of attorneys who have generously donated their time and expertise.

"Many of these partners are here today, the members of all the organizations I mentioned, as well as the volunteer attorneys, and I'd like to ask them to stand and be recognized.

"Strong families are the foundation of a safe, vibrant community, and when families break down, the effects can be profound, particularly for children. Our Family Courts see that every day in cases involving divorce and child custody, domestic violence, juvenile offenses, and the abuse and neglect of children. The volume is staggering. Last fiscal year, there were more than 27,000 new cases filed in our Family Courts.

"You might think that Family Court would be a dark place, but in fact it is often a place of hope, innovation, and new beginnings. For example, our Girls Court program, which addresses the unique needs of teenage girls in the juvenile justice system, was one of the first in the nation. Girls Court significantly reduced recidivism, and we recently expanded it to Kauai. And, with the support of the legislative and executive branches, we're pushing ahead with reforming our juvenile justice system by emphasizing more treatment for kids with substance abuse or mental health issues, and by increasing accountability by having juvenile offenders perform community service and make restitution to victims.

"Now, we all know that education is the key to a brighter future, but there are schools where too many kids are chronically truant. Our Family Court worked with partners in the community to come up with solutions.

"We learned that cases of chronic truancy weren't making their way to the courts until the school year was almost over, that there are root causes, such as medical issues, that can be addressed, and that a team approach could be effective, particularly when parents become active partners in their children's success.

"We put those principles into practice last year at Waianae Intermediate School, which had the highest rate of truancy among middle schools on Oahu. Of the 63 students in the program, most had missed more than three months of the prior school year. The results were amazing. Seventy-eight percent of those students completed the school year with less than 10 unexcused absences.

"The statistics are impressive, but let me put it in human terms. One young man was living with his family in a tent and had not been attending school for two years. Some of the challenges he faced were heartbreakingly simple. For example, he often didn't have dry clothes to wear to school.

"The Department of Education and other partners stepped up to address those issues. This young man began going to school again, and earned a promotion to the next grade on merit. And we recognized his success by awarding him some donated movie passes. It turned out it was the first time he'd ever been to the movies, and it was the first time that people at Family Court had seen him smile.

"That smile is what hope looks like. To the members of our community who are cynical about government and wonder whether it is up to the task of addressing our most intractable problems, I'd simply say this. Come on down to Family Court.

"I'd like to acknowledge the team that made this happen, including Family Court and partners from the Department of Education and the Offices of the Attorney General and Public Defender. Could you please stand and be recognized?"

"As our experience at Waianae Intermediate illustrates, we sometimes have a role that goes beyond what takes place inside the courtroom. Simply put, it's not enough to hit the gavel and walk off the bench, if that means losing an opportunity to bring about a more lasting resolution.

"We've done this successfully in addressing illegal drug use and addiction, through the creation of drug courts. The court intensively supervises each defendant in the community, with the goal of getting them clean, sober, and employed or in school, through a treatment team that includes prosecutors, defense counsel, drug counselors, and probation officers.

"Drug courts cost substantially less than incarceration, $25 a day versus about $140 a day for prison, and the graduates are far less likely to create additional crimes. With the State considering construction of a new jail, it's important to determine whether the expanded use of drug courts could reduce the size of such a facility, while increasing public safety. A task force chaired by my colleague, Justice Michael Wilson, is considering that issue, among others, and I appreciate their work.

"We have extended the treatment court model to different contexts. We have a pilot Driving While Impaired Court for chronic drunk drivers, which has received national recognition and has zero recidivism among the first 34 graduates. We also have a Mental Health Court for individuals with severe mental illnesses. And we have HOPE Probation, which uses a lower level of supervision while still holding defendants accountable for becoming clean and sober.

"But we've taken the treatment court model to a new level with Veterans Treatment Courts, which address the special challenges faced by veterans who have substance abuse or mental health issues. Under the leadership of Judge Edward Kubo, the Veterans Administration has been made a part of the treatment team, to ensure that the vets receive the VA benefits that they earned through their service. This brings in additional federal funds that were previously being left on the table. And we've established a team of mentors, fellow veterans who can assist the vet with anything from advice to helping them obtain housing.

"One of the veterans succinctly explained the significance of Veterans Court when he graduated from the program just two weeks ago. He explained that before the program, he was addicted to drugs, was on welfare, and was in public housing. Now, he has a job and an apartment, and, in his words, is living on his own two feet. He said, quote, 'before, I used to hurt people. Today I don't hurt people, I help people.'

"Given the success of Veterans Court here on Oahu, we're bringing it to other parts of the State. We now have Veterans Courts in Kona and Hilo, a special calendar for veterans on Maui, and we'll be opening a Veterans Court on Kauai this year. I'd like to recognize all of the Veterans Court mentors who are here with us in the chamber today, both for serving our country, and for supporting their fellow veterans. Could those mentors and Judge Edward Kubo please stand and be recognized?"

"There is another seemingly intractable problem that affects the health, safety and well-being of our community: homelessness. Although the Judiciary cannot solve this problem by itself, it can be a part of the solution, by bringing people together to address some of the root causes.

"For people who are unable to pay their rent, our district court's landlord-tenant calendar is often the last stop before the street. Sometimes, there is a possible solution that can keep the tenant in the unit, and be a win for the landlord as well. To facilitate those positive outcomes, we've launched a program in Honolulu that brought together the State, the city, landlords, private attorneys, Legal Aid, and nonprofit organizations, which we call Steps to Avoid Eviction, or STAE. And this initiative was recently expanded to Maui.

"Some homeless individuals repeatedly come through our district courts, arrested on minor offenses and held for a couple of days, building up unpaid fines or outstanding warrants that can keep them from obtaining gainful employment. In order to break this pattern, we must treat these encounters as opportunities to bring about change.

"I want to commend Honolulu Prosecutor Keith Kaneshiro and State Public Defender Jack Tonaki for putting these ideas into action through a program called Community Outreach Courts. The ultimate goal is to send the court and a treatment team out into the community, and offer these individuals an opportunity to resolve pending cases, obtain needed services, and move forward in their lives. The prosecuting attorney obtained grant funding to start this project, and the first session of this court will be held tomorrow.

"We also provide services to homeless individuals who commit more serious crimes. Our treatment courts work to get a roof over their heads, and help them develop a support structure and the skills to stay off the street. And we're asking for additional funding to support these efforts in our budget request this year.

"I'd like to talk about the challenges of the future, and the values that will guide us. Our courts will face challenging environmental issues in the years ahead. We're well positioned to address those issues in a consistent, informed manner, thanks to the Legislature's decision to create the Environmental Court in 2015. We are only the second state in the nation to have a statewide environmental court.

"We view technology as an opportunity to make the courts more transparent, more accessible and more responsive. We are moving away from conducting business on paper. On Monday, we rolled out a new system in our circuit courtrooms so documents in criminal cases can now be filed and accessed electronically.

"We're also making it easier to obtain information about the Judiciary. We just launched a free Judiciary mobile app that provides quick access to a wealth of information about our courts. It's called Hawaii Courts Mobile App, and we're only the second statewide judiciary in the country to offer this service.

"Although we're embracing changing technology, we must remain true to those core values that provide our foundation as an institution. I spoke earlier about our commitment to transparency. Another core value is integrity. Integrity means standing up for what's right, even when it's not easy or comfortable to do so. For judges, it means faithfully applying the law to the facts of each case, without regard to the popularity or status of the parties, or fear of reprisal.

"Hawaii's merit-based system of selecting and retaining judges protects their ability to make those tough calls, while still holding them accountable for their performance. And it has also helped to ensure that our judges reflect the remarkable diversity of our community. A study released last year by the American Constitution Society found that Hawaii had the most diverse judiciary in the nation.

"The fight for human freedom and dignity is not easy. Throughout Hawaii's history as a state, our courts have been open to all. Our merit-based system of judicial selection and retention gives judges the independence to make the calls when the legal interests of a minority are challenged by the will of the majority. Our judges are grateful for that trust and ever mindful of the great responsibility that accompanies it.

"In conclusion, I would like to thank our dedicated judges and staff who work hard every day to treat all people with respect and fairness, even in the face of high caseloads and often contentious circumstances. It's a tough job, but they do it with dedication, excellence and aloha. And we could not succeed in our mission without the passion and commitment of every one of them.

"While we are all blessed to live in this great state, the path forward has not always been straight or smooth. But despite the setbacks and sometimes grave injustices that people have encountered, the shared values that unify us have always been stronger than the forces of division.

"And we must never lose sight of the unique power of Hawaii's message of diversity and inclusion. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. spoke about it when he visited Hawaii just after we became a state, in the fall of 1959. Dr. King addressed the Hawaii House of Representatives, next door at Iolani Palace. The struggle for civil rights was gaining strength in the South, but still faced terrible obstacles. And Reverend King referred to Hawaii as an inspiration, saying, quote, 'you can never know what it means to those of us caught for the moment in the tragic and often dark midnight of man's inhumanity to man, to come to a place where we see the glowing daybreak of freedom and dignity and racial justice.'

"That glowing daybreak still burns bright in Hawaii. It is a unique gift to the world, forged through the toil, sweat and sometimes blood of those who came before us in this beautiful place. At the Judiciary, we are sworn to protect that legacy, by upholding the rule of law and the freedoms set forth in our Constitution.

"Once again, thank you to the Legislature for its support of the Judiciary's work, and for giving me this opportunity to speak with you today.

"Mahalo and aloha."

Speaker Souki then rose and stated:

"Thank you very much for that very inspiring speech, Justice Recktenwald. I've never met a more humble man, and with great inner strength. I want to congratulate the justice system to come out with all of these innovation programs that we have, the outreach to the poor and to the needy, and to the veterans especially. Me being a veteran, someday I may need your help.

"However, I wish just to advise the justices that we also believe in an equal justice system. We believe in the executive, judiciary and the legislative, and we ask the justices also not to forget that. With this, I will close. Thank you all for being here. Thank all you justices in the system for doing a very, very good job. With this, we shall adjourn the State of the Judiciary message to the State."

At 10:36 o'clock a.m., Speaker Souki declared the Joint Session of the Senate and the House of Representatives of the Twenty-Ninth Legislature, Regular Session of 2017, adjourned.

ORDER OF THE DAY

INTRODUCTION OF RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions (H.R. Nos. 13 and 14) were announced by the Clerk and the following action taken:

H.R. No. 13, entitled: "HOUSE RESOLUTION ADOPTING THE HOUSE ADMINISTRATIVE AND FINANCIAL MANUAL OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE TWENTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE," was jointly offered by Representatives Saiki and Fukumoto.

On motion by Representative Saiki, seconded by Representative Fukumoto and carried, H.R. No. 13 was adopted, with Representatives Matsumoto and Oshiro being excused.

H.R. No. 14, entitled: "HOUSE RESOLUTION RELATING TO MINORITY CAUCUS LEADERS OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE TWENTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE," was offered by Representative Tupola.

Representative Saiki moved that H.R. No. 14 be adopted, seconded by Representative Tupola.

Representative Thielen rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm rising in opposition. Mr. Speaker, first I would like to speak on the procedural defects, and then I would like to, in the event the body feels that it is procedurally correct, then I would like to speak against the merits."

At 12:32 o'clock p.m., the Chair declared a recess subject to the call of the Chair.

The House of Representatives reconvened at 12:35 o'clock p.m.

Representative Thielen continued, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm speaking against House Resolution 14 first on procedural matters because I don't believe the matter is validly before this body.

"Mr. Speaker, the resolution claims that the Representative from District 43 'were duly elected by the Minority Caucus.' Well that's incorrect, because duly means regularly, upon a proper foundation, as distinguished from mere form. The Representative from District 43, Waianae, did not secure a majority in the leadership election.

"We have six members in the Minority Caucus, and frankly, as an aside, after today's experience of what's going on, I'm amazed we even have that many. Three voted to replace the current Minority Leader with the Representative from District 43. Two voted for our existing Minority Leader. One abstained, and that's a choice not permitted by the House rules.

"So you go ahead and look at this, that, if you are following the House rules, and that governs this body, the memo that I have goes on more about the safeguards within the rules. I will share that and ask that this short memo be allowed to be put into the Journal, Mr. Speaker, because I think this procedure is important. Thank you.

"And Mr. Speaker, I have a short memo that you had on your desk earlier as did others, and I'd ask that that also be put into the Journal, so this is recorded. Thank you.

"Mr. Speaker, I'm going to move ahead into the merits of this. The Minority Leader is being punished for participating in the Women's March. I think that is absolutely disgraceful and appalling.

"Mr. Speaker, before most of you were born in this body, except for Speaker Souki, before most of you were born in this body, I joined the Republican Party as a freshman at Stanford University. I was 17. I've been in the Republican Party the rest of my life. That's a long time, Mr. Speaker.

"My party was the party of Teddy Roosevelt, who established the national parks. My party was the party of Goldwater, a social liberal who felt, way back then, that gays should be allowed to serve in the military, and Republican.

"My party was also the party of Dwight Eisenhower, and I'll read a statement of his. 'In all those things which deal with people, be liberal, be human.' Be liberal, be human, when you're dealing with people. But, 'in all those things which deal with people's money or their economy, or their form of government, be conservative.' That's my belief of the Republican Party.

"I would like to declare a class of marchers. Our Minority Leader and I both participated in the Women's March. I proudly spoke at the Women's March. I proudly marched in the Women's March for women's rights, for equality, for human rights, for tolerance. We did that together.

"Now she is being punished by three and a half of our members for participating in a democratic process."

Representative LoPresti rose to yield his time.

At this time, the Chair stated:

"Thank you. Your time is yielded, thank you, Representative LoPresti. Representative, if I can ask for your kind indulgence. Pursuant to Rule 60.1, members should conduct themselves in the House in a respectful manner. Members should not treat fellow members, staff, and the general public, they must always treat them with respect and courtesy."

At 12:40 o'clock p.m., Representative Saiki requested a recess and the Chair declared a recess subject to the call of the Chair.

The House of Representatives reconvened at 12:41 o'clock p.m.

At this time, the Chair stated:

"The Chair recognizes Representative Thielen. Just a slight 10 seconds. Focus on the merits of the resolution and not on a person and we're going to be fine. Thank you. Representative Thielen."

Representative Thielen continued, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker, I appreciate that. Let me just tell you a couple of reasons we were marching and speaking at the Women's March. I believe the majority leader does this once a year."

Representative McDermott rose to a point of order, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, point of order, this has nothing to do with the Women's March. This is a motion on leadership, it has nothing, I don't see Women's March anywhere in here, and I don't want to waste my time listening to this."

The Chair then stated:

"Okay, I'm going to allow that, because Representative Thielen relates her speech to the merits of the resolution, so I'll allow it. Representative Thielen, please continue."

Representative Thielen continued, stating:

"Thank you. And I appreciate his comments. It's all about the Women's March. It's all about the Representative from Mililani standing up for women and human rights.

"In 2015, women were working full time in the United States, and they were typically paid 80% of what men were paid, a 20% pay gap. Do you know when we're going to get equality? 2059. That's one of the reasons we were out there in support of women's rights. We still have a long way to go, Mr. Speaker. And you know that, and you're with us on so many of these issues. I appreciate that.

"And then here's another frightening headline. Little girls doubt that women can be brilliant. A study shows in the mainstream journal called Science, and says little girls doubt that women can be brilliant. We have a long way to go, and our Minority Leader knew that. She is what I hoped the face of the Republican Party would be, an intelligent young woman, 33 years old, the age of one of my granddaughters. I've been so proud of watching her and seeing her be a leader, not just in Hawaii, but nationally. She's intelligent, she's inclusive, she's tolerant, all of the things that I had hoped my Republican Party could go back to, because it has been captured by a very right-wing, fundamentalist, narrow-minded group that doesn't see us reaching out to other people who don't share those same narrow, tiny views.

"Mr. Speaker, I said that I joined the Republican Party in 1951. People sometimes say to me, are you going to switch? I'm not switching, Mr.

Speaker. I'm going to stand and fight for the tolerance and the beliefs that I believe the true Republican Party holds and values. There's others out there, some were at the march, and I saw them there, proudly marching in support of women's and human rights. I'm going to stay and work on their behalf, and I'm going to fight the intolerance and the narrow-mindedness of the faction that is replacing our dynamic Minority Leader.

"Mr. Speaker, I wish that the entire body would be allowed to cast a resounding no vote on this resolution. But then the flip side is, we pass this, we remove our wonderful Minority Leader, and the Republican Party just dwindles down, down and down.

"But I'm of the old guard. We may be down, down and down, I'm still going to be there, speaking out on support of the human issues that we've fought for together, Senate Bill 1 that I fought for and supported, this year we have a major bill of the death with dignity that I support, as a Republican, and I'm going to be there and continue that fight. But God, I am sorry to lose our Minority Leader, someone I so deeply, deeply respect. The face of Republicanism as it should be. But it won't be anymore. Thank you."

Representative Thielen submitted the following:

DULY

This Resolution claims the Representative from District 43 "were duly elected by the minority caucus."

Black's Law defines "duly" as "in a due or proper form or manner."

"Duly" also means "Regularly; upon a proper foundation, as distinguished from mere form."

The Representative from District 43 did not secure a majority in the leadership election.

We have six members in the minority caucus.

Three voted to replace the current Minority Leader with the Representative from District 43.

Two voted for the Leader. One abstained, a choice not permitted by the House Rules.

Mason's, the parliamentary authority of this House, identifies several "indispensable requirements for making valid group decision."

Among these is the following:

"To make a decision or carry a proposition, there must be a vote in the affirmative of at least a majority of the votes cast."

The choice of a Minority Leader is not a purely internal party matter.

It implicates the governance of the whole House.

It is reasonable therefore that a vote for Minority Leader proceed according the Rules on voting set forth by this House.

Rule 52.4 does not allow for an abstention, as happened here, except for financial conflicts of interest.

Rule 52.7 requires that one who refuses to vote must expressly decline three times before a vote is recorded. That did not happen here.

Of all people, legislators should understand the importance of abiding by fair and regular procedures.

We are entrusted by the people of Hawai'i with making fair and regular laws.

And of all legislators, the members of a minority caucus should understand the importance of fair and regular procedures.

These safeguard discussion and dissent as vital to valid decisionmaking.

That the ordinary rules for voting were suspended as part of an effort punish the Minority Leader for her participation in the Women's Caucus is all the more egregious."

Re: Effect of abstention on a leadership vote

Issue: The six-member minority caucus recently convened a leadership vote. Three voted to remove the current Leader, two voted for retention, and one abstained. Does the leader retain her position?

Brief answer: The House Rules do not generally permit abstention from a vote, except where a financial conflict of interest exists. The parliamentary authority divides equally on the effect of abstention, depending on whether the vote requires participation of all members or not. Here the nearest analogue requires participation of all members; an abstention therefore preserves the status quo.

DiscussionI. Voting procedures to remove a Minority Leader should be governed by the House Rules, which only recognize abstentions in limited cases not applicable here.

The House Rules require members of majority and minority parties to select a leader and other such officers "as they may choose to have." House Rule 1.4. Designated leaders "shall hold office during the term for which they were elected to the House, unless sooner removed by their respective parties." House Rule 1.6.

Although internally selected by the members of the minority caucus, the House Minority Leader occupies an official position implicated in the governance of the whole House. The House Rules on voting therefore provide the proper framework for deciding the removal of the Minority Leader.

House Rules do not ordinarily permit abstention from voting, except where a financial conflict excuses participation. House Rule 52.4 ("No member shall refrain from voting unless excused pursuant to Rule 60.6."); House Rule 60.6 (permitting members to decline discussion, debate, or voting on any measure presenting a direct financial conflict of interest). A member must first expressly decline three times when ordered to vote. See House Rule 52.7. Only then will the member's vote register as an "aye." Id.

Here the correct procedure would have been first to request three times that the abstaining member vote. This conforms to a general interest in ensuring a vote is clear, knowing, and intelligible. Uncertain or ambiguous expressions should not suffice for the removal of the Minority Leader from her post.

II. Parliamentary authority requires a majority of all members in order to remove a presiding officer.

The House has also adopted Mason's Manual as a parliamentary authority. House Rule 59. The Manual recognizes two distinct effects of abstention. "When only a majority of the legal votes cast is required, failure to vote or the casting of a blank ballot reduces the number of affirmative votes necessary to take an action." Manual §515(a). Members in this scenario are "presumed to agree to abide by the decision of those voting." Id. This construction would result in the Minority Leader's removal.

No such reduction takes place, however, "[w]hen a set number of votes or a majority or other proportion of the entire membership or of the members present is required[.]" Manual §515(b). Instead, bystanders are presumed to favor the status quo: action requires deliberate, express, and affirmative endorsement. This construction would support retaining the Minority Leader in her post.

The Manual offers no direct guidance as to which of these cases applies to removal of a minority party leader. The nearest analogy is the rule governing removal of a presiding officer. Manual §581. Removing a presiding officer requires "a majority vote of all the members elected[.]" Id. (emphasis added). Because of a majority of the entire membership is necessary to remove the officer, the second, rather than the first, interpretation would control and the Minority should retain her post.

Representative Ward rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"I rise in support of the resolution, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, all of us are here because, on November 8th, there was a free and fair election. Yesterday we had a free and fair election, and that's the reason why this resolution exists. As in the tradition of many organizations and the military, this is a hail-and-farewell moment. Hail to the new leader, Representative Tupola, who comes with experience, humility, not only in this country but overseas, and with a desire to do all the things which our learned colleague from Kailua just mentioned was missing.

"This, too, shall pass. Everything is going to be okay. In the farewell to my good colleague, the Representative from Mililani, I raised, I discovered her. She was in the Governor's Office for a small stint and then she came to be my office manager, so I'm going to miss her. And I want to wish her the best of all, thank her for her contribution, and to know that all things work for the good. And what we're doing today is for the betterment not only of the party, for both parties, for the State of Hawaii, but for the future of this nation. So, Mr. Speaker, I wish our new leader well, and I wish our former leader very well. Thank you."

Representative McDermott rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"I stand in support of the resolution. The current Minority Leader is extraordinarily talented, extraordinarily bright. I'd like to think that she is a friend of mine. On a personal level, I have much aloha for her, and I believe she knows that.

"Sometimes though, Mr. Speaker, no matter how much talent we have, or skill, we're not a fit for a particular role. Despite what was said earlier, she's not being punished for speaking out for women's rights. It's a pattern of self-loathing comments directed at Republicans. If you come to my office, I can give you 10 quotes saying Republicans are racist and sexist. Over and over and over again. And that's what was at the Women's March as well. There wasn't talk about pro-choice or anything like that. Look at the video. It's there for the whole world to see. It was attacking the President, and Republicans in general.

"Mr. Speaker, I have tried my best to explain the concept of servant leadership. When you are a leader, like the Speaker, he is the leader, but he is serving all of your members. In the Marine Corps, the last person to eat is the commanding officer. He is the top dog, he's saluted, he's the one in charge, but when they go to chow, he's the last one to eat. Servant leadership.

"When you are the leader of a caucus, your job is to get the Representative from Kailua and myself on the same sheet of music, very difficult to do, and then drive us forward as a unified group. You are speaking not for yourself anymore, but for all the minority members or all the Republicans, if you will, in the State. It is a high-level responsibility. But if all you ever do is attack your own party and never--"

The Chair addressed Representative McDermott, stating:

"Representative McDermott, please, you cannot arraign a negative motive to another Member of the House."

Representative McDermott continued, stating:

"I'm stating a fact. It's a fact that the utterance--"

The Chair addressed Representative McDermott, stating:

"It's in the rules that you can speak about the merits of the resolution, but you cannot arraign a negative motive on any of the Members in this House."

Representative McDermott continued, stating:

"I'm not arraigning a motive on anyone. What I'm saying is the past public utterances, this is a fact, have been all self-loathing attacks at Republicans.

"I challenge you, Mr. Speaker, the last two years have you ever heard a critique or a challenge to the majority from the Minority Leader? Our role is the loyal opposition. Believe it or not, our job is to make you better. Kind of like the plumber you call on New Year's Eve. You really need him there, you're having a party, you really need him to fix the toilet, but you don't want him to hang around after the party.

"It's kind of the way it is with the loyal opposition. Our job is to make you better, and that requires a give-and-take in the marketplace of ideas, a pull and a tug, and a yin and a yang. You haven't heard that. You haven't heard that. And I challenge you to check the record, Mr. Speaker, to go back and look for it. It rests on the shoulders of guys like myself and my colleague from Hawaii Kai to do all the heavy lifting. And we're the bad guys.

"Mr. Speaker, the State deserves a loyal opposition. We have none in the Senate. Can't go along to get along, and then the only time, Mr. Speaker, we deserve a loyal opposition. It's a very important role to play in the State. And if you don't have that, and all you have is self-loathing, it's very demoralizing for the members of that group. So sometimes things aren't a fit, no matter how talented you are, no matter how bright you are, no matter what a bright future you have, some things are not a fit. Thank you very much."

Representative Fukumoto rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In opposition. First I'd like to speak on a point of personal privilege, as I think my character and actions have been raised into question."

The Chair addressed Representative Fukumoto, stating:

"You are correct. It is covered under 222 of Mason's Legislative Manual, pursuant to Rule 59, questions of privilege of members will be allowed to talk about them if it affects them in this body and relates to charges against them and their character that would, if true, incapacitate them for membership. Please proceed."

Representative Fukumoto continued, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I don't want it to escape anyone that this decision by my caucus comes only a week after my remarks at the Women's March. My message at the march was simple. I spoke about my niece. I explained that she and other little girls like her deserve better. I explained that our President should be held accountable for the way he speaks about women and minorities, even from his own party.

"Mr. Speaker, when my caucus decided to try to remove me as minority leader, they told me they would keep me in this position if I would commit to not disagreeing with our President for the remainder of his term. Mr. Speaker, I'm being removed because I refuse to make that commitment, because I believe it's our job as Americans and as leaders in this body to criticize power when power is wrong.

"The second concern I want to raise is procedural. I do think that this sets a precedent for every caucus moving forward. If leadership can change based on the numbers of votes that show up instead of the number of the votes in the body, it will destabilize both caucuses. If the rules are silent on this issue, which I believe that they are, then the caucus should be allowed to vote on what should be considered a majority. We haven't taken that vote, Mr. Speaker, so I do believe this is premature. Thank you."

Representative Ward rose to respond, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, we should not be maligning anybody's character. It should be straightforward factual. But there is a façade that this thing started a week ago. This started two years ago. I'm not going to point to the Representative, but this started a long time ago—"

At 12:54 o'clock p.m., Representative Saiki requested a recess and the Chair declared a recess subject to the call of the Chair.

The House of Representatives reconvened at 12:58 o'clock p.m.

Representative Ward continued, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, my apologies for breaking decorum, and anything else that I would have to say would go in the Journal, if there is anything. Thank you."

Representative Ward's written remarks are as follows:

"What's missing in the present narrative about the removal of our current Minority Leader are some conveniently overlooked facts and background data on her removal. Seven of these are listed:

"1. SHE WAS NOT REMOVED FOR ATTENDING THE WOMEN'S MARCH OR SPEAKING AGAINST PRESIDENT TRUMP. We are Republicans and value free speech to the extreme. What we don't like is someone who purports that her views are the views of her caucus, as she did at the Women's March in Honolulu. She can say whatever she wants about President Trump, but don't attribute it to the entire caucus, especially when being the highest ranking Republican.

"2. SHE WAS REMOVED BECAUSE SHE DOES NOT EMBRACE CORE REPUBLICAN VALUES AND ITS LOCAL MEMBERSHIP. She has recently stated that she believes her party is racist and bigoted, and at the May 2016 State Convention she picked a fight with her party by not delivering the Minority Leader's Report but instead just took questions from the floor, and answered every inquiry with disdain for the party and its candidates, particularly Donald Trump. She also stated that she would possibly be voting for Hillary Clinton, and as a result was booed off the stage by her party members.

"3. SHE WAS REMOVED FOR CONTINUAL THREATS TO SWITCH PARTIES. Since the May 2016 convention boooing incident, she thereafter continually threatened to become a Democrat. Some of us in the caucus saw this as her first step in a contrived exit of the party, so what happened the day of her ouster was simply an inevitable next step. This threat gained her continual publicity as long as the threat was credible and mentioned often enough in the media. She now has national coverage by saying it is about Trump and the Women's March, which is patently false.

"4. SHE WAS REMOVED BECAUSE HER LEADERSHIP STOOD FOR AND FOUGHT FOR NOTHING REPUBLICAN. Being called the 'Loyal Opposition' was a foreign concept to her way of thinking, and in her January 2016 Opening Day Speech, pledged to the Democrats she would never criticize their legislation unless she already had a better solution in mind. Consequently this basically shut her down for the entire 2016 Session because she stood for nothing, fought for nothing, and accomplished nothing for the caucus, but she got bills passed for her district because of her concessions to the Democrats.

"5. SHE WAS REMOVED BECAUSE SHE SOLD OUT TO MAJORITY DEMOCRATS. She followed the same socio-political patterns of her predecessor who had exited the party. This was a style of self-serving leadership that got her bills passed by almost exclusively associating with Democrats rather than her own colleagues. By doing this she engendered the support of Speaker Souki who said at the end of 2016 after Rep. Feki Pouha had lost his race, that he would appoint her as minority leader if we couldn't decide among ourselves. Democrat leaders were her caucus of choice, not her own Republican Caucus.

"6. SHE WAS REMOVED BECAUSE SHE PUT THE CAUCUS IN A VACUUM AND ON HOLD. Under her leadership we rarely issued a press release or a position on a major issue. We had NO press conferences and no strategy, beliefs or vision for where we wanted to take the State of Hawaii as leaders of the loyal opposition—a term she vehemently rejected as a role for House Republicans.

"7. SHE WAS REMOVED BECAUSE OF A PATTERN OF BEHAVIOR THAT BEGAN OVER FOUR YEARS AGO. She was a weak leader due to her age and lack of experience. She was my office manager for two years before she entered politics, so I knew that thrusting her into leadership after the defection of the existing minority leader would be risky business. This proved to be the case after turning on her party two years ago, and turning on her President a year ago.

"SUMMARY: The above issues were brought to her attention in two lengthy caucus meetings prior to her ouster. Though in these meetings she was disagreeable and unrepentant, we still believe that this time out in her leadership will be seen in the future as an opportunity for her individual growth as we collectively grow together as Republicans in the HI State Legislature.

"CONCLUSION: Our current Minority Leader picked a fight with her party, her President, and her caucus, and she lost, and for these reasons she is no longer the minority leader."

Representative McDermott rose in support of the measure and asked that his written remarks be inserted in the Journal, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative McDermott's written remarks are as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, I have much aloha for our Mililani Representative. We have had many good conversations, I know her heart and intentions are of the highest order, particularly regarding her beloved district. She is one of the smartest, most driven, strategic thinkers we have in this body. I want only the best for her Mr. Speaker, and I do believe she knows that I am genuine in my comments in this regard.

"My objection to her leadership style is well known. You see, on the issues, her votes are a mirror of mine for the most part. Therefore, this is not an ideological dispute, but rather a dispute over doing ones' duty as the loyal opposition.

"Our roles as the minority is to be the loyal opposition. In short, our job is to make the majority better. How do we do that? Through the robust and vigorous debate of thoughts and ideas on the House Floor, the de facto marketplace of ideas. I think Nancy Pelosi is a good example of this in the current congress; does she sit idly by like a mushroom, or push forward her party's agenda.

"Most of us in the minority believe we should challenge the powerful voice of the Speaker and the direction of the majority when we feel that they are taking Hawaii in the wrong direction. In fact, most folks agree, government works best when we have two parties discussing the pros and cons of the issues. Yet she is clearly uncomfortable with this concept and the vital role that the loyal opposition plays in our democracy.

"The Representative never challenged the Speaker or the majority leadership. In fact, I can honestly say that she cares more about how the Speaker and Majority Leader feel than her own caucus members; she has demonstrated this through action and deed. She found it easier to attack her own party and her Republican colleagues that she had been elected to lead than to hold the majority accountable for intentional neglect (Campbell HS).

"For example, she has personally undermined me on the House Floor when I was fighting for the children in my district attending Campbell High School. First, by telling my Republican colleagues NOT to yield me time to speak on behalf of my area children; then by taking the extraordinary step of speaking against me and my efforts! I cannot tell you how angry this total lack of loyalty and support from my leader caused me to become. This was a total betrayal. I was fighting for my district students, to ensure they had the resources (like seats) they merited. She was worried I was making the Speaker mad so she undermined my efforts.

