Cayetano, Governor of the State of Hawaii, to the rostrum.

Senator Carol Fukunaga and Representative Bertha Kawakami presented Governor Cayetano with maile and ilima leis

The Speaker then presented to the members of the Twentieth Legislature and guests the Honorable Benjamin J. Cayetano, Governor of the State of Hawaii.

The Governor addressed the Joint Session as follows:

"Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Lt. Governor Hirono, Chief Justice Moon, Congressman Abercrombie, Congresswoman Mink, Mayor Harris, Mayor Yamashiro, members of the County Councils, members of OHA, distinguished guests, members from our military -- Aloha.

"We are truly blessed with the duty of leading our State into the next century. For this, I thank the people of Hawaii for giving me the privilege of serving the public for the past 25 years.

"I thank our First Lady, my wife Vicky, our children, our family, and all who made it possible for this Kalihi Boy to stand before you today as Hawaii's Governor.

"This morning it is a privilege to make my fifth report to you on the state of our State. We all know that the past four years have not been easy. When I took office in December, 1994, the state government found itself facing the biggest fiscal crisis in Hawaii's history.

"Since then, we've dealt with a projected revenue shortfall of about $612 million and turned it into a $154 million surplus. We've reduced government spending to pre-1995 levels.

"Today, the State is better off than it was in 1994. A few months ago, our State's bond rating was upgraded from A+ to AA. Last year, the conservative CATO Institute gave us a B+ for good fiscal management, and I must tell you that only two states got A's. So we did pretty good.

"In 1994, we pledged to make education our highest priority, and we kept our word. Through our accelerated $1 billion capital improvement program, we built a record 11 new schools and 900 new classrooms, as well as gyms, libraries and other educational facilities.

"We pledged to increase teachers' salaries and we did. And we accomplished something the Board of Education had been working hard to achieve for more than 25 years -- we got our teachers to agree to extend the school year by seven days.

"We gave our university the autonomy it needs to find greatness. We increased faculty salaries and negotiated a permanent home for UH-West Oahu in the hills of Kapolei.

"We passed a mandatory approval law to make the state government more time-sensitive to applications for permits and licenses. We reduced the number of business forms for new businesses to a single unified form.

"We have pursued and successfully attracted world-class high tech and telecommunications companies like Square USA, Uniden, ESS Technology and 'Avant!' "We gave the tourist industry the biggest boost in our State's history -- a record $60 million for marketing, and we waived the landing fees to encourage more flights to Hawaii. We opened our world-class Hawaii Convention Center, and bookings today are estimated to bring in $1.6 billion of new direct spending.

"And while we have vigorously pursued economic development, we have been sure not to have done it at the expense of our beautiful environment -- as we demonstrated in our actions on Ka Iwi and the Hanalei River. And that will be the guide that we will follow in the future.

"Together -- and it has been a joint effort between the Executive and Legislative Branches -- we've done a lot over the past four years.

"The results of our efforts seem mixed. Job counts are down, but overall employment is up. Real estate sales are up. Some businesses continue to fail, but according to Dun & Bradstreet, new business starts are up by 15 percent over last year -- mainly in retailing, telecommunications, high tech, insurance and healthcare.

"Tax revenues have grown over the past ten months, confounding our economic experts who predicted they wouldn't, and who seem unable to tell us where the increased revenue is coming from.

"Clearly, Hawaii would be doing better if the Asian economy had recovered, but we cannot control Asia any more than we can control our weather. So let us focus on those matters over which we have some control.

"Like those who see the glass as being half-full, I believe that Hawaii's economy has bottomed out and we are beginning to see a modest recovery. But all of us here today all know that more needs to be done -- not just by the state, but by all of us together.

"And let me say to those that are critics in the business community -- we in the state government can help improve the business climate, we can make things easier, but in the end, business -- big and small -- must take responsibility for their own success or failure.

"In the next four years, my administration's focus will be in the following areas.

"First, we will continue our efforts to make the state more efficient and productive.

"Second, we will continue to make education our very highest priority, and maximize our resources to build a welleducated workforce with skills to compete in the twenty-first century.

"Third, we will continue our efforts to reduce our citizen's

"Fourth, we will improve the business climate and pursue economic diversification to reduce our State's reliance on tourism.

"And, we will do so by building on our strengths -- our unique location, our diverse culture, our natural environment -- and most of all, our people, as our 'competitive business advantages.'

