

FIFTY-FIRST DAY

Monday, April 13, 1992

The Senate of the Sixteenth Legislature of the State of Hawaii, Regular Session of 1992, convened at 11:34 o'clock a.m. with the President in the Chair.

The Divine Blessing was invoked by the Reverend Eijo Ikenaga, Honolulu Myohuji Mission, after which the Roll was called showing all Senators present with the exception of Senator Chang who was excused.

The President announced that he had read and approved the Journal of the Fiftieth Day.

The following introductions were then made to the members of the Senate:

Senator McMurdo introduced Mrs. Helen H. Cole, Ms. Dion-Magrit Coschigano, Dr. Bruce Justin Miller and Mr. Jack Davidson as follows:

"Mr. President and members of this honorable body, it gives me great pleasure to introduce you to our honored guests. I have two honored guests in different fields but they have both served honorably and equally in the fields from which they are.

"First, Helen H. Cole, trustee emeritus, Historic Hawaii Foundation, and Ms. Dion-Magrit Coschigano, executive vice president of the Historic Hawaii Foundation, who is accompanying Mrs. Cole to this presentation.

"The second honored guest is Dr. Bruce Justin Miller. He is probably known very well to most of us around here as the director of the Sea Grant Extension Service of the University of Hawaii. (Stood to be recognized.)

"And last but not least, is Dr. Jack Davidson who is the director of the Sea Grant College Program. (Stood to be recognized.)

"Mr. President, Helen H. Cole, or Mrs. Allyn Cole Jr. as she is formally known, is a volunteer of tremendous heart. Presently, she is actively involved in six different organizations. Helen has said, 'All the volunteer hours spent have been fun and very rewarding.' In her past involvements, I find that she is the co-founder of Historic Hawaii Foundation and she was active with the Daughters of Hawaii, the Hawaii Museums Association and the Historic Preservation.

"Helen Cole has also been involved with the Girl Scout movement since 1925, when she joined a Girl Scout troop at Sacred Hearts Church on Wilder Avenue. While teaching in Honokaa on the Big Island, she became a leader of a Senior Girl Scout troop. Later, she became a board member of the Girl Scout Council of the Pacific.

"At the 75th Distinguished Alumnae Dinner held in November 1991 of the Girl Scout Council of Hawaii, Helen Cole was awarded the very prestigious 'Living Treasure Award.' This award is given to women who, although not currently active with Girl Scouts, have been involved with the Girl Scouts in some way throughout their lives. (And I would like to especially have Senator Bert Kobayashi take note that Girl Scouts can stay active for years too. We had a troop of Boy Scouts so we're not going to be outdone by them.)

"My next honoree is Dr. Bruce Justin Miller. He is director of the Sea Grant Extension Service at the University of Hawaii. He is accompanied by his boss, Dr. Jack Davidson, the director of the Sea Grant College

Program. (Drs. Miller and Davidson stood to be recognized.)

"Mr. President, as you know, Act 77 was signed into law in 1989, the first piece of legislation in the nation to enact initial action to curb the effects of ozone depleting compounds, such as chlorofluorocarbons and halons. We have read and heard of the horror stories that these compounds are responsible for in a breakdown of the ozone layer. This is not only in the polar regions but also over Hawaii and other subtropical regions.

"One of the major players responsible over the years for advice, technical assistance, and the development of legislation has been Dr. Miller. I am extremely grateful for the work the University of Hawaii Sea Grant Program and he have done for the Legislature and the state. He has devoted much of his professional life educating the public and encouraging responsible public action on global issues, such as ozone depletion, greenhouse warming, preservation of natural species diversity, and world population stabilization, and assisting the state in developing legislation and educational materials on the environment."

Senator McMurdo presented the Senate certificates of recognition to the honorees and Senators Mizuguchi, McCartney, A. Kobayashi and Tungpalan presented the leis.

Senator McMurdo also introduced Mr. Scot Vogel of the Sea Grant Extension Service who was seated in the gallery.

Senator Nakasato, on behalf of Senators McCartney, Koki and himself, introduced the following special guests, seated in the gallery, from the Okinawa Prefectural Government: Vice Governor of Okinawa, Mr. Hirokazu Nakaima; deputy director Mr. Nobutaka Shinomiya; and Mr. Isao Shiroma, secretary to Vice Governor Nakaima. The gentlemen were escorted by Mr. Warren Higa, president of the 41,000-strong members of the United Okinawan Association.

At 11:44 o'clock a.m., the Senate stood in recess subject to the call of the Chair.

The Senate reconvened at 11:50 o'clock a.m.

Senator Koki rose to speak in support of the measure and said:

"Mr. President, I rise to speak in favor of this bill.