"In the last few days she has claimed that her Republican colleagues have tried to silence or censure her for speaking out. This is self-serving nonsense. The only time she gets any media coverage is when she is in the self-loathing mode and attacks her Republican colleagues...she talks about taking on powerful voices in the Republican party, this is disingenuous...she was the top elected Republican...she was the powerful voice! All we asked is that she refrain from attacking the President or fellow Republicans while identifying herself as the minority leader. She refused.

"She has been very crafty in playing the victim. She stated 'It is my belief that I can no longer remain a member of a party that punishes dissent.' This is laughable. She was the top elected Republican in the State, who was she dissenting against? Certainly not the Democrat majority, check the Journal you will not find a peep.

"The reality is that she was voted out of her post because she was ineffective. She failed to lead. She failed to as an advocate of Republican principles (kind of important when you are the Republican leader!). She rejected the concept of servant leadership, she believes the title was there to serve her, not her to serve her members. Even when it became clear she only had one affirmative vote, refused to resign; it was always about her and her resume and NOT the good of the group.

"Lastly, she failed the most basic responsibility of any leader, she did NOT serve her members, she served herself, and that is why she was replaced."

Representative Fukumoto rose in opposition to the measure and asked that her written remarks be inserted in the Journal, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Fukumoto's written remarks are as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to House Resolution 14.

"As the Representative from Kailua stated, the House rules generally don't allow members to abstain on a vote, except when there is a conflict of interest. This resolution includes a member abstaining. And there are only three of six votes in favor of changing leadership. This may be a plurality, but it's not the majority, which is what both our caucuses have a right to expect when selecting new leaders. This precedent-setting decision to move forward with a reorganization without a majority of eligible voting members casting votes will have serious consequences for further reorganization efforts and may destabilize both caucuses moving forward.

"That said, I am also opposed to this resolution because it removes me from leadership for unjustified and, frankly, immoral reasons. My colleagues have insisted that they are removing me for reasons other than my participation in the Women's March. They've said that I never criticize policies in the Legislature, but I've provided well-documented opposition to the gas tax only a week ago. I've also taken a number of stances in the past against legislation that I believe would be harmful to my district and the State. I, however, have also offered that opposition with respect to those who introduced the legislation and understanding that, while I don't agree, they are just trying to do what they think is best. This is how we should conduct ourselves as legislators.

"My colleagues disagree. At the beginning of this session, the Minority Leader Emeritus admonished me to focus more on issues that would energize the Republican base. He explained that after you win re-election the second time, he believes that it is our choice when we want to leave because he believes our constituents will always vote us back in. He encouraged me to focus less on passing bills and seeking funds for my district and focus more on advancing my party's agenda. I refused.

"I believe that it is our jobs to always put our communities first. We are representatives of our districts before we are members of a political party. It does a disservice to our districts when we focus on partisan politics. Furthermore, as members of the minority party, we should be seeking common ground with our majority colleagues. We should have a seat at the table so we can have real dialogue and provide different perspectives on the issues facing our state. But, you can't ask for a seat at the table and keep shouting outside the room.

"My caucus knew this was my position. They knew that I didn't think that being a vocal, critical and obnoxious loyal opposition was beneficial for our state or for our caucus. Yes, we can disagree. Yes, disagreement can make policy better. But only if it's done in the right way. My colleagues have been unsuccessful as legislators because they don't do things the right way. They don't show respect to those that they disagree with. Nothing exemplified that better than when my colleague from Ewa Beach towered over my chair shouting profanities at me with the entire body watching on this chamber's floor.

"When they voted me into this position as minority leader, they knew that I would always work across the aisle and strive to find areas of agreement where I could. They knew that I would always encourage each of our members to put their districts before their party. And, they still said I was the best person for the job of leader. Either they were being disingenuous then or disingenuous now.

"My colleagues have also stated that I've shown contempt for my party, and therefore, deserve to be removed from leadership. I don't have contempt for my party. My party is the party of Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt. Those men embodied the ideals of justice and equality for all. Those ideals don't seem to have a place in my party today, but it is not contemptuous to believe that my party can be better than it is. I have stated that my party houses racist and sexist tendencies. I've argued that my caucus also houses those tendencies. But, again, my colleagues knew this when they voted me in as minority leader.

"Prior to our vote for minority leader, my colleague from Hawaii Kai asked me to commit to not speaking out against President Trump. I told him that I wouldn't. When someone says that Japanese American internment might not have been a bad idea, you can't commit to never speaking out against him. My colleagues assured me that, while they hoped I would temper my speech, they wouldn't ask me to commit to not speaking out. I'd like to reiterate that after this conversation, my colleagues still voted unanimously to appoint me the minority leader.

"So, it comes down to this: my colleagues knowingly voted for someone who believes that we should be working across the aisle, that we should be respectful in dealing with our Democratic colleagues and that the president should be criticized if he does something that violates our core values. Today, they've changed their minds, and the only different factor is my participation in the Women's March. I think it's a very logical conclusion that my removal is solely because of the Women's March since my colleagues were content with my leadership despite my previous statements, but within 24 hours of my Women's March speech, they were calling for my resignation and censure.

"Over 20,000 people have watched my Women's March speech online. But, my message was very simply that anger and hate fueled the rhetoric of this election. I said racist and sexist remarks were made, and that our children deserved better from their leaders. I said a bully won the White House. Whether you like him or not, that is an accurate portrayal of his behavior. The deeper problem, that I explained privately to my colleagues later, is that our party doesn't take the time to call out racist and sexist remarks. Instead, we sweep them under the rug, or in some cases, applaud them.

"My colleagues have denied that there is any racism or sexism in our party. They've called me a liar on this floor for even suggesting it. However, the problem I've raised is well documented. In December of 2015, Public Policy Polling found that 49% of Trump supporters in Iowa were in favor of the World War II Japanese internment camps. Last June, Pew Research found that Trump supporters were more likely to agree with the statement that it's 'Bad for country that blacks, Latinos, Asians will be majority of the population' [sic]. That same month, a study by political scientists at the University of Michigan found a strong and significant correlation between sexism and support for Trump.

"The problem was even exemplified today on the floor. The Representative from Hawaii Kai insists that he discovered me, which is textbook objectification. Similarly, he has made previous statements in our leadership discussions about blaming himself for my lack of leadership skills or his desire to see a more 'repentant' attitude from me. He has insisted time and time again that I am too weak-minded to form correct opinions and that my manner needs to be more docile. I have worked with him for many years, and I have never seen him treat a man that way. The same Representative made calls to my ex-husband and attempted to contact my father to explain that I was being too emotional of a leader and asked them to talk me into reconsidering my actions when I moved his seat on the floor. Again, he would not have done this to a man.

"Similarly, women in this caucus have encouraged me to be less threatening to my male colleagues. They've said I should learn to feed their egos and make them feel that my ideas are actually their ideas so that we can have greater peace in the caucus. They have told me that if I make them feel like they're the ones in charge then I will have less problems. Again, this is offensive. The men of our caucus should respect me as a colleague. I shouldn't have to gain their favor by making them feel like they are in charge of me.

"Finally, this problem in our caucus was best exemplified when our caucus voted to make changes to the organization. The Representative from Hawaii Kai made it clear that his first choice for leadership was to be the minority leader with me as his floor leader so he could 'course correct' me and allow me to return to leadership once I've shown appropriate remorse and penitence for my actions. When I refused, the next suggestion was himself as minority leader and the Representative from Nanakuli for floor leader. Both men voted for the Representative from Hawaii Kai as their first choice. Only after that motion failed did they decide they were willing to put the Representative from Nanakuli into the top position. Her lack of experience may have been a factor, but neither raised that as an issue.

"These are just a few examples to show that I'm not simply imagining misogyny as my colleagues have claimed. In fact, there has been a pattern of this behavior with many incidents that would be inappropriate for me to repeat in a public record. But, since my honesty is being called into question, I did need to share some.

"In conclusion, this event was the direct result of my participation in the Women's March, an event that upset and disturbed my colleagues. My remarks were simple and the same as all the remarks I made prior to my colleagues unanimously voting me in as minority leader. I am only being removed now because of the venue where I delivered these remarks. Of course, they said I could keep my position if I would learn to remain silent on these issues. Again, I refused."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and H.R. No. 14 was adopted, with Representatives Fukumoto and Thielen voting no, and with Representatives Matsumoto and Oshiro being excused.

By unanimous consent, the following resolution (H.R. No. 12) and concurrent resolution (H.C.R. No. 30) were referred to Printing and further action was deferred:

H.C.R. No. 30, entitled: "HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF A TERM, NON-EXCLUSIVE EASEMENT COVERING A PORTION OF STATE SUBMERGED LANDS AT KANEOHE, KOOLAUPOKO, OAHU, FOR THE MAINTENANCE AND REPAIR OF THE EXISTING SEAWALL, BOAT RAMP, AND PIER, AND FOR USE, REPAIR, AND MAINTENANCE OF THE EXISTING IMPROVEMENTS CONSTRUCTED THEREON," was offered by Representative Thielen, by request.

Representative Thielen rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I bet you were expecting that. I'm rising in support of the measure, Mr. Speaker, and a couple of things I would just like to note. This bill will allow Hawaii farmers to apply year-round to grow hemp, and that's what should be the case, since we have year-round growing cycles for industrial hemp. The law as it presently stands was adopted from Kentucky. Well, Kentucky has one growing season. So when they adopted that, they put in just the single growing season, that makes no sense. I'd like to note that it no longer has a monetary aspect to it, and I'm hoping that eventually Finance will waive off so it just needs to go to Judiciary to move forward.

"But the most wonderful news I have, Mr. Speaker, I was given this amazing gift. The frame is hemp from the Waimanalo hemp project. This, what you look at and you think it's wood, it's not, it's a hemp frame. The background is hemp paper, made from the hemp from the Waimanalo project. And the dried leaf is industrial hemp from the Waimanalo project. This is just an amazing gift, I am so awed by this. Any member that wants to see it after session is over, it will be here on my desk for you to come and to touch it and look at it. But this is what we have, and this is why this bill is so important to move forward. Grow hemp year-round, and participate in the 25,000 products and uses for this amazing crop. Thank you."

Representative Mizuno rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, I rise in support. If I could have the words adopted by the previous speaker, without the award given to her, I'd really appreciate that in the Journal, please," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative Ward rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"I rise in support, Mr. Speaker. This is a good job creation bill for Hawaii's farmers, who are charged with increasing their output. This is one that is going to create jobs and hopefully a lot of income.

"As some of you know, I've probably evolved rather slowly on this particular bill, and I too would like the comments of my colleague from Kailua entered into the Journal, because this is important, and she has fought probably six or seven sessions to get it to where it is today. So thanks to those who introduced it, and those who will pass it. Thank you, Mr. Speaker," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative McKelvey rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, in strong support. I would like the words of the good speaker from Kailua entered in the record as if it were my own, except for the come touch it and look at it part. Also would like to note that there are agricultural entities that are negotiating to use the HC&S land for which this law can provide an extra agricultural activity to make them successful, so this is important in creating sustainability in the former sugar lands area. Thank you," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 96, HD 1, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO INDUSTRIAL HEMP," passed Second Reading and was referred to the Committee on Judiciary, with Representative Ing being excused.

On motion by Representative Saiki, seconded by Representative Evans and carried, the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 347, HD 1, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO EMPLOYMENT SECURITY," passed Second Reading and was referred to the Committee on Consumer Protection & Commerce, with Representative Ing being excused.

I think that, because we always talk about cost of living, so many people depend on online sales in order to kind of offset that, especially Amazon Prime, which is amazing. And I just wanted to say that the Chamber of Commerce weighed in and said that it'll level the playing field, but we could also level it by repealing the GE for local businesses, and I support that, so I just want to thank the introducer and compliment him on his beautiful hair. Thank you."

Representative McDermott rose and asked that the Clerk record a no vote for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Ward rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, no vote and brief comment, please. Mr. Speaker, I call this the big brother retail bill. It's come back to visit us again, and I know the Representative from Manoa is very fond of it. However, it's come up and went down a number of times, and primarily for a couple of reasons.

"The first is that it's borderline privacy for the sake of getting more taxation, and there's a number of issues in the courts which will decide this. Not that they should be getting a free ride, but that eventually this is going to be decided, and the more we allow savings to the State, where the cost of living is the highest in the nation, the better our constituents are, Mr. Speaker.

"The other reason is that, we keep saying this is going to even the playing field. Well, having been a retailer before I was in office, 15 years in Waikiki, any time anybody came to our store or called our store or visited our store or re-visited our store, and we sent the product to the mainland, there's an exemption on the GET tax form that says you don't have to pay the GE tax. So the playing field is even in the sense that every retailer in Hawaii can sell to the market on the mainland, which is even bigger than our market, and they don't have to pay taxes, but they're complaining about people on the mainland who are selling here, and they have to pay taxes.

"It's an even playing field because everybody who's in business should by now, and if they're not, they're not a real retailer, everybody should be on the Internet. Everybody should be doing on-line sales.

"Other than that, Mr. Speaker, the speaker of my house says, leave my Amazon Prime alone. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Choy rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In strong support. This bill merely helps the collection of taxes that are already due. It is not a new tax, it's a tax that's already old. And I think I said this many, many years ago, that the people who oppose this type of legislation to help collect taxes that are already due are called tax cheats. But I'm not accusing my good friend from Hawaii Kai to be a tax cheat, but maybe he just misunderstands the term.

"But again, colleagues, we need the taxes from internet sales. The state tax director, in a Finance hearing, said the collection of general excise taxes from retail stores were flat. Unfortunately, she had no clue on why that was, and I told her, have you heard of a company called Amazon? So hopefully she's listening, and she knows that about 40% of our sales, our holiday sales, now are done online.

"If we continue not to collect these taxes, then guys, we're going to have to get a tax increase to make up for it, our schools will suffer, human services will suffer. How are we going to do this? This bill merely helps collect the taxes that are due. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Matsumoto rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"After that wonderful speech, no vote, please."

Representative DeCoite rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 908, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO THE RIGHT OF FIRST REFUSAL FOR THE DISPOSITION OF REMNANTS," passed Second Reading and was referred to the Committee on Water & Land, with Representatives DeCoite and LoPresti voting aye with reservations.

Representative Ing, for the Committee on Ocean, Marine Resources, & Hawaiian Affairs, presented a report (Stand. Com. Rep. No. 30) recommending that H.B. No. 451 pass Second Reading and be referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

Representative Saiki moved that the report of the Committee be adopted, and that H.B. No. 451 pass Second Reading and be referred to the Committee on Judiciary, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Ward rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, strong support. Mr. Speaker, I know there's a rather high threshold to stand up and speak on second reading, but this bill is a 96-year-old bill, if you will, in the sense that, in 1920, the U.S. Congress approved the Hawaiian Homes Act. It said that with 200,000 acres we will return some land to the Hawaiians which was either taken or stolen or otherwise they were displaced.

"Unfortunately, after 96 years of this act, there are only about 9,600 leases that have been given, and there are 27,000 on the waitlist for a home. We have a report that there's just about 57,000 Hawaiians left who are eligible for Hawaiian homes.

"What this bill does, for the descendants of those on the land, allows for their blood quantum to go from 25% down to 1/32nd. It allows the Hawaiians to stay on the land, which is very important, which basically if you look at it has been a broken promise for the last 96 years, Mr. Speaker. This is a very compassionate, economic, social, political, cultural bill, of which I'm hoping will just be the beginning, that we will roll back all of these things that have been promised to the Hawaiians that have never been given, Mr. Speaker. This is one small step. Thank you."

Representative LoPresti rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Reservations. I fear that this can favor the haves over the have-nots, the lessees over those who have been waiting, 27,000 people still waiting. That's why. Thanks."

Representative DeCoite rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, in strong support. This bill is to address the selling of lands that evade the list, and the reason why that has happened is because of the blood quantum and the successorship. It is in no means to get away from that list of people that are there, because when you start running out of blood quantum, you start to sell it so that you can find money to put a fee simple down on other land, and to remove these Native Hawaiians from those lands. For those reasons, I'm in strong support of this bill. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Ing rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"In strong support. I just want to mahalo my fellow Representative from Maui for introducing this bill and being a stalwart advocate for DHHL. I also want to say that my original concerns were that this sort of measure may pit beneficiaries against waitlisters. From working on this bill for two years now, we see that that's simply not the case.

"If you talk to a waitlist, nobody wants to get their homesteads awarded to them by displacing other Hawaiian families. I've never seen that once so far, and it doesn't make sense. These are homes that are established, they've raised their kids there, it's full of stuff. What we need to do is build more homes for everyone, if we want to address the waitlist problem. So what happens is, after they can't hand it down, it doesn't even go to a waitlister, it usually ends up going out to sale, or for some other purpose, and that's very unfortunate.

"The other criticism was that it was the intent of the homesteads act to rehabilitate Native Hawaiians so they can re-integrate after a couple of generations into the American capitalist system. I do not think that was Prince Kuhio's intent. In fact, it was to set aside land in order to perpetuate Hawaiian culture for future generations. These families that have been living on these plots of land are still practicing traditional ways of living, and we as a body should not be displacing them.

"Lastly, the whole system of blood quantum was created to be unsustainable. There's a good book about it called Hawaiian Blood, written as a dissertation I think by Blaisdell a few years ago, and I encourage everyone to read it where, it's a system that's designed to, as generations go on, that ultimately you're going to have to give up your land.

"As long as there's portions of land set aside for Hawaiians, then we should make sure that it doesn't really matter how much blood quantum somebody has. If they can trace their lineage back to pre-colonial days and have a commitment to perpetuating our lifestyle, then, by all means, they should be awarded the land. Nowadays, we have a few folks that are homesteaders that want to see their grandchildren take over their land and continue their way of life. Aloha."

Representative Tupola rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In strong support. Permission to enter the comments of the Representative from Molokai as if they were my own," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative Tupola continued, stating:

"And just a brief comment, I wanted to mahalo also the Representative from Maui for his work and his insight on the bill. I think the blood quantum and the successorship issue has long needed to be addressed, because eventually it will phase out Hawaiians from owning their own lands. And so I'm glad to see this bill pushed along, and I'm glad that whatever issues were there have been worked out. And I do agree that no Hawaiian wants to displace another one, but we want to see more housing, so that we can keep the land and keep the people from Hawaii here on their own land. Thank you."

Representative San Buenaventura rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I, like the Representative from Ewa Beach, in the last session, was also concerned. In my district I've actually seen Hawaiians where the birth certificate says 100%, pure. I also was concerned as to whether or not it is the waitlisters versus the homesteaders, and it was only after I started talking to my constituents—"

At 12:31 o'clock p.m., the Chair declared a recess subject to the call of the Chair.

The House of Representatives reconvened at 12:32 o'clock p.m.

Representative San Buenaventura continued, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Basically, I also have the concerns of the Representative of Ewa Beach. I am not Hawaiian. My constituents, I have a huge constituent base who are Hawaiians, and I did talk to them. And like my fellow Representative from Ewa Beach, I was concerned about these huge waitlists. But the Representative from Kihei's remarks, as well as the Representative from Molokai's remarks, resounded in my constituent bases.

"They were concerned that the property that they end up having to mortgage because they're building these houses are not being passed on. They are being forced to sell, and they are being forced to sell to people who are not on the waitlist to get the highest and best price, so that they would be able to move on. And I agree that there needs to be something done with the waitlist. We need to cut that waitlist down. However, it should not be on the backs of the people who have to put on the mortgage to put on these houses, and for these reasons, I am in support."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 451, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO THE HAWAIIAN HOMES COMMISSION ACT," passed Second Reading and was referred to the Committee on Judiciary, with Representative LoPresti voting aye with reservations.

At this time, the Chair stated:

"For the edification of the members, these bills are short form bills, to recommit the short form bills, so purely a procedural motion."

"Mr. Speaker, I rise with reservations. Which means, Mr. Speaker, I support it, but I support it because of what could be in this is not in it, and that's what I want to speak just one second about, and that is public-private partnership. There's nothing in there that says anything about private partnerships. Some of you know that I've been using Hong Kong and Japan as an example where the private sector, when given development rights, whether it's hotel, shopping center, condo, or other housing or strip malls, they have raised money for Hong Kong and Japan to build the rail, not just with taxpayers' money.

"We are faced now with an open-ended tax bill from the city and county of which to this day they cannot even tell us how much it's going to cost. So when I see a transit-oriented development organization, a great authority, a great thing with authority to do things, and it doesn't mention public-private partnerships, I think it is a miss and a misuse of their powers and, quite frankly, unfair to the taxpayers who are going to have to, as we know, will have a later tax extension for that purpose. But, Mr. Speaker, this is a bill with potential, but right now, it doesn't pass the test for what it should be. Thank you."

"In support, with a comment. I think that right now sex trafficking and addressing it, we started last year and now we're getting into it more of how we can help out. And I think that I was compelled in the hearing to hear organizations like IMUAlliance, Hoola Na Pua, who help a lot of these victims. And their concern was, because it's often a very traumatic issue that people want to discuss in private, by having them go to a center may make them more uncomfortable and less willing to discuss the help they need.

"So I support giving them more money, more help, more resources, and I would just encourage the next committee to take into consideration some of these organizations that are on the ground, helping victims. Take into consideration helping the money go to them as opposed to possibly making it a little more uncomfortable for the victims that really, really desperately need help. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

"Mr. Speaker, strong support, brief comment. Mr. Speaker, this bill rises to the level of speaking on second reading because of its importance. It's historic in the sense that it funds Department of Hawaiian Home Lands for the Bowl-O-Drome.

"Mr. Speaker, some of us remember when we used to go bowling there. Well, what it does is kick-start, for the first time in the history of the Department of Hawaiian Home Lands, a potential high-rise that could take hundreds of people off the waitlist. Obviously, you know that the waitlist is 27,000 people. This is the first high-rise to give at least step number one in getting Hawaiians housed, of which 97 years ago we promised.

"So this is a historical bill, even though it's empty. I hope it's just the beginning of a momentum that we can build houses for the Hawaiians, and it can be done on a high-rise level. And this does that, and I want to thank Speaker Say for his introduction of this, and encourage everybody to follow the momentum that's being started today."

Representative Onishi rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, I'd like to register a no vote on this measure. A few comments. Mr. Speaker, the current Selective Service process only involves males. What this bill does is it's going to adversely affect young men who, for whatever reasons, may not have registered with Selective Service, to not be able to enroll in a state-supported secondary education institution, or receive loans, grants, scholarships, or other financial assistance.

"There's all kinds of reasons why young men may have either forgotten or decide not to enroll or register for Selective Service, but again, to me, this only affects males, and doesn't affect any female. And until such time as Selective Service registration requires all young people to register, I feel that this just targets males. Thank you."

Representative Thielen rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I appreciate the former speaker's comments. I'd like to cast a no vote."

Representative Ito rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, in support. Mr. Speaker and members, this bill came from the Selective Service Commission. All it is, is letting the University of Hawaii comply with the Military Selective Service Act. That's all it is. Now, as far as the women, that has to be addressed by the federal Congress.

"But right now, and the university gave an explanation why they couldn't put the males into the system, it's because of the computer. Now, if I remember right, we gave the university a lot of money to upgrade the computer system. And this is one indication that, I don't know, but they cannot even input something like this. So this is just a bill that, letting the University of Hawaii, let them know that they have to comply with the Military Selective Service Act. Thank you."

Representative Evans rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, I rise in support. I just want to emphasize again that this will make individuals eligible for federal student financial assistance and employment within the executive branch of the Federal Government. So this is actually to become in compliance, so that people here can comply to get that federal assistance.

"We may disagree with some of the underlying things, like it doesn't ask for women, this is only for males, and that's a whole other issue that we should probably write maybe a resolution to the congressional delegation to address that. But clearly we want our men here in Hawaii to be able to be eligible for assistance, so I'm in strong support. Thank you."

Representative San Buenaventura rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Ward rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, in support, brief comment, sir. Basically, this is to assure that America has a fighting force in the event that the voluntary draft, or the voluntary military has to rely upon the draft, as some of us in this room, including you and myself who were drafted. It's like what the Jones Act is for the fighting of a war on the seas, being able to take the merchant ships and put them into action. It's to be able to pull the people of this place and throughout the nation to be available.

"Mr. Speaker, it's invaluable and important, and I would think that even though the male issue is targeted, it's all about the fighting forces and the readiness of America to be at a drop of a hat as it's ready.

"The other thing it is, and it hasn't been mentioned, this keeps the young people out of jail. There's a huge prison sentence if you don't sign up. This is an incentive, not only to get an education, but to not go to jail, and that is something that they enforce seriously, even though they have done it very infrequently. There's a jail term if you don't sign up, and this is an incentive to keep them out of jail. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Takumi rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. I normally don't stand up on second reading bills, frankly because the bill has a long way to go. And I've heard the comments on the floor. Historically, this bill has come up in the past, and while I can agree with my colleague from Hawaii Kai we need a strong military fighting force and all the rest of that, there are other ways to get it there. We currently have an all-volunteer military. It seems to me if the branches of the military are not as successful in getting young men, I suppose, because this is what the target is, then maybe they ought to question themselves about their recruiting efforts.

"In my opinion, there is no nexus between having to sign up for the Selective Service and whether or not you can go to an institute of higher learning. If that were true, that we need to capture as many young men, and potentially young women, we should just say, you can't get employed. That would capture a lot of people. Only a minority of people go to institutes of higher learning. Why don't we say, after high school, in order for you to get a job, in order for you to open a bank account, you have to register with the Selective Service. You can see how ludicrous that can be. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker. In opposition."

Representative Ward rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, strong yes vote. Brief comments, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, everybody in this body, everybody in this state knows we have a huge homeless problem, huge problem. We need to have a multi-variant approach to this problem. This is one that allows property owners, their driveway or their backyard, to rent out space or lease space to those who may have an RV or, my daughter calls them hippie vans, the old Volkswagens that you could sleep in, or other type accommodations.

"The difficulty is that we are treating homelessness as one-size-fits-all. What is not clear in this bill I want to make very clear now on the floor. This is for the working homeless, those who if they're gone most of the day won't even be noticed by their neighbors. And it's not going to fit every household, just like you can't have an ADU in every household, in every lot. But there is an ADU, and this is kind of like a homeless ADU by allowing those who work for a living who cannot afford the rent yet, but they can go out and they can have actually a place to sleep, and they'll have access to a kitchen, they'll have access to facilities for hygiene.

"Mr. Speaker, the problem is we promised the people of Hawaii that we were going to, quote, 'solve homelessness.' We're nowhere near that, Mr. Speaker. This is for something to have a management, it's one of those side effects like the campgrounds in the other bills that are circulating to, quote, 'help manage homelessness.'

"It's a huge problem of which we're not going to be able to have enough money for housing first. It's too expensive. Some have called it the fake hope of housing first. We'll never have the money to be able to give people a house, or an apartment. So this is one of the many ways that people are thinking of, let's give not the solving of it but the solution to doing dwellings first, rather than wait for homes.

"It's not the best way to do it, but it's one of the ways, if we don't do it, all we've done in this place is kick the can down the road. And the homeless population, if you recall the count of a few weeks ago, is going up and up and up. We've got to manage it. This is one of the options to do that. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Quinlan rose and asked that the Clerk record a no vote for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Fukumoto rose in opposition to the measure and asked that her written remarks be inserted in the Journal, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Fukumoto's written remarks are as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to HB 968.

"While I agree that a comprehensive response to the homelessness issue is needed, especially because of the shortage in housing units, the bill lacks needed details and is of questionable utility.

"One of the immediately obvious shortcomings with the bill is that there aren't any restrictions against using this type of lease to sell space as a vacation rental. Additionally, the restriction against structures that violate health or safety regulations makes it difficult to distinguish from the city's Accessory Dwelling Unit program, which has already been implemented. And since the leases could not violate private agreements or covenants, a lot of homeowners in the introducer's own district wouldn't be allowed to sell these leases because of all the homeowners' associations.

"If this idea can be found to be substantially different from the city's Accessory Dwelling Unit program, it may be prudent to first conduct a pilot program in the introducer's district. I suspect however that the introducer's district, which is largely governed by homeowners' association, would not be impacted by this measure unless the Legislature expressly authorizes this pilot project to override current association rules. This will provide the introducer and other stakeholders with enough hands-on experience with this plan before potentially subjecting the rest of the State to an extraordinary zoning exemption that would allow individuals to live in tents, trailers and other potential dangerous dwellings in people's driveways and backyards. In districts with high winds, like my own, this bill could prove a serious hazard to the health and safety of those living in these dwellings and those living near them. As such, I would strongly oppose this bill or a pilot project of this bill to take effect in my district.

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In opposition. Just some very short comments. Interestingly, whether it's the Department of Health or the proponents of the medical marijuana dispensaries, there was a lot of opposition to this, and the main reason was because of the fact that the Department of Health has taken so long in trying to get this program up and running, and I think many of the proponents of the dispensaries were upset, because they felt that you're changing the rules of the game now, when the Department of Health has still already been slow to get this program up and running. And so they felt that you were only going to further protract the process, and that's why, for those reasons, I'll be voting no. Thank you."

Representative Tupola rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A no vote. My concern was about requiring the Department of Health to do an alternative tracking system. I think in addition to the comments made by the Representative from Kapolei, that additional things that we're putting on to this, that's making it harder for dispensaries to get off the ground. The Department of Health, their stance was that they didn't suggest that we continue to complicate it until it's actually, the program's off the ground. And so for those reasons, a no. Thank you."

"Mr. Speaker, with reservations. This is a good idea. It squirrels away money for education, which we need. Our teachers are underfunded, DOE is underfunded. However, if I was DLNR, I would say, hey, I want to do the same thing. Then, if I was the Department of Human Services, hey, this is a great idea.

"The point, Mr. Speaker, is that this is a slippery slope. It's going to be good for one, but then it's going to create something I think is a problem, and I know the chair of Finance and other WAM individuals who will look at this, probably not as it is intended, just for education, but it's a financial fiscal issue. Representative McDermott rose and asked that the Clerk record a no vote for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Ward rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, a no vote. I may have garbled what I said in the last bill, but the same thing applies. Until the private-public sector gets its act together for the transit-oriented development, I think requiring workforce housing, even though it's a good idea, misses the whole point, Mr. Speaker. And I know the new head of HART has said, yeah, we can probably, if required, get some money out of the private sector.

Representative Thielen rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"A no vote, please. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. We need to be very careful of this Airbnb type of legislation. I don't see in this that it requires the hosting platform to make sure that these are legal operations, and I know that a lot of us in this chamber have a lot of the illegal operators taking away housing from local families. So a no vote, and I think we've really got to be careful. Thank you."

Representative Quinlan rose and asked that the Clerk record a no vote for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Ward rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, no vote, brief comment. Mr. Speaker, we heard this in committee, and my conclusion is we're cleaning up the mess of the city & county. They've kicked the can down the line for about two or three decades, there's maybe 110 bed and breakfasts since 1989. We've got 8.6 million tourists. Where are they all going? There's not enough space in the hotels. So this is a black market that's been created out of a lack of understanding response or being afraid to legislate what otherwise is a strong economic need. So, Mr. Speaker, I don't think we should be cleaning up the city & county's mess, so my no vote is for 1470 and 1471, for the next bill. Thank you."

Representative Lee rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Thielen rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thanks, Mr. Speaker. Here's another one that allows the Airbnb type of operators to register as the tax collecting agents. Then the bill says, at this point, at this point, that it ensures that the subject property is in compliance with applicable land use laws. I don't trust that that requirement's going to stay in the bill.

"I'm not a no to that concept, but I'm a no to being afraid that that provision is going to be eliminated, and what Airbnb will do is simply collect the tax and won't care a whit if these are legal operations. So, with a precautionary principle, I'm a no."

Representative McKelvey rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In support, and I would like to just reassure the Member that, as to their concerns, that it will stay in the bill in the next committee. I'm just reassuring her that those provisions will remain at least in the Committee on CPC."

Representative Thielen rose, stating:

"I'm going to, based upon my colleague from Maui and his assurance that that will stay in the bill, I'm going to change to a with reservations."

Representative Matsumoto rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. Representative McDermott rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, I'm going to cast a no vote. I realize this measure has a defective date, Mr. Speaker, but this appears before us year after year, the Department of Education says they don't have money to continue this licensure program. And I see here that the renewal fee will be $10,000 every two years. Now, just down the street from here is the Maritime Licensing Center, where they train people to be ship's captains, and they're federally certified, certified by the Coast Guard, and these young people who go to get their license can get federal financial aid.