"The solutions we shape, the programs we propose, will be created within the framework of the values which make Hawaii a very special place. "Economic prosperity is meaningless if it comes at the expense of Hawaii's precious environment, our culture, our quality of life -- our soul.

"Now let me share with you in greater detail what my administration will do over the next four years.

"First, we want to make the state government more efficient and productive.

"You know, I am very, very proud of our state employees, and this morning, I want to introduce someone who epitomizes the best of our state workforce. She worked for the State for 42 years before retiring a few weeks ago from my office. Not only was she an exemplary employee, but she never took one day of sick leave in all of those 42 years. Incredible! In fact, I am told that upon the birth of her son, she left early one Friday to give birth to her son, and was back in the office at work on Monday! I do not recommend that today to you ladies. (Laughter.)

"Ladies and gentlemen, I want you to meet an extraordinary public servant and an extraordinary worker, Florence Yamada! (Ms. Yamada rose to be recognized.)

"It's because of remarkable workers like Florence that some of our state departments have excelled in providing public service even in the face of budget cuts.

"For example, for the past three consecutive years, the federal government has ranked the Department of Human Services (much criticized in the media sometimes) first and second in the nation for efficiency and accuracy in the administration of the food stamp and welfare program.

"Last year, the federal government recognized the department for its innovative welfare-to-work programs --which put more welfare recipients back in full- or part-time jobs per capita than any western state -- an extraordinary achievement, given our State's poor economy.

"There are many state workers like Florence Yamada. And, in every state department -- from the Department of Business to the Department of Defense to the Department of Land and Natural Resources to the Department of Labor -- there are success stories of innovation and efficiency. But these stories have come in spite of the current civil service system rather than because of it.

"The past four years have led me to conclude that Hawaii's 60-year-old Civil Service System is obsolete. With nearly 1,700 job classifications, the system is rigid, inflexible -- unable to make timely responses to public needs. The system stifles employees who are innovative, hardworking and who want to do a good job.

"For Hawaii to prosper in the New Millennium, state government must be more flexible and state employees must be empowered to make timely and responsible decisions.

"Therefore, it is absolutely critical that we develop and build a new Civil Service System which encourages innovation, rewards hard work, and is empowered to adapt to constant change.

"This morning, I am calling on you to join us in rebuilding our State's Civil Service System. To this end, I have asked my Director of Human Resources Development, a former colleague of yours in the Senate, former Senator Mike McCartney, to develop a plan to modernize the system — to meet the needs and challenges of our global society.

"By the next legislative session -- one year from now -- we will present our proposed reforms for your consideration and approval.

"This is not about layoffs -- it's about change, it's about empowering state employees and trusting them to do what's right.

"As a start, and to show that we are serious, I will propose a bill which will repeal the current system by June 30, 2000. By clearing the deck, we will demonstrate to the public that we are earnest in our desire to reform Civil Service. By clearing the decks, we will be held accountable for assuring that Civil Service will be reborn in Hawaii.

"I propose no task force, no blue ribbon committee. But I assure you we will invite all stakeholders -- state workers, labor union leaders, business and the public -- to join us in this effort.

"The time -- one year -- may seem short, but for years now we have all known what has to be done. Now is the time we must do it!

"I want to talk a little bit about rules and regulations.

"Three years ago, you empowered a task force of small business people to reform the state rules and regulations. After two years of hard work, little changed. The result was not surprising, because reforming state rules and regulations is a complicated and difficult process. Most rules and regulations can be justified. But finding out which ones are obsolete or no longer needed can be best done by working with state employees -- many of whom themselves are frustrated by these very same rules and regulations.

"Our State has more than 20,000 pages of rules and regulations. Today, we have rules which are clearly obsolete. Rules covering mangers and livery stables. Rules covering a fund to deal with, get this, the bubonic plague. And even where justified, we have rules which are too long, too complicated, too difficult for the common person to understand. For example, there are 22 pages of rules covering frozen desserts alone!

"These rules, these obsolete, these unnecessary rules, these complicated rules make it difficult for state employees to do their jobs. And these rules can impose and extract a heavy cost to our business community and discourage investment in Hawaii.

"Therefore, as part of our campaign to reform civil service, we will make streamlining our rules and regulations a very high priority. To this end, I have asked Lt. Governor Hirono to head the equivalent of a rule-cutting SWAT team (she says SWAT stands for slice waste and tape) to reduce state rules and regulations by 40 percent over the next four years — a very, very ambitious goal, but one that we feel that we at least must shoot for.