"First of all, let it not be said that this body does not pass Republican bills. I thank the chairs of the Judiciary and the Labor and Employment Committees for seeing this bill through.

"Mr. President, this bill seeks to prevent employers from suing employees who desire to work for a competitor. Some employers keep employees from working for a competitor by requiring the employee to sign a non-competition agreement. Non-competition contracts have been typically used when a business is sold and the buyer does not want the previous owner to then use his newly found capital to go into competition with the new buyer. This is understandable. Non-competition contracts have also been used when the employee is given access to trade secrets or an exclusive territory, but some companies have been using these contracts on managers, sales people and, if you can believe, security guards.

"These are clear violations of trade restriction laws, but these employees do not have the resources to sue. Three salesmen were sued by their employer when they went to work for a competitor. Although the judge threw the suit out, it cost them $45,000 in legal fees.

"This bill will make employers pay the legal fees if they lose, so they need to be well-advised to have a good case before suing. Thank you."

Senator Blair then rose on a point of personal privilege and said:

"Mr. President, on personal privilege, may I be permitted to insert into the Journal some remarks, noting technical corrections, for the revisor of statutes on S.B. No. 1283 and S.B. No. 2670?"

The President, having so ordered, Senator Blair's insertion follows:

"Mr. President, we have agreed to the House drafts of S.B. No. 1283 and S.B. No. 2670. I would like the Journal to reflect, for the benefit of the revisor of statutes, insubstantial errors in those bills. I believe those errors can be corrected pursuant to Section 23G-15 as manifest clerical or typographical errors.

"In S.B. No. 1283, H.D. 1, there is an error in verb-noun agreement. I believe the word 'is' should be deleted and the word 'are' substituted. Alternatively, the word 'premises' on line 18 could be changed to a singular 'a premise.'

"In S.B. No. 2670, H.D. 1, the word 'the' should be inserted after 'upon' on line 5 of page 2.

"Thank you."

Senator Crozier also rose to speak on a point of personal privilege and remarked:

"Mr. President, this morning I had a press conference and I would like to read into the Journal what I said at the press conference. Is that okay?"

The Chair having so ordered, Senator Crozier continued:

"Mr. President, when I was in the House of Representatives, I had a quotation of Justice Louis D. Brandeis posted on the wall for all to see. It was a quotation which I referred to quite frequently, both on the floor of the House and especially to individuals who had not fully thought out the ramifications of their proposals and wanted my support. The quotation is:

'The greatest dangers to liberty lurk in the insidious encroachment by men of zeal, well meaning, but without understanding.'

Those of us who make adamant statements are destined to revisit those same remarks from different perspectives.

"For the past six years I have had a 'romance with education,' attending the Program for Senior Executives of State and Local Government at the Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University in 1985, returning to school to earn my bachelors degree in Public Administration in 1987 from the University of Hawaii at West Oahu, and now participating in the certificate program in Public Administration at the University of Hawaii at Manoa.

"All these courses were designed to make the student, including myself, a better and more sensitive and efficient public servant.

"When I applied to attend the certificate program, I had no qualms about government paying for my tuition and expenses because I have seen many government officials from around the world, both elected and appointed, being sponsored by their governments to attend the East-West Center. I have also seen it at Harvard, and have received invitations to attend a summer program at Princeton. The investment in education of their officials is an acceptable practice in many jurisdictions and nations.

"I was taken aback by the fire storm created by the publication of the Hawaii Monitor of my practicum and the editorial comment 'by requesting that the Senate pay the full costs of his air fare and lengthy per diem, Sen. Crozier in effect granted himself a scholarship to underwrite his UH degree program.'

"Both daily newspaper editorials demanded that I return the money. My senate and home phones have been ringing constantly with people sharing their frustration and outrage.

"One phone call that had an enormous impact was on the evening of the breaking story. It was from my 15-year-old nephew Kelly, who was heartbroken that I had done such a thing. I tried to explain to him, and he accepted my explanation but was still disappointed in his uncle.

"I sat down with the Star-Bulletin editor of the editorial page, John Simonds, and the full editorial staff to try and explain my side of the story. But to no avail. In their eyes I had no right to use taxpayers' money for my own self-improvement.

"The soul-searching was ongoing and I was wondering why this was happening to me. Everything I did was to better myself as a servant of the people. To be as informed, as sensitive, as accessible, and as astute a policymaker as I could be.

"I began to realize that the difference between my trip and my colleagues' trips was that theirs were strictly for senate business and I had commingled education and senate duties and had crossed the boundaries of acceptability.