"Now, this $10,000 will put them out of business. And these are local kids going to get certified to drive ships and boats and tour vessels and things of that nature. It seems to me that $10,000 every two years is too much. These guys are making just their salary, after they pay for their expenses and overhead, and what happens is we have this bill, and they get all fired up and flustered up and come down, and at the end it dies, because we finally say, okay, that's unreasonable. It's been a status quo for a number of years in a certain way, and now we're going to come in and say, because the DOE says it's too much work for us, we're going to charge you $10,000 every two years.

"So I understand it has a defective date and it will probably be changed some more, but I just want to alert you to the fact that $10,000 is a lot for a license renewal. Thank you."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committees was adopted and H.B. However, I don't believe the author understands the domestic violence implications of this. Being a family law attorney, I have seen owners who will use cutting off of utilities as a means of control, and for those reasons, it's with strong reservations. Thank you."

Representative Saiki moved that the report of the Committees be adopted, and that H.B. No. 1571, HD 1 pass Second Reading and be referred to the Committee on Water & Land, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Onishi rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, a no vote for me, with a short comment. This is a bill that has been addressed numerous times in the Legislature. The impact is only to commercial farmers, and the report from the Department of Agriculture in regards to incidents with schools and students or staff points basically to homeowners, and not commercial agricultural entities. So, with that said, I have to vote no on this issue. Thank you."

Representative DeCoite rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, with reservations and comments. Mr. Speaker, I want to be clear, I am not against buffer zones, but I want to address the root of the problem. These are my concerns in regards to disclosure and outdoor notification requirements for the application of pesticides.

"I am all for disclosure and notification requirements for any and all pesticides being used around our schools and our residential areas. All pesticides, restricted use, organic and everything. I think these all need to apply when it comes to the health and well-being of our communities and our keiki.

"The point of pesticides is to kill its intended target. That is what they are meant to do. We are to protect our communities from pesticide exposure. We all need to be educated to prevent further contamination in our residential areas and evacuations of our schools.

"While this bill targets large-scale agriculture and farming operations, we need to consider whether big or small, we're all susceptible to pesticides. In the event of the 16 school evacuations on Kauai, the pesticide exposure was caused by homeowners, and not farmers.

"In order to keep our communities safe, we need to know who and what to keep them safe from. And it is the responsibility of everyone in our community to know how to safely use these pesticides we use in everyday life.

"This is why I feel these regulations should apply to everyone. While low-level chronic exposure is a stated focus, acute exposure can have some of the same effects, plus the health studies performed in these areas do not have the numbers to make them statistically significant. Let's do a full health study and include everything, from who smokes, who sprays Round-Up to control weeds, along with pre-existing health conditions in that community. Let's get the full scope of the health of our communities.

"You see, Mr. Speaker, I am a farmer, a third-generation Hawaiian homestead farmer that grows the Molokai purple sweet potatoes, and I'm trying to do my part by feeding our people. We're passionate about what we do, and really, it's not in my best interest, or any of my fellow farmers' best interest, to kill our customers with pesticides. And the notion that that's what we do is insulting.

"Farmers such as myself, that are certified and go through training on how to apply restricted-use pesticides, are under heavy oversight. How can we as farmers that provide food to the people stop having to defend ourselves to people that don't know nothing about pesticides? I find it insulting that outside influences claiming to know everything, in actuality know very little about farming.

"Punish those that do wrong, I fully agree with that. Fine them, fine everyone who breaks the rules. They must be punished, Mr. Speaker. But again, Mr. Speaker, if the evacuations of schools were caused by pesticide use by homeowners, then why are we turning the blame on others? That is not right, and I will not turn away from that. Again, we must educate all our members of our communities so we can prevent further exposure.

"On Kauai, the farm that did screw up got fined and punished, which is the right thing to do. A single farmer, a single violation, and a single fine. We don't need to punish and regulate to death every single farmer because of one entity.

"Mr. Speaker, this bill in its current form is not about protecting kids and communities from pesticides, the very pesticides that farmers use as a tool, and as a last resort to control pests, including invasive species. This bill is to attack agriculture. People can hate the companies for doing wrong, but by all means, don't hate the practice, because who will feed the people?"

"This bill and others like it will not encourage farming, it will destroy farming. The incidents occurred right in front of our eyes, and we are looking to the other guy. We have to teach them, educate them, and protect them. Let's help them, Mr. Speaker, and at a time when the Governor has asked us to double food production in the State, why is this body looking at legislation which will create road blocks?"

Representative Yamashita rose to yield his time, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative DeCoite continued, stating:

"Thank you. Fine and punish those that are violating, but do not punish those that apply pesticides correctly. Again, I want to be clear, Mr. Speaker, I am not against buffer zones. But I want to address the root of the problem.

"As lawmakers, Mr. Speaker, it is our job to hear all sides, and to ask those tough questions, and decipher what is truth and what is not. Based on the answers given and research to back it up, we make our decisions. For this bill and many like it, the real focus should be education and prevention. Let's not jump the gun too fast. This could be the difference between us being food-sustainable or not. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Morikawa rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Strong reservations, and I'd like the words of the previous speaker to be as if they were my own also," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative Morikawa continued, stating:

"I started the disclosure bill a few years ago. The Department of Health has that capacity to do that. The Good Neighbor Program started from Kauai, and I believe that is where we need to go. We need to spread that throughout the State of Hawaii.

"Everyone knows that we want to protect our children, ourselves, against any type of chemical, pesticides, what have you. But why do something that may have consequences to our good farmers, to the people who are growing food for our state?"

"And I think before we mandate anything like that, let's have a good conversation. The Department of Ag has expressed their concerns. I agree with them, they're doing well, as well as they possibly can with the resources they have. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Ito rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Matsumoto rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Tokioka rose in opposition to the measure and asked that the remarks of Representatives Morikawa and DeCoite be entered into the Journal as his own, and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative LoPresti rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In strong support. I just want to remind everybody, this is a pilot project around five schools. And sitting on the Ag Committee, I've had the pleasure of questioning Director Enright on numerous occasions about these sorts of things, as well as the industry, as well as opponents, and those who want more buffer zones.

"The one thing that I've learned for sure, is that things like the Good Neighbor Program is practically meaningless, and the reason is that, scientifically meaningless, is because it is limited in what data it collects. It may disclose what's sprayed, but it doesn't say when, it doesn't say where, and they cannot make any scientific conclusions without complete data. The director of the Department of Agriculture has admitted as much. Anybody who knows basic science will admit as much. So this simply requires disclosure and public notification around five schools.

"The rhetoric that we get back when there's an attempt to try to even understand what's going on from industry is that you can't prove anything's wrong, so what's the problem? Well, the reason you can't prove anything's wrong is because we don't have disclosure and public notification of what's being sprayed. It's so simple. Thank you."

Representative Oshiro rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Ward rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Har rose in support of the measure with reservations and asked that the remarks of Representatives Morikawa and DeCoite be entered into the Journal as her own, and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative Onishi rose to respond, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Second time, in opposition. Mr. Speaker, research and science has already proven that the incidents in Hawaii have not been attributed to commercial farmers, but residents. So anyone who believes in research and science can see that the problem is not with commercial farmers, it is with our residents not understanding how to apply pesticides. And so we should be focusing on those issues, and not those that would hurt agriculture. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Keohokalole rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. With reservations. I appreciate the efforts of the author and the introducers on this bill and the work of the chairs hearing it. I'm not going to ask to incorporate the words of the Representative from Molokai because I'm not a farmer, and those are the words of a farmer. But I do want the record to reflect my support of the Representative from Molokai on this issue and the perspective that she brings as a farmer. Thank you."

Representative Creagan rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. This is a very contentious issue. I would almost be tempted to vote with reservations myself, but I was told that as the chair of the committee that passed this out, that that wouldn't be very appropriate, so I had to refrain from doing that the other day. So, I want to thank my Vice Chair for her comments, and I want to thank and assure everyone, I fully support farming, and I want to support the children of our state, also.

"I think what was interesting, some of us went down to Baton Rouge to see the Monsanto glyphosate plant, where they're going to also establish a billion-dollar dicamba plant. And they were bragging to us about their 2,000-foot buffer zones, which I thought was a little ironic. But they're important, because the precursors of those chemicals they're producing, including liquid chlorine, could kill people. So they have the nearest houses are over 2,000 feet away. So they take precautions, and I think they're appropriate, and they actually boasted about it.

"So I don't know what appropriate buffer zones are. When you're talking about the issues of pesticides, you're talking about acute toxicity and chronic low-level toxicity, and they're two very different issues. The Agriculture Department says that they can address the acute issues but not the chronic ones, and unfortunately those aren't being well addressed.

"Now, we used to use DDT in vast quantities. It got rid of aedes aegypti mosquitoes in Oahu, it was very successful, and it got rid of malaria in the southern part of the United States and in California. And it had very little acute toxicity. Kids used to run behind the DDT trucks and bathe in the mist. They thought it was kind of fun. It didn't taste bad, I guess. And it didn't have any acute toxicity. They didn't get sick from doing that.

"But in the long term, it did cause problems. It wiped out many of our predatory birds and eventually it was banned in the United States. But it took a long time for us to realize the dangers from that. And that was because the exposure wasn't acute, it was long-term chronic exposure. Not particularly to people, though it could cause cancer, but also to our environment and the other animals in our environment.

"A recent article in the New York Times was talking about this long-term, low-level exposure, and they compared this to what happened when we banned lead in gasoline. And they claimed, which I think there's some truth to that, that banning lead in gasoline raised the IQ of a generation by four to five points. There was that much effect. And there's some feeling that the low-level exposure to organophosphates, including chlorpyrifos, could do the same thing to a whole generation of our children now. It may be spotty around the country, but that's the claim, and I think it's substantiated.

"So this isn't about acute toxicity, I agree with my Vice Chair that most of the acute incidents are due to homeowners, and they should be chastened, if not informed, and maybe even punished. But I think we have to address the low-level, long-term exposure and address that. Whether buffer zones are the answer, I don't know, but I have to defer voting with reservations and vote up on this. Thank you."

Thank you."

Representative McKelvey's written remarks are as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, I stand in strong support of this measure.

"With this measure, we will finally bring the Hawaii airport system out of the stone age. It currently suffers from myopic mismanagement, stemming from an antiquated top-down approach, which is repressive to airport businesses, and sorely lacking in consideration of the travel needs of Hawaii residents, as well as our domestic and international visitors.

"It is a crying shame, Mr. Speaker, that even the bathrooms at a Hawaii's International Airport (PHNL) are worse than those in Nandi, Fiji (NFFN). Instead of presenting our airports as a robust visitor destination, and instead of proclaiming Hawaii to be the hub of the Pacific, visitors and residents alike are treated to a slap-dash piecemeal amalgam of crumbling buildings held together with duct-tape and baling wire. The sad thing is that we have potential to create an international airport on par with Dallas-Fort Worth (KDFW).

"With this Hawaii Airport Corporation, we can truly have an airport transit system on par with the best of our mainland sister cities. The Hawaii Airport Corporation will revitalize and serve as an essential management tool in an enhanced national network of air travel, we will become as modern and efficient as a Crescent City or Hayward airport."

Representative Say rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"A no vote once more, and, Mr. Speaker, may I just say a few words on both of these measures? The concern I have in the future is that there may be some unintended consequences when the State exempts itself from the rates, which will then be passed on to the general public at large, which is the ratepayers throughout the State of Hawaii. It is for these reasons that I am concerned, because we did that with the solar panels. How it did affect individual homeowners, but overall it affected the general ratepayers at large because rate increases occurred based on the savings by the individual homeowners. Thank you."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 848, HD 1, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO ENERGY MODERNIZATION AT THE UNIVERSITY OF HAWAII SYSTEM," passed Second Reading and was referred to the Committee on Higher Education, with Representative Say voting no, and with Representatives Gates and Ing being excused.

Representative Tupola rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, a no vote, brief comment. This bill seeks to bring transparency to limited service pregnancy centers by asking them to disseminate information about what services are provided here in Hawaii. But I feel like as it's written right now, it still doesn't bring transparency, because what's written and what's going to be mandated that's written is not what these service centers provide."

"And I appreciate the supporters of this bill willing to meet halfway, and they even gave an amendment that would allow, at least meet us middle-ground, and I hope that the Judiciary Committee can take into consideration the ACOG amendment. Planned Parenthood is also for that as well. I feel like, because there's very few limited pregnancy centers, that we should take into consideration that everyone's willing to meet in the middle ground, so we should get there. So, until that's fixed, a no vote. Thank you."

Representative Matsumoto rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Ward rose and asked that the Clerk record a no vote for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Cachola rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Har rose in opposition to the measure and asked that her written remarks be inserted in the Journal, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Har's written remarks are as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to House Bill 663, HD1. This bill requires all limited service pregnancy centers to accurately disclose availability and enrollment information for reproductive health services. It would further establish privacy and disclosure requirements for individual records and information. On its face, this bill seems innocuous. Upon further examination, however, there are clearly questions of constitutionality and whether this measure would violate the First Amendment. Specifically, my source of concern stems from Section (2) of the bill which states:

Every limited service pregnancy center in the State shall disseminate on-site to clients or patients the following written notice in English and in other languages as required by section 321C-3:

"Hawaii has public programs that provide immediate free or low-cost access to comprehensive health care services, including family planning services, all FDA-approved methods of contraception, prenatal care, and abortion for eligible women. To apply for medical insurance coverage that will cover the full range of family planning and prenatal care services, contact the appropriate Med-QUEST division eligibility office or apply on-line at mybenefits.hawaii.gov."

"Mr. Speaker, this bill would require a limited service pregnancy center to advertise abortion, which goes against their fundamental beliefs. Clearly, this bill is a violation of the First Amendment. While our citizens deserve access to accurate and fair information, it should not be to the detriment of another group having to surrender their most basic rights protected by the First Amendment. With all that is happening now at the federal level with the travel ban mired in religious prosecution, it is disheartening to know that my democratic colleagues would support such a measure.

"For these reasons, Mr. Speaker, I stand in opposition."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 663, HD 1, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO HEALTH," passed Second Reading and was referred to the Committee on Judiciary, with Representatives Cachola and Matsumoto voting aye with reservations, with Representatives Har, McDermott, Tupola and Ward voting no, and with Representatives Gates and Ing being excused.

Representative Ward rose and asked that the Clerk record a no vote for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Matsumoto rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Creagan rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Clearly I'm voting no on this issue. And maybe not for the reasons that everyone would think.

"I think medications are not the answer to life's problems. They're the last thing we should be doing when we go to address problems of life. And when I was being educated as a psychologist, and I have, in the last five or six years, 25 courses in psychology, I was told, don't medicalize life. They said, you're a doctor, you guys medicalize life all the time. You shouldn't medicalize life.

"Well, now psychologists are attempting to join the psychiatrists in medicalizing life, and I think that's wrong. I think psychiatrists medicalize life way too much, and that's why I didn't become a psychiatrist, I went to learn psychology and become a psychotherapist. And then I came here and I'm still learning quite a bit of psychotherapy here. And I need quite a bit after the last three years.

"Anyway, I spoke to, as many of you may have known, the Masters in Psychopharmacology, the pharmacy school is not admitting any new patients, and I spoke to the dean of the pharmacy school, Carolyn Ma, and she said they would never support re-instituting that program that had no rigor. But it was in a difficult position because she's not going to go after the people in her own faculty that started that program up. But she does not intend to ever start up a similar program.

"Now, when I was in the Peace Corps in the Marshall Islands, I lived on an island of 500 people for two years. No one ever took a pill there, for life. Never. There was no pill, and they led a very good life, a very healthy life, a very happy life. So I saw a society where a communal group of people, based in part on the center of their island, which is the religion, the Protestant Church, taught them to be moral people, taught them to live good lives, and they did that, without any medication. Even the ones that had some serious mental illnesses were treated kindly, appropriately, supported, and they needed no medication to lead good lives.

"So let's not medicalize life. Let's not allow people who don't have the training to hurt people. Yes, we want to help people with mental illness, but medication is not the answer, and medication from inadequately trained people is certainly not the answer. It's going to hurt people, not help people. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Kobayashi rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, in opposition, a few comments. I had not seen this bill when I voted on it in committee. It was still in drafting form, and this is the first time I've actually seen the bill. So, not having really gone through this bill thoroughly, I'd like to say at least the following.

"One of the basic concerns we had last year, when this bill was killed, was safety. We have, I believe, inadequate basic education amongst some of these people who will be prescribing medication. Many of the people do not have basic science education. Some of these people come from private universities which have very low entrance requirements. And also, even at the better schools, such as UH-Hilo Daniel Inouye School of Pharmacy, you have situations that are rather bizarre. For instance, the person in charge of the Masters of Science in Clinical Pharmacology has a specialty in veterinary pharmacology, and has never worked with human beings. That is the same program that has videotape lectures.

"Now, it is very difficult to begin understanding an area if you don't have the basic education. Secondly, when you go beyond that, clinical experience in this bill is fairly limited. It includes, among other things, at least 100 patients. If any of you have gone or been near a clinical program, you can see 100 patients in a matter of days, certainly less than a five-day work week. This compares to four years of regular residency by a M.D. psychiatrist. Less than a week, compared to four years. That's a real big difference.

"Seeing a patient, or administering medication to a patient in certain clinical settings, is not by itself good experience, because you may not see that patient ever again. So it is not just the quantity of clinical experience, it's the quality of clinical experience that matters.

"I can say other things about this bill. I have not really looked at what it says about the patients. A big concern last year was that there was no limitation as to the number and kinds of patients you could see. That is, children, people with existing medical and mental health problems, pregnant women, senior citizens, all of these have real specialized needs, and I think cannot be lumped into one general category.

"At any rate, I'm sure that I and other people will now have the benefit of reading the bill in its full form, and I hope that there will be further discussion later. Thank you."

Representative Cachola rose to disclose a potential conflict of interest, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, I want to declare a possible conflict of interest. I have two members of my family who are doctors, and have relatives who are also psychologists," and the Chair ruled, "no conflict."

Representative Cachola continued to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"I'll be voting no on this measure, because we are playing games with people's health. The way I look at it, the relatives who are psychologists, they don't want to dispense with any medicine at all. And I believe that they are not qualified to do it, and because of that, and in the interest of being cautious, we should, I am voting no on this measure. Thank you."

Representative LoPresti rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A no vote as well. I'd like to ask that the words of the honorable doctor from the Big Island and the honorable doctor from Diamond Head be entered into the Journal as if they were my own. Thank you," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative San Buenaventura rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In support. I am not the author of this bill. I have, as a lot of you already know, have been a practicing attorney for over 30 years. And in the beginning portion of my practice, I used to take court-appointed cases where I had to deal with a lot of the mentally ill, those who have had their children taken away, those who are in our system now. And I just want to point out, we are going to have to deal with the mentally ill one way or the other, either as a victim of a criminally insane person, in the homelessness, in our social services.

"The Big Island, especially East Hawaii, because that's what I know, I don't Oahu all that well, has had, for years, two psychiatrists. They were so overworked that they stopped accepting hospital privileges.

"Usually, hospital privileges, as a good doctor knows, is one of those privileges that every doctor wants, because it allows them to have patients in a hospital. But it requires an obligation. The obligation is you have to accept the people who don't have doctors in an emergency room situation, and you have to go there and you have to treat them. That's the obligation for the privilege of having hospital privileges. The psychiatrists on the Big Island are so overworked that they are willing to give up their hospital privileges because they can't keep up.

"We all know from the many discussions in the various forms of this bill has come through here, that psychotropic drugs, we have become experts, are very strong, and we should not give prescriptive privileges to those who do not know better. And I'm hoping that when this gets to conference that we fix those holes, that we require the kind of education that's more than the one that the Representative of Kapahulu referred to. That we require, at least, because these are psychologists, I'm going to assume that we are going to require that they have the Ph.D., that these are certified licensed psychologists to begin with, and require them to have the kind of certified pharmacology-type of medication before we do that, because we need to do something.

"Because one way or the other, we, as a society, are going to suffer for it, and we are suffering for it now, especially in our homeless situation, and if this is one way to solve it, at least minimally, at least some, then we should do it. Thank you."

Representative Ward rose to respond, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, I earlier said no, and I just wanted to make a comment by reinforcing the fact that if the homeless would accept medication, I would vote with the good Representative from the Big Island. However, 99% of the time they say thanks, but no thanks, I'm fine as I am. If we could get the homeless, who 50% to 60% are mentally ill or otherwise addicted and who need support, if the good Representative is correct, I will gladly flip my vote. Thank you."

Representative Yamane rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In opposition. Just very brief comments, Mr. Speaker. As somebody who has worked with the mentally ill, Mr. Speaker, as somebody who's licensed and has worked both in the hospital, in a psychiatric unit, in an emergency room, in the community, on the Big Island, and on the windward side of Oahu, Mr. Speaker, as somebody who's worked with CPS cases, and kids and adults, both in groups as well as domestic violence, as well as anger issue problems, Mr. Speaker, I stand in opposition. Mr. Speaker, if you want to solve the problem, hire more social workers. Thank you."

Representative Tupola rose to respond, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Still in opposition, second time. I just wanted to make a few comments. But it is true, though, that we have less and less psychologists, and so they are actually deferring to social workers, to kind of help out with this issue.

"And I would say that we should take even more caution in using this method to help the homeless, because the Tampa Bay shooting that happened in Florida was a direct result of a psychologist prescribing somebody medication in New Mexico, and that shooting was connected to that.

"So I think that, definitely something needs to happen. I would share that there is a Senate bill coming over that actually gives a care manager model, where a psychiatrist can do more work with less time, and that the patient actually doesn't have to go there for a second visit.

"So I think that psychiatrists are coming around, knowing that we have this deficit, and offering other solutions, and I would say that, because we have so much mental health issues, we should be cautious in the way we go about solving that, and not cut corners in areas like education or science background that may prove to be more harmful in the end. So thank you, Mr. Speaker."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 767, HD 1, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO PRESCRIPTIVE AUTHORITY FOR CERTAIN CLINICAL PSYCHOLOGISTS," passed Second Reading and was referred to the Committee on Consumer Protection & Commerce, with Representatives Fukumoto and Matsumoto voting aye with reservations, with Representatives Cachola, Creagan, Kobayashi, LoPresti, McDermott, Thielen, Tupola, Ward and Yamane voting no, and with Representatives Gates and Ing being excused.

Representative Ward rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, no vote, brief comment. And the brief comment is, if the tradition presently is that when this body wants to go to court, it has to have concurrence with the Senate, and when the Senate wants to go to court or hire legal counsel, it has to come and get concurrence with the House.

"My feeling, Mr. Speaker, that in this bicameral tradition, that if we break it we may have more difficulties as we have had with the Castagnetti case, in which case the Department of Hawaiian Home Lands, because it was within agreement, was able to be countered, if you will, or contested. In the event that there's a change of heart in one of the houses, that case would not have been adjudicated, and the $28 million that the Supreme Court said should be given to the Department of Hawaiian Home Lands would have been given. So because of those reasons, Mr. Speaker, I think we should move as a legislature, not as a non or unicameral legislature. Thank you."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 74, HD 1, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO THE EMPLOYMENT OF ATTORNEYS," passed Second Reading and was placed on the calendar for Third Reading, with Representative Ward voting no, and with Representative Belatti being excused.

Representative Saiki moved that the report of the Committee be adopted, and that H.B. No. 717, HD 1 pass Second Reading and be placed on the calendar for Third Reading, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Thielen rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, in opposition. Mr. Speaker, 236 is a bill that will prevent undocumented residents from being able to get their signature notarized. And Mr. Speaker, unfortunately, I believe it smells of Trumpism. And it really does, Mr. Speaker. We worked last session to get undocumented residents the ability to have limited driver's licenses, so they would have some form of identification.

"Now this bill joins the national hysteria against undocumented residents, and what it says is, if you need to have your signature notarized on a loan document, you're not going to be able to do it. Because we're allowing the notaries to not accept the limited purpose driver's license for the undocumented resident, we're taking away some of the ability for those people to function in our society.

"And I call it Trumpism, and I think that this bill should not come out, Mr. Speaker, for a third reading. It doesn't have another committee to go to. It just was single referral. But I would ask every member in this body to look at it seriously, because it is taking away the ability for an undocumented resident to function in our society. There are many documents that have to be notarized. They no longer will be able to get that. Thank you."

Representative Nishimoto rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In support. Mr. Speaker, the limited purpose driver's license does not comply with federal standards and cannot be used to board a plane or vote. Thank you."

Representative Ing rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"With reservations. What the last speaker said is absolutely true. That's the point of a driver's license, it's just to allow people that are undocumented, or everybody, to drive safely. It's for the safety of everyone.

"Currently these people are going to be driving, no matter what, they got to get to work. Let's make sure they're licensed and able to do it. It's not meant to comply with federal ID laws, it's not meant for travel. But it is meant for our safety, and also, because of the Real ID Act, it's crazy to try to redo your driver's license, or to re-up it. If anyone has gone recently, you need three forms of ID. So this allows a limited purpose license, if you already have an ID, that we can all get, it's not just for undocumented people. Thank you."

Representative Ward rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, in support. Mr. Speaker, this initiative is in the true spirit of what we passed a number of sessions ago, in that a driver's license is a driver's license. We went out of our way to make sure undocumented aliens could drive and could get a license and could get insurance for the public good. This is going above and beyond that, it has nothing to do with Trumpism, it has to do with the liberal bent of some individuals in this body by which this bill is in keeping with the integrity of this body of which we've passed.

"Having said that, Mr. Speaker, will there be others that will attempt to do it for other purposes in the future? I say no, and this is the way that it should be stopped. Thank you."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 717, HD 1, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO NOTARIES PUBLIC," passed Second Reading and was placed on the calendar for Third Reading, with Representative Ing voting aye with reservations, with Representative Thielen voting no, and with Representative Belatti being excused.

Representative Saiki moved that H.B. No. 717, HD 1 pass Third Reading, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Thielen rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, I'm rising to speak against the bill. I'm hoping to encourage some of the other members to take a look at what this bill does.

"We passed a law a while ago that allowed undocumented residents to be able to get driver's licenses. That made a lot of sense. So we have undocumented residents that now have driver's licenses that can drive with those licenses, to be able to produce them if they need to show that they are allowed to drive.

"Now we have a bill before us, House Bill 717, that says notaries public no longer can accept these limited purpose driver's licenses for identification purposes. Well you might think in here, well, what's the big deal, who needs to have a signature notarized? Well, let me tell you who does. The homeless disability checks need to be notarized. If someone goes in to get a small loan, their signature needs to be notarized.

"This bill takes a harsh approach to undocumented residents, and it follows what is being done by the Trump Administration who is going after, quite harshly, undocumented residents in the nation.

"This becomes a Trumpism bill, Mr. Speaker. I never thought I would see it come out of your side of the aisle. And it just doesn't make sense for us to go ahead and do that, to say to someone that is undocumented, but they're here, they're a resident, you no longer are going to have access to a disability check, because you can't have your signature notarized. If you need to go get a small loan, the notary won't be able to notarize your signature because of this bill that we're passing today.

"I was really disappointed to see this come back out because, to my mind, it just plays into what is going on in Washington, D.C. And I know it goes over to the Senate, and I would hope maybe that body would take a look and not want to be part of that approach to people that are within our country. Thank you."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and H.B. No. 717, HD 1, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO NOTARIES PUBLIC," passed Third Reading by a vote of 50 ayes to 1 no, with Representative Thielen voting no.

H.B. No. 796, HD 1:

On motion by Representative Saiki, seconded by Representative Evans and carried, H.B. No. 796, HD 1, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO THE ASSAULT OF A UTILITY WORKER," passed Third Reading by a vote of 51 ayes.

"For far too long these heroes of World War II have gone unrecognized for their bravery and sacrifice displayed during the battles in the Pacific. It saddens me, as a fellow veteran, that these brave Veterans have not been afforded the full benefits that they are morally entitled to. With this House bill, I feel we are only beginning to do right by these individuals who deserve a special place in our shared American history. I hereby urge that the United States Senate finally pass a measure to repay what was, for some, the ultimate sacrifice.

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Saiki moved that the report of the Committee be adopted, and that H.B. No. 574, HD 1 pass Second Reading and be referred to the Committee on Finance, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Thielen rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm rising to speak against the measure. Mr. Speaker, I wanted to just read a couple of sentences from Glover General Contractors. They're saying that House Bill 574 establishes a targeted excise tax on rock products and rock product dealers. This includes quarries, crushing companies, concrete companies, asphalt companies, pre-cast companies, distributors and retailers who sell rock products. And this same bill will benefit only one research entity, PISCES.

"And, by the way, the author of this letter does support PISCES, but does not support the unequal tax burden on this small group of rock product and rock product businesses.

"Then it goes on, one industry segment, and a large and important segment, will be responsible for an added tax and regulatory burden for one research entity. This is bad policy and makes for bad government.

"And then the other testimony from Hawaiian Cement, and I'm just going to read a short paragraph, Mr. Speaker. The vague and unproven benefits of the bill are far outweighed by its very real and quantifiable detriments. Construction sand and asphalt aggregates are already being imported into the State. If the cost to produce local aggregates continues to rise, a tipping point will soon be reached where it's more cost effective to import all aggregates into Hawaii, and another important local industry and its attendant jobs and tax revenue will be lost.

"I hope members will look hard at this, because I would not like to lose this industry or those jobs. I think they're important for our communities. Thank you."

Representative Har rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, I was going to be with reservations, but I was so compelled by the previous speaker that, please register a no vote. May I please adopt the words of the previous speaker into the Journal as if they were my own, and can I please request written comments into the Journal? Thank you," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative Har's written remarks are as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to House Bill 574, HD 1. The purpose of this measure is to establish an excise tax on basalt and cinder materials and trap rock sold in state, in order to fund research at the Pacific International Space Center. In effect, this bill would have the State tax local basalt producers to fund a private research group.

"Mr. Speaker, it is unsound public policy to tax a specific industry for the sole purpose of funding a singular research group, particularly since there is no nexus between the industry that is being taxed and the purpose for which the funding would go towards. One of the most disconcerting aspects of this bill is that it creates incentives to import basalt materials from out of state, which would decimate the local industry.

"I would like to refer to the words of one of the local industry's leaders, Jim Gomes.

[HB 574] imposes a tax on each article of basalt cinder and trap rock to be paid by the manufacturer or dealer for the privilege of conducting business in the state. This money would be used to fund research at the Pacific International Space Center. The research is to create basaltic concrete and other basalt based products like rebar and fiber with the premise that such research will develop markets that will benefit the state's quarry and mining industries. It paints a picture of Hawaii being a leader in development of cutting edge technology and aerospace development. The reality is that manufacturing would likely be more cost effective elsewhere and any real production would happen elsewhere as basalt fibers and rebar are already being manufactured in other parts of the world. Additionally, the benefit of manufacturing would not be to those currently manufacturing or dealing in the sale of basalt but by a third party whose business it is to manufacture these products. With this in mind, it sets poor precedent to fund a very specific sector of research by taxing a select group of businesses to which they have no business interests other than using the same base material. I ask why this non-profit was unable to maintain its NASA grant or obtain any other funding sources when its research is designed specifically for space exploration.

"It is clear from industry stakeholders, this bill unfairly taxes a particular industry for a purpose which is not related to the tax. Moreover, it would force basalt asphalt to be IMPORTED into our state, which not only has harmful ramifications for this industry, but environmental impacts as well. For these reasons, Mr. Speaker, I am in opposition to this bill."

Representative Tupola rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A no vote. Thank you, same request as the Representative from Kapolei. Concerns with two different cement companies and a rock company being in my district, but also, in addition to what she said, not sure if this is the way to go. Thank you," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative Tupola's written remarks are as follows:

"I have concerns with the bill considering that I have companies within my district that might be affected by the taxation of basalt cinder and trap rock. I need to consult with some of these companies and see how it would affect our community."

Representative McDermott rose and asked that the Clerk record a no vote for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Ward rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, with reservations, because there's hope in this industry. And I don't want to be an apologist, but it's well-intended, but it's misplaced in terms of its methodology.

"The rationale behind this is that PISCES always gets shortchanged, they never have enough money to do what a lot of us in the aerospace caucuses said, come on, deliver some commercial pay dirt, let us see that you guys are actually doing something and making something out of all this ideal moonscape that we've got on the Big Island.

"I think they've overreached with this one, Mr. Speaker. But the intention is to diversify the economy in one sense, but the other sense is to goose PISCES, if you will, into really developing a new industry.

"So, well-intended, but I think it needs some tweaking, and particularly we don't want to kill an industry as indicated by my colleague from Kailua. Thank you."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 574, HD 1, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO THE PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL SPACE CENTER FOR EXPLORATION SYSTEMS," passed Second Reading and was referred to the Committee on Finance, with Representative Ward voting aye with reservations, with Representatives Har, McDermott, Thielen and Tupola voting no, and with Representatives DeCoite, Holt and Souki being excused.

system in the United States assesses criminal penalties on ministerial infractions. This is long overdue. Thank you again, mahalo."