"And now I want to say something to you about the relationship between the Executive Branch and the Legislative Branch. We know that you want us to become more efficient and productive and more responsive, but the state government cannot become more efficient and productive if it is micromanaged by the Legislature. Just as it is with private business, state government must have the flexibility to respond in a timely and appropriate fashion to public demand for services.

"Let's take the Department of Commerce and Consumer Affairs because I think it is a good example of how a state government can turn things around. DCCA has become more innovative, more responsive and more self-supporting because it has greater flexibility. You gave them greater discretion over the setting of user fees, for example, and how they process licenses. And today, DCCA is 93 percent self-sufficient. I ask you to approve legislation, which I will submit, which will give the same discretion to all other state departments as well.

"Our health corporation is struggling because it is being micromanaged by the rules that were set in the law establishing its existence some years ago.

"If you want state government to improve -- as I know you do -- you must learn to trust and to let go!

"The recent Tobacco Settlement will allow our State to recover a portion of the enormous health care costs smoking and tobacco use have caused us. I commend Attorney General Margery Bronster and her office for the fine work they have done.

"Under the $1.13 billion settlement, payments are expected to begin in about the year 2000 for a period of approximately 25 years or so. But first, a final judgment must be obtained.

"In anticipation of the final judgment, I propose dividing the settlement equally between two trust funds: (1) a Tobacco Settlement Trust Fund to support anti-smoking initiatives, education and to expand children's health programs; and (2) a Rainy Day Trust Fund for use in future economic emergencies.

"The Tobacco Settlement Trust Fund will be used to educate the public in the hazards of smoking and it will be a symbol of our commitment to promoting good health for the people of Hawaii.

"The Rainy Day Fund will accomplish two goals. First, it will obviate the need for us to have a carryover balance each year for budgeting purposes, giving us greater flexibility with our revenue. But more important, it will be our legacy of fiscal prudence for generations to come.

"Nothing is more important to me than the education of our children. Over the past four years, we gave education our highest priority -- increasing teachers salaries, extending the school year, and building a record number of new schools, classrooms and other facilities.

"This year, in response to our desire to have our eighth graders computer literate before the end of four years, I added $20 million a year to our capital improvement budget to upgrade, where needed, the power capacity of all public schools to accommodate more computers and, where appropriate, to install air conditioning.

"Over the years, the State has focused mainly on providing greater funding for our public schools as a means of improving our public school system. But surveys -- national surveys -- reveal that the only states which have experienced significant increases in student achievement are those which hold their schools, their educators, their administrators accountable for performance.

"Contrary to the cries of our critics, Hawaii's public schools are not the worse in the nation. However, we are not the best either, and I take no comfort in the fact that we can be called average. Like you, I want our public schools to be the best that they can be. Therefore, while my administration will continue to support the funding requirements for public education, as we have done, we will look to developing ways to measure and improve student and teacher performance.

"Today, we start by joining President Clinton in getting schools to become more accountable. Hawaii is lucky -- truly lucky -- to have a nationally recognized scholar as our Superintendent -- a scholar recognized in school accountability and assessment. Ladies and Gentlemen, join me in welcoming Dr. Paul LeMahieu, our new School Superintendent. (Dr. LeMahieu rose to be recognized.)

"With Dr. LeMahieu's guidance, we propose a system of performance measures which is fair, simple and, we believe, based on common sense. We propose that each school set achievement goals which measure performance against its own past history, rather than against other schools.

"This would include performance indices such as student test scores, school attendance, student dropout rates, and parental involvement. Each school would set up goals to improve on its past performance, perhaps the average of the past three years. To motivate, to achieve parental involvement, we must urge parents to get involved in setting these goals for their children.

"Each year, every school would submit a final report to the Superintendent. Any school which did not achieve its goals would be evaluated by the Superintendent who, if appropriate, would make recommendations for improvement or changes in personnel.

"This is a simple, inexpensive and common sense way to determine how a school is progressing overall and how we can determine which schools need assistance.

"It can be implemented in the beginning of the next school year, I believe, but it should be seen as a complement to the more sophisticated, expensive performance measures now being developed.

