"Mr. Speaker, thank you. I rise in support. I know it's second reading, but I did want to make some brief comments because I don't know if we'll hear this again. Mr. Speaker, water is life, and as you know, our state's currently facing immediate threats to this essential and vital part of our daily life. The threat of water quality is imminent, highlighted by the water crisis at Red Hill. And the lack of access to water because of pollution has been compounded by the direct impacts of climate change, which has limited our supply of fresh water natural resources.

"These are just a few examples of why our states and cities and counties have been advocating for water conservation for many years. For these reasons, I have introduced HB 1757 to help allow for xeriscaping in planned community associations. Xeriscaping, if used in the state, can help to save up to 70% of water that is currently being dumped into the ground in places like Ewa Beach where it's practically a desert climate. And we need to start doing more commonsense things and allowing xeriscaping, whereas most homeowner associations disallow that. So, thank you very much, and I want to thank the chairman of CPC for passing this."

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. A no vote and a brief comment, please. Mr. Speaker, this bill puts us on a very slippery ideological slope. It's basically a snitch bill. And we have told the counties, if you get somebody who turns in somebody regarding fireworks, you're going to get a reward. You know, they do that in China, they do it in other very highly ideological, dictatorial, and super control states.

"Do we want to put this on a slippery slope and say, well look, if we can get them on fireworks, we could probably do it if they did big drugs, Schedule I, Schedule A drugs, or we could do it when they do certain other things that are not legal.

"So, this is a bad precedent. Very, very, very bad precedent, which I think we need to avoid lest we get into an ideological, hey, we can tell you whatever to do and we're going to reward you, particularly your neighbors.

"I know the nation really just cringed when it was where you turned your neighbors in in the Soviet Union, and now it's such an everyday occurrence in China. This is just not the best place to go. And for those reasons, Mr. Speaker, I hope everybody sees this. We always talk about slippery slopes, but we never know what it means. This one really means what it says. Turn in your neighbor and you get money. Very bad incentive system. Thank you."

"Mr. Speaker, no vote and a brief comment, please. Mr. Speaker, this is relating to Medical Cannabis Day. First, let me say, medical cannabis has done miraculous things for people with cancer and as a palliative. My difficulty with the bill is it sends the wrong message. When we say this is cannabis day, it says to young people, hey, this is cool, it's cannabis day, let's get on with it. But why not a codeine day or when people really are almost near death, they use morphine, why not a celebrate morphine day?"

"I'm not sure, Mr. Speaker, this is what it's supposed to be or is this sending a subtle message from this legislature to the public saying, hey, we're coming up on recreational marijuana and this is our—"

The Chair addressed Representative Ward, stating:

"Representative Ward, focus on the merits. Focus on the merits, good or bad, focus on the merits."

Representative Ward continued, stating:

"I know I can't say motive, but I can't see any reason why we want to do cannabis day when we've got really a drug epidemic, we've got a suicide epidemic, we've got all of these things that are drug related, opioids, et cetera. And I can think of more honorable things, as I said earlier, a morphine day would make more sense. There's more use of morphine in hospitals than there is cannabis. So why we're celebrating cannabis, particularly for young people, for old people, not a problem, but for young people seeing that this is a day we can celebrate, that's not the message that I think a legislature responsible for the welfare of its citizens and their safety is what we should be sending. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Kong rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Thank you, Mr. Speaker. With reservations. For some years now, we have heard of the destruction and the problems associated with sea level rise. But no one actually explains to us what the rate of sea level rise is, they just presume. So, like I did with the carbon readings, I used a third party, in that case was Blue Planet, this time I'll use the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's data to highlight what sea level rise is.

"So, NOAA has records not just for the last year or 10 years, but for the past 100 years on sea level rise. And sea level rise is 1.55 millimeters per year stated for Honolulu, which this bill refers to in Waikiki. You have to imagine 1.55 millimeters. There's 10 millimeters in a centimeter, approximately two and a half centimeters per inch. Now, when we refer to tides, we're talking about feet. But when we're talking about sea level rise, we're actually referring to millimeters. So, if all this destruction has been happening in the past, it kind of doesn't really make sense because 1.55 millimeters is literally this big. It's real tiny.

"So now they talk about example, king tides, right? So that's on average, what, nine, ten inches above the high tide? But we all know, from our elementary school science, that this is affected by the moon and possibly the sun, depending upon its alignment. So, we're comparing feet to millimeters. And we're attributing all this destruction to the rise in millimeters, one or two millimeters. So, if it's two and a half, three feet at the king tide, one and a half millimeters doesn't even show up. You can't fathom how minuscule this is. So, I could go on, but I think my point is made. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Todd rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Thank you. In support. I just want to note that there was an interagency report released literally today that was kind of led by NOAA, which is referenced by the prior speaker, and they anticipate 10 to 12 inches of sea level rise by 2050. So, I think it's an appropriate time to really start planning ahead. What we really should be doing is dedicating hundreds of millions of dollars per year specifically to this issue. If you're on the Big Island and you're very mountainous, outside of maybe the downtown Hilo and Kona area, there's not going to be as much impact. But if you're in Waikiki and you're practically built on a swamp as is and a lot of it's backfill, then there's going to be significant impacts. Thank you."