Representative McKelvey's written remarks are as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, I stand in strong support of this measure.

"HB 1184 is an important matter on so many fronts.

"The imposition of criminal penalties for violations of certain categories of airport rules has been excessive and disproportionate to the gravity of the acts committed. The current criminal penalty for certain airport offenses can also result in significantly harsh consequences. This measure seeks to penalize certain airport offenses with a civil penalty while still allowing for criminal penalties to be imposed for violations of airport security measures.

"In all other airports, throughout the United States, all these infractions are ministerial, but this is not the case in Hawaii, Mr. Speaker.

"Due to the heavy-handedness of DOTA regulatory authority under Haw. Rev. Stat. Chapter 261, pilots, airplane owners, and airport users are unfairly subjected to persecution and prosecution by the patriarchal administration of citations and fees. When citations are issued for using plastic trash cans instead of metal ones, pilots are forced to contest these actions in criminal courts and retain criminal defense counsel, like Michael Green.

"The DOTA says that it needs criminal sanctions of administrative violations in order to stop illegal businesses in T-hangers. If that is the case, then how can the power exist to treat as criminal offenses, violations of a simple rental agreement.

"But the biggest constitutional concern is administrative infractions are criminalized, not by this legislative body, but rather by an executive agencies' administrative rules. This violates a fundamental constitutional separation of powers. This body has the sole authority and responsibility to define and criminalize activities. If nothing else, we need to move HB 1184 to end this hi-jacking of the legislative authority, and prevent the uncontrollable spread of undue usurpation of executive branch authority by the DOTA."

Representative Tupola rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Strong support, same issue. In our airport, the criminal penalty for the small infractions is over the top, so I appreciate this bill. Thank you."

I think it's probably not a serious thing, but the more that we give away fee-setting to people, the more we end up with things like now where the gas tax, the mileage tax and all these other taxes get kind of out of control and out of our hand, so this is a slippery slope that I just want to caution our members on. Representative Thielen rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm rising to cast a no vote, and very short comments. This is called the Airbnb bill, or similar bill. The protection in the bill, unfortunately, is very weak. Usually it'll be an out-of-state owner that is merely going to have to tick a box that says, by accepting the terms of service from an entity like Airbnb, I agree and attest that I have reviewed all applicable laws and regulations, and that my listing is in compliance.

"That box will be ticked, and that box will be illegal, and that operation will be illegal, and the bill, unfortunately, doesn't have the teeth or the money to allow the county to go after it, and to allow the neighborhood to go after these illegal operations. Because we need that housing, Mr. Speaker, we need it for our local people. And these out-of-state owners are taking away the housing from our residents. Thank you."

Representative Onishi rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, in strong support, brief comments. In the bill, one of the issues that was discussed previously in terms of, well, not previously, but in terms of the Governor's veto, was the fact that the counties did not have, or said they did not have, resources in order to address this problem, which is a county zoning and permitting problem, not a state problem, in terms of these unlicensed or unregistered usages.

"So in the bill, if I read it correctly, and I wrote the bill, it gives each county $1 million in order for them to address this problem. So I think it's not correct that they're saying that this bill does not provide the counties the ability to go after the owners of these properties that are not registered with the county for the correct use. So, again, I stand in strong support."

Representative Yamane rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, I'm rising in opposition on Stand. Com. Report Number 595, HB 462. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of this bill, as stated in the bill, is to require the Department of Public Safety to solicit proposals for the construction of a 3,000 bed correctional facility in Waiawa.

"Mr. Speaker, this ongoing process to find space for inmates has been ongoing with several administrations looking at it. It has been stated that this site probably is very unsuitable for any expansions, specifically because of the lack of infrastructure, as well as, if anybody knows the area, there are no public bus routes except for one circular system in the lower part of Waipio.

"Mr. Speaker, in opposition also because in this measure it does not require any public input or any consultation with the community, and that has not been done at this point, but it requires them to start soliciting public-private partnerships for the development of this second building.

"Mr. Speaker, another concerning part of this measure also states that the Department of Public Safety should suspend the environmental impact statements on the current process for the looking of a relocation site. Mr. Speaker, as all of you know, we've been looking at this. Several sites have been looked at as potential sites. Mr. Speaker, there are areas throughout our islands that actually legislators have actually proposed or want it within their designated area. Mr. Speaker, there's also sites, for example, the state laboratory that has infrastructure and the size and space capacity to develop a 3,000 bed site.

"So with these concerns, Mr. Speaker, with the lack of community public input, with the lack of and stopping the environmental impact process, I am in opposition. Thank you."

Representative Lowen rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A no vote also, mainly because we shouldn't use a statute to exempt projects from Chapter 343, our environmental review law. If it merits an exemption, there's a process already existing that can be used."

Representative Fukumoto rose and asked that the Clerk record a no vote for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Tupola rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"With reservations, Mr. Speaker. Same comments as the Representative from Maui. Hopefully some of this gets to be changed, but currently at Waiawa they have to take out some of the laundry and the other things away from there because there's not currently enough sewage and infrastructure for them to do what they need to do. So, concerns about the EIS as well. Thank you."

Representative Matsumoto rose and asked that the Clerk record a no vote for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Takayama rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, in support. Just want to mention that this bill does not propose any exemption at all from the current EIS process. What it simply does is ask that the site selection process for OCCC be suspended until the site selection group makes a more thorough search of alternative sites for OCCC, including sites that are as small as four-and-a-half acres.

"The current site selection process only considered lots that were more than 20 acres in size. To me, this opens to possible challenge the EIS process for its lack of consideration of possible alternative sites for OCCC. So Mr. Speaker, directly contrary to claims that this bill proposes bypassing of the EIS process, in fact, Mr. Speaker, it makes it more stringent and requires the site selection process to fully follow the requirements of the EIS process for a new OCCC. Thank you."

Representative Evans rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, I stand in strong support. I request the words of the previous speaker as my own," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

We are already, those that are taking opioids, have to kind of stringently go through some procedures that others may not be aware of already, and this may prove to be very difficult to those that are already on prescription, and may actually affect our lives greatly. So, in opposition. Thank you, sir."

Representative San Buenaventura rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Strong reservations. Unless there is a carve-out for rural areas where there are no pharmacies that accept all insurances, as well as sufficient physicians, my constituents are going to be greatly harmed by this bill. Thank you."

Representative Lowen rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Thank you, just reservations. I appreciate the intent of the bill, and I know that something has to be done to address the issues in downtown Hilo and Banyan Drive, and there's a couple other vehicles. This one's just very broad, it doesn't limit it to just that area, and it takes a lot of county oversight out of the process and I don't think we've sufficiently heard from the counties yet, this bill has sort of escaped their notice, maybe, so just slight reservations."

Representative Tupola rose in opposition to the measure and asked that her written remarks be inserted in the Journal, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Johanson rose in opposition to the measure and asked that his written remarks be inserted in the Journal, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Johanson's written remarks are as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to HB 349, HD 1. While I recognize that rail has the potential to be a much needed transportation alternative for the residents of my district and the island of Oahu, I am concerned about the mechanism of funding rail that the bill uses. As this is ultimately a county project, I would like to see the county take more responsibility for the financing of the project. With the cost of living already high in Hawaii, making a functional 12.5% increase on the general excise tax remain for an additional 30 years is too steep a cost to pay for working families.

"I also would like to see more transparency from HART and the City & County of Honolulu on the budget shortfalls for the project, and cannot give a blank check to HART without reasonable assurances that the project will be better managed. I cannot continue to countenance the massive cost overruns and delays in deliverables by supporting this bill as presently drafted. I also believe that HART and the City & County of Honolulu have an obligation to fully explore all possible alternative financing mechanisms and plans, including public-private partnerships and route and station modifications. Because I do not see action to overcome these deficiencies, I cannot support this bill."

Representative Lee rose in support of the measure with reservations and asked that his written remarks be inserted in the Journal, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Lee's written remarks are as follows:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Two years ago I opposed the extension of the GET to fill the rail project deficit. As I expressed at the time, I support public transit to provide an alternative that will help our next generation live and work without having to bear the cost of a car, insurance, gas, and all the other things that significantly raise the cost of living here on Oahu. However, I felt that what we were being told by rail officials wasn't true. In retrospect, it turns out I was right.

"Today I still absolutely support meaningful public transit. Noting some of the concerns now being raised in the community, I'll be voting with reservations until we get the real answers about the future of this project from the city."

Representative Har rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

Representative Fukumoto's written remarks are as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, I rise with reservations.

"The bill would replace the State's vehicle weight tax with a value tax. I completely support reducing or eliminating the weight tax. However, it's still unclear whether a value tax would be a net tax increase to my constituents. If so, I can't support it and won't support any increases to motor vehicle taxes. I appreciate that the purpose of the measure is to find a new way to calculate taxes to create a more fair system, and I look forward to hearing more about the bill as it moves through the legislative process. However, at this time, I am voting with reservations. Should the legislative process reveal that this measure will result in higher taxes, I will be voting no. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Ward rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to 785, and actually the remarks will probably cover 784, 783, because they're all small business killers. The umbrella categories, they're all small business killers because they're highly unaffordable. But let me speak to the last one, which is regarding to workers' comp.

"Mr. Speaker, there are 3,500 physicians in the State of Hawaii. Sixty, repeat, 60, are total physicians that give workers' comp services. In other words, all the other doctors decided not to do it. This bill will even make that less, if it passes. Therefore, if we want to have no more doctors for workers' compensation, this is a great bill. But if we want to keep our doctors who do workers' comp, because their charges are a little bit different than Longs and all the other pharmacies, there's a difference. Particularly those people who live in the rural areas, and the accessibility is the issue, not the cost.

"So, Mr. Speaker, I think this bill needs a lot of re-thinking, and particularly for small business, particularly for rural areas that have workers' comp claims. Thank you."

Representative LoPresti rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Just reservations. I'd like to see the DLIR's report and recommendation this summer. They're going to be looking at workers' comp reimbursements as I understand it, which certainly plays a key role in the prices that are charged, exorbitant or not, for dispensing medicines.

"I would just personally like to see the outcome of that report, what their recommendations are for addressing workers' compensation for those few doctors who take those cases, and then look at this issue again. Thank you."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. "Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A no vote, and just some brief remarks. Thank you. Mr. Speaker, the bill provides that the court can appoint one qualified examiner instead of three to evaluate a criminal defendant's fitness to proceed, or regaining fitness to proceed.

"The concern with this is that Hawaii has really had, I think, the best record of any state in the nation by requiring three examiners, and it's worked well. There've been no civil lawsuits over any erroneous court decisions with regard to forensic mental health evaluations, and Hawaii's, I guess model, is recommended as the best practice for the nation. I don't like to see us change that and go down to just one examiner, because there can be some difficulties and misinterpretations that three examiners prevent that from happening. Thank you."

"With reservations, Mr. Speaker. Representative McDermott rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Afternoon, Mr. Speaker. I stand in support of this measure. I think it doesn't go far enough. The bill talks about transparency. Some might say it's a cheap political shot, but I would never say that. I think that this is just to provide transparency.

"If you look at line 13, it says the highest. The Legislature finds that to ensure transparency, a presidential candidate once demanded that the State of Hawaii produce a birth certificate. Well, it was more than one candidate, it was many candidates, and the State of Hawaii never did produce a birth certificate. Next sentence, it's a non sequitur. The State of Hawaii will now require presidential candidates to produce tax returns. That makes no sense.

"But, in the spirit of transparency, I would like to see this bill beefed up. I'd like to see college transcripts. I'd like to see college financial aid applications to see if a potential candidate got money as a foreign student. I'd like to see their passport. Where did these people go in their high school and college years? Did they go to the Middle East? I'd like to see that, of course, for transparency purposes, not political purposes, Mr. Speaker. Let's do a background check. Let's go all the way to high school. See if they used drugs or even sold drugs. Maybe a member of the Choom Gang. Who knows?

"But we need transparency, Mr. Speaker. That's why this is such a wonderful bill. It has my full and whole-hearted support, and I thank you for your time, sir."

Representative Ward rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, I have a no vote. As my colleague has just indicated, he forgot a transcript for the health of the person, or the religion of the person. But that brings me to the reason why I'm standing, because there's no constitutional test of religion. There shall be no religious test for any office holder. That's the U.S. Constitution.

"So when we start piling on things such as tax returns, condition of their health, even with tongue in cheek, where they've traveled, what are some of the things that they've done in the past, did they do drugs, are they of psychiatric. The point is, this is a slippery slope, it probably only pokes the fingers in a particular individual's eyes.

"Having said that, Mr. Speaker, I would suggest that we become a little more user-friendly with our administration, because we're going to have at least four years, if not eight years, of the administration. This is not going to go over well in Washington, D.C. Having said that, Mr. Speaker, a no vote, please. Thank you."

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In opposition. I think with this I'm concerned because it targets low-income families. The responsible agency said that they wouldn't be able to report back if and how it affected small businesses or low-income families.

"But on top of it, I ask to see AT&T, Sprint and Verizon's annual fees that were acquired for pre-paid cellular service, and if we are even one-fiftieth of what their annual income, if we are even close to that, which we're not sure, we would only generate about $27,000 a year.

"And again, currently the fund is actually in a surplus, and in 2009, the Federal Communications Commission reported that we were one of 10 states that actually use this fund to balance our state budget, because it was in a surplus, a $16 million surplus.

"So in general I oppose all new taxes and fees, but especially one that we're not really sure how it's going to affect everyone, and we're not sure how much it's going to collect. Thank you."

"I'd like to submit written comments in strong support."

Representative Cachola's written remarks are as follows:

"Currently, most Filipino veterans of World War II who are living here in Hawaii are in their 90s. These brave Filipino soldiers were young men when they fought side-by-side with U.S. armed forces in the Pacific Theatre. They played a vital role in the Allied victory and helped to bring about an end to World War II.

"Now in their twilight years, the numbers of these Filipino veterans are slowly dwindling, and thoughts have turned to where their final resting place will be. They have petitioned relatives to join them in Hawaii, but due to decades of delays, veterans have passed away without family members at their side.

"The dying wish of some Filipino veterans was to have their remains returned to the Philippines for burial with their families. This body has provided for several measures to honor their final wishes, the most recent being House Concurrent Resolution No. 23, which was adopted by the Legislature in 2016.

"House Concurrent Resolution No. 23 requested Congress to amend federal law that would allow funds to bury eligible Filipino-American veterans of World War II in a federal or state veterans' cemetery to instead be used to transport their remains to the Philippines and for burial services in their homeland.

"However, as of this date, Congress has yet to take any action on this measure.

"Burial grants for Filipino veterans are statutorily established under Hawaii Revised Statutes Chapter 363, but funding for the provision of these grants has been non-existent.

"HB 1420, HD 1 appropriates funds to the Office of Veterans Services for the provision of burial grants for World War II Filipino-American veterans. For this measure to take effect, federal funds must be available and they also must be eligible Filipino-American veterans of World War II living in the State.

"I urge my colleagues to join me in voting in support of HB 1420, HD 1 and recognizing the importance of these veterans' sacrifices. Let us honor their final wishes of being buried in their homeland where many of these veterans only have family members who reside in the Philippines."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. This bill, relating to public lands, that identifies areas of commercial, industrial, resort and hotel parcels in need of revitalization and it establishes guidelines for the redevelopment of those parcels, and then gives powers and duties to the planning committees and modifies public land lease restrictions, Mr. Speaker, that smells and sounds like the old public land development corporation, the PLDC, on a smaller basis.

"Mr. Speaker, with reservations and a brief comment. Mr. Speaker, we recently had an outbreak of dengue fever. This bill would have the DOH put plants out for it wherever there's a public planting that doesn't have capacities for breeding mosquitoes.

"The testimony in the Finance Committee, however, said it's not the plant, it's the person. It's all about maintenance. So you can have any plant, as they said, is actually conducive to mosquito breeding, if you don't cut it, you don't trim it, you don't cull it out, it's a problem.

"So I would like to see this modified to the degree that it acknowledges that maintenance is the issue, which is obviously costly. But this list would be well-intended if it included that requirement within it. Thank you."

We all know that the youth are our future and that makes it of that much more important to ensure they grow up to be industrious members of our society. Therefore, we should invest in programs that have the experienced expertise and relationship building skills to address these serious concerns. Spending an incredibly high amount on incarcerating the young people of our community has not proved to be effective, and this would allow us to direct our state funds to a more positive and constructive solution."

"Mr. Speaker, I want to rise for a few comments in opposition to this bill. We've had no-fault divorce for quite some time, and it seems to be working, except this one is an automatic TRO for anyone who files or otherwise gets close to a separation.

"I think it prevents a friendly, peaceful divorce because it puts everybody's shields up, and as was pointed out by one Representative from Manoa, he noted that this amount of monies that can only be released are for lawyers, so he said it was a full employment bill for lawyers.

"But to me, it assumes that there's going to be a polemical, adversarial, really knock-down, drag-'em-out, and I don't think that's what we should, at a policy level, be connoting that if you're going to get a divorce, you're going to be enemies.

"There should be a way to allow it to be proceeding peacefully, but this one sets it up to where there's confrontation built into the system, and I'm not sure that that's a good policy. For that reason, I'll be voting no. Thank you."

Representative Cullen's written remarks in support of the measure are as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, I stand in strong support of this measure. Within our district and through numerous bills introduced this session, we are informed of the many concerns regarding homeowners' associations powers within planned communities. This measure is designed to study the issues that arise when contractually agreed-upon services are misunderstood and when homeowners' associations overstep their governance boundaries. Regulation of homeowners' associations, as well as mediation and arbitration between homeowners and their homeowners' association, is an area for which the State has little purview. This study should bring to light the nature of specific issues of economic non-performance and governance in order for the state auditor to make specific solutions-oriented policy recommendations for both the short and long-term, which may address the issues in many planned communities."

"Mr. Speaker, in strong support of this measure. In an ever-increasing and complicated technology-driven world, we need measures such as HB 814 to protect our citizen's online personal accounts. HB 814 would give protections to employees and students, allowing them to decide who has access to accounts and not the other way around. This is increasingly important when you take into account firewalls and networks that collect data and information from those who use them. Citizens should feel comfortable utilizing the internet to interact without facing consequences or judgements; they should also feel confident that their account information and data is being kept secure and not utilized for any unauthorized reason. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

"Mr. Speaker, in opposition, brief comment. Mr. Speaker, I had the honor of introducing a couple of first responders in the balcony two or three days ago. They made it very clear to me that this bill is not as draconian as people are making it out to be.

"Basically, it's for those people who live so far away from a fire hydrant that they should have sprinklers for their own well-being. So this is not actually a good bill for those people who are not required who are jeopardizing their lives.

"So the point is, the firemen think this is a very good way of taking responsibilities which are theirs, and they don't do it very often, it's very few people who say you've got to put in a fire sprinkler system.

"So for the sake of what they have said and what they do, and what my colleague has just noted, I have a no vote coming on that one. Thank you."

Representative Tupola rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Rising in support. On January 7th, I was able to participate in what they call a sobriety checkpoint. This is with Mothers Against Drunk Driving and the HPD, and they had it in the location where somebody died. So four years ago in our community, a teen was killed. The sobriety checkpoint was there at that point and actually, that night, three more people driving under the influence were caught that night.

"I feel like this is a step in the right direction. Some people had concerns that ignition interlock would be repealed. The first-time offenders will still possibly have to do ignition interlock, which could cost about $900, because you're required to put it into your car. It's about $90 a month for a whole year.

"But what this continuous alcohol monitoring device does is the offender would actually have to wear it on their ankle for 90 days, and it would measure their alcohol blood levels, because it's meant to curb behavior. And I feel like in my community, because dangerous driving and DUIs happening on Farrington Highway and throughout our community plague our community members and families.

"I really feel like this is a step in a right direction, and I strongly support us making sure that repeat offenders not only have ignition interlock, but also have this continuous alcohol monitoring device to help to curb the behavior that's really destroying a lot of families and has a lot of unintended consequences when people decide that driving under the influence is okay. So thank you, Mr. Speaker."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 306, HD 2, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO CONTINUOUS ALCOHOL MONITORING FOR REPEAT OFFENDERS," passed Third Reading by a vote of 50 ayes, with Representative Ichiyama being excused.

"Mr. Speaker, strong support, comments in the Journal, please."

Representative Ward's written remarks are as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this bill. As most of you know, when leaving a tour of duty with the armed forces, injuries typically go along with the individual. Some of these injuries are visible, some aren't. I believe that with this designation we are not only recognizing the sacrifices of our veterans, but this also serves as an effective tool during a medical emergency, or other instances when an individual's medical history should be consulted."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 420, HD 2, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO VETERANS," passed Third Reading by a vote of 50 ayes, and with Representative Ichiyama being excused.

Representative Saiki moved that the report of the Committee be adopted, and that H.B. No. 998, HD 2 pass Third Reading, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Thielen rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm rising in support of this measure, but I'd like to make some comments about it. I'm hoping that we'll have some consideration in relation to these comments when the bill moves forward to the Senate. This bill opens up half the State's existing bottomfish restricted fishing areas, and these are areas that are currently off-limits to bottomfishing.

"We need basic rules in place to protect our fisheries. The proponents of the bill and actually the existing law states that we have federal rules already in place that are good enough to protect our fisheries. The problem is, we may not. In the coming months, the coming years.

"The Federal Government sets an annual catch limit for bottomfish species, and that's a total limit on the number of bottomfish that can be caught each year. Once you hit that number, there's no more bottomfishing that year. That's federal, federal regs. And it's a conservative number set yearly by the Western Pacific Regional Fishery Management Council. The council sets an annual catch limit after reviewing science provided by NOAA and after hearing from stakeholders. NOAA, which may be downsized or may be dismantled.

"The council's rules then have to be approved by the secretary of commerce and make it through the federal rule-making process. So the council's rules are enforced by NOAA and the DLNR as well, which helps out where we have directed to do it so. The DLNR, by the way, is a voting member on the council.

"Okay, that process works well, and the bill makes sense. But I ask some questions of the members. What happens if the new federal administration is directed to dismantle these restrictions? What if the secretary of commerce starts refusing to approve new annual catch limits? What happens if NOAA is downsized or dismantled? And then in the future, Mr. Speaker, Hawaii's fisheries could have very little protection left. Our bottomfish stocks could be completely fished out, and the ecosystem could be devastated for future generations.

"So I think what we could do, and I hope this happens as this bill moves forward on the Senate side, we should specify in this bill that if a new federal annual catch limit is not set, Hawaii will re-use the previous annual limit until a new one can be established. Therefore, we're protecting our resource.

"We should also make sure that we have the ability to take over on the state level for the work that NOAA and the Western Pacific Regional Fishery Management Council currently do on the national level, both for NOAA's good work gathering strong scientific evidence and for the council's work at taking that evidence and stakeholder input to set good yearly limits.

"Mr. Speaker, today we cannot rely on the Federal Government to do this for us anymore. So as these kinds of measures move forward, we've got to make sure that we as a state are putting in place laws that will protect our natural resources. This is an excellent bill to do that, and I would ask, on the Senate side or in conference committee, we put those protections in, because we all know that it's a different situation today, and one where the administration is not showing that it cares that much for protecting our natural resources. Thank you."

Representative Ward rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Strong support, comments into the Journal, please."

Representative Ward's written remarks are as follows:

- "BRFA: Brief History of Bottomfishing Restricted Fishing Areas
 "BF (bottomfish) or Deep 7: Includes onaga, opakapaka, and ehū
 1998: State established 19 BRFA in response to federal concern of potential overfishing
 Study commissioned to quantify biomass of Deep 7 to establish baseline from which to quantify overfishing
 Report to be provided within 5 years
 2005: Federal determination that additional reduction required
 19 BRFA reduced to 12; but, spatial area increased
 2007: Federal determination that further mortality rate reduction required
 Deep 7 fishing "season" initiated. Total allowable catch limit (by weight) established. Stop fishing when limit achieved = annual catch limit (ACL)
 2012: DLNR considered reducing number of BRFA from 12 to 6. Formal processing of a change ceased with change in the administration
 2013: Study published. Insufficient metrics from which to scientifically manage; findings inconclusive
 2015: HFACT (Hawaii Fishermen's Alliance for Conservation and Tradition) formally petitioned DLNR to disestablish BRFA
 2016: DLNR response to petition: "...intend to continue... discussion on the future of the State's bottomfish management scheme ... this year."
 (Later) Informal discussion with DLNR staff indicates the current position on BRFA to be that there will be change if scientific basis warrants

"REMARKS

1. Federal ACL management regime ensures Deep 7 fishery not overfished = sustainable Deep 7 fishing for generations to come.
2. BRFA superfluous to ACL and, after 18 years, absent of peer reviewed scientific evidence that supports retention of BRFA
3. BRFA negatively distort stock assessment of Deep 7 fishery. (Absence of data precludes inclusion of BRFA Deep 7 stock in Deep 7 stock assessment.)
4. Western Pacific Fishery Management Council (WESPAC) and WESPAC SSC (Science and Statistical Committee) support disestablishment of BRFA
5. BRFA program absent:
 - a. A management plan
 - b. Metrics / metrics baseline from which to make management decisions
 - c. Enforcement

"BOTTOM LINE

"We should all support HB 998, which states that any rule restricting fishing of bottomfish ...shall include citation to peer-reviewed scientific evidence that establishes the environmental necessity of the rule. Any rule that does not comply with this section shall be void.

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Tokioka rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In strong support. I'd like to thank the Chair of Ocean, Marine Resources, & Hawaiian Affairs for hearing the bill and addressing some of the concerns that came up in the committee. Thank you very much."

Representative Tupola rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In strong support, permission to enter comments in the Journal."

Representative Tupola's written remarks are as follows:

"I support this bill and wanted to highlight some of the testimony submitted by fishermen for the record.

The Hunting, Farming and Fishing Association strongly supports the intent of the bill as proposed in the original version of the bill, but not as amended in HD1. The bottom fishermen have tackled with these closers for over a decade and have exhausted all efforts with DLNR to open areas that should not have been closed. The original version of this bill was altered and needs to be reverted back to its original version. The excerpt below is taken from Uncle Roy (Bottom Fisherman). We, the hunting, farming and fishing association, stand alongside the bottom fishing community.

I humbly request that the committee review HB998HD1 as amended by the House Committee on OMH as it affirms the failure of the DLNR to continue the restriction the fishing for deep 7 bottomfish with the BRFA, but contradicts its findings by allowing all but six BRFA to remain closed absent a "validated scientific basis." HB998HD1 as amended by the House Committee on OMH acknowledges that the DLNR has failed to establish a "validated scientific basis" to support the BRFA.

HB998HD1 Section 1, paragraph 2 states: "The legislature further finds that the bottomfish that are subject to fishing regulations in the Hawaii Administrative Rules are no longer being overfished, and that the department of land and natural resources has not established a validated scientific basis upon which to continue restricting the fishing of bottomfish."

HB998HD1 Section 1, paragraph 3 states: "The purpose of this Act is to direct the Division of Aquatic Resources to allow fishing in six of the bottomfish restricted fishing areas, where bottomfish is currently prohibited, and to ensure that regulations on the fishing of bottomfish are supported by scientific evidence."

This bill is predicated on using the science as biological basis for justifying management measures. For this to hold true, Paragraph 3 cannot call for the removal of only 6 BRFA because the "DLNR has not established a validated scientific basis upon which to continue restricting the fishing of bottomfish." Therefore, all BRFA should be removed.

HB998HD1 Section 2 states: "The Department of natural Resources shall allow bottomfish fishing in six of the existing bottomfish restricted fishing areas where the restriction is not supported by scientific evidence of environmental necessity. The Department shall also amend its rules on "Bottomfish Management" to include scientific information of environmental necessity as one of the criteria used to restrict a fishing area."

Please note that in the first sentence the term "scientific evidence" is used and the second sentence only requires "scientific information." The standards for scientific evidence are generally based on the results of statistical analysis, the strength of scientific controls and peer review. To simply require "scientific information" fails to rise to the level of justification and review required by scientific evidence.

The broad term "environmental necessity" with the exception of those essential for the deep 7 was not a criterion for the creation of the BRFA that specifically addressed a federal statute of spawning potential ratio (SPR). The SPR was superseded by annual catch limit (ACL) and a component in the stock assessment and peer reviewed process used in the establishment of the annual catch limit. To include such language in the bottomfish management rule ill-considered as it could change the rationale in creating the BRFA.

"Thank you."

Representative Ward rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Same concern, Mr. Speaker, with reservations. It's good to be able to negotiate a good contract. The art of the deal is really important, because the cash cow that we have with the concessions at the airport is a really, really big income.

"The only thing is, how do we prevent this from cronyism and other deal-making which would be under the table? So it's good, but it doesn't have any safeguards, if you will, in case it gets out of hand. Thank you."

Representative Tupola rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"In strong support. Just a quick comment. Last year we did pass Act 132, and HHFDC did testify that because we just implemented that and it was a similar revolving fund, that they're actually in the process of doing the rulemaking, just submitted it, and so this is just duplicative. And I think as it moves forward that we should consider that. Thank you."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. Representative LoPresti rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"In support, Mr. Speaker. I support it, however, my support is conditional. It's conditional, I'll get to the condition. I want to share with everyone the evolution of my thoughts on this bill. Because at first when I heard about it, I thought it was a noble idea that some of the workers would willingly take a pay cut to hopefully result in cheaper houses.

"But shortly thereafter I began to think, since when did labor unions begin to push for free-market solutions by reducing the pay of their workforce? I thought that was kind of strange, and it would result in a direct increase in the profits for the rich developers and the general contractors, perhaps.

"So I had some conversations, and at Finance we heard this bill and I brought up this concern, and I was happy to hear that the labor unions were in discussions with those other parties to see that they, too, would take some sort of a pay cut.

"So my support's conditional in the sense that I don't think we should be putting workers in a situation where, they're already in a situation where they're building units they can't afford, and unless they get a commitment that the developers and the contractors are all going to take a cut, too, I don't think we should support something that's going to just result in them getting paid less to do the same work.

"The free market in Hawaii has failed to produce real affordable housing, genuine affordable housing, and I don't think the solution is to just trust that the wealthy guys are going to do what's right by us, and what's right by the people. This is the people's house, and I think we ought to be having stronger requirements on affordable housing, that they shall do this, and they shall do that, instead of just, again, trying a failed free-market approach on this. We need to be more aggressive. Thank you."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 1179, HD 2, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO HOUSING," passed Third Reading by a vote of 50 ayes, with Representative Ichiyama being excused.

Representative Ward rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Same request, with reservations. And Mr. Speaker, there's got to be a better way to finance space travel than the way that this one is proposing. It's going to increase the cost of the housing, it's just not a good idea. Thank you."

Representative Tupola rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"With reservations. I'm confused. When I read through this bill, I know it changed quite a few times, and in this last version it changes one section that has electronic monitoring devices from house arrest, and I think one other thing down to line four, which now means all alternative programs can use this.

"If we're trying to reduce the prison population, and we're trying to use perhaps the GPS system to track people where they're in alternative programs but not actually in prison, then we should probably specify that. But as of right now, I don't really know what the intent of this bill is, so I just have reservations. Thank you."

Representative Har rose in support of the measure with reservations and asked that her written remarks be inserted in the Journal, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Har's written remarks are as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, I rise with strong reservations on HB 1246, HD 2. HB 1246 seeks to alleviate our state's overcrowding in prisons by authorizing electronic monitoring and surveillance of offenders in programs that offer alternatives to incarceration. While I wish to address the problems our prisons face, I have very serious concerns with this bill.

"The issue that I have with this bill stems from the lack of electronic monitoring while a criminal offender is on house arrest. Subsection (d) (1) of this measure proposes one form of alternative programs to include 'home detention, curfew' while striking out electronic monitoring or surveillance. Without electronic monitoring in conjunction with home arrest, public safety has no way of knowing whether the offender is complying with the terms of the house arrest. Therefore, in essence, this section is tantamount to an offender being released on recognizance and NOT being incarcerated on house arrest.

"While overcrowding in our prisons is an issue, the safety of our public is paramount, so without electronic monitoring in conjunction with house arrest, there is no assurance that the offender is accountable. Accordingly, I vote with strong reservations on this measure."

Representative Matsumoto rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. "Mr. Speaker, please record my reservations. I would like to express my appreciation for the Finance Chair for taking out all references to Waiiwa prison. Thank you."

