The Chair then appointed Senators Baker, Ihara, Fernandes Salling and Anderson to escort the President to the rostrum and the President addressed the members of the Senate and guests as follows:

"I want to take this opportunity to thank my Senate partners for your vote of confidence and for the privilege of allowing me to serve as your Senate President during the Nineteenth State Legislature.

"Governor Cayetano, Lieutenant Governor Hirono, Chief Justice Moon, U.S. Senator and Mrs. Akaka, Congressman Abercrombie, Congresswoman Mink, Mayor Harris, Mayor Kusaka, Governor and Mrs. Ariyoshi, The Honorable Toshihiro Hiyama and members of the Hiroshima Prefectural Assembly, other honored guests from here and abroad, youth members of the YMCA Youth Legislature, members of the Senate, people of Hawaii:

"Warmest aloha and welcome to your house, the Senate Chambers.

"In recent years, Hawaii has ridden the roller coaster of economic fortune and frustration. We approach this session with the possibility of a faint recovery, but the financial outlook is no more certain than it was a year ago. With a continuing budget crisis and major issues to be resolved, we are at a crossroads.

"Yet, Hawaii has been at crucial crossroads before, and it has always responded. It did so in 1950, when the first State Constitution was written, proving Hawaii's political maturity and spirit. It did so again in 1959 when the Legislature, through laws swiftly drafted and passed in response to statehood, transformed a weak and dependent territorial government into a strong and sovereign state. At the current crossroads, we must again look to ourselves and proceed boldly to make the tough and right decisions for Hawaii's future.

"We have gained strength in the good times, overcome adversity in the bad, profiting from both. The lesson we have learned is that there is strength in cooperation. Working together, we can overcome all obstacles, yet sustain Hawaii as a very special place, our island home, where impossible dreams are possible.

"Consider a pair of examples: Dave Shoji of the nationally acclaimed Rainbow Wahine volleyball team; and Alana Dung, the darling of our island heart. The collaboration between Dave and the Rainbow Wahine began 22 seasons ago. Beginning with the talent available in the islands, he patiently developed the women's volleyball program. As he persevered, he created winning teams by recruiting talent from the mainland and elsewhere, melding the best of Hawaii and the rest of the world. After producing four national champions and dozens of All-Americans, Dave Shoji has once again achieved national greatness with his 1996 Rainbow Wahine team winning its way to the Final Four, finishing second in the country, breaking all national attendance records, and inspiring the entire state -- truly Hawaii's team.

"Alana is the youthful embodiment of all that is good about the people of Hawaii. Nowhere else could a small cry for help prompt so spontaneous and genuine a response from society.

"Taken together, Dave and Alana exemplify an island ethic that guides us surely onward. It is in this spirit that this Senate was organized and will conduct its work this session.

"Elections provide a periodic yardstick by which to measure our performance. Last year the judgment of the voters was clear. They were impatient with lengthy deliberations. They wanted action.

"As a result, we reorganized the Senate to improve its performance and open doors anew to frustrated constituents. The new co-chair system, along with other reforms, will spread the workload, increase accessibility, and share power. I fully expect it to yield a better outcome.

"The first test of the Senate's resolve will be the success with which we address prominent unfinished business from prior years.

"First, automobile insurance -- a costly, contentious pocketbook issue, it has been before the Legislature in one form or another for years. Two years ago, the Legislature passed a reform bill, but it was vetoed by the Governor. Last session the House and Senate produced conflicting solutions and were not able to reach an agreement. This year we will begin with the lessons learned the last two years and exert the political will to reach an agreement. Actuaries have informed us that a goal of a 25 to 30 percent rate reduction is attainable. Any solution must be fair to consumers. As a key part of that solution, we must crack down on irresponsible, uninsured drivers.

"Second, legislative retirement benefits. Known notoriously as the 'high three,' the system rewards tenured lawmakers who are able to parlay their political skills into appointment to high-paying government jobs and generous retirement benefits. It has caused voter cynicism and demand for change. This session we will reform the system.

"Third, same-sex marriage. This issue generated a divisive debate that monopolized the Legislature's time and attention and detracted from other issues. While we do not have a clear answer that can satisfy both sides of the issue, we are better prepared to address it during this session. In any event, we will not allow this one issue to paralyze another legislative session.

"Fourth, crime. This old issue demands new, even perennial attention. In all the polls during the last election, crime was the number one concern among Hawaii's citizens. According to the Honolulu Police Department, burglars and thieves struck one in every 14 residences in 1995, taking $73.2 million in property. They break into homes, schools, banks, theatres, restaurants, and all types of retail stores. The problem is that there are no consequences for property crime because of lack of prison bed space. Offenders who begin their careers in crime as juveniles know this, and as a result our criminals are younger. As they mature into adulthood, they are more callous and violent.

"We must take back the responsibility for our young people. The property crime rate in Hawaii, including the graffiti problem, has been skewed by juveniles who do not continue their education and have no jobs. We have juveniles on drugs and peddling drugs. We must be tough on juveniles who commit such crimes so that they understand that there will be consequences, even adult consequences, for their acts.