"I had not broken any law nor had I broken any rule, however, I had broken the undefined public trust. In my zeal to be the best public servant I could be, I, like the quotation of Justice Brandeis was well-meaning, but without understanding. In other words, no matter how well-intended, I went too far. First, to fly first class, and second, to combine my educational requirements with committee work and expect the taxpayers to pay for it.

"I have decided to return the $12,501.80 (Check No. 804 dated April 13, 1992, to Hawaii State Senate, /s/ Mike Crozier) to the Senate coffers immediately and apologize to the people of Hawaii for breaking their trust, to my colleagues for embarrassing them, and to family members, especially my wife Lynette who had to field much of the anguish along side of me.

"I hold no animosity to the Hawaii Monitor or any member of the press, nor do I hold any negative feelings to the many callers and letter to the editor writers. We live in a free society and it is this experience that proves that government is accountable to the people. In fact, although painful, I owe them a debt of gratitude.

"I would like to thank those who supported me, especially my wife Lynette. I would like to thank members of my family and certain friends who have given me short-term loans to pay back the state immediately and allowed me time to make a long-term financial loan.

"Thank you."

The Chair then remarked:

"Thank you very much, Senator Crozier.

"Members of the Senate, I attended the press conference this morning.

"Senator Crozier, again, I want to repeat, the authorization of your trip was approved by the President's office. That's where the responsibility for travel approval lies. The decision for you to repay the Senate was voluntary on your own part. The Senate has accepted your check. The books are closed. I hope the issue is now ended."

Senator Cobb then rose on a point of parliamentary inquiry as follows:

"Mr. President, circulated and left on my desk, and I see it also on other senators', is a copy of a newspaper article, apparently from the Hawaii Tribune-Herald dated April 10, 1992, page 12, and its headline reads: 'Matsuura, why pull the bill?'

"I'm interested in this not just from the issue of geothermal, but to the larger question of procedure that it's been my understanding all along the prerogative of the chairmen in the Senate is to make the final decision or recommendation on a bill subject to the approval of the members.

"This article raises into question, then, at what point does the prerogative end? Does it end in committee? Does it end in caucus? Does it end on the floor of the Senate? Does it end after the bill has crossed over or where are the limits, if any, of the prerogative of the chair? Since the good Senator from the Big Island, chairman of the Science and Technology Committee, is quoted at length in this, perhaps the question could also be addressed to him, but I think it's a serious one that deserves full consideration and an answer because the issue that he has raised, I think, is very serious. Thank you."

The Chair answered:

"With reference to the chair, the policy of the Senate is the chairmen have the authority not to report a measure out. That has been past practice here in the Senate at least for the past 14 years."

"Mr. President, what happens after a matter is reported out then? Is it the property of the Senate or does the chairman's prerogative still obtain to where an individual chairman may recommit a bill unilaterally once it has been reported out?"

The Chair responded:

"Parliamentary-wise, you are correct. Once reported out, the matter is before the entire body. However, in the caucus, the past practice of allowing chairman to withhold and recommit bills was continued. That is the past practice. And so as far as your question about where the jurisdiction lies, yes, once the bill leaves a committee, it is the province of the body. But we have in the past under allowed the chairs to say that they wanted to recommit a bill and the caucus has the chairs' prerogative to do so. A sufficient number of votes is needed in caucus to maintain that particular decision."

"Yes, Mr. President, I just want to make sure my understanding of this is very clear that the chairman may decide to recommit or pull back a bill either in the caucus or on the floor and that decision is normally respected."

The Chair answered:

"That is correct."

Senator Cobb then thanked the Chair.

Senator Tungpalan also rose on a point of personal privilege and said:

"Mr. President, I want further clarification on that too. Does this pertain to all matters or is there a final say if there are financial implications involved in that bill? Is the primary chair the responsible chair or the secondary chair, if there is financial implication?"

The President answered:

"Usually the primary chairman has that responsibility. If a bill doesn't clear that committee, it never gets to the money committee anyway. But in terms of financing the rules call for special consideration be given the money committee to make the determination."

"Yes, so if the primary chair has taken a position against sending out a measure because that primary chair feels that it's not in the best interest of the state, can the secondary chair put that measure in a budget bill?"

The President answered:

"That might be possible, however, the rules also call for the fact that the chair of the second committee to consult with the primary committee."

"And what if that was not done? What is the procedure then?"

The President answered:

"Then, to me, the jurisdiction of the measure lies with the primary committee and that the second committee should not do it without first consulting with the primary committee chair."

Senator Tungpalan answered:

"Thank you very much."

At 12:11 o'clock p.m., the Senate stood in recess subject to the call of the Chair.

The Senate reconvened at 12:16 o'clock p.m.