Representative Fukumoto rose in support of the measure with reservations and asked that the remarks of Representative Yamane be entered into the Journal as her own, and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative Takayama rose in support of the measure and asked that his written remarks be inserted in the Journal, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Takayama's written remarks are as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, no one wants to build prisons and jails—they're expensive, costly to operate, and nobody wants to live near them. There is only one reason to build them: when we decide to lock up people, we're responsible for treating them humanely and giving them a chance to return to society as productive, law-abiding citizens. We're failing that responsibility.

"The newest correctional facility in Hawaii opened at Halawa nearly 30 years ago, when our inmate count was about 2,400. Since then, our incarcerated population has more than doubled, to about 6,000. Many other states accelerated prison construction to accommodate 'tough on crime' initiatives in the 1990s that swelled inmate populations, but Hawaii never did that.

"Hawaii instead copes by cramming three or four inmates into cells meant for two, shipping 1,400 inmates to a privately-run Arizona prison at a cost of more than $40 million a year, and renting about 160 cells in the Honolulu Federal Detention Center at a cost of about $120 per person per day.

"HB 462 proposes to explore the possibility of bringing back the Arizona inmates and also solve the need to replace the outdated Oahu Community Correctional Center (OCCC) by moving it out of Kalihi into a larger facility.

"HB 462 suggests the state Department of Public Safety obtain cost estimates for building a new correctional facility that can accommodate the 1,100 inmates at Halawa Correctional Facility plus those in Arizona. This would enable OCCC to move into the vacated Halawa Correctional Facility.

"The new facility would be designed to house the full range of inmates, from maximum security to minimum or community custody levels. Housing units would reflect their security levels and provide inmates opportunities for job training, education, and rehabilitation programs.

"The State's current site selection process for a new OCCC estimates the cost of building a new jail at $500 to $800 million. For such a huge amount of money, we should consider other options that enable us to return the Arizona inmates from 3,000 miles away, improve their chances for rehabilitation by being closer to home, and spend our tax dollars here in Hawaii.

"The site selection group uncovered at least 11 sites around Oahu suitable for a correctional facility of the needed size.

"Some claim we can avoid building new facilities by diverting pre-trial detainees to drug treatment and mental health programs or community service. We should implement such programs, but we would have to reduce our entire incarcerated population by more than half to scale back to the capacity our jails and prisons were designed for several decades ago.

"Mr. Speaker, the rhetoric of those who oppose prison construction is: 'Programs not prisons.' The reality is we need both.

"For all those reasons, I ask my colleagues to support HB 462."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 462, HD 2, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO CORRECTIONAL FACILITIES," passed Third Reading by a vote of 50 ayes, with Representatives Fukumoto, Matsumoto and Yamane voting aye with reservations, and with Representative Ichiyama being excused.

Representative Saiki moved that the report of the Committee be adopted, and that H.B. No. 1501, HD 2 pass Third Reading, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Tupola rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In opposition. If we're talking about trying to pass bills to decrease the prison population, last year, for the edification of the members who weren't here when we passed the penal code bill, HB 2561 actually addressed repeat offenders for drug paraphernalia so that it wasn't mandatory that they be put into prison, and actually, slowly, that's affecting the amount of the prison population because the repeat offenders was really what the issue was.

"So this is suggesting that on drug paraphernalia that it be charged as a violation which, in fact most of the time when somebody does have drug paraphernalia, there's drugs inside, so they get charged for PDD 3, which is possession of a dangerous drug in the third degree. So that, together, is both felonies, as of right now.

"So making the drug paraphernalia into a violation, a criminal, I guess, violation, not a civil, that would actually make it go to district court, they'd have to appear in court, and it says here maybe they'd have a fine of $100, depends.

"So those two things maybe in one offense would be separated, because the felony would still go to circuit court. So they'd go there, but if one of the two offset each other, then both of the cases would be thrown out. So say, for example, we do pursue this, how many people really don't go to prison now because of this drug paraphernalia? Very few.

"We're not taking anybody out of prison, because say in the event that they don't want to press charges for the drug possession, then they can go to the PDD 3 or, most of the time, they're operating a motorized vehicle without permission, or they're driving one under the influence, so many other charges would be then superseded and this would be put down to the bottom.

"I'm just saying that, PSD submitted numbers, 109 people with drug paraphernalia as their number one, I guess their leading charge, when really right now that and PDD 3 are actually most of the time put together, so it's not sure if that's really the leading charge.

"Long story short, what I'm trying to say, if we're trying to affect how many people are in prison, this is probably not the way to do it. And if we're trying to decriminalize drugs, which I'm not for, then I'm definitely voting no against this. But I'm still concerned that this will just complicate a system, put possibly two offenses on two separate tracks, and not really do anything as far as decreasing the amount of prison inmates. Thank you."

Representative Ward rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, in opposition. In addition to my colleague's remarks against this bill, I would add, I take it from more of a sociological-anthropological-cultural point of view.

"This is going to enable the youth culture, which already is into the drug culture. This is going to make a pass on some of these things that are now illegal to where it's a slap on the wrist.

"We are enabling a group of our youth who right now are already double the number of suicides. Drugs obviously increase that. And, Mr. Speaker, I don't think this is going to lead to anything any good. Thank you."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 1501, HD 2, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO DRUG PARAPHERNALIA," passed Third Reading by a vote of 45 ayes to 5 noes, with Representatives Har, Matsumoto, Oshiro, Tupola and Ward voting no, and with Representative Ichiyama being excused.

Representative Saiki moved that the report of the Committee be adopted, and that H.B. No. 727, HD 1 pass Third Reading, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Tupola rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"In opposition. So, DOT testified against this bill because they're currently narrowing lanes in areas where they want to add a lane but can't expand the freeway. So in Waianae they've done this because they're doing a turn lane project, but their concern, which is my concern, is if motorcycles go in between, even during traffic there's very little space. Cars still today hit each other when they pass lanes because they're too narrow.

"So those are my comments in opposition, and I hope it doesn't pass because, for the safety of our drivers and our community members, this isn't a good bill. Thank you."

Representative Thielen rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. With reservations. And I mentioned in the hearing that if this measure were to pass, shouldn't helmets be required, because the difficulty is that if we have everyone in closer proximity, there may be more chances of people being hit and then falling to the ground.

"So, that didn't go very far, and I know it's been a controversial question through the years about should helmets be required, but I thought the two should be coupled. And so I'm with reservations."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 727, HD 1, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO MOTORCYCLES," passed Third Reading by a vote of 48 ayes to 2 noes, with Representative Thielen voting aye with reservations, with Representatives Tupola and Ward voting no, and with Representative Ichiyama being excused.

Representative Saiki moved that the report of the Committee be adopted, and that H.B. No. 1534, HD 1 pass Third Reading, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Tupola rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"With reservations. I think it's a good thing that the department heads actually have to live here for a year and experience Hawaii and determine if they want to stay or not.

"I know HPD said if this wasn't here they could possibly expand their search for a chief of police, but still, coming to Hawaii and trying to live in the environment we have here, the way the laws are, it would possibly help us to retain some of these county heads, department heads that we get to apply and move here. So, with reservations."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 1534, HD 1, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO RESIDENCE REQUIREMENTS FOR APPOINTED OFFICERS," passed Third Reading by a vote of 50 ayes, with Representative Tupola voting aye with reservations, and with Representative Ichiyama being excused.

Representative Saiki moved that the report of the Committee be adopted, and that H.B. No. 1489, HD 1 pass Third Reading, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Belatti rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In strong support. Mr. Speaker, three very brief comments. The first two, procedural. This bill comes out of truly the Women's Legislative Caucus, although it did not make it into the official package because it was something that was introduced in the final days of bill introduction, coming out inspired in large part by the Women's March that occurred on all islands.

"The second procedural note is that, though we recognize that this is a Women's Legislative Caucus bill, we understand that really it's our male allies in this body that help us move along these important types of statutes, so I do want to acknowledge the leadership of the Chair of Labor and the Chair of Judiciary who helped move this bill along.

"My third and final comment speaks to the substance of this bill. Hawaii has a long tradition of fostering diversity and equality in all aspects of public life. This long tradition goes back to 1819, when Queen Kaahumanu, as the kuhina nui, or prime minister, named upon the death of Kamehameha the Great, sat down with the then-king Liholiho and Liholiho's mother to break the kapu which did not allow men and women to eat together. That is how far back our tradition of equality goes.

"We have to work towards ensuring that equality and, in more recent times, we've had women like Patsy T. Mink who have fought for Title IX protections. At this time, when we are seeing the erosion of gender protections, of equality and diversity in our federal programs, it is so critical that we take this stand, and that Hawaii become a beacon for tolerance, diversity and equality. Mr. Speaker, in strong support of this bill, and I thank my colleagues for supporting this."

Representative Ing rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"In strong support. Permission to insert the words of the previous speaker into the Journal as if they were my own. Thank you," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative McDermott rose in support of the measure with reservations and asked that his written remarks be inserted in the Journal, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative McDermott's written remarks are as follows:

"I have grave reservations regarding HB 1489, HD 1, Relating to Civil Rights. First let me say that I think discrimination is evil ... period.

"That said we are adding 'Gender Identity or Gender Identity Expression' to the protected classes of folks, along with race, etc. First and foremost, this is a behavioral issue and not a benign genetic trait; it is the acting out of individuals in a manner that is at odds with reality.

"However, since we are in a state dominated by the left, this behavior needs to be put in statute and codified by building a body of law to support this rare anomaly. Should an adult man be allowed to use the same restroom as my 13 year old daughter at the mall? The left would say yes if his 'Gender Identity' is that of a woman. What the male is doing is pretending ... pretending. Now, we must all go along with his or her disorder or fantasy.

"The following is part of an exhaustive report written by Lawrence SI. Mayer, M.B., M.S., Ph.D., and Paul McHugh. Both were on the staff at John Hopkins University. They find there is no biological cause for this behavior, thus we can assume that it is correctly identified as a psychological disorder."

Representative McDermott submitted the following The New Atlantis article:

Part Three: Gender Identity

Lawrence S. Mayer, Paul R. McHugh

The concept of biological sex is well defined, based on the binary roles that males and females play in reproduction. By contrast, the concept of gender is not well defined. It is generally taken to refer to behaviors and psychological attributes that tend to be typical of a given sex. Some individuals identify as a gender that does not correspond to their biological sex. The causes of such cross-gender identification remain poorly understood. Research investigating whether these transgender individuals have certain physiological features or experiences in common with the opposite sex, such as brain structures or atypical prenatal hormone exposures, has so far been inconclusive. Gender dysphoria — a sense of incongruence between one's biological sex and one's gender, accompanied by clinically significant distress or impairment — is sometimes treated in adults by hormones or surgery, but there is little scientific evidence that these therapeutic interventions have psychological benefits. Science has shown that gender identity issues in children usually do not persist into adolescence or adulthood, and there is little scientific evidence for the therapeutic value of puberty-delaying treatments. We are concerned by the increasing tendency toward encouraging children with gender identity issues to transition to their preferred gender through medical and then surgical procedures. There is a clear need for more research in these areas.

As described in Part One, there is a widely held belief that sexual orientation is a well-defined concept, and that it is innate and fixed in each person — as it is often put, gay people are "born that way." Another emerging and related view is that gender identity — the subjective, internal sense of being a man or a woman (or some other gender category) — is also fixed at birth or at a very early age and can diverge from a person's biological sex. In the case of children, this is sometimes articulated by saying that a little boy may be trapped in a little girl's body, or vice versa.

In Part One we argued that scientific research does not give much support to the hypothesis that sexual orientation is innate and fixed. We will argue here, similarly, that there is little scientific evidence that gender identity is fixed at birth or at an early age. Though biological sex is innate, and gender identity and biological sex are related in complex ways, they are not identical; gender is sometimes defined or expressed in ways that have little or no biological basis.

Key Concepts and Their Origins

To clarify what is meant by "gender" and "sex," we begin with a widely used definition, here quoted from a pamphlet published by the American Psychological Association (APA):

Sex is assigned at birth, refers to one's biological status as either male or female, and is associated primarily with physical attributes such as chromosomes, hormone prevalence, and external and internal anatomy. Gender refers to the socially constructed roles, behaviors, activities, and attributes that a given society considers appropriate for boys and men or girls and women. These influence the ways that people act, interact, and feel about themselves. While aspects of biological sex are similar across different cultures, aspects of gender may differ.^[1]

This definition points to the obvious fact that there are social norms for men and women, norms that vary across different cultures and that are not simply determined by biology. But it goes further in holding that gender is wholly "socially constructed" — that it is detached from biological sex. This idea has been an important part of a feminist movement to reform or eliminate traditional gender roles. In the classic feminist book The Second Sex (1949), Simone de Beauvoir wrote that "one is not born, but becomes a woman."^[2] This notion is an early version of the now familiar distinction between sex as a biological designation and gender as a cultural construct: though one is born, as the APA explains, with the "chromosomes, hormone prevalence, and external and internal anatomy" of a female, one is socially conditioned to take on the "roles, behaviors, activities, and attributes" of a woman.

Developments in feminist theory in the second half of the twentieth century further solidified the position that gender is socially constructed. One of the first to use the term "gender" as distinct from sex in the social-science literature was Ann Oakley in her 1972 book, Sex, Gender and Society.^[3] In the 1978 book Gender: An Ethnomethodological Approach, psychology professors Suzanne Kessler and Wendy McKenna argued that "gender is a social construction, that a world of two 'sexes' is a result of the socially shared, taken for granted methods which members use to construct reality."^[4]

Anthropologist Gayle Rubin expresses a similar view, writing in 1975 that "Gender is a socially imposed division of the sexes. It is a product of the social relations of sexuality."^[5] According to her argument, if it were not for this social imposition, we would still have males and females but not "men" and "women." Furthermore, Rubin argues, if traditional gender roles are socially constructed, then they can also be deconstructed, and we can eliminate "obligatory sexualities and sex roles" and create "an androgynous and genderless (though not sexless) society, in which one's sexual anatomy is irrelevant to who one is, what one does, and with whom one makes love."^[6]

The relationship between gender theory and the deconstruction or overthrowing of traditional gender roles is made even clearer in the works of the influential feminist theorist Judith Butler. In works such as Gender Trouble: Feminism and the Subversion of Identity (1990)^[7] and Undoing Gender (2004)^[8] Butler advances what she describes as "performativity theory," according to which being a woman or man is not something that one is but something that one does. "Gender is neither the causal result of sex nor as seemingly fixed as sex," as she put it.^[9] Rather, gender is a constructed status radically independent from biology or bodily traits, "a free floating artifice, with the consequence that man and masculine might just as easily signify a female body as a male one, and woman and feminine a male body as easily as a female one."^[10]

This view, that gender and thus gender identity are fluid and plastic, and not necessarily binary, has recently become more prominent in popular culture. An example is Facebook's move in 2014 to include 56 new ways for users to describe their gender, in addition to the options of male and female. As Facebook explains, the new options allow the user to "feel comfortable being your true, authentic self," an important part of which is "the expression of gender."^[11] Options include agender, several cis- and trans- variants, gender fluid, gender questioning, neither, other, pangender, and two-spirit.^[12]

Whether or not Judith Butler was correct in describing traditional gender roles of men and women as "performative," her theory of gender as a "free-floating artifice" does seem to describe this new taxonomy of gender. As these terms multiply and their meanings become more individualized, we lose any common set of criteria for defining what gender distinctions mean. If gender is entirely detached from the binary of biological sex, gender could come to refer to any distinctions in behavior, biological attributes, or psychological traits, and each person could have a gender defined by the unique combination of characteristics the person possesses. This reductio ad absurdum is offered to present the possibility that defining gender too broadly could lead to a definition that has little meaning.

Alternatively, gender identity could be defined in terms of sex-typical traits and behaviors, so that being a boy means behaving in the ways boys typically behave — such as engaging in rough-and-tumble play and expressing an interest in sports and liking toy guns more than dolls. But this would imply that a boy who plays with dolls, hates guns, and refrains from sports or rough-and-tumble play might be considered to be a girl, rather than simply a boy who represents an exception to the typical patterns of male behavior. The ability to recognize exceptions to sex-typical behavior relies on an understanding of maleness and femaleness that is independent of these stereotypical sex-appropriate behaviors. The underlying basis of maleness and femaleness is the distinction between the reproductive roles of the sexes; in mammals such as humans, the female gestates offspring and the male impregnates the female. More universally, the male of the species fertilizes the egg cells provided by the female of the species. This conceptual basis for sex roles is binary and stable, and allows us to distinguish males from females on the grounds of their reproductive systems, even when these individuals exhibit behaviors that are not typical of males or females.

To illustrate how reproductive roles define the differences between the sexes even when behavior appears to be atypical for the particular sex, consider two examples, one from the diversity of the animal kingdom, and one from the diversity of human behavior. First, we look at the emperor penguin. Male emperor penguins provide more care for eggs than do females, and in this sense, the male emperor penguin could be described as more maternal than the female.^[13] However, we recognize that the male emperor penguin is not in fact female but rather that the species represents an exception to the general, but not universal, tendency among animals for females to provide more care than males for offspring. We recognize this because sex-typical behaviors like parental care do not define the sexes; the individual's role in sexual reproduction does.

Even other sex-typical biological traits, such as chromosomes, are not necessarily helpful for defining sex in a universal way, as the penguin example further illustrates. As with other birds, the genetics of sex determination in the emperor penguin is different than the genetics of sex determination in mammals and many other animals. In humans, males have XY chromosomes and females have XX chromosomes; that is, males have a unique sex-determining chromosome that they do not share with females, while females have two copies of a chromosome that they share with males. But in birds, it is females, not males, that have and pass on the sex-specific chromosome.^[14] Just as the observation that male emperor penguins nurture their offspring more than their partners did not lead zoologists to conclude that the egg-laying member of the emperor penguin species was in fact the male, the discovery of the ZW sex-determination system in birds did not lead geneticists to challenge the age-old recognition that hens are females and roosters are males. The only variable that serves as the fundamental and reliable basis for biologists to distinguish the sexes of animals is their role in reproduction, not some other behavioral or biological trait.

Another example that, in this case, only appears to be non-sex-typical behavior is that of Thomas Beatie, who made headlines as a man who gave birth to three children between 2008 and 2010.^[15] Thomas Beatie was born a woman, Tracy Lehuani LaGondino, and underwent a surgical and legal transition to living as a man before deciding to have children. Because the medical procedures he underwent did not involve the removal of his ovaries or uterus, Beatie was capable of bearing children. The state of Arizona recognizes Thomas Beatie as the father of his three children, even though, biologically, he is their mother. Unlike the case of the male emperor penguin's ostensibly maternal, "feminine" parenting behavior, Beatie's ability to have children does not represent an exception to the normal inability of males to bear children. The labeling of Beatie as a man despite his being biologically female is a personal, social, and legal decision that was made without any basis in biology; nothing whatsoever in biology suggests Thomas Beatie is a male.

In biology, an organism is male or female if it is structured to perform one of the respective roles in reproduction. This definition does not require any arbitrary measurable or quantifiable physical characteristics or behaviors; it requires understanding the reproductive system and the reproduction process. Different animals have different reproductive systems, but sexual reproduction occurs when the sex cells from the male and female of the species come together to form newly fertilized embryos. It is these reproductive roles that provide the conceptual basis for the differentiation of animals into the biological categories of male and female. There is no other widely accepted biological classification for the sexes.

But this definition of the biological category of sex is not universally accepted. For example, philosopher and legal scholar Edward Stein maintains that infertility poses a crucial problem for defining sex in terms of reproductive roles, writing that defining sex in terms of these roles would define "infertile males as females."^[16] Since an infertile male cannot play the reproductive role for which males are structured, and an infertile female cannot play the reproductive role for which females are structured, according to this line of thinking, defining sex in terms of reproductive roles would not be appropriate, as infertile males would be classified as females, and infertile females as males. Nevertheless, while a reproductive system structured to serve a particular reproductive role may be impaired in such a way that it cannot perform its function, the system is still recognizably structured for that role, so that biological sex can still be defined strictly in terms of the structure of reproductive systems. A similar point can be made about heterosexual couples who choose not to reproduce for any of a variety of reasons. The male and female reproductive systems are generally clearly recognizable, regardless of whether or not they are being used for purposes of reproduction.

The following analogy illustrates how a system can be recognized as having a particular purpose, even when that system is dysfunctional in a way that renders it incapable of carrying out its purpose: Eyes are complex organs that function as processors of vision. However, there are numerous conditions affecting the eye that can impair vision, resulting in blindness. The eyes of the blind are still recognizably organs structured for the function of sight. Any impairments that result in blindness do not affect the purpose of the eye — any more than wearing a blindfold — but only its function. The same is true for the reproductive system. Infertility can be caused by many problems. However, the reproductive system continues to exist for the purpose of begetting children.

There are individuals, however, who are biologically "intersex," meaning that their sexual anatomy is ambiguous, usually for reasons of genetic abnormalities. For example, the clitoris and penis are derived from the same embryonic structures. A baby may display an abnormally large clitoris or an abnormally small penis, causing its biological sex to be difficult to determine long after birth.

The first academic article to use the term "gender" appears to be the 1955 paper by the psychiatry professor John Money of Johns Hopkins on the treatment of "intersex" children (the term then used was "hermaphrodites").^[17] Money posited that gender identity, at least for these children, was fluid and that it could be constructed. In his mind, making a child identify with a gender only required constructing sex-typical genitalia and creating a gender-appropriate environment for the child. The chosen gender for these children was often female — a decision that was not based on genetics or biology, nor on the belief that these children were "really" girls, but, in part, on the fact that at the time it was easier surgically to construct a vagina than it was to construct a penis.

The most widely known patient of Dr. Money was David Reimer, a boy who was not born with an intersex condition but whose penis was damaged during circumcision as an infant.^[18] David was raised by his parents as a girl named Brenda, and provided with both surgical and hormonal interventions to ensure that he would develop female-typical sex characteristics. However, the attempt to conceal from the child what had happened to him was not successful — he self-identified as a boy, and eventually, at the age of 14, his psychiatrist recommended to his parents that they tell him the truth. David then began the difficult process of reversing the hormonal and surgical interventions that had been performed to feminize his body. But he continued to be tormented by his childhood ordeal, and took his own life in 2004, at the age of 38.

David Reimer is just one example of the harm wrought by theories that gender identity can socially and medically be reassigned in children. In a 2004 paper, William G. Reiner, a pediatric urologist and child and adolescent psychiatrist, and John P. Gearhart, a professor of pediatric urology, followed up on the sexual identities of 16 genetic males affected by cloacal exstrophy — a condition involving a badly deformed bladder and genitals. Of the 16 subjects, 14 were assigned female sex at birth, receiving surgical interventions to construct female genitalia, and were raised as girls by their parents; 6 of these 14 later chose to identify as males, while 5 continued to identify as females and 2 declared themselves males at a young age but continued to be raised as females because their parents rejected the children's declarations. The remaining subject, who had been told at age 12 that he was born male, refused to discuss sexual identity.^[19] So the assignment of female sex persisted in only 5 of the 13 cases with known results.

This lack of persistence is some evidence that the assignment of sex through genital construction at birth with immersion into a "gender-appropriate" environment is not likely to be a successful option for managing the rare problem of genital ambiguity from birth defects. It is important to note that the ages of these individuals at last follow-up ranged from 9 to 19, so it is possible that some of them may have subsequently changed their gender identities.

Reiner and Gearhart's research indicates that gender is not arbitrary; it suggests that a biological male (or female) will probably not come to identify as the opposite gender after having been altered physically and immersed into the corresponding gender-typical environment. The plasticity of gender appears to have a limit.

What is clear is that biological sex is not a concept that can be reduced to, or artificially assigned on the basis of, the type of external genitalia alone. Surgeons are becoming more capable of constructing artificial genitalia, but these "add-ons" do not change the biological sex of the recipients, who are no more capable of playing the reproductive roles of the opposite biological sex than they were without the surgery. Nor does biological sex change as a function of the environment provided for the child. No degree of supporting a little boy in converting to be considered, by himself and others, to be a little girl makes him biologically a little girl. The scientific definition of biological sex is, for almost all human beings, clear, binary, and stable, reflecting an underlying biological reality that is not contradicted by exceptions to sex-typical behavior, and cannot be altered by surgery or social conditioning.

In a 2004 article summarizing the results of research related to intersex conditions, Paul McHugh, the former chief of psychiatry at Johns Hopkins Hospital (and the coauthor of this report), suggested:

We in the Johns Hopkins Psychiatry Department eventually concluded that human sexual identity is mostly built into our constitution by the genes we inherit and the embryogenesis we undergo. Male hormones sexualize the brain and the mind. Sexual dysphoria — a sense of disquiet in one's sexual role — naturally occurs amongst those rare males who are raised as females in an effort to correct an infantile genital structural problem.^[20]

We now turn our attention to transgender individuals — children and adults — who choose to identify as a gender different from their biological sex, and explore the meaning of gender identity in this context and what the scientific literature tells us about its development.

Gender Dysphoria

While biological sex is, with very few exceptions, a well-defined, binary trait (male versus female) corresponding to how the body is organized for reproduction, gender identity is a more subjective attribute. For most people, their own gender identity is probably not a significant concern; most biological males identify as boys or men, and most biological females identify as girls or women. But some individuals experience an incongruence between their biological sex and their gender identity. If this struggle causes them to seek professional help, then the problem is classified as "gender dysphoria."

Some male children raised as females, as described in Reiner and colleagues' 2004 study, came to experience problems with their gender identity when their subjective sense of being boys conflicted with being identified and treated as girls by their parents and doctors. The biological sex of the boys was not in question (they had an XY genotype), and the cause of gender dysphoria lay in the fact that they were genetically male, came to identify as male, but had been assigned female gender identities. This suggests that gender identity can be a complex and burdensome issue for those who choose (or have others choose for them) a gender identity opposite their biological sex.

But the cases of gender dysphoria that are the subject of much public debate are those in which individuals come to identify as genders different from those based on their biological sex. These people are usually identified, and describe themselves, as "transgender."^[1]

According to the fifth edition of the American Psychiatric Association's Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders (DSM-5), gender dysphoria is marked by "incongruence between one's experienced/expressed gender and assigned gender," as well as "clinically significant distress or impairment in social, occupational, or other important areas of functioning."^[21]

It is important to clarify that gender dysphoria is not the same as gender nonconformity or gender identity disorder. Gender nonconformity describes an individual who behaves in a manner contrary to the gender-specific norms of his or her biological sex. As the DSM-5 notes, most transvestites, for instance, are not transgender — men who dress as women typically do not identify themselves as women.^[22] (However, certain forms of transvestitism can be associated with late-onset gender dysphoria.^[23])

Gender identity disorder, an obsolete term from an earlier version of the DSM that was removed in its fifth edition, was used as a psychiatric diagnosis. If we compare the diagnostic criteria for gender dysphoria (the current term) and gender identity disorder (the former term), we see that both require the patient to display "a marked incongruence between one's experienced/expressed gender and assigned gender."^[24] The key difference is that a diagnosis of gender dysphoria requires the patient additionally to experience a "clinically significant distress or impairment in social, occupational, or other important areas of functioning" associated with these incongruent feelings.^[25] Thus the major set of diagnostic criteria used in contemporary psychiatry does not designate all transgender individuals as having a psychiatric disorder. For example, a biological male who identifies himself as a female is not considered to have a psychiatric disorder unless the individual is experiencing significant psychosocial distress at the incongruence. A diagnosis of gender dysphoria may be part of the criteria used to justify sex-reassignment surgery or other clinical interventions. Furthermore, a patient who has had medical or surgical modifications to express his or her gender identity may still suffer from gender dysphoria. It is the nature of the struggle that defines the disorder, not the fact that the expressed gender differs from the biological sex.

There is no scientific evidence that all transgender people have gender dysphoria, or that they are all struggling with their gender identities. Some individuals who are not transgender — that is, who do not identify as a gender that does not correspond with their biological sex — might nonetheless struggle with their gender identity; for example, girls who behave in some male-typical ways might experience various forms of distress without ever coming to identify as boys. Conversely, individuals who do identify as a gender that does not correspond with their biological sex may not experience clinically significant distress related to their gender identity. Even if only, say, 40% of individuals who identify as a gender that does not correspond with their biological sex experience significant distress related to their gender identity, this would constitute a public health issue requiring clinicians and others to act to support those with gender dysphoria, and hopefully, to reduce the rate of gender dysphoria in the population. There is no evidence to suggest that the other 60% in this hypothetical — that is, the individuals who identify as a gender that does not correspond with their biological sex but who do not experience significant distress — would require clinical treatment.

The DSM's concept of subjectively "experiencing" one's gender as incongruent from one's biological sex may require more critical scrutiny and possibly modification. The exact definition of gender dysphoria, however well-intentioned, is somewhat vague and confusing. It does not account for individuals who self-identify as transgender but do not experience dysphoria associated with their gender identity and who seek psychiatric care for functional impairment for problems unrelated to their gender identity, such as anxiety or depression. They may then be mislabeled as having gender dysphoria simply because they have a desire to be identified as a member of the opposite gender, when they have come to a satisfactory resolution, subjectively, with this incongruence and may be depressed for reasons having nothing to do with their gender identity.

The DSM-5 criteria for a diagnosis of gender dysphoria in children are defined in a "more concrete, behavioral manner than those for adolescents and adults."^[26] This is to say that some of the diagnostic criteria for gender dysphoria in children refer to behaviors that are stereotypically associated with the opposite gender. Clinically significant distress is still necessary for a diagnosis of gender dysphoria in children, but some of the other diagnostic criteria include, for instance, a "strong preference for the toys, games, or activities stereotypically used or engaged in by the other gender."^[27] What of girls who are "tomboys" or boys who are not oriented toward violence and guns, who prefer quieter play? Should parents worry that their tomboy daughter is really a boy stuck in a girl's body? There is no scientific basis for believing that playing with toys typical of boys defines a child as a boy, or that playing with toys typical of girls defines a child as a girl. The DSM-5 criterion for diagnosing gender dysphoria by reference to gender-typical toys is unsound; it appears to ignore the fact that a child could display an expressed gender — manifested by social or behavioral traits — incongruent with the child's biological sex but without identifying as the opposite gender. Furthermore, even for children who do identify as a gender opposite their biological sex, diagnoses of gender dysphoria are simply unreliable. The reality is that they may have psychological difficulties in accepting their biological sex as their gender. Children can have difficulty with the expectations associated with those gender roles. Traumatic experiences can also cause a child to express distress with the gender associated with his or her biological sex.

Gender identity problems can also arise with intersex conditions (the presence of ambiguous genitalia due to genetic abnormalities), which we discussed earlier. These disorders of sex development, while rare, can contribute to gender dysphoria in some cases.^[28] Some of these conditions include complete androgen insensitivity syndrome, where individuals with XY (male) chromosomes lack receptors for male sex hormones, leading them to develop the secondary sex characteristics of females, rather than males (though they lack ovaries, do not menstruate, and are consequently sterile).^[29] Another hormonal disorder of sex development that can lead to individuals developing in ways that are not typical of their genetic sex include congenital adrenal hyperplasia, a condition that can masculinize XX (female) fetuses.^[30] Other rare phenomena such as genetic mosaicism^[31] or chimerism,^[32] where some cells in the individual's bodies contain XX chromosomes and others contain XY chromosomes, can lead to considerable ambiguity in sex characteristics, including individuals who possess both male and female gonads and sex organs.

While there are many cases of gender dysphoria that are not associated with these identifiable intersex conditions, gender dysphoria may still represent a different type of intersex condition in which the primary sex characteristics such as genitalia develop normally while secondary sex characteristics associated with the brain develop along the lines of the opposite sex. Controversy exists over influences determining the nature of neurological, psychological, and behavioral sex differences. The emerging consensus is that there may be some differences in patterns of neurological development in- and ex-utero for men and women.^[33] Therefore, in theory, transgender individuals could be subject to conditions allowing a more female-type brain to develop within a genetic male (having the XY chromosomal patterns), and vice versa. However, as we will show in the next section, the research supporting this idea is quite minimal.

As a way of surveying the biological and social science research on gender dysphoria, we can list some of the important questions. Are there biological factors that influence the development of a gender identity that does not correspond with one's biological sex? Are some individuals born with a gender identity different from their biological sex? Is gender identity shaped by environmental or nurturing conditions? How stable are choices of gender identity? How common is gender dysphoria? Is it persistent across the lifespan? Can a little boy who thinks he is a little girl change over the course of his life to regard himself as male? If so, how often can such people change their gender identities? How would someone's gender identity be measured scientifically? Does self-understanding suffice? Does a biological girl become a gender boy by believing, or at least stating, she is a little boy? Do people's struggles with a sense of incongruity between their gender identity and biological sex persist over the life course? Does gender dysphoria respond to psychiatric interventions? Should those interventions focus on affirming the gender identity of the patient or take a more neutral stance? Do efforts to hormonally or surgically modify an individual's primary or secondary sex characteristics help resolve gender dysphoria? Does modification create further psychiatric problems for some of those diagnosed with gender dysphoria, or does it typically resolve existing psychiatric problems? We broach a few of these critical questions in the following sections.