"Crime against tourists also must be addressed or our vital visitor industry will suffer. Prostitution in Waikiki, assaults in hotels, purse snatchings, golf course holdups, and the like must be eliminated.

"In the entire area of crime, we will give special attention and work with the executive branch and the counties to find some solutions.

"The second test of the Senate's resolve will be the decisions we make to control and prepare for Hawaii's future.

"With an economy that remains stubbornly unresponsive and an equally sluggish revenue growth, we must accept the idea that government has grown as large as it currently needs to.

"I firmly believe government's role is to provide essential services, such as education, public health, social services, and public safety. I also believe that the public deserves to have these services provided efficiently and without disruption. This requires high morale among public employees, a system which treats them fairly and procedures which facilitate labor and management agreements. However, protracted events have brought the University of Hawaii faculty and the public school teachers to the brink of striking and have forced them to work without new contracts for over 18 months. This should not be. We intend to find a better way to bring about fair and more timely settlements for our educators and others in the public sector.

"In our efforts to downsize government and stimulate the economy, there may be opportunities to sell such large public enterprises as the airport system and the convention center. To find out, we will ask the Legislative Reference Bureau to study whether such new arrangements would be possible, financially favorable to the state, and in the public interest. This would be part of our continuing review of which tasks are better suited to government and which should be left to the private sector.

"Business in Hawaii has changed substantially since statehood -- from a plantation economy controlled by big corporations to a service economy where 95 percent of the businesses are small businesses.

"We will review government regulations and reduce tax burdens on small business. Toward this objective, I propose we end the pyramiding of the general excise tax on leases. I believe that ending pyramiding on leases, on an incremental basis, will place more money in the hands of sublessees. That money will be spent for improvements and employee salaries, offsetting the loss in state revenues.

"We must also determine how we can assist businesses to do business. This session, we must also, most critically, address the problem of economic stagnation and identify all opportunities to energize our economy.

"The third test of the Senate's resolve will be how we address the special circumstances of today's descendants of Hawaii's original people. Plainly, they have waited long enough for recognition in their own land. As we approach the year 2000, we must remember our continuing obligation and let the native Hawaiians determine their own future. We should defer the constitutional convention approved by the voters until the native Hawaiian community can work its way through the various aspects of sovereignty. We must be mindful that the 1996 election results for the convention is under court scrutiny -- we really cannot act until we receive court advice. Let us all step back and give the process a chance to work.

"As we draw closer to the dawn of the 21st century, it will be our task to insist that we have found a better way, that we are proof of the proposition that mankind can live in harmony and prosper, not at the expense of one group or another, but to the benefit of all. Armed with a new spirit of responsibility and collaboration, and the commitment and determination to produce results, I am confident that the Senate is ready to tackle the people's business. The best is yet to come for Hawaii.

"Thank you very much."

The President, at this time, introduced to the members of the Senate and their guests Dave Shoji, Head Coach of the Rainbow Wahine Volleyball Team; Adelia and Stephen Dung and Norah and Tai Yau Chung, parents and grandparents of Alana Dung; and the Honorable Toshihiro Hiyama, chairman of the Hiroshima Prefectural Assembly.

Senator Anderson, Minority Leader of the Senate, then responded as follows:

"Governor Cayetano, Lieutenant Governor Hirono, distinguished guests, colleagues, people of Hawaii, my friends -- Aloha!

"Mr. President, it is a proud day for me to be here today to be able, hopefully, to help in guiding us into the year 2000.

"We must all keep our promises to the taxpayers with regards to the priorities that we set forth in our campaigns, such as automobile insurance reform, high three, and same-sex marriages. I know that we are honor bound to try to get these measures passed at the beginning of the session.

"However, what has to be the most pressing crisis on our agenda, Mr. President, is the economy! The administration says it wants to 'jump start' the economy with the infusion of $1 billion of borrowed 'state' money -- as if 'state' money was minted here in this capitol. But the debt from that borrowed money imposes a great burden on the future of our children and grandchildren.

"Yes, we need to build some new schools, parks, and spend money on repair and maintenance. But, Mr. President, what happens to construction and our economy when those jobs run out? What will happen to all of the projects that you and I and the legislature have already approved and those funds that have not been released by the governor? And those projects that are planned and half-designed or which are ready for construction which will provide jobs now -- What will happen to those projects? Will the administration's new, over-zealous plans interfere with the present and future bond ratings? What will be the debt service be to our state's future for such an enormous loan? Quite simply I ask, Mr. President, what will the repercussions to our future economy be should the administration's plan be implemented and then fail?

"But enough of the negative. Let's look at the positive side, Mr. President. This just may be the most historic legislative session of our time. I say this because it is not the time to blame each other for the problems that we are facing or to fight on partisan goals. Mr. President, we are all facing a war for economic survival. And this war is going to require that all of us put our differences aside, public and private, big business and small business, labor and management, and yes, even county and state governments.