Representative B. Kobayashi rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, in support. Sea level rise is visible in Waikiki in very dramatic fashion. I would point out that three coconut trees fronting the Outrigger Reef Hotel have been cut at their base because they have been damaged by sea level rise and has had water lapping up to them for so many years that they finally were a danger. Also, at Outrigger Reef Hotel, the outer wall facing the ocean has boards covering holes in the wall for about 40 feet or so. I can show you pictures of these damages in my office. I can also show you, on the internet, pictures of the Outrigger Reef Hotel with these three coconut trees still standing.

"Further, there is a cut or a break in the concrete walkway in front of the Sheraton Waikiki Hotel. A concrete stairs that used to descend from the walkway is no longer open because the concrete foundation under this walkway has completely washed away. The stairs are literally standing there in midair without any base to them. There is also another place in Waikiki closer to the Outrigger Reef Hotel, where the concrete walkway has fallen into the ocean. So, we have dramatic instances of sea level rise in Waikiki. Thank you."

Representative Ward rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Mr. Speaker, with reservations. If the first speaker's data is true, even though they're citing the same source with different interpretation, this is the state of the art of science, and unfortunately, the weaponization of science. Also regarding the last speaker, as a retailer in Waikiki at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel for 15 years, I literally saw what he just said come and go, because the tides shift the sand from the Ewa to the Diamond Head every so many years. So, what he's observing is a natural phenomenon. The sand comes back. And if that doesn't happen, we buy sand from California and fill in in front of the Royal Hawaiian Hotel and fill in in front of the Sheraton Waikiki. That has happened year and year again.

"Again, the data is there, but what we've got to do is interpret it correctly. And that's where the first speaker is saying, let's follow the science to where it's exact, and know that when you cite the source that it's real. So, Mr. Speaker, I have reservations because this is almost like COVID. It depends on where you get your data and what country and what organization is giving it to you. And for those reasons, Mr. Speaker, with reservations. Thank you."

Representative Tam rose to speak in support of the measure, stating:

"In support. I would like to have the words of the Representative from Hilo and the Representative from Diamond Head inserted into the Journal as if they were my own. And a brief comment in support. As the representative from Waikiki, we see sea level rise. As a resident and as their representative, I see it every single day. And last year we poured millions of dollars in beach reclamation just so we can combat it. This bill would give us another tool to help us save money in the long run and to help us combat this devastating effect so that we can continue to have this beach for generations to come," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

Representative Okimoto rose and asked that the Clerk record an aye vote with reservations for her, and the Chair "so ordered."

Representative Kong rose to respond, stating:

"With reservations, thank you. You cannot actually change the data. This is interesting. So, we have scientific data and we have scientific consensus. Two different things. They don't take into account, like the good Representative from Hawaii Kai mentioned, the tides, the erosion that takes place. So, there are other factors in play here. If you can see sea level rise, I'm amazed, at 1.55 millimeters. I mean, that's a stated data fact. You can't change that. You can change the consensus, though. For example, real quickly, if I may digress, when I gave my carbon readings, .00036, that came from Blue Planet, and then someone spoke up and said, well, it's a 15% increase. Well, you get .00036 times 15% or .15, it's still .00005. The data hasn't changed, but the way they use a consensus is it changes your mindset, and they are two different things. So as a technician, as you well know, I'm following the data, not the consensus. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

"Mr. Speaker, no vote with a brief comment. Mr. Speaker, this bill hopefully is probably out of the time warp that we are in right now. Basically, it says if you have a mandate for a COVID test, you're going to get severely punished. I think we've probably gone beyond the mandate stage. The truckers in Canada are part of that whole anti-mandate, five of the ten provinces in Canada. And I'm not sure what the truckers are going to do in Washington. But the point is, there's probably a couple of dozen states that have put down mandates, and now we're putting all of this stuff in Hawaii to be more severe.

"I would lastly cite the John Hopkins study that I think probably is probably the more credible of any institution or data research, a set of experts who said, hey, mandates are more harm than good. So, I think it's like, it's out of the, I think that's called an iconic, no that's, there's a term that says you're out of sync with the times that you're in. This bill is out of sync with what we need in terms of what hopefully in a few months, there are not going to be any mandates. So, if we pass this and I think it goes in effect in June 2023, no it is repealed in June 2023, which is good as a safeguard but I think it'll look a little funny if in effect before that, we've basically taken down the mandates and we've opened up this beautiful building again to the people of Hawaii, which we should be doing, hopefully, Mr. Speaker very, very soon and very, very quickly."

The Chair addressed Representative Ward, stating:

"So, please refrain and keep your remarks on this bill only."

Representative Ward continued, stating:

"And I know there's a lot of people watching this bill because they're thinking that this is a little bit going after them. And I would yield to the next speaker who probably is going to say what it means to those who have not a vaccination. Thank you. Mr. Speaker."