Gender and Physiology

Robert Sapolsky, a Stanford professor of biology who has done extensive neuroimaging research, suggested a possible neurobiological explanation for cross-gender identification in a 2013 Wall Street Journal article, "Caught Between Male and Female." He asserted that recent neuroimaging studies of the brains of transgender adults suggest that they may have brain structures more similar to their gender identity than to their biological sex.^[34] Sapolsky bases this assertion on the fact that there are differences between male and female brains, and while the differences are "small and variable," they "probably contribute to the sex differences in learning, emotion and socialization."^[35] He concludes: "The issue isn't that sometimes people believe they are of a different gender than they actually are. Remarkably, instead, it's that sometimes people are born with bodies whose gender is different from what they actually are."^[36] In other words, he claims that some people can have a female-type brain in a male body, or vice versa.

While this kind of neurobiological theory of cross-gender identification remains outside of the scientific mainstream, it has recently received scientific and popular attention. It provides a potentially attractive explanation for cross-gender identification, especially for individuals who are not affected by any known genetic, hormonal, or psychosocial abnormalities.^[37] However, while Sapolsky may be right, there is fairly little support in the scientific literature for his contention. His neurological explanation for differences between male and female brains and those differences' possible relevance to cross-gender identification warrant further scientific consideration.

There are many small studies that attempt to define causal factors of the experience of incongruence between one's biological sex and felt gender. These studies are described in the following pages, each pointing to an influence that may contribute to the explanation for cross-gender identification.

Nancy Segal, a psychologist and geneticist, researched two case studies of identical twins discordant for female-to-male (FtM) transsexualism.^[38] Segal notes that, according to another, earlier study that conducted nonclinical interviews with 45 FtM transsexuals, 60% suffered some form of childhood abuse, with 31% experiencing sexual abuse, 29% experiencing emotional abuse, and 38% physical abuse.^[39] However, this earlier study did not include a control group and was limited by its small sample size, making it difficult to extract significant interactions, or generalizations, from the data.

Segal's own first case study was of a 34-year-old FtM twin, whose identical twin sister was married and the mother of seven children.^[40] Several stressful events had occurred during the twins' mother's pregnancy, and they were born five weeks prematurely. When they were eight years old, their parents divorced. The FtM twin exhibited gender-nonconforming behavior early and it persisted throughout childhood. She became attracted to other girls in junior high school and as a teenager attempted suicide several times. She reported physical abuse and emotional abuse at the hand of her mother. The twins were raised in a Mormon household, in which transsexuals was not tolerated.^[41] The twin sister had never questioned her gender identity but did experience some depression.

For Segal, the FtM twin's gender nonconformity and abuse in childhood were factors that contributed to gender dysphoria; the other twin was not subject to the same stressors in childhood, and did not develop issues around her gender identity. Segal's second case study also concerned identical twins with one twin transitioning from female to male.^[42] This FtM twin had early-onset nonconforming behaviors and attempted suicide as a young adult. At age 29 she underwent reassignment surgery, was well supported by family, met a woman, and married. As in the first case, the other twin was reportedly always secure in her female gender identity.

Segal speculates that each set of twins may have had uneven prenatal androgen exposures (though her study did not offer evidence to support this)^[43] and concludes that "Transsexualism is unlikely to be associated with a major gene, but is likely to be associated with multiple genetic, epigenetic, developmental and experiential influences."^[44] Segal is critical of the notion that the maternal abuse experienced by the FtM twin in her first case study may have played a causal role in the twin's "atypical gender identification" since the abuse "apparently followed" the twin's gender-atypical behaviors — though Segal acknowledges "it is possible that this abuse reinforced his already atypical gender identification."^[45] These case studies, while informative, are not scientifically strong, and do not provide direct evidence for any causal hypotheses about the origins of atypical gender identification.

A source of more information — but also inadequate to make direct causal inferences — is a case analysis by Mayo Clinic psychiatrists J. Michael Bostwick and Kari A. Martin of an intersex individual born with ambiguous genitalia who was operated on and raised as a female.^[46] By way of offering some background, the authors draw a distinction between gender identity disorder (an "inconsistency between perceived gender identity and phenotypic sex" that generally involves "no discernible neuroendocrinological abnormality"^[47]), and intersexuality (a condition in which biological features of both sexes are present). They also provide a summary and classification scheme of the various types of intersex disorders. After a thorough discussion of the various intersex developmental issues that can lead to a disjunction between the brain and body, the authors acknowledge that "Some adult patients with severe dysphoria — transsexuals — have neither history nor objective findings supporting a known biological cause of brain-body disjunction."^[48] These patients require thorough medical and psychiatric attention to avoid gender dysphoria.

After this helpful summary, the authors state that "Absent psychosis or severe character pathology, patients' subjective assertions are presently the most reliable standards for delineating core gender identity."^[49] But it is not clear how we could consider subjective assertions more reliable in establishing gender identity, unless gender identity is defined as a completely subjective phenomenon. The bulk of the article is devoted to describing the various objectively discernible and identifiable ways in which one's identity as a male or female is imprinted on the nervous and endocrine system. Even when something goes wrong with the development of external genitalia, individuals are more likely to act in accordance with their chromosomal and hormonal makeup.^[50]

In 2011, Giuseppina Rametti and colleagues from various research centers in Spain used MRI to study the brain structures of 18 FtM transsexuals who exhibited gender nonconformity early in life and experienced sexual attraction to females prior to hormone treatment.^[51] The goal was to learn whether their brain features corresponded more to their biological sex or to their sense of gender identity. The control group consisted of 24 male and 19 female heterosexuals with gender identities conforming to their biological sex. Differences were noted in the white matter microstructure of specific brain areas. In untreated FtM transsexuals, that structure was more similar to that of heterosexual males than to that of heterosexual females in three of four brain areas.^[52] In a complementary study, Rametti and colleagues compared 18 MtF transsexuals to 19 female and 19 male heterosexual controls.^[53] These MtF transsexuals had white matter tract averages in several brain areas that fell between the averages of the control males and the control females. The values, however, were typically closer to the males (that is, to those that shared their biological sex) than to the females in most areas.^[54] In controls the authors found that, as expected, the males had greater amounts of gray and white matter and higher volumes of cerebrospinal fluid than control females. The MtF transsexual brain volumes were all similar to those of male controls and significantly different from those of females.^[55]

Overall, the findings of these studies by Rametti and colleagues do not sufficiently support the notion that transgender individuals have brains more similar to their preferred gender than to the gender corresponding with their biological sex. Both studies are limited by small sample sizes and lack of a prospective hypothesis — both analyzed the MRI data to find the gender differences and then looked to see where the data from transgender subjects fit.

Whereas both of these MRI studies looked at brain structure, a functional MRI study by Emiliano Santarnecchi and colleagues from the University of Siena and the University of Florence looked at brain function, examining gender-related differences in spontaneous brain activity during the resting state.^[56] The researchers compared a single FtM individual (declared cross-gender since childhood), and control groups of 25 males and 25 females, with regard to spontaneous brain activity. The FtM individual demonstrated a "brain activity profile more close to his biological sex than to his desired one," and based in part on this result the authors concluded that "untreated FtM transsexuals show a functional connectivity profile comparable to female control subjects."^[57] With a sample size of one, this study's statistical power is virtually zero.

In 2013, Hsiao-Lun Ku and colleagues from various medical centers and research institutes in Taiwan also conducted functional brain imaging studies. They compared the brain activity of 41 transsexuals (21 FtMs, 20 MtFs) and 38 matched heterosexual controls (19 males and 19 females).^[58] Arousal response of each cohort while viewing neutral as compared to erotic films was compared between groups. All of the transsexuals in the study reported sexual attractions to members of their natal, biological sex, and exhibited more sexual arousal than heterosexual controls when viewing erotic films that depicted sexual activity between subjects sharing their biological sex. A "selfness" score was also incorporated into the study, in which the researchers asked participants to "rate the degree to which you identify yourself as the male or female in the film."^[59] The transsexuals in the study identified with those of their preferred gender more than the controls identified with those of their biological gender, in both erotic films and neutral films. The heterosexual controls did not identify themselves with either males or females in either of the film types. Ku and colleagues claim to have demonstrated characteristic brain patterns for sexual attraction as related to biological sex but did not make meaningful neurobiological gender-identity comparisons among the three cohorts. In addition, they reported findings that transsexuals demonstrated psychosocial maladaptive defensive styles.

A 2008 study by Hans Berglund and colleagues from Sweden's Karolinska Institute and Stockholm Brain Institute used PET and fMRI scans to compare brain-area activation patterns in 12 MtF transgendered individuals who were sexually attracted to women with those of 12 heterosexual women and 12 heterosexual men.^[60] The first set of subjects took no hormones and had not undergone sex-reassignment surgery. The experiment involved smelling odorous steroids thought to be female pheromones, and other sexually neutral odors such as lavender oil, cedar oil, eugenol, butanol, and odorless air. The results were varied and mixed between the groups for the various odors, which should not be surprising, since post hoc analyses usually lead to contradictory findings.

In summary, the studies presented above show inconclusive evidence and mixed findings regarding the brains of transgender adults. Brain-activation patterns in these studies do not offer sufficient evidence for drawing sound conclusions about possible associations between brain activation and sexual identity or arousal. The results are conflicting and confusing. Since the data by Ku and colleagues on brain-activation patterns are not universally associated with a particular sex, it remains unclear whether and to what extent neurobiological findings say anything meaningful about gender identity. It is important to note that regardless of their findings, studies of this kind cannot support any conclusion that individuals come to identify as a gender that does not correspond to their biological sex because of an innate, biological condition of the brain.

The question is not simply whether there are differences between the brains of transgender individuals and people identifying with the gender corresponding to their biological sex, but whether gender identity is a fixed, innate, and biological trait, even when it does not correspond to biological sex, or whether environmental or psychological causes contribute to the development of a sense of gender identity in such cases. Neurological differences in transgender adults might be the consequence of biological factors such as genes or prenatal hormone exposure, or of psychological and environmental factors such as childhood abuse, or they could result from some combination of the two. There are no serial, longitudinal, or prospective studies looking at the brains of cross-gender identifying children who develop to later identify as transgender adults. Lack of this research severely limits our ability to understand causal relationships between brain morphology, or functional activity, and the later development of gender identity different from biological sex.

More generally, it is now widely recognized among psychiatrists and neuroscientists who engage in brain imaging research that there are inherent and ineradicable methodological limitations of any neuroimaging study that simply associates a particular trait, such as a certain behavior, with a particular brain morphology.^[61] (And when the trait in question is not a concrete behavior but something as elusive and vague as "gender identity," these methodological problems are even more serious.) These studies cannot provide statistical evidence nor show a plausible biological mechanism strong enough to support causal connections between a brain feature and the trait, behavior, or symptom in question. To support a conclusion of causality, even epidemiological causality, we need to conduct prospective longitudinal panel studies of a fixed set of individuals across the course of sexual development if not their lifespan.

Studies like these would use serial brain images at birth, in childhood, and at other points along the developmental continuum, to see whether brain morphology findings were there from the beginning. Otherwise, we cannot establish whether certain brain features caused a trait, or whether the trait is innate and perhaps fixed. Studies like those discussed above of individuals who already exhibit the trait are incapable of distinguishing between causes and consequences of the trait. In most cases transgender individuals have been acting and thinking for years in ways that, through learned behavior and associated neuroplasticity, may have produced brain changes that could differentiate them from other members of their biological or natal sex. The only definitive way to establish epidemiological causality between a brain feature and a trait (especially one as complex as gender identity) is to conduct prospective, longitudinal, preferably randomly sampled and population-based studies.

In the absence of such prospective longitudinal studies, large representative population-based samples with adequate statistical controls for confounding factors may help narrow the possible causes of a behavioral trait and thereby increase the probability of identifying a neurological cause.^[62] However, because the studies conducted thus far use small convenience samples, none of them is especially helpful for narrowing down the options for causality. To obtain a better study sample, we would need to include neuroimaging in large-scale epidemiological studies. In fact, given the small number of transgender individuals in the general population,^[63] the studies would need to be prohibitively large to attain findings that would reach statistical significance.

Moreover, if a study found significant differences between these groups — that is, a number of differences higher than what would be expected by chance alone — these differences would refer to the average in a population of each group. Even if these two groups differed significantly for all 100 measurements, it would not necessarily indicate a biological difference among individuals at the extremes of the distribution. Thus, a randomly selected transgender individual and a randomly selected non-transgender individual might not differ on any of these 100 measurements. Additionally, since the probability that a randomly selected person from the general population will be transgender is quite small, statistically significant differences in the sample means are not sufficient evidence to conclude that a particular measurement is predictive of whether the person is transgender or not. If we measured the brain of an infant, toddler, or adolescent and found this individual to be closer to one cohort than another on these measures, it would not imply that this individual would grow up to identify as a member of that cohort. It may be helpful to keep this caveat in mind when interpreting research on transgender individuals.

In this context, it is important to note that there are no studies that demonstrate that any of the biological differences being examined have predictive power, and so all interpretations, usually in popular outlets, claiming or suggesting that a statistically significant difference between the brains of people who are transgender and those who are not is the cause of being transgendered or not — that is to say, that the biological differences determine the differences in gender identity — are unwarranted.

In short, the current studies on associations between brain structure and transgender identity are small, methodologically limited, inconclusive, and sometimes contradictory. Even if they were more methodologically reliable, they would be insufficient to demonstrate that brain structure is a cause, rather than an effect, of the gender-identity behavior. They would likewise lack predictive power, the real challenge for any theory in science.

For a simple example to illustrate this point, suppose we had a room with 100 people in it. Two of them are transgender and all others are not. I pick someone at random and ask you to guess the person's gender identity. If you know that 98 out of 100 of the individuals are not transgender, the safest bet would be to guess that the individual is not transgender, since that answer will be correct 98% of the time. Suppose, then, that you have the opportunity to ask questions about the neurobiology and about the natal sex of the person. Knowing the biology only helps in predicting whether the individual is transgender if it can improve on the original guess that the person is not transgender. So if knowing a characteristic of the individual's brain does not improve the ability to predict what group the patient belongs to, then the fact that the two groups differ at the mean is almost irrelevant. Improving on the original prediction is very difficult for a rare trait such as being transgender, because the probability of that prediction being correct is already very high. If there really were a clear difference between the brains of transgender and non-transgender individuals, akin to the biological differences between the sexes, then improving on the original guess would be relatively easy. Unlike the differences between the sexes, however, there are no biological features that can reliably identify transgender individuals as different from others.

The consensus of scientific evidence overwhelmingly supports the proposition that a physically and developmentally normal boy or girl is indeed what he or she appears to be at birth. The available evidence from brain imaging and genetics does not demonstrate that the development of gender identity as different from biological sex is innate. Because scientists have not established a solid framework for understanding the causes of cross-gender identification, ongoing research should be open to psychological and social causes, as well as biological ones.

Transgender Identity in Children

In 2012, the Washington Post featured a story by Petula Dvorak, "Transgender at five,"^[64] about a girl who at the age of 2 years began insisting that she was a boy. The story recounts her mother's interpretation of this behavior: "Her little girl's brain was different. Jean [her mother] could tell. She had heard about transgender people, those who are one gender physically but the other gender mentally." The story recounts this mother's distressed experiences as she began researching gender identity problems in children and came to understand other parents' experiences:

Many talked about their painful decision to allow their children to publicly transition to the opposite gender — a much tougher process for boys who wanted to be girls. Some of what Jean heard was reassuring: Parents who took the plunge said their children's behavior problems largely disappeared, schoolwork improved, happy kid smiles returned. But some of what she heard was scary: children taking puberty blockers in elementary school and teens embarking on hormone therapy before they'd even finished high school.^[65]

The story goes on to describe how the sister, Moyin, of the transgender child Tyler (formerly Kathryn) made sense of her sibling's identity:

Tyler's sister, who's 8, was much more casual about describing her transgender sibling. "It's just a boy mind in a girl body," Moyin explained matter-of-factly to her second-grade classmates at her private school, which will allow Tyler to start kindergarten as a boy, with no mention of Kathryn.^[66]

The remarks from the child's sister encapsulate the popular notion regarding gender identity: transgender individuals, or children who meet the diagnostic criteria for gender dysphoria, are simply "a boy mind in a girl body," or vice versa. This view implies that gender identity is a persistent and innate feature of human psychology, and it has inspired a gender-affirming approach to children who experience gender identity issues at an early age.

As we have seen above in the overview of the neurobiological and genetic research on the origins of gender identity, there is little evidence that the phenomenon of transgender identity has a biological basis. There is also little evidence that gender identity issues have a high rate of persistence in children. According to the DSM-5, "In natal [biological] males, persistence [of gender dysphoria] has ranged from 2.2% to 30%. In natal females, persistence has ranged from 12% to 50%."^[67] Scientific data on persistence of gender dysphoria remains sparse due to the very low prevalence of the disorder in the general population, but the wide range of findings in the literature suggests that there is still much that we do not know about why gender dysphoria persists or desists in children. As the DSM-5 entry goes on to note, "It is unclear if children 'encouraged' or supported to live socially in the desired gender will show higher rates of persistence, since such children have not yet been followed longitudinally in a systematic manner."^[68] There is a clear need for more research in these areas, and for parents and therapists to acknowledge the great uncertainty regarding how to interpret the behavior of these children.

Therapeutic Interventions in Children

With the uncertainty surrounding the diagnosis of and prognosis for gender dysphoria in children, therapeutic decisions are particularly complex and difficult. Therapeutic interventions for children must take into account the probability that the children may outgrow cross-gender identification. University of Toronto researcher and therapist Kenneth Zucker believes that family and peer dynamics can play a significant role in the development and persistence of gender-nonconforming behavior, writing that it is important to consider both predisposing and perpetuating factors that might inform a clinical formulation and the development of a therapeutic plan: the role of temperament, parental reinforcement of cross-gender behavior during the sensitive period of gender identity formation, family dynamics, parental psychopathology, peer relationships and the multiple meanings that might underlie the child's fantasy of becoming a member of the opposite sex.^[69]

Zucker worked for years with children experiencing feelings of gender incongruence, offering psychosocial treatments to help them embrace the gender corresponding with their biological sex — for instance, talk therapy, parent-arranged play dates with same-sex peers, therapy for co-occurring psychopathological issues such as autism spectrum disorder, and parent counseling.^[70]

In a follow-up study by Zucker and colleagues of children treated by them over the course of thirty years at the Center for Mental Health and Addiction in Toronto, they found that gender identity disorder persisted in only 3 of the 25 girls they had treated.^[71] (Zucker's clinic was closed by the Canadian government in 2015.^[72])

An alternative to Zucker's approach that emphasizes affirming the child's preferred gender identity has become more common among therapists.^[73] This approach involves helping the children to self-identify even more with the gender label they prefer at the time. One component of the gender-affirming approach has been the use of hormone treatments for adolescents in order to delay the onset of sex-typical characteristics during puberty and alleviate the feelings of dysphoria the adolescents will experience as their bodies develop sex-typical characteristics that are at odds with the gender with which they identify. There is relatively little evidence for the therapeutic value of these kinds of puberty-delaying treatments, but they are currently the subject of a large clinical study sponsored by the National Institutes of Health.^[74]

While epidemiological data on the outcomes of medically delayed puberty is quite limited, referrals for sex-reassignment hormones and surgical procedures appear to be on the rise, and there is a push among many advocates to proceed with sex reassignment at younger ages. According to a 2013 article in The Times of London, the United Kingdom saw a 50% increase in the number of children referred to gender dysphoria clinics from 2011 to 2012, and a nearly 50% increase in referrals among adults from 2010 to 2012.^[75] Whether this increase can be attributed to rising rates of gender confusion, rising sensitivity to gender issues, growing acceptance of therapy as an option, or other factors, the increase itself is concerning, and merits further scientific inquiry into the family dynamics and other potential problems, such as social rejection or developmental issues, that may be taken as signs of childhood gender dysphoria.

A study of psychological outcomes following puberty suppression and sex-reassignment surgery, published in the journal Pediatrics in 2014 by child and adolescent psychiatrist Annelou L.C. de Vries and colleagues, suggested improved outcomes for individuals after receiving these interventions, with well-being improving to a level similar to that of young adults from the general population.^[76] This study looked at 55 transgender adolescents and young adults (22 MtF and 33 FtM) from a Dutch clinic who were assessed three times: before the start of puberty suppression (mean age: 13.6 years), when cross-sex hormones were introduced (mean age: 16.7 years), and at least one year after sex-reassignment surgery (mean age: 20.7 years). The study did not provide a matched group for comparison — that is, a group of transgender adolescents who did not receive puberty-blocking hormones, cross-sex hormones, and/or sex-reassignment surgery — which makes comparisons of outcomes more difficult.

In the study cohort, gender dysphoria improved over time, body image improved on some measures, and overall functioning improved modestly. Due to the lack of a matched control group it is unclear whether these changes are attributable to the procedures or would have occurred in this cohort without the medical and surgical interventions. Measures of anxiety, depression, and anger showed some improvements over time, but these findings did not reach statistical significance. While this study suggested some improvements over time in this cohort, particularly the reported subjective satisfaction with the procedures, detecting significant differences would require the study to be replicated with a matched control group and a larger sample size. The interventions also included care from a multidisciplinary team of medical professionals, which could have had a beneficial effect. Future studies of this kind would ideally include long-term follow-ups that assess outcomes and functioning beyond the late teens or early twenties.

Therapeutic Interventions in Adults

The potential that patients undergoing medical and surgical sex reassignment may want to return to a gender identity consistent with their biological sex suggests that reassignment carries considerable psychological and physical risk, especially when performed in childhood, but also in adulthood. It suggests that the patients' pre-treatment beliefs about an ideal post-treatment life may sometimes go unrealized.

In 2004, Birmingham University's Aggressive Research Intelligence Facility (Arif) assessed the findings of more than one hundred follow-up studies of post-operative transsexuals.^[77] An article in The Guardian summarized the findings:

Arif ... concludes that none of the studies provides conclusive evidence that gender reassignment is beneficial for patients. It found that most research was poorly designed, which skewed the results in favour of physically changing sex. There was no evaluation of whether other treatments, such as long-term counselling, might help transsexuals, or whether their gender confusion might lessen over time. Arif says the findings of the few studies that have tracked significant numbers of patients over several years were flawed because the researchers lost track of at least half of the participants. The potential complications of hormones and genital surgery, which include deep vein thrombosis and incontinence respectively, have not been thoroughly investigated, either. "There is huge uncertainty over whether changing someone's sex is a good or a bad thing," says Dr Chris Hyde, director of Arif. "While no doubt great care is taken to ensure that appropriate patients undergo gender reassignment, there's still a large number of people who have the surgery but remain traumatized — often to the point of committing suicide."^[78]

The high level of uncertainty regarding various outcomes after sex-reassignment surgery makes it difficult to find clear answers about the effects on patients of reassignment surgery. Since 2004, there have been other studies on the efficacy of sex-reassignment surgery, using larger sample sizes and better methodologies. We will now examine some of the more informative and reliable studies on outcomes for individuals receiving sex-reassignment surgery.

As far back as 1979, Jon K. Meyer and Donna J. Reter published a longitudinal follow-up study on the overall well-being of adults who underwent sex-reassignment surgery.^[79] The study compared the outcomes of 15 people who received surgery with those of 35 people who requested but did not receive surgery (14 of these individuals eventually received surgery later, resulting in three cohorts of comparison: operated, not-operated, and operated later). Well-being was quantified using a scoring system that assessed psychiatric, economic, legal, and relationship outcome variables. Scores were determined by the researchers after performing interviews with the subjects. Average follow-up time was approximately five years for subjects who had sex change surgery, and about two years for those subjects who did not.

Compared to their condition before surgery, the individuals who had undergone surgery appeared to show some improvement in well-being, though the results had a fairly low level of statistical significance. Individuals who had no surgical intervention did display a statistically significant improvement at follow-up. However, there was no statistically significant difference between the two groups' scores of well-being at follow-up. The authors concluded that "sex reassignment surgery confers no objective advantage in terms of social rehabilitation, although it remains subjectively satisfying to those who have rigorously pursued a trial period and who have undergone it."^[80] This study led the psychiatry department at Johns Hopkins Medical Center (JHMC) to discontinue surgical interventions for sex changes for adults.^[81]

However, the study has important limitations. Selection bias was introduced in the study population, because the subjects were drawn from those individuals who sought sex-reassignment surgery at JHMC. In addition, the sample size was small. Also, the individuals who did not undergo sex-reassignment surgery but presented to JHMC for it did not represent a true control group. Random assignment of the surgical procedure was not possible. Large differences in the average follow-up time between those who underwent surgery and those who did not further reduces any capacity to draw valid comparisons between the two groups. Additionally, the study's methodology was also criticized for the somewhat arbitrary and idiosyncratic way it measured the well-being of its subjects. Cohabitation or any form of contact with psychiatric services were scored as equally negative factors as having been arrested.^[82]

In 2011, Cecilia Dhejne and colleagues from the Karolinska Institute and Gothenburg University in Sweden published one of the more robust and well-designed studies to examine outcomes for persons who underwent sex-reassignment surgery. Focusing on mortality, morbidity, and criminality rates, the matched cohort study compared a total of 324 transsexual persons (191 MtFs, 133 FtMs) who underwent sex reassignment between 1973 and 2003 to two age-matched controls: people of the same sex as the transsexual person at birth, and people of the sex to which the individual had been reassigned.^[83]

Given the relatively low number of transsexual persons in the general population, the size of this study is impressive. Unlike Meyer and Reter, Dhejne and colleagues did not seek to evaluate the patient satisfaction after sex-reassignment surgery, which would have required a control group of transgender persons who desired to have sex-reassignment surgery but did not receive it. Also, the study did not compare outcome variables before and after sex-reassignment surgery; only outcomes after surgery were evaluated. We need to keep these caveats in mind as we look at what this study found.

Dhejne and colleagues found statistically significant differences between the two cohorts on several of the studied rates. For example, the postoperative transsexual individuals had an approximately three times higher risk for psychiatric hospitalization than the control groups, even after adjusting for prior psychiatric treatment.^[84] (However, the risk of being hospitalized for substance abuse was not significantly higher after adjusting for prior psychiatric treatment, as well as other covariates.) Sex-reassigned individuals had nearly a three times higher risk of all-cause mortality after adjusting for covariates, although the elevated risk was significant only for the time period of 1973–1988.^[85] Those undergoing surgery during this period were also at increased risk of being convicted of a crime.^[86] Most alarmingly, sex-reassigned individuals were 4.9 times more likely to attempt suicide and 19.1 times more likely to die by suicide compared to controls.^[87] "Mortality from suicide was strikingly high among sex-reassigned persons, including after adjustment for prior psychiatric morbidity."^[88]

The study design precludes drawing inferences "as to the effectiveness of sex reassignment as a treatment for transsexualism," although Dhejne and colleagues state that it is possible that "things might have been even worse without sex reassignment."^[89] Overall, post-surgical mental health was quite poor, as indicated especially by the high rate of suicide attempts and all-cause mortality in the 1973–1988 group. (It is worth noting that for the transsexuals in the study who underwent sex reassignment from 1989 to 2003, there were of course fewer years of data available at the time the study was conducted than for those transsexuals from the earlier period. The rates of mortality, morbidity, and criminality in the later group may in time come to resemble the elevated risks of the earlier group.) In summary, this study suggests that sex-reassignment surgery may not rectify the comparatively poor health outcomes associated with transgender populations in general. Still, because of the limitations of this study mentioned above, the results also cannot establish that sex-reassignment surgery causes poor health outcomes.

In 2009, Annette Kuhn and colleagues from the University Hospital and University of Bern in Switzerland examined post-surgery quality of life in 52 MtF and 3 FtM transsexuals fifteen years after sex-reassignment surgery.^[90] This study found considerably lower general life satisfaction in post-surgical transsexuals as compared with females who had at least one pelvic surgery in the past. The postoperative transsexuals reported lower satisfaction with their general quality of health and with some of the personal, physical, and social limitations they experienced with incontinence that resulted as a side effect of the surgery. Again, inferences cannot be drawn from this study regarding the efficacy of sex-reassignment surgery due to the lack of a control group of transgender individuals who did not receive sex-reassignment surgery.

In 2010, Mohammad Hassan Murad and colleagues from the Mayo Clinic published a systematic review of studies on the outcomes of hormonal therapies used in sex-reassignment procedures, finding that there was "very low quality evidence" that sex reassignment via hormonal interventions "likely improves gender dysphoria, psychological functioning and comorbidities, sexual function and overall quality of life."^[91] The authors identified 28 studies that together examined 1,833 patients who underwent sex-reassignment procedures that included hormonal interventions (1,093 male-to-female, 801 female-to-male).^[92] Pooling data across studies showed that, after receiving sex-reassignment procedures, 80% of patients reported improvement in gender dysphoria, 78% reported improvement in psychological symptoms, and 80% reported improvement in quality of life.^[93] None of the studies included the bias-limiting measure of randomization (that is, in none of the studies were sex-reassignment procedures assigned randomly to some patients but not to others), and only three of the studies included control groups (that is, patients who were not provided the treatment to serve as comparison cases for those who did).^[94] Most of the studies examined in Murad and colleagues' review reported improvements in psychiatric comorbidities and quality of life, though notably suicide rates remained higher for individuals who had received hormone treatments than for the general population, despite reductions in suicide rates following the treatments.^[95] The authors also found that there were some exceptions to reports of improvements in mental health and satisfaction with sex-reassignment procedures; in one study, 3 of 17 individuals regretted the procedure with 2 of these 3 seeking reversal procedures,^[96] and four of the studies reviewed reported worsening quality of life, including continuing social isolation, lack of improvement in social relationships, and dependence on government welfare programs.^[97]

The scientific evidence summarized suggests we take a skeptical view toward the claim that sex-reassignment procedures provide the hoped-for benefits or resolve the underlying issues that contribute to elevated mental health risks among the transgender population. While we work to stop maltreatment and misunderstanding, we should also work to study and understand whatever factors may contribute to the high rates of suicide and other psychological and behavioral health problems among the transgender population, and to think more clearly about the treatment options that are available.

[*] A note on terminology: In this report, we generally use the term transgender to refer to persons for whom there is an incongruity between the gender identity they understand themselves to possess and their biological sex. We use the term transsexual to refer to individuals who have undergone medical interventions to transform their appearance to better correspond with that of their preferred gender. The most familiar colloquial term used to describe the medical interventions that transform the appearance of transgender individuals may be "sex change" (or, in the case of surgery, "sex-change operation"), but this is not commonly used in the scientific and medical literature today. While no simple terms for these procedures are completely satisfactory, in this report we employ the commonly used terms sex reassignment and sex-reassignment surgery, except when quoting a source that uses "gender reassignment" or some other term.

"With strong support. I want to thank the introducers of this bill. Our community is strewn with clean energy projects, solar projects, all kinds of other projects, and no type of discount or anything for us having those projects. We all pay the same high HECO bill that everyone else has, and on top of it, we have the HECO power plant in my district as well. And so I feel, there's actually a group at UH that's starting to pursue this, because a lot of the rural communities are being affected by the amount of energy projects that are put in our community with no type of benefit to the community. So, in strong support. Thank you."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 1567, HD 2, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION," passed Third Reading by a vote of 50 ayes, with Representative Ichiyama being excused.

Representative Nakamura's written remarks are as follows:

"Support with reservations.

"I'm unclear who will pay the cost of the proposed mandatory mediation that would take place prior to a quiet title action.

"I believe that the long-term solution is for the State via the Office of Hawaiian Affairs to facilitate the creation of land trusts for families of Hawaiian ancestry that own kuleana properties. All family lines would be represented on the land trust and would proactively decide on the long-term use of the property."

Representative Tokioka rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Har rose to disclose a potential conflict of interest, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. May I request a ruling on a potential conflict? At my law firm, I actually do quiet title actions," and the Chair ruled, "no conflict."

Representative Har continued and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Ing rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"In support, just a brief comment. I know this bill may have some work to do regarding the mediation part of who's going to pay for it. The idea was that we split half-half. But there's also lots of services that will do it pro bono for a lot of these defendants. Thank you."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. "Mr. Speaker, strong support. I'd like to thank the Chair of CPC for moving the bill out. I know that this bill is still a work in progress. We'll do some adjustment as it goes through the process. The reason why I introduced this bill is because there seems to be no uniformity in the way insurance adjuster and insurance umpire are being done.