"We will, Mr. President, be putting in bills that I hope will stimulate our economy by utilizing presently owned state lands. Therefore, we neither have to condemn nor do we have to purchase new lands for these new projects.

"For example:

- (1) Where the state has long leases and those terms may have a balance of, say, twenty years left on that lease, the state should entertain an offer to purchase that land so that the owner would be able to construct new buildings or expand their businesses in other ways that they see fit and banks would have an easier way to work their loans.
- (2) Where there are new leases to be made on state lands, the state could offer long-term leases with zero rent for five years and this would provide a company the opportunity to develop said lands, say for the Windward side we could look at an industrial park. This action would result in more construction and providing jobs for a particular company. The state would benefit from gross income tax, not only from that business, but also from the employees, plus property tax for the counties.
- (3) We could also consider a seven-year property rent and general excise tax exemption for new businesses: (a) The first step needed is to clearly define new business; (b) The state would allow for the first year a zero percent exemption; the second year, maybe 15 percent; the third year, 30 percent; the fourth year 45 percent, and so on.
- (4) Maybe we could even consider infrastructure grants. This would be another way to help business. But the loan program, if there is not one already in place, would have to be worked out with DBEDT, banks, etc.

"We must, Mr. President, also change our thinking on rules and regulations. They have the force of law. While attempts were made last year to rid us of this burden, it has been said by the administration that there is no need for any reform in this area because it is very easy for the taxpayers and businesses to repeal any of the state's rules and regulations that they might need. That's not true, Mr. President. If our books on rules and regs were laid side by side, they would probably go from here to China! Whenever you, I, or our colleagues want to pass a piece of legislation that we believe is good for the community, or a business, we discover a rule or a regulation that gets in the way. These rules are not of our making, yet we are the ones that are elected by the people, not the bureaucrats who stand in our way. I am not saying that we do not need rules and regulations, Mr. President, but what I am saying is they should not have the force of law!

"There are many other things that have to be addressed during this legislative session, Mr. President -- workers compensation, welfare reform, tourism, crime, sports promotion and construction, and education, to name just a few. But I, as the Minority Leader, with the support of Senator Slom, have laid out but a few things that can and should be done to start to move this state forward.

"I also believe, Mr. President, that we must be held accountable and responsible for keeping the counties afloat. We need the state and the counties to work together to move forward -- not just to have the state take all of the T.A.T. tax, for instance, and leave the counties with less revenue than they now have. It's a constant battle between the counties and the state. We take everything and say we're solvent. They then say they are going to have to raise taxes because we have left them insufficient avenues for funding. That battle needs to stop today.

"If the Council of Revenues feels that we should cut a percentage of the general excise tax, and we are planning on taking away another portion of the T.A.T. or all of it, then that percentage of the G.E.T. should go to the counties whereby they would have another base of income rather than just property tax. But they too, Mr. President, should do more with their land and streamline building codes so that they don't hold up permits and construction. After all, we are all the beneficiaries of a home rule.

"Mr. President, I could go on and on as I'm sure most of my colleagues here today could do also. Our constituents, I think, want to again trust the people that they elect. They entrust us with promoting a decent job market by supporting business. They expect us to spend their money wisely. They want the best education for their children. And they want and demand that we pass bills to keep criminals behind bars who cause harm to our communities.

"The people have been disappointed in us year after year! The time is now, to put their priorities first. That change can only come about if we all work together, Mr. President, even though some may laugh that we only have two Minority Caucus members. But believe me, we are ready and willing to work. We will speak out loud and clear on legislation that is good. And believe me, we'll speak out even louder on bills that are not good for our community.

"Mr. President, let us prove that Hawaii is a special place and we will do our living best to keep it that way.

"My family, Mr. President, and I wish you and all here today a very happy and prosperous new year. Mahalo."

At 10:52 o'clock a.m., the Senate stood in recess subject to the call of the Chair. At this time, the members of the Senate and their guests were entertained by Frank Hewitt and BB Shawn.

The Senate reconvened at 12:30 o'clock p.m.

The President thanked Ms. Wilson and the gentlemen of the "Society of Seven" for their performances during the recess.

At this time, the President introduced Violet Nakamura, a long-time friend of Senator Richard Matsuura and the Matsuura family, and invited her to sing a special song, "God Bless America," dedicated to Senator Richard Matsuura from his family and colleagues.

Senator Solomon then rose on a point of information as follows:

"Thank you, Mr. President. Just on a point of information, Mr. President, I think this song was very appropriate because this is the song that you yourself sang over the radio stations on your reelection campaign for the Senate. And it was so funny ... I'm driving along and I hear this voice singing and I said 'Is that Dick Matsuura?' (Laughter.)

"Mr. President, on a very serious note, on behalf of all the Senators, I would like to extend our heartfelt support to the 'ohana' of Senator Matsuura and wish them all the best of love and aloha and luck in their endeavors, and to reassure them that they will be in our thoughts and in our prayers.
