Senator Slom rose on a point of personal privilege as follows:

"Mr. President, I rise on a point of personal privilege.

"My concern today is with the decision that was made over the past weekend in the Supreme Court case of Konno v. County of Hawaii. I think it has broad implications to this body and to this state.

"Mr. President, I know that in spite of some of the flawed bills this body passed on Tuesday, it is still the intent of the Legislature to find ways to bolster business and economic growth and jobs in our state. Further, I think we all realize that there are many areas of our economy where the government has provided services or functions that compete with, or could be better performed by the private sector.

"In the past, Mr. President, particularly with regard to Baehr v. Lewin, I have questioned the hallowed cranial chambers of the almighty state justices. And again, the judicious be-robed ones have misinterpreted the law as it was intended to have been adjudicated.

"While the Hawaii Revised Statutes Section 76-77(10) expressly states that to avoid the application of civil service laws to public employee positions, those positions must be 'specifically exempted' by another state statute. I believe, Mr. President, that this Legislature has made its intent clear for a number of years, and in other statutes, that the state and counties should have their options open -- even with regards to privatization and other competitive bidding. The idea is to make the delivery of services more competitive and also more cost-efficient. The County of Hawaii, in trying to hire non-civil service employees, seems to have relied upon our legislative intent.

"Is this ruling the death knell for privatization and competitive economic choices in Hawaii? Well, this is where we come in, because if we can exhibit the leadership and the good judgement, then the answer should be NO. We can change the law this session and facilitate public-private partnerships between the state and the private sector. Non-civil service workers need, and deserve jobs too -- even if Gary Rodrigues doesn't represent them. In areas where public services could be delivered by the private sector in a more cost-effective way, state and county administrations should have the freedom -- and the fiscal obligation to the taxpayers -- to make those choices.

"Until we start to pass laws that help and not compete with business in Hawaii, we can expect more Hawaii court victories for those who fear honest competition, merit, choice, and openness in the workplace. Unfortunately, Mr. President, there aren't too many of us in the Legislature who act on the belief that more jobs and more take home pay -- for everyone -- should be Hawaii's first priority. Perhaps more elected officials and leaders should take positive action, and perhaps more would, if they were not subject to some of the political strong-arm tactics or the favors of a few special interests. After all, whether you are a single mom, small business person, a family, a civil service employee, a fast-food worker or even a professional, you know that the state's economy is in trouble, and you know that something must change. When the economy suffers, all of us suffer. It is our responsibility, Mr. President, and the reason the voters sent us here is to facilitate that change.

"Everyone seems to know this except for those leaders who influence public policy through intimidation and fear, and who 'demand' certain things, including the fact that records of convicted criminals be kept secret, and those who believe that laws should be written only to benefit their short-term, self-centered goals. These are the people who harm our economy and all of our citizens, Mr. President. Let's show them that we are not afraid. Let's amend our civil service laws if we must, redirect our thinking, and send a message that the Legislature will not be bullied and that we can act. It's up to us, Mr. President.

"Thank you for this opportunity."