"Testimony that we received states that most of what they do is already the policy. When you say most, it's not all. To make sure that there will be uniformity, we have to put some definition, so that it will apply to everyone. And I want to thank again the Chair of CPC. We will be working together to make those adjustments. Thank you."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. Representative Ward's written remarks are as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong opposition to this bill. While I understand the spirit of this bill, I have some concerns with the method.

"First, while I for one still visit my barber on a regular basis, and have a good relationship with him, I go to him to get my hair cut. After all, that is what he went to school for and was trained to do. He was not formally trained to recognize domestic violence cases or diagnose emotional abuse. We have counselors, doctors and therapists for that, where people can voluntarily seek help.

"Furthermore, while this bill may protect the service provider by not holding them criminally or civilly liable, misreporting could do irreparable harm to customer's family life.

"Lastly, mandating that an individual participate in a course like this puts undue responsibility on the service provider. If they wanted a career in counseling or therapy, they would have gone to school for that profession."

Representative Har rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. Representative Tupola rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"With reservations, quick comment. The part two of this bill is what concerns me, that requires the counties to use their portion of the TAT to fund and operate the EMS system, which currently is centralized and run by our state.

"And we have actually one of the best systems of EMS run by our state, and it's credited to the fact that it's a centralized system and not run by the counties. And the counties actually like the way that it's running and would prefer not to have their TAT used for this, as they won't get any additional appropriations if they run this EMS program, but the way that it's run now is the way that everyone prefers it. So that's my concern, just part two of the bill. Thank you."

Representative Nakamura rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Saiki moved that the report of the Committee be adopted, and that H.B. No. 861, HD 2 pass Third Reading, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Tupola rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Can you please register a no vote? I just wanted to explain, because I have my good constituents here that are in support of this, and I wanted to explain the background.

"So the community-based subsistence fishing areas, this is a good thing, it wants communities to come together, find rules to establish for their fishing areas. The concern we had in the committee was that it is requiring DLNR to do five communities within a span of, I think, eight years. Currently there's only one community that finished this process and it took them 10 years. There are certain reasons why.

"But I have since then met with a group called Kua'āina Ulu 'Auamo who actually does this as a nonprofit, gathers with communities, talks to them if they're ready to do their own fishery rules. And their suggestion was actually that we make sure that there be an initiatory letter from the community to DLNR saying, we want to do this, we want to pursue it, and then have it be from the community for the community. So I am definitely for that process happening.

"Not against what community-based fisheries are, but what we're suggesting here is that DLNR do it, who they didn't seem like they really wanted to. And two, that it gives them a timeline of doing five communities, which we don't know which five, within a span of eight years, which seems that could be impossible seeing as though the only one that finished it took 10. So those are my concerns, and I still want to pursue this, but perhaps in a different fashion. Thank you."

Representative Ing rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"In support. Just briefly, what the bill, the genesis of the bill. CBSFAs, yes, started with Haena, it took 10 years, that established a model. Now DLNR knows exactly how many meetings you need to do, 10 rounds around the community, meeting with stakeholders, which stakeholders will come to the table and which will have the loudest voice, and which stakeholders will be the squeakiest wheels, and how to navigate that.

"DLNR, they got it down. And as a matter of fact, we put in two or three positions to help along the way. DLNR is saying they're committed to establishing more CBSFAs, and they don't need this bill. It's just not happening. As a chair, when I go out to these communities, like Moomomi, and talking to the Maui Nui resource council and various communities across rural Oahu, you see that communities are ready to go, and it's just DLNR is not moving.

"So how do you kind of jump-start it? I think this bill's a good way to do it. It shows that the Legislature is supportive of community-based fisheries management where fisher folk actually have a seat at the table. The kupuna who know the breeding patterns and the tides better than NOAA does can actually voice up and their voices will count. And it shows that we're supportive.

"This timeline, we've pushed it back another five years, it's very reasonable. The process does not take 10 years. Now that we have a model, it takes about anywhere from one to two years, according to the folks in the Department. It's just a matter of making sure they move, because often in this building we introduce a bill, and the department will say, the bill is not needed and we can do it through rules, and then three years later it hasn't happened. Thank you."

Representative Nakamura rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative DeCoite rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Please register my no vote. Brief comment, Mr. Speaker. CBSFA is a good program. The problem I have with CBSFA is that I'm from the island of Molokai, and Moomomi is the place of what they're looking towards for CBSFA. I call out for transparency, the community there, which is the only access for mainly Native Hawaiians, in fact the only access was designated through Moomomi.

"The problem we're having there is enforcing, one, and being able to go when they need to go and catch limits on it. Those catch limits are I think good catch limits, but I think the transparency of it hasn't been that anything of but non-transparency.

"More so, the expansion from Mokio all the way to Kalawao County is a huge concern, as the recent layoff of 46 employees on the island. These Native Hawaiians do take to the oceans, so I want to note my no vote on this measure. Thank you."

Representative Morikawa rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Holt rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Cachola rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

No. 861, HD 2, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO COMMUNITY-BASED SUBSISTENCE FISHING AREAS," passed Third Reading by a vote of 43 ayes to 7 noes, with Representatives Cachola, Holt, Morikawa and Nakamura voting aye with reservations, with Representatives DeCoite, Har, Ito, Kong, Tokioka, Tupola and Ward voting no, and with Representative Ichiyama being excused.

Representative Luke, for the Committee on Finance, presented a report (Stand. Com. Rep. No. 1079) recommending that H.B. No. 865, HD 1, as amended in HD 2, pass Third Reading.

Representative Saiki moved that the report of the Committee be adopted, and that H.B. No. 865, HD 2 pass Third Reading, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Ward rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, in opposition. SCR 1079 is called collective bargaining. I think it's a misnomer. It's not about collective bargaining, it's about OHA, it's about respecting their sovereignty, and I don't believe this bill does respect their sovereignty.

"My brief comment is that it doesn't respect the sovereignty of OHA, and if OHA wanted to become civil servants, I'm sure that they would be able to do that without a bill like this. So I would say that it's misnamed as it is. May I request comments into the Journal. Thank you."

Representative Ward's written remarks are as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong opposition to this bill. I understand that there are arguments for and against this measure. But I would remiss to not remind this body of the autonomy that OHA has when it comes to matters such as these.

"This measure would not only go against present law but would also largely undermine the role of the board of trustees. It could also adversely affect their budget and how they operate, resulting 'in short-term disruptions to operations and the long-term restructuring of OHA ...' Which includes the higher cost to keep their personnel employed and lights on.

"I believe in the sovereignty of OHA and will be voting to keep it that way."

Representative DeCoite rose in support of the measure with reservations and asked that her written remarks be inserted in the Journal, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative DeCoite's written remarks are as follows:

"With reservations. While I do fully support the rights of employees to unionize and participate in collective bargaining, I feel this decision needs to be made by the employees themselves, not the legislature. Mahalo."

Representative Har rose in support of the measure with reservations and asked that her written remarks be inserted in the Journal, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Har's written remarks are as follows:

"Mr. Speaker, I rise in support with reservations to HB 865, HD 2, Relating to Collective Bargaining. This bill makes the Office of Hawaiian Affairs (OHA) subject to civil service and collective bargaining rights and gives OHA voting rights as a public employer.

"Mr. Speaker, by including OHA in the state civil service law and the collective bargaining process, it compromises OHA's Board of Trustees' decision making power over its own employees, which compromises OHA's autonomy from the executive branch. OHA's independence is established in HRS Chapter 10 which explicitly states that OHA's Board of Trustees, not the executive branch, has the power to determine OHA's direction.

"I would like to cite the testimony of the Office of Hawaiian Affairs.

This measure undermines the autonomy of the OHA Board of Trustees, as OHA's independent decisionmakers and fiduciaries of the Native Hawaiian Trust Fund. The amendment to HRS § 89-6 could result in the OHA Board of Trustees holding only 1 of 14 votes when negotiating a collective bargaining agreement involving OHA employees, whose salaries make up a significant portion of OHA's operating budget. Coupled with the requirements of the Civil Service Law, HRS Chapter 76, OHA Trustees' ability to oversee and plan for personnel expenses would be reduced and subjected in large part to the decisions of the executive branch and Governor, who would hold 7 votes in collective bargaining negotiations involving OHA employees. Given such a voting imbalance, this measure would effectively require the OHA Board of Trustees to cede control over some of its key expenditures to the State.

"The OHA's testimony makes clear that this bill infringes upon the agency's independence which contradicts the HRS guaranteeing OHA's autonomy.

"For these reasons Mr. Speaker, I stand in support with reservations."

Representative Cachola rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. Representative Saiki moved that the report of the Committee be adopted, and that H.B. No. 263, HD 2 pass Third Reading, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Thielen rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm going to be casting a no vote on this measure, but I wanted to explain it. I'm a strong proponent of the medical cannabis program. I wish we could get that term in the statutes so people are, when they're dealing with the medical product, they're calling it cannabis.

"But anyway, what I don't like is what I see as double taxation. If I'm incorrect, I'd love to be told that it's not double taxation, but at this point, I read it that way. So, yes to the medical cannabis, yes to the actual scientific term cannabis, but no to double taxation. Thank you."

Representative DeCoite rose in support of the measure with reservations and asked that her written remarks be inserted in the Journal, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative DeCoite's written remarks are as follows:

"With reservations. I feel patients should have access to medical marijuana. In this bill I am concerned about the high tax rate along with what appears to be a double tax. Patients shouldn't be overtaxed for their medicine.

"Also, for those patients that cannot smoke their medical marijuana, there should be access to edible products. Previous versions of this bill allowed for edible medical marijuana products, and I would like to see those provisions put back in this bill. Mahalo."

Representative Cachola rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Souki rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, with reservations. I'm looking at this bill where certainly I favor medical cannabis, and I do favor the double taxation, because I believe that we do need the revenue, so we can take care of our needs.

"However, my concern with this measure and the other measure is that, that's my understanding that edibles have been taken out of the bill, because the Department of Health felt it wasn't ready. I believe it's the Department of Health's problem that it's not ready. Anyone who has made this major investment for the dispensaries, if they can't have edibles, they're going to have a very difficult time in dispensing their product.

"And so hopefully as this bill goes along we can look at the other side in the Senate, and hopefully maybe in conference look at including edibles back again. The Department of Health has had enough time to work on this measure. This has been going on for years right now, there's no excuse, and this will ultimately kill the project if we don't have edibles in there. Thank you very much."

Representative Ward rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, I hadn't planned to speak on this. In opposition. I think that the good speaker from Maui needs a retort.

"The point is, this is for the sake of the kids, who empirically have been proven to mistakenly eat this marijuana, that is the edible, and they are the ones whose minds, brains and psychology is being protected, and that's why they've done it in other places. Be mindful of the edibles, because of the youth, because of the kids.

"So it's not to harm those who can't smoke, it's to protect those that confuse it with candy, of which it's very, very easily confused to be. Thank you."

Representative Thielen rose to respond, stating:

"Thank you, second time, Mr. Speaker. I would like to request that the edibles portion of the Speaker's former remarks be adopted as my own. I strongly agree with him on that.

"We're talking about medical cannabis. And many people, the only way, when they're quite ill, the only way that they can ingest this will be through edibles. So it's like saying, we'll give you half a loaf to help you get better, but you can't have it in the way that you're going to be able to actually use the product.

"So yes, the edibles should go back in. And just as we protect our other medical prescriptions from children by the safety lock on the pill bottle, edibles can be protected in the same way, so it's cruel to take that out of the bill. It's cruel to those who are in medical need of cannabis."

"But I don't adopt the Speaker's comments about supporting the double taxation. All the other comments, yes. Thank you."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 263, HD 2, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO MEDICAL MARIJUANA," passed Third Reading by a vote of 46 ayes to 4 noes, with Representatives Cachola, DeCoite and Souki voting aye with reservations, with Representatives Har, Thielen, Tupola and Ward voting no, and with Representative Ichiyama being excused.

Representative Tokioka rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Lowen rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative DeCoite rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Creagan rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Kobayashi rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Reservations. May I explain quite briefly my reservation, give you some data. I'm yes for the bill because we are told that the Governor would like to improve this bill so that he does not have to veto it, like he did a similar bill last year.

"I'm with reservations because I'm doubtful of some of the claims given to us by Airbnb. I received 18 emails on this topic, all addressed to me, with the following line at the beginning. Quote, I am your constituent, a voter, and a member of the Airbnb community, unquote.

"Of the 18 emails that I received, we were able to find only three out of 18 that fit that description, and were voters in my district. In addition, we found two others that seemed to be voters in the State of Hawaii. All the others we could not find as voters.

"I suspect that a large number of these 18 people are not residents of the State of Hawaii. And I say that because, of these 18 names, one person has the last name of Li, L-I, which could be a Chinese name or a Korean name or a Vietnamese name. The other person has a name that begins with the words 'rep' and then the name of a Representative sitting on this floor. That Representative is definitely not my constituent.

"All of the other names are not Hawaiian or Polynesian, they are not Filipino or Hispanic, they are not Japanese, they are not Chinese, and they are not Portuguese. I would contend that any typical list of voters in my district, and in most other districts, would have representatives from those groups.

"So I would contend that these people are, as they say, members of the Airbnb community, either by ownership from the mainland, hosting, or in some other way connected with Airbnb. But not constituents, and not voters.

"So, if this kind of inaccuracy in terms of this statement, constituent, voter, and member of Airbnb, is now transferred over to the contention that Airbnb hosts follow all applicable local county rules and laws, then I would like to see that evidence.

"We do not have that evidence, and under this bill, we could not have that evidence because this law, or this proposal, would shield the evidence behind the cloak of the Airbnb platform. So for that reason, I am in reservations. Thank you."

Representative Evans rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise in support. This is a work in progress. It's a very difficult bill to work on, because we get caught up in the Airbnb discussion.

"But I just want to remind members that it's really about collecting taxes on people that offer these vacation rentals. And we have so many hotels, time shares, and so many people that play by the rules and pay their taxes. So we're trying to find the answer given now with the Internet and the ability for people to join these organizations and go on the Internet to actually lease their property.

"We're trying to find a solution. So I encourage our members to vote this and to participate in finding the right answer, because again it is a challenging task for us as policymakers, but I think it's the right thing to do. Thank you."

Representative LoPresti rose to respond, stating:

"Second time, still with reservations. I just wanted to say, I had a lot of similar emails as the Representative from Diamond Head, and one of the emails I got was from a senator, who I know is opposed to this bill. And she ain't my constituent, either. So there's a lot of interesting, not even thinly disguised deception going on, and I'll go reservations for now."

Representative Thielen rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm rising to oppose the bill. I also received a large number of emails. They would start off with that the person was a voter in my district and had a legal transient vacation unit which they needed to rent out. So when I went back to a number of these and I said, could you tell me if you have a non-conforming use permit with the City and County of Honolulu so you can be legal, back came the, oh, I'm sorry, I meant I was legal because I'm paying my GET tax and sometimes my transient accommodations tax. So the emails were very misleading.

"The bill, unfortunately, is going to allow that to continue. It says that the agent, meaning Airbnb or someone like that, must notify the operator that the subject property is required to be in compliance with applicable land use laws. Fine. They tell these people that sent me the email, you've got to be in compliance with applicable land use laws.

"What then does the owner do? Airbnb must then require attestation from the owner through specific language. And they put on there, like you see on a screen a lot of times, by accepting the terms of service, I agree and attest that I've reviewed all applicable laws and regulations and that my listing is in compliance. They're going to do that. Right now they're operating outside of the law. A simple attestation is, they're easily going to click that.

"And there we go. We've just opened it wide up. We've provided a screen, a safety net, for all these illegal operators that claim they're operating legally. They'll continue to do so. Maybe we'll get the tax, but we'll destroy our local residential neighborhoods. Thank you."

Representative San Buenaventura rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"I stand in strong support. Unlike the other Representatives who have spoken, maybe I'm more in touch with my constituents, because I looked at the emails, and I know them, I know them personally. And I do know that they run legal Airbnbs.

"So I also looked at the emails in opposition, and I want to point out that almost all of those emails in opposition are the very type of people we want to dissuade from buying up affordable housing. These are people who do not live in the State of Hawaii, who basically remove affordable housing.

"And I want to remind the Representatives here that we use taxes two ways. One, not only to generate revenue, but it's also to dissuade illegal activities. And it's kind of odd that the people who are claiming that we are taxing this, we are actually supporting?

"Look at all the cigarette taxes, look at all the sin taxes we've put in. These are used to dissuade, and, in fact, all of those anti-rule, anti-Airbnb people are saying that they are seeing it as a method of dissuading them from buying affordable housing.

"And that's one of the reasons why we should support this bill. It increases affordable housing and increases revenue. Thank you."

Representative Gates rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Tokioka rose, stating:

"I'm sorry, Mr. Speaker, a point of clarification. I'm not sure if I voted with reservations on this bill, because the debate has been a while, so I want to make sure that my reservations has been recorded."

The Chair addressed Representative Tokioka, stating:

"Duly noted. With reservations for Tokioka on this measure."

Representative Onishi rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, I'd like to register my reservations on the current draft of the bill. Mr. Speaker, the changes that were made after the HD 1 have changed the purpose of the bill. It has added provisions in the bill that, in my mind, serves to undermine the purpose of the bill, the collection of the taxes, and the reporting by these short-term transient accommodation hosts to not only the Department of Taxation but also to the taxing powers of the counties.

"And so, with those issues that have not been vetted with the original Tourism Committee or the author of the bill, I am standing with reservations on the current version. Thank you."

Representative Ing rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"With reservations. And very quickly, just because the bill is a little bit messier than it's been, point of clarification. Folks should understand that Airbnb is just a platform, it's a website, it's the folks that use it that could be aboveboard or not.

"I did an analysis of the emails we received as well, in support. I crossed it with the county database, and out of the 21 emails, I believe, only four were legal as vacation rentals in my district.

"There's been talk about 30% of these rentals being from real estate companies. Well, that leaves 70% of people that are in the middle class, and they're just trying to rent out an extra room or ohana in order to stay in the middle class. So this is an issue with strong pros and cons on both sides, and I think it's prudent that we continue discussion throughout the Senate and conference. Thank you."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 1471, HD 3, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO TAXATION," passed Third Reading by a vote of 45 ayes to 5 noes, with Representatives Creagan, DeCoite, Gates, Holt, Ing, Keohokalole, Kobayashi, LoPresti, Lowen, Matsumoto, Nakamura, Onishi and Tokioka voting aye with reservations, with Representatives Lee, Quinlan, Thielen, Tupola and Ward voting no, and with Representative Ichiyama being excused.

"Mr. Speaker, opposition, brief comment. Mr. Speaker, we are neither Australians nor in need of a system such as this, where if you come in second you can actually come in first, eventually. Because I think this is where, if we had a system like this, there would never be such a thing as a former congressman by the name of Charles Djou. Thank you."

H.B. No. 553, HD 1:

Representative Saiki moved that H.B. No. 553, HD 1 pass Third Reading, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Tupola rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"I wanted to register a no vote. And just real quick, I alluded in second reading to the fact that we had a bill about this last year, which we did. It handled a different part of it, but it was HB 2359, so it was talking about penal responsibility, which means are you fit in the event where you committed the crime, were you sane? And then it's fitness to proceed, which means are you sane when it's time to testify and be in court?"

"So last year what we did was we said that there should be three on the front end, which was were you sane, yes or no, in the beginning. And that, if it wasn't a severe offense, then it could be one person saying that this person is fit to proceed.

"This one is suggesting that on the front end, we bring it down to one person. And the three people that it originally is, like right now, is a psychologist, a psychiatrist, and then one of both. And within the three of them, because it's different schools of thought, it helps to bring a more balanced perspective as to whether or not this person was mentally present when the crime happened. And I feel like, because we just switched it last year, and this is actually the opposite of what it is, saying that now we have one at the front end, and then three on the back end, it doesn't make any sense.

"I feel like the way that it is now, is making sure that we actually are sure that this person was mentally there when the crime happened, and it's three people on the front end, and they have different backgrounds, and they're making sure in the front end and one on the back. So that's why I'm in opposition. Thank you."

Representative Kobayashi rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, in support. I happen to know the person who has done more sanity exams in the State of Hawaii history than any other person. He tells me that in a vast majority of cases, perhaps in the range of 80% to 90%, it is pretty clear whether this person is sane or not, fit to proceed or not.

"So in a small number of cases, there may be a question, and it is in those cases that it would be good to have three examiners. This bill allows for that. The court, it says, in appropriate circumstances, may appoint an additional examiner or examiners.

"So I would contend that for a majority, a large majority of cases, this fits. And in the minority of cases where this does not fit, the court has an avenue to appoint additional examiners. Thank you."

Representative San Buenaventura rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"I stand in strong support. I just want to correct something that was stated. I haven't done it in over 10 years, but I used to do some court-appointed criminal defense. And it's not psychologist, psychiatrist, it is one chosen by the defendant, one chosen by the prosecutor, regardless of whether or not they're psychologists, psychiatrists, and one is the state mental examiner. This basically brings it down to one, the state mental examiner.

"Second thing I'd like to point out is when they did the statistics, Hilo, Third Circuit Court, Big Island, had the longest, 50 days, where there was this difference. What that means is people were being incarcerated, awaiting their fitness to proceed, even before trial. So it's like one year, I think it's 50 weeks, one year where they're not even determined whether or not they committed a crime, because there's no determination whether or not they're even fit to proceed.

"So this is a question of justice, this is a question of expediency, and I stand in strong support. Thank you."

Representative Luke rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"In strong support. We've had significant amount of discussion with the Hawaii State Hospital system. A lot of times, these are individuals who have committed a crime, waiting to proceed with trial, so a lot of times the problem is because we require three examinations as opposed to one examination, which is the trend in the rest of the states, we're one of the only ones that requires three.

"So during that time, these individuals who have been charged with the crime is sitting at state hospital with minimal security and which is resulting in different type of issues at the state hospital, while they're never going to, it's going to take numerous number of years before they even get to trial, while the victims of these heinous crimes are just sitting and waiting for determination of whether these individuals will be fit. So, strong support."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and H.B. No. 553, HD 1, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO CRIMINAL DEFENDANTS' FITNESS TO PROCEED," passed Third Reading by a vote of 47 ayes to 3 noes, with Representatives Thielen, Tupola and Ward voting no, and with Representative Ichiyama being excused.

H.B. No. 554, HD 1:

On motion by Representative Saiki, seconded by Representative Evans and carried, H.B. No. 554, HD 1, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO ORDERS FOR TREATMENT OVER OBJECTION," passed Third Reading by a vote of 50 ayes, with Representative Ichiyama being excused.

At 11:17 o'clock a.m., the Chair noted that the following bills passed Third Reading:

H.B. No. 553, HD 1

H.B. No. 1235, HD 1:

Representative Saiki moved that H.B. No. 1235, HD 1 pass Third Reading, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative San Buenaventura rose to disclose a potential conflict of interest, stating:

"Ruling on a conflict. I practice family law," and the Chair ruled, "no conflict."

Representative San Buenaventura continued, stating:

"Request that it, for today as well as for the rest of the session," and the Chair "so ordered."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and H.B. No. 1235, HD 1, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO THE UNIFORM FAMILY LAW ARBITRATION ACT," passed Third Reading by a vote of 50 ayes, with Representative Ichiyama being excused.

H.B. No. 1581, HD 1:

Representative Saiki moved that H.B. No. 1581, HD 1 pass Third Reading, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Ohno rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In opposition. Mr. Speaker, the proposition of this bill is simple, show us your tax returns or we'll keep you off Hawaii's ballot.

"I'd like to see the president's tax returns. I'd like those to be public. But I oppose any measure that tries to use the voters of Hawaii as leverage to accomplish that. I proudly voted for the candidate that released her tax returns. As a matter of fact, a majority of the country did. However, the candidate who kept his returns secret won.

"I think that some may argue that there's trust and transparency that's needed, and I agree with that. At this time, I desperately agree with that. But I think that any action should be taken at the federal level, rather than piecemeal, state by state. And that's because I think this is an ambitious goal. I think it's a long shot.

"I cringe to see us, our esteemed body, bar the voters of Hawaii from selecting a major presidential candidate. I think the public would call into question the integrity of our elections. I think the free and fair elections that we hold in Hawaii would have an asterisk next to them. Once again, I believe the best course of action is a federal solution, providing uniformity across all 50 states.

"To those voters who voted for Trump, I do not agree with them, and I do not agree with his beliefs. But I believe even more strongly that we as Americans have the right to vote for our freely chosen candidate, even if I oppose him.

"In this body, Mr. Speaker, we have stood up for the minority, time and time again. People who are different from us, people who aren't like us. In this case, I do not share the beliefs of our president. However, I must stand up for them, and I think that if the tables were turned, and I hope, they would stand up for my beliefs if I am in the minority. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Nakamura rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Onishi rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Har rose in opposition to the measure and asked that the remarks of Representative Ohno be entered into the Journal as her own, and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative Kobayashi rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Morikawa rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Cullen rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Belatti rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Yamane rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Lee rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In support. Just very briefly, the highest office in the land, the most important office in the land, with the greatest reach not only with domestic policy but also foreign, is the only office in the land also not subject to federal conflict of interest laws, ethics regulations, and other things that all the rest of us throughout the rest of the country, who have a responsibility to stand up and advocate for our constituents and for our neighbors and families here in the United States.

"Already we have seen significant cause for concern, not only with this administration but perhaps setting a precedent and a standard by which future administrations down the road may also avail themselves. I think we have an obligation to ask these difficult questions, especially now.

"This bill is not about a Democrat or a Republican. In fact, any particular presidential candidate applies to anyone who would occupy a future office. But one thing it does do is address some of the concerns being raised here and now, today, with a current president, for example, who, while I think many of us would disagree with his policies, have raised significant issues which we have no remedy otherwise to fix.

"Decisions the President has made are on things already in place, on the Dakota Access Pipeline, for example, while simultaneously having investments in the company that would benefit directly from those decisions, is the tip of the iceberg in reporting from the Wall Street Journal, which has identified over 500 other conflicts of interest which could raise significant ethical, fiscal and legal concerns for our nation.

"Mr. Speaker, this bill is important not just because we as the State of Hawaii feel that the presidency is important and ought to be accountable to all voters, but that the very fabric of our democracy, that transparency in elections, the ability for your average citizen to stand up and know who it is they're voting for and why, and understand that they're not going to be beholden to a company, or a partner, or their own financial interests, or even another country, is paramount in our democracy and is something that has never been challenged in the way that it is now.

"We have an obligation as a state, Mr. Speaker, to act, because the Federal Government will not, anytime soon. There is no realistic path forward, and we've already seen this congress defer multiple actions, multiple bills and resolutions, that would even begin to ask what is appropriate behavior for a president.

"We have an obligation not to ourselves, but to our future generations who would be beholden to whomever is elected next, to make sure that that person has full transparency and accountability and serves on behalf of the people of this country, and not on behalf of themselves or anyone else. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Tokioka rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A no vote, and just a few brief comments, Mr. Speaker. I understand the passion of the Representative from Waimanalo, and I think many of us feel the same way. But the concerns that I have would relate to the floor speech that the Chair from IAC made, and a couple of other things.

"When the attorney general of the State of Hawaii went to Washington, D.C. and they had a sit-down with the President, he specifically asked, were you one of the states that voted against and are suing me for the travel ban.

"I believe we have four electoral votes in the State of Hawaii. I'm sure, as we watch him on television, that the President is looking at this, and I'm not sure if he's going to be favorable on a caucus like this sending him that message. And those are the concerns that we have, that the unintended consequences might be great.

"I think we all know that this legislature, the House and the Senate, has the smallest number of Republican members in both bodies, six in the House, and none in the Senate.

"So, when you're the president and you're looking at all of these things happening, I hope he doesn't take into consideration some of these things that are happening and make bad decisions when it comes to projects that we get in Hawaii, and the funding from the Federal Government. So, for those reasons, Mr. Speaker, thank you for the opportunity, no vote."

Representative Ing rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"With reservations. I appreciate the intent of this bill. I'm speaking in reservations, not in deference to the current administration, but to the process.

"Uniformity of standards is important. Yes, the presidential office is exempt from a lot of conflicts of interest that we aren't, but we do not need to disclose our tax returns in order to run for office. If we do pass something like this, we will have that pressure. Folks will be saying, constitutionally every elected official should follow suit just to make the standards uniform.

"Also, it's been noticed that the free press does work. There's been all these conflicts identified by the Washington Post or Wall Street Journal, I believe, with or without getting ahold of tax returns. If the public wants tax returns, it will make it clear in the election. And unfortunately, that wasn't the case this time around.

"There's a presumption that this bill is about conflict of interest and nothing else, but the pressure to release tax return or not, that ability, that agency is, goes far beyond that. I'm afraid that someone like me with student debt could be shamed. There's other reasons, maybe you have some history that you don't think the election should really be about, it should be about the issues and what the public wants, and not class shaming because you're too poor.

"Recently, the presidential elections have been multi-millionaires, billionaires now, running, and the last thing you want to see is folks saying, ha ha ha you're so poor, you shouldn't represent us.

"And this bill might be, as the Representative from Hawaii Kai might say, a nice poke in the eye from Democrats, but I don't think it necessarily serves the public. Thank you."

Representative Ward rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, in opposition. A brief comment that I didn't intend to make, but inevitably I guess the presidential issue does come up to the floor of this learned House.

"First of all, I really appreciate the Chair of IAC and his empathy for the minority. That's a vicarious statement, if you will, for what we on this side of the aisle often go through, often feel.

"But now we as a state, Mr. Speaker, are a minority. I think the reality spoken by the Representative of Kauai needs to be taken to heart. Some of us are trying to bridge what otherwise is an outlier in the national political culture. Some of us are trying to work with the White House, some of us are trying to work with departments, particularly for funding that's already been cut for some particular special programs for special indigenous people.

"Mr. Speaker, it's an uphill climb, and I think we have to heed the message of Harry Truman. If you will recall when MacArthur and Harry Truman were kind of going at it with each other, Truman was trying to hold the general down from getting out of line, and they were going to have a meeting on Wake Island. Mr. Truman was the first to land, and General MacArthur purposely kept circling the airport just to keep his president waiting. And there is the message. Truman said, as he was approached by MacArthur, General, I don't give a damn what you think of Harry Truman, but this is your president, and you respect him.

"Harry Truman's message can make sense today. We have to respect our president, we have to work with our president, just like you have to work with the minority, as the minority, as we have worked with you as the majority. Let us be tolerant, let us be reasonable, let's use the data, let's not use opinion and name-calling and all the things that are just thrashing around in this nation. The sky is not going to fall.

"We are a land of laws, and not of individuals. Whoever does wrong gets caught and gets put before the jurors and for the courts. So, Mr. Speaker, I think this bill is a little bit in that direction to where we call in question our leaders at the national level, and I think we just need to take a deep breath and know that the sky's not going to fall, regardless of who's the president of this great nation. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative DeCoite rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, thank you. In opposition, brief comment. I'd like to insert the words of the Chair from IAC as if they were my own. And really, from the Aloha State, we've got to work together, we might not agree on everything, and I think we need to look at what's happening before us as we need to be funding our schools, our kūpuna, and figuring out where we're going to get this funding. So with that being said, in opposition, Mr. Speaker. Thank you."

Representative Takayama rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Belatti rose, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In opposition. Mr. Speaker, who says that floor debate cannot change opinion? I would like to adopt the words of the Representative from Nuuanu as if they were my own," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative Belatti continued, stating:

"I would also like to say, I think in response to the Representative from Kauai who mentioned our state attorney general who made the choice to sue Trump, I think we have to be strategic in how we interact with this administration, and any administration, and there are times when the State of Hawaii will have to stand up.

"But I think on this matter, when we are told as young leaders, pick your battles wisely, I think my opposition grows out of the fact that we should pick our battles wisely. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Morikawa rose, stating:

"Thank you. I'd like to change reservations to a no vote and adopt the words of the Chair of IAC. Thank you," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative LoPresti rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Strong support. First, I'd like to adopt the words of the Representative from Waimanalo as my own," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative LoPresti continued, stating:

"Thank you. And I really like the, some wonderful things said by the Chair of IAC, and I agree in spirit with a lot of what he said. I disagree with the conclusion, however. I'm just dismayed that it seems that some of the tenor of conversation is that, let's give in to fear of what he'll do in response. And that is no way to lead.

"Ethics and transparency ought not to be a partisan issue, Mr. Speaker, but it seems more and more on the national level, if you're for ethics and you're for transparency, then it's a partisan issue.

"And that's not okay, and I think it's important to stand with integrity to say, yeah, if you're going to call everything that's a criticism of you fake news, well then let's hear it from the source itself and see what the reality is. Because we've all, and the conversation has been so detached from reality that people have lost their bearings. And this is basic ethics and integrity, and therefore strong support."

Representative Matsumoto rose and asked that the Clerk record a no vote for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Brower rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In support. I have a lot of the concerns that were raised, but at the same time, Mr. Speaker, I watch a lot of Fox News. I don't overthink my emails, and watch a lot of Fox News. And we do have a presidential candidate who said he would release his tax returns, not obligated, but he said he voluntarily would, prior to being elected president.

"After being elected president, he said he had no intentions of releasing his tax returns. As a candidate, he has said that he was waiting for an IRS audit to finish before he would release those returns. But his spokesperson, as well as he, has said now that he will not be releasing those returns.

"So I think there is something to the measure, but I do have the same amount of caution we've heard on the floor today. Thank you."

Representative McDermott rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition again. As I said on the second reading, I don't think it goes far enough, but I won't rehash those comments.

"But I will point out that, when President Obama was running for his second term, there were several states that passed bills requiring birth certificates. And those were adjudicated in courts, and the courts said, it's up to the party who they put forward, it's not our decision as a court to make that determination.

"So there were several states, Arizona was one that comes to mind, there were a couple down South. He never produced a birth certificate in 2012, but the states did not have the right, according to the courts, to put these sorts of regulations on the presidential candidate when the national Democratic Party puts them forward or the Republican national party puts them forward. So I think that would be, to bear that in mind.

"Second, the contents of the tax returns, I will put my Nostradamus hat on and say that he made a lot of money and paid as little as legally possible. And for, to see the companies he has an interest in, you would go to the SEC financial disclosure, which is about 500 pages long. So those are my comments, sir."

The Chair addressed Representative McDermott, stating:

"Thank you. And just a clarification, Representative McDermott. I think the first time you spoke on this bill, you actually were in support and said it doesn't go far enough. Is that correct?"

Representative McDermott: "Right. That's right. Second reading, I was in support with reservations. Now I'm against it."

Representative Aquino rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and H.B. Representative LoPresti rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In support, but I have concerns. There are some real game-changing tax bills that we're moving, some progressive ones to give tax breaks, and I'm concerned because this isn't one of them.

"It's important, I totally support extending the food excise tax credit, we should do that. My concern is, we raise it by two cents, two pennies a day. If I was walking on the street and I saw a homeless man, I sure as heck wouldn't give him two cents. I'd be ashamed to do that.

"And my fear is that some of the progressive things that we're moving on tax reform might die, and then this one makes it through, and then we can all go out and pat ourselves on the back, that we increased the tax credit, but the reality is, we gave them two cents. And that's my concern. That's my two cents. I'm in support."

H.B. No. 887, HD 1:

Representative Saiki moved that H.B. No. 887, HD 1 pass Third Reading, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Cachola rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, before I begin my remarks in strong support of House Bill 887, HD 1, I'd like to thank the leadership for appointing me to address unfunded liability, and also to the Chair of Finance for giving me the latitude to work on it. And also I'd like to thank the members of my subcommittee, Vice Speaker Mizuno and Minority Leader Andria Tupola.

"Now, the reason why I devoted most of my time on this is because of our unfunded liability. As you all know, there's not enough money to even fund our state budget and other programs that we need. So the best way that I have to look into, is how best we can address our unfunded liability.

"The facts are as follows. On the health unfunded liability, we have about $11 billion. When it comes to pension unfunded liability, it's over $12 billion. To prefund our health unfunded liability, on health alone, based on Act 268, we have to put in $500 million each year for the next 30 years, starting fiscal year 2018-2019.

"And for the pension unfunded liability as reported by the Advertiser, we have to put in at least $300 million each year for up to 30 years and beyond. The total amount is equivalent to about $800 million each year. And who's going to pay for all that?

"On the portion of the state to prefund health unfunded liability, it's coming mostly from taxpayers. The same thing with pension unfunded liability. The rest is being paid by members, active employees, retirees and dependents. Where are we going to get the money to do that?

"The way I look at it, House Bill 887, it works this way. Since health unfunded liability is not required to be prefunded under the Government Accounting Standards Board, we can cap the prefunding level to at least $2 billion. Once we reach $2 billion, all the employers, the counties, the State, Board of Water Supply, HART, will no longer have to put in their money, thereby freeing $500 million of their obligation to prefund the health unfunded liability.

"You can now divert $300 million of that to prefund pensions, so that you address that. You can save taxpayers money. They don't have to increase contributions of our active employees. There is a remaining $200 million left of what you have freed up.

"Before addressing that, I'd like to thank the Governor for coming up with Act 268 to prefund, and I know that we can use the extra money the way he did, take some of that, and if he can do it, we can do it, too, to save a lot of taxpayers' money.

"The amount of $300 million will be more or less used to fund the pension unfunded liability. The remaining $200 million can be used for the State and county, road repairs and improvements, to offset the State increasing gas tax, and to the counties not to raise vehicle weight, property tax, vehicle registration, trash pickup or collection, and increase of bus fare."

Representative Say rose to yield his time, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Cachola continued, stating:

"Thank you very much. The amount of money that's going to go to the City and County of Honolulu will be more than enough to cover for what they raise for the increase in the weight tax, gasoline tax, et cetera.

"Additionally, the $200 million can be used to fund collective bargaining agreements on the part of the State, education, including funding to address the teacher shortage, affordable housing, the homelessness problem, and Kupuna Care. On the City and County of Honolulu, they can also use that to address some of their needs on the rail transit project.

"If we pass House Bill 887, HD 1, we should now request the State and the city to not impose any new fee increases and tax hikes which would overburden our taxpayers. Instead, we should be offering badly needed fiscal relief for our taxpayers. This proposal is the best way that I think we can address our unfunded liability in the most affordable way we could.

"In conclusion, House Bill 887, HD 1 will allow us to address both health and pension unfunded liabilities without having to increase taxes, lay off employees, cut back benefits or increase employee contributions. If we pass this bill out, we can avoid overburdening our taxpayers, especially those who are a paycheck away from being homeless.

"That's the reason why we are all dedicating this bill to our constituents. A lot of them are working two or three jobs, a paycheck away from being homeless, and it's the best way for us to at least help them out.

"And also to our young and future generations. And I got my incentive to look into this. Every time I look at the pictures of my grandkids, I ask this question, you will be saddled with this obligation unless we do something about it. For these reasons, I strongly urge my colleagues to please vote in support of this bill. Thank you."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and H.B. No. 887, HD 1, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO UNFUNDED LIABILITIES," passed Third Reading by a vote of 50 ayes, with Representative Ichiyama being excused.

H.B. No. 888, HD 1:

Representative Saiki moved that H.B. No. 888, HD 1 pass Third Reading, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Cachola rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, in strong support of House Bill 888, HD 1. This bill is only a feasibility study of providing health benefits to state and county employees using a self-insured model. The rationale for this bill is to further enhance the solutions proposed under House Bill 887, HD 1, with the goal of saving hundreds of millions of dollars each year for the next 30 years or beyond.

"In my research, I've devoted a lot of my time to this. I've found that 46 out of 50 states now self-insure or self-fund at least one of their employee healthcare plans. Of 46 states, 20 states fully self-fund all of their health plan offerings.

"I'm working with the National Conference of State Legislatures, his name is Mr. Richard Cauchi, and I was informed that out of the 20 states that chose to self-fund all of their health plan offerings, not a single one had gone back to being fully-insured.

"I sent emails to 20 of the states that are fully self-insured, and I got positive responses from several, one of which is the State of Mississippi, and they stated that for the past six years they haven't raised their premiums. Anytime you don't raise premiums, you save a lot of money.

"The other state is the State of Utah, where self-funding is the choice of most large employers in that state. And the reason for that is, when you self-fund, you are going to control costs, save money, and customize benefits. Several reasons why so many employers in Utah chose self-funding include no profit margin or risk charge, low administrative costs, tax savings, earned interest and pharmacy savings. Last year Utah received over $10 million in pharmacy rebates, and paid it all back to the risk pool that earned them.

"I have also learned that the State of Wisconsin recently voted to go self-insured, and their plan is they will be saving more than $60 million each year going forward.

"The City of Philadelphia, in 2008, their premium was $98.4 million in premiums, which dropped to $79.5 million in 2012, that's over $20 million less, and dipped another $3 million by 2013.

"I've been informed that no health insurance carrier in Hawaii has a health insurance plan with $2 billion in reserve. Where did I get that $2 billion? When you cap the $2 billion and when we move to self-insured, we can use the $2 billion as reserve to our self-insured plan. That will give us more or less insurance, or insure us, for success.

"House Bill 888, together with House Bill 887, HD 1, will allow us to address both health and pension unfunded liability crisis. If not, our options to prefund $800 million annually are as follows. Increase GET tax on the part of the State, increase property tax on the part of the county, we can reduce benefits to all our employees, reducing the public employment workforce, increasing employee contribution, or a combination of what I stated.

"Under this plan, we are not going to change anything. If we convert Hawaii's employee health insurance coverage from fully-insured to self-insured, with $2 billion reserve, we stand a better chance of guaranteeing healthcare benefits to all our public workers."

Representative McKelvey rose to yield his time, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Cachola continued, stating:

"There's no need to prefund anymore once we do this. House Bill 888, HD 1 means we can avoid overburdening our taxpayers, because, just like I said, most of the money that we prefund comes from our taxpayers.

"By passing out this bill, and it's only a feasibility study, if the study shows a substantial cost savings by converting to a self-insured model, we will increase our chances for success. For these reasons I strongly support and urge my colleagues to support House Bill 888, HD 1. Thank you."

Representative Creagan rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise in strong support of this bill. Our healthcare costs are escalating, we're at the mercy of one large insurer in this state, we have over 100,000 state employees, and in my view, we should at least look at this possible option for self-funding, because it really could be the salvation of our health care, long term. So thank you to the previous speaker, and may I have his words entered as my own? Thank you," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and H.B. No. 888, HD 1, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO ADDRESSING THE HEALTH UNFUNDED LIABILITY," passed Third Reading by a vote of 50 ayes, with Representative Ichiyama being excused.

At 11:55 o'clock a.m., the Chair noted that the following bills passed Third Reading:

H.B. No. 690, HD 1
H.B. No. 930
H.B. No. 1354, HD 1
H.B. No. 887, HD 1
H.B. No. 888, HD 1

ORDER OF THE DAY

UNFINISHED BUSINESS

At this time, the Chair stated:

"Members, please turn to page 2, we'll be taking House Bill Number 790, House Draft 3, out of order."

H.B. No. 790, HD 3:

On motion by Representative Saiki, seconded by Representative Evans and carried, H.B. No. 790, HD 3, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION," was recommitted to the Committee on Consumer Protection & Commerce, with Representatives Har and Ichiyama being excused.

SUSPENSION OF RULES

On motion by Representative Evans, seconded by Representative Ward and carried, the rules were suspended for the purpose of considering certain House Bills for Third Reading by consent calendar. (Representatives Har and Ichiyama were excused.)

UNFINISHED BUSINESSH.B. No. 407, HD 3:

Representative Saiki moved that H.B. No. 407, HD 3 pass Third Reading, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Lowen rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative LoPresti rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"In opposition. Mr. Speaker, this bill opens up a race to the bottom of the quality of health plans that will be offered in our state. We can end up with much higher deductibles with less care, less quality, and it'll cost the consumers more. And I foresee that insurance companies will make a very quick race to the bottom, and it would really hinder health care in our state, and we should not do this. Thank you."

Representative Belatti rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In support with slight reservations. Mr. Speaker, in these uncertain and turbulent times where health care is about to be disrupted with the repeal and replacement of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, we must be open to proposals.

"But we must also be clear-sighted and demand answers to questions, so that Hawaii's nation-leading healthcare system, which has as its foundation, its bedrock, Hawaii's Prepaid Health Care Act, we have to ensure that it is not disrupted to the detriment of Hawaii's people.

"The advocates of this bill, as it moves forward, must answer the question to our satisfaction as to how the introduction of high-deductible health plans into our pre-paid, employer-based health insurance system, and in particular Hawaii's prevalent plan, is not eroded, where the quality benefits and affordable health insurance is ensured for the people of the State of Hawaii. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Morikawa rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Thank you. Stronger reservations, but I'd like to adopt the words of the Chair of Health, please. Thank you," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative San Buenaventura rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative DeCoite rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Nakamura rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Quinlan rose in opposition to the measure and asked that the remarks of Representative LoPresti be entered into the Journal as his own, and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative Oshiro rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Strong reservations."

Representative Gates rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Ohno rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Holt rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Ing rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"I just want to note my reservations. Also, I'm against the bill, but maybe it can improve, it had a good intent in the beginning, and maybe in the Senate it can be better. Thank you."

Representative Ward rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, in support. I think the reservations are well taken, if you don't understand what the major intent is. And this is something that has been around for a long time. Health savings accounts have been around for a long time.

"Being that not all of us are as youthful as some others, this is really a way that people who are young, if they stay healthy, and we've always talked about we don't have enough preventive medicine, well, this is a preventive issue in that, if you stay healthy, you save money and you can use that to buy a house, you can buy a condo, a tiny room or whatever.

"So there's benefits of staying healthy, and that's what's structured inside of this. And I know there's other quarrels that may be started by a health plan such as this, but for those who use it, it could be very streamlined, and it's not saying it's mandatory, it's an optional thing. So there are some good things in this and it should pass. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Kobayashi rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, with reservations. The prior speaker spoke about young people and high deductibles. It is true that young people might benefit and use this bill with high deductibles. But then, having these young people drop out of the insurance pool also means higher rates for the other people, the not-so-young people. Thank you."

Representative Keohokalole rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Onishi rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Ito rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and H.B. No. 407, HD 3, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO INSURANCE," passed Third Reading by a vote of 47 ayes to 2 noes, with Representatives Belatti, DeCoite, Gates, Holt, Ing, Ito, Keohokalole, Kobayashi, Lowen, Morikawa, Nakamura, Ohno, Onishi, Oshiro and San Buenaventura voting aye with reservations, with Representatives LoPresti and Quinlan voting no, and with Representatives Har and Ichiyama being excused.

H.B. No. 1009, HD 3:

On motion by Representative Saiki, seconded by Representative Evans and carried, H.B. No. 1009, HD 3, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO THE LANDLORD TENANT CODE," passed Third Reading by a vote of 49 ayes, with Representatives Har and Ichiyama being excused.

At 12:32 o'clock p.m., the Chair noted that the following bills passed Third Reading:

H.B. No. 407, HD 3

H.B. No. 1009, HD 3

REPORTS OF STANDING COMMITTEES

Representative Aquino, for the Committee on Transportation, presented two reports:

(Stand. Com. Rep. No. 1086) recommending that H.R. No. 22 be referred to the Committee on Finance; and (Stand. Com. Rep. No. 1087) recommending that H.C.R. No. 47 be referred to the Committee on Finance.

Representative Saiki moved that the reports of the Committee be adopted, and that H.R. No. 22; and H.C.R. No. 47 be referred to the Committee on Finance, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative DeCoite rose to speak in support of both measures, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. In strong support. Mr. Speaker, I just wanted to highlight the fact that a study such as this, after the Molokai ferry went down, was really to provide an opportunity and options for other sources of travel, with a limited amount of travel being done on Molokai.

"What I hope to gain from it, one, Mr. Speaker, is to make sure it is affordable, to make sure it does meet the needs of the people, not just on Molokai, but the people of also Lanai and of Maui.

"It had been directed that the existing ferry that was once there was just directed for the island of Molokai. Let's not be mistaken that this was also used for traveling for kids playing sports on the islands, on both islands, and hoping that having this study there would also look at making sure that handicap accessibility was there.

"With the only airline of Ohana Airlines and three flights a day to the island of Molokai, the ferry also held wheelchair accessibility. So, Mr. Speaker, in strong support of the study. Thank you."

Representative Ward rose to speak in support of both measures, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, in support. Mr. Speaker, Hawaii needs a ferry system. We're one of the rare, rare places in the whole world, an island nation, without a ferry system. And particularly it's needed, in the beginning, at Molokai to Maui, but I'm hoping that they will learn from that what we can do in the rest of the islands.

"And, Mr. Speaker, this resolution is reminiscent of those of us who loved the Superferry, which hopefully will rise again, someday, perhaps, but this is a good resolution as a beginning. Thank you."

Representative McKelvey rose to speak in support of both measures, stating:

"Just in strong support, Mr. Speaker. I'd like to adopt the words of the speaker from Molokai as if they were my own. And just to let everyone know, this is about an existing ferry service from Lahaina to Molokai, not the Superferry. Thank you," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

SUPPLEMENTAL CALENDAR #1

INTRODUCTION OF RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution (H.R. No. 138) was announced by the Clerk and the following action taken:

H.R. No. 138, entitled: "HOUSE RESOLUTION RELATING TO THE CAUCUS LEADERS AND THE COMMITTEE ASSIGNMENTS OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE TWENTY-NINTH LEGISLATURE," was jointly offered by Representatives Saiki and Evans.

Representative Saiki moved that H.R. No. 138 be adopted, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Thielen rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I'm rising against the resolution, and I'd like to explain why. Mr. Speaker, it's been my privilege to be in the House of Representatives for a number of years. During a lot of that time, I had the privilege of serving on the Consumer Protection & Commerce Committee under the Chair from Maui.

"I found him to be very fair, first of all, very well-educated as to the measures that came before our committee. While I didn't always agree with him, I found him to be very fair to the different competing interests that come before that committee. That committee really covers the economic portion of our state. The committee members deal with so many of the issues that affect the businesses and labor within our community.

"I thought he did a very measured, intelligent, good job, and I felt comfortable enough with his leadership on that committee when we were selecting from our small little base of minority members in here, we only were able to cover a very small number of committees with more than one member, and I found myself comfortable enough to feel that our economy was in good hands with the Maui Chair as the head of that committee, so I selected to be on the Judiciary Committee, nothing against the Chair of Judiciary, but because of my legal background as an attorney, and my involvement with so many of those issues from our women's caucus perspective as well.

"I am sorry to see this change, Mr. Speaker, and I needed to speak out and share my experience with the Chair, the existing Chair of Consumer Protection & Commerce. I would have liked to have him continue. Thank you."

Representative Har rose to speak in opposition to the measure, stating:

"I rise in opposition. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. First and foremost, as a former member of the Committee on Consumer Protection & Commerce, I would like to adopt the words of the previous speaker. I do believe that the Chair of CPC, also the Representative from Lahaina, has done a very good job as the CPC Chair. He's very fair, he's very balanced, and he's done a very good job as the Chair of CPC.

"But I also rise in opposition for another reason, Mr. Speaker, and these are clearly selfish reasons. Currently I serve as the Vice Chair of the Committee on Education, it's truly been an honor to serve as the Vice Chair under someone who I think is probably the most well-versed chair in this House of Representatives with respect to education.

"And while it is time for everybody to move on at some point, it's been an honor to serve under the current Chair of Education, who will now be moving on. For those reasons, Mr. Speaker, I stand in opposition. Thank you."

Representative Choy rose and asked that the Clerk record a no vote for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Tokioka rose and asked that the Clerk record a no vote for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Kong rose and asked that the Clerk record a no vote for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Ward rose and asked that the Clerk record a no vote for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Say rose and asked that the Clerk record a no vote for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative McDermott rose and asked that the Clerk record a no vote for him, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Tupola rose and asked that the Clerk record a no vote for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

The motion was put to vote by the Chair and carried, and H.R. No. 138 was adopted, with Representatives Choy, Har, Kong, McDermott, Say, Thielen, Tokioka, Tupola and Ward voting no, and with Representatives Ichiyama, McKelvey, Oshiro and Quinlan being excused.

Representative Luke, for the Committee on Finance, presented a report (Stand. Com. Rep. No. 1092) recommending that H.B. No. 335, HD 1, as amended in HD 2, pass Third Reading.

On motion by Representative Saiki, seconded by Representative Evans and carried, the report of the Committee was adopted and H.B. No. 335, HD 2, entitled: "A BILL FOR AN ACT RELATING TO THE BUDGET OF THE OFFICE OF HAWAIIAN AFFAIRS," passed Third Reading by a vote of 50 ayes, with Representative Ichiyama being excused.

At 12:43 o'clock p.m., the Chair noted that the following bill passed Third Reading:

H.B. No. 335, HD 2

THIRD READING

H.B. No. 100, HD 1:

Representative Saiki moved that H.B. No. 100, HD 1 pass Third Reading, seconded by Representative Evans.

Representative Luke rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise to speak in favor of House Bill 100, House Draft 1. The executive budget is the result of the hard work and input by the Finance Committee members. I would like to thank them for their dedication and spending many hours with me and the staff. They spent a lot of hours in the weekends as well. And it's not just this budget bill but sifting through many subject matter issues that the committee addresses, so if we could thank the committee members at this point.

"I would especially like to thank the Vice Chair of Finance. Between the two of us, he's the reasonable one, if you can believe that. He keeps me at bay, and we talk a lot, we talk about how to address certain issues, so I really appreciate him.

"Every year I talk about how hard the CIP job is, and it is. This year the Governor put in $1.5 billion of CIP requests over the biennium and, because of the budget picture, the CIP Chair was able to lower that, because of the concern about debt service, to $1.1 billion, so it's a lot of hard work. So if we could also thank the Vice Chair of Finance and the CIP Chair.

"As you know, we're really concerned about the services in the community, and this Friday we are going to have a GIA hearing in the Auditorium to vet through over 200 applications, and the GIA Sub-chair has already started her work in vetting through those applications, so I wanted to thank her for her job.

"And, of course, last but not least, I just wanted to mention the Sub-chair on Unfunded Liability, he has done a lot of research, and it's fitting that we recognize him as well.

"I don't say this enough, but I do have utmost respect for and confidence in all of these folks. So many times we get through committee hearings and issues, and I'm just always amazed how much background these individuals and the members have. They bring their personal experiences, professional experiences, and they bring their individual knowledge to the Finance Committee, and so I value each and every one of you. I just don't thank you enough on a daily basis, but I should, because you really make my job easier than it is. So, thank you.

"At this point, I would like to thank the budget staff for their research and analysis in assisting the committee. They're sitting very nicely upstairs. You met some of them when they did the invocation. So it is my pleasure to introduce the budget staff, headed by Budget Chief Albert Vargas, if you can stand. And then members, if you could hold your applause. And CIP Specialist and Analyst Riley Fujisaki. Analysts, Ryan Louie, and if you think that last name sounds familiar, he's the son of former AG David Louie, but don't hold that against him, Darian Kwon, Alyssa Hayamoto and Erin Roh.

"And in addition we have from the front office, Legislative Aides Jennifer Byun and Steve Chan. And of course my trusted confidante, Nandana Kalupahana, who is hiding with the media folks in the back there. So, at this point, if you could help me in showing our appreciation for their hard work. Thank you.

"Mr. Speaker, it was not too long ago when the administration touted the $1 billion surplus. And that drove me crazy, because this was almost déjà vu, and I told the Governor that since the last administration bragged about an $800 million surplus--"

Representative Keohokalole rose to yield his time, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Luke continued, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, I apologize. Last year, my speech went for 25 minutes, and a lot of members complained that it was too long, and I thought my speech was going to be shorter, but, clearly, I passed my five minutes. So, apologies to the members, don't complain this time.

"So we all know that whether it's $800 million and $1 billion, it's a point in time, and that surplus is good for one single day. And it was fitting that, since the announcement of the so-called surplus, both the Legislature and the Governor's Office spent months reshaping and clarifying the message that the financial picture did not look as rosy and robust as had been portrayed.

"Rather, the truth is that the general excise tax collections for several months now have been showing zero growth as compared to last year. Therefore, because of those indications, Council on Revenues reduced its projections from 5.5% to 3% in January, which resulted in a projected loss of about $800 million over the biennium of fiscal year '18 and '19. And because of this, the Governor was good enough to reevaluate his budget, and he sent down several messages reducing his initial budget request, and we were able to incorporate some of those reductions as well.

"And having this financial picture in mind, the committee has reduced the executive budget request by about $500 million, which included a reduction of $74 million for accelerated OPEB payment.

"On Monday it actually got worse, because the Council on Revenues further reduced this year's projection from 3% to 2.5%, and readjusted downwards the fiscal outlook for the next two years, resulting in a further loss of $250 million.

"And so, now we're in a position where we're going to be passing this budget, and the Senate is stuck with the March projections, which they will be looking at, clearly maybe additional cuts from the House Draft I as well.

"Because with the financial outlook, the budget is the recognition by the committee members that this is not the time to create new programs if they are at the expense of preserving our core services.

"Okay, and because of the complaints I received last year about me talking about everything that I added, I'm not going to go through every single thing that I funded or we funded through the budget. I'm just going to talk about one thing, so I want to just talk about one thing.

"Many legislators worked over the years on juvenile justice, including the current Human Services Chair, and then the Transportation Chair who worked on public safety as well. Juvenile justice was to ensure that our youths are given every opportunity to be kept away from the rigid corrections system.

"About 10 years ago, HYCF was under investigation by the federal Justice Department for mistreatment and abuse of the youth population there. During that time, HYCF housed about 100 youth, hitting a high of 240 juveniles in 2003, under the corrections model. These juveniles were held and monitored by prison guards.

"In recent years, based on national best practices, the State has begun evaluating and reevaluating juvenile justice and incarceration. And as more community services became available, the population has significantly dropped. And so today I am happy to report that HYCF houses only 20 youths. Eighteen of them are boys, two of them are girls. A lot of these kids are runaways and misdemeanants.

"Although we have made much progress, we have not evolved fast enough to deal with the changing population at HYCF. This population currently, many of whom are abused themselves, are kept as prisoners instead of receiving the services that they need.

"Sadly, half of the 20 kids are from neighbor islands, because we don't have enough services on the neighbor islands and we don't have facilities to house these kids. So right now HYCF has 57 guard positions for only 20 kids."

Representative McKelvey rose to yield his time, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Luke continued, stating:

"Thank you, Representative. This staffing model and the number of guard positions have not decreased with the juvenile population, and we need to make systemic changes now.

"That is why, in this budget, we have converted 20 guard positions to social worker or counselor positions, and we have spoken to both the director of HYCF and OYS, and they have said this is a positive move forward, because they've been struggling with how to deal with truant population that is present at HYCF, as opposed to different types of issues that were there five years ago or ten years ago.

"So it is now up to them to realign these positions to best serve the youth population at HYCF. And through this budget, that's one of the ways that the committee hopes to touch these young people's lives to divert them from entering the criminal systems as adults. And this is one of the ways that the committee has found creative ways to make systemic changes for the future. So thank you again for allowing this committee to work on the executive budget."

Representative Tupola rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"I stand in support. I just wanted to thank the Finance Chair. As my first year on Finance, she did a great job of mentoring. I also wanted to thank Albert and the team, because they showed a great deal of expertise and patience with a lot of us that were new and had a lot of questions.

"So I still have a lot to learn, but it was a great experience, and probably one of the most organized professional experiences I've had in dealing with the state budget. So I just want to commend the Chair and the committee, and continue to stand in support until we get the version back. Thank you."

Representative McDermott rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, I stand in support. I'd just like to offer a few comments. I will not rehash my structural considerations from the previous session.

"I would like to note that the money for Campbell High School, which is in fiscal year '19, I'm grateful that it's there. If that could be moved up to fiscal year '18, I think, just a note for the committee, I think if it's in '19, we absolutely miss the queue of this crest of students, and I don't know where they're going to put them. I think we'll have a degree of disruption, and I want to put that out there now, as I have in the past.

"Also, a concern I have, sir, is that there is not any money that I saw for East Kapolei or Ho'opili, which is another concern altogether, because if there's nothing even in fiscal year '19, you're talking five years beyond that before a campus would be open, up and running, and I just see this as a tsunami that is going to hit us, and we are aware of it.

"And finally, I'd like to say that, with regard to Campbell High School, Mr. Speaker, no one has worked harder, no one has held more meetings, no one has done more emails, no one has done more for that school than my colleague, the Representative of District 41 sitting over there, and I just want to salute you, sir. I know he's worked very hard. We have different roles here, and I have a little more freedom to speak my mind, but I know he's worked hard for the community, and I just want to be on record saying that. Thank you, sir."

Representative LoPresti rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, in support. I'd like to adopt the words of the Representative from Ewa Beach, but I'd also like to add that the gentleman from Ewa has been around longer than I, and advocated just as much and just as hard, and it's great to work together for our community. Thank you," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative Ward rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I rise with support, with concerns. Not with reservations, it's a new category in support. I have four concerns, Mr. Speaker. First is, let's be cautious. The good Chair of Finance said we got hit with an $800 million deficit, then we just got hit Monday with a $250 million deficit. Mr. Speaker, we'd better be cautious. We'd better step the straight and narrow, and not get too out of line. And we don't even have collective bargaining in here yet. So I just appreciate her mentioning that, as well as knowing that we as a body have to be very, very cautious.

"Second point, Mr. Speaker, second concern. Let's be prudent. Mr. Speaker, this budget represents at least 20%, and growing, of federal funds. I often tell my office, my family, particularly my daughter, that assumption is the lowest form of information. Mr. Speaker, this body cannot assume that we have 20% of federal funds always guaranteed for us. In fact, there's already some cuts that are murmuring around in various places in the community, as well as in the departments, that there's going to be some cuts.

"We no longer have a Senator Akaka, we no longer have a Senator Inouye, we no longer have a President Obama. So let us be prudent with what we have, and do with what we have, and not always assume that things are just going to keep growing and growing, unless they get out of line, or out of proportion to what we assume we will be able to have.

"Thirdly, Mr. Speaker, let's expect results. If there's anything I usually complain about when people testify in the Finance Committee, and I'm really honored to have been a member for a decade or so, is we lack metrics, Mr. Speaker. We don't know with what has happened to the money, or what we can measure as the results, the accomplishments.

"I know in the old days, they tried it, and it didn't work. But unless you can measure where you are and where you're going, you don't know if you really spent your money well. I mean, look at us over the last three months and what we've been published nationally. We're the lowest in terms of our school accomplishments. We're the lowest in terms of roads. We're the worst in terms of cost of living. We're the worst, we haven't got the standing, if you will, that we should have.

"This is Hawaii. These are people with brains and with the ability to do better, but if we don't keep people accountable, i.e. the executive departments, to measure their results, everything looks good because there's nice narratives, and who doesn't back the budget because they're going to get their funding? So, Mr. Speaker, we should be much more measurement-oriented, much more metric-oriented.

"And fourthly, Mr. Speaker, my last point is, let's not forget our promises to the Department of Hawaiian Home Lands. All of you know, and we've repeated time and again, since 1920, it's been 97 years that we've promised with 203,000 acres to build Hawaiian homes.

"If I look at this budget, Mr. Speaker, and with what we promised 97 years ago, it's going to take us another 100 years before we fulfill that promise. There are cuts that have been made, and may be made even further, there's a court case that's still pending.

"The point is, we need to have a new paradigm, Mr. Speaker. Put the reality of the statistic, for example, homelessness, in terms of the highest population of indigenous people are Native Hawaiians. I'm not saying that this is a homeless prevention strategy, but it could be seen as that. If we don't fulfill the promise of putting Hawaiians on the land, homelessness will continue. As we know, Micronesians are the first, second are Native Hawaiians.

"Mr. Speaker, this has to be seen in a different light, in a different paradigm, in a different way of seeing that we can be active, because, generally in Hawaii, they say, land is too expensive, we can't build housing. Well, they got 203,000 acres. How much does Bishop Estate, Kamehameha Schools have? Three hundred sixty-five thousand acres. So it's the second biggest landowner who we don't fund enough to build the houses of which we could be doing.

"So Mr. Speaker, I just end with that reminder that before we can say we're going to house the homeless, we're going to do Section 8, we've got to make sure that this commitment has been made.

"In summary, Mr. Speaker, let's be cautious, let's be prudent, let's expect results, and let's not forget the Native Hawaiians. Other than that, it's an excellent budget, and the Chair has done an excellent job. Thank you."

Representative Cullen rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, I stand in support. First, I want to thank the Chair of the Finance Committee, because she has the responsibility of being fair but being very conservative, and this budget is actually fair and very conservative. So I want to thank her for all her hard work.

"I would now like to thank the Finance staff, because I've seen them work, and the questions that they take from not just the Chair and myself, but also from the other committee members.