"Simply throwing money at our schools will not improve them. We could provide a computer for every child and teach the child how to become computer literate. I remember when I was in school, I learned how to use the slide rule. Technically, I never learned how to think to solve those problems. If we don't teach our children how to think, how to solve problems — then we would have failed.

"These skills, the skills of critical thinking, which are so important to today's global society, are taught best in an environment of academic freedom -- where schools can experiment, innovate, and try new ideas without fear of failure.

"To this end, I propose -- on a pilot basis -- that we establish 'Schools for the New Century.' These 'New Century Schools' will be given the following freedoms:

Freedom to negotiate their own collective bargaining contract or not to have collective bargaining at all;

Freedom from the constraints of our state procurement code;

Freedom to control and create their own curriculum;

Freedom to engage in true lump sum budgeting without interference from the Department of Education, the Superintendent, and the Board of Education; and Freedom to select their principals and their teachers without constraints from existing contracts.

"The schools would be administered by a principal answerable to a school committee comprised of faculty, parents and community leaders. But at the end of each school year, the schools would be audited by the Department of Education to measure performance.

"The two schools I have in mind to be the first are the Kapolei Middle School and the Kapolei High School. These schools present a rare opportunity to us. They have not yet been built but the money is there. Moreover, they are located in an area where parental and community interest in education is high. Tomorrow, I will submit legislation to achieve these new Schools for the New Century for your consideration.

"Now let me turn to something that we talked a lot about in the campaign and that we'd like to see happen, and this is reducing class size. This is something all of us would like to see happen. But the costs to do it in a meaningful way, on a meaningful scale, we all know is prohibited. However, there are less costly alternatives which will help our teachers in the classrooms.

"First, our teachers spend too much time disciplining unruly students. Therefore, I propose a review of the rules on school discipline. A review of Chapter 19 is long overdue. Recent United States Supreme Court decisions make it possible for us to give school administrators greater authority and flexibility in disciplining unruly students. Chapter 19 should be amended accordingly.

"Second, I propose that the DOE establish alternative schools to accommodate students who may be expelled from regular school. This is an area which could be privatized. Funding would come as the allotted state cost per student would follow the student to the alternative school.

"The many years of our Department of Education, of the Legislature, of the Executive Branch focusing on improving the school system through college prep curriculum has made technical education a stepchild in our public schools. And yet studies show less than half of our high school students go to college.

"To provide greater access to quality technical education, I propose that high school students be allowed to take technical courses at the community colleges -- and have those courses count toward their graduation.

"Some years ago, I was speaking to people who ran the auto mechanics program at Honolulu Community College. I was told that the equipment there, the course there, is state of the art; that their graduates could walk out of Honolulu Community College and work for General Motors or anyone else as auto mechanics. But I was also told that the auto mechanic programs in our high schools are obsolete; that many of the students that HCC gets, have to be taught all over, have to start from ground zero.

"My proposal would help resolve that problem, would help address the shortage of technical education in our schools because we simply do not have the resources to get technical education up to par with college prep.

"This would require greater cooperation and articulation between the Department of Education and the University of Hawaii. We, this administration, will take the lead in bringing the University of Hawaii and the Department of Education together to resolve this issue.

"Finally, we need to build a new millennium workforce. In this regard, I will propose legislation which will establish a millennium workforce training program focusing on the areas, the economic areas, in which we have a shot to become successful -- the areas of healthcare, biotechnology, high tech, telecommunications and environmental sciences, for example. These are economic niches which have great potential for us. But we cannot exploit these potentials without a skilled workforce.

"Let me turn now to the institution that's most critical to the economic development of this State -- the University of Hawaii.

"Last year, we gave the University of Hawaii autonomy -the single most important tool for its growth and development and for its march to greatness. The UH is critical to Hawaii's economic development. Therefore, over the next four years, we will continue to support the University.

"Planning and building the education centers for Kona and Molokai will be given high priority. Planning for the new UH-West Oahu campus in Kapolei gives us the rare opportunity to design and build a 21st Century University from the ground up. We reaffirm our support for UH-West Oahu and we will work with the Board of Regents to speed up its development.

"We cannot ignore the fact that the University of Hawaii, besides being an educational institution, is also an economic entity. I will propose that the college of Astronomy, which I believe rightfully belongs at UH-Hilo, in fact begin to move there. We will work with the Board of Regents to move the support staff from the University's Institute for Astronomy to the research park at UH-Hilo in two years. This will provide the infrastructure for high technology developments on the Big Island and demonstrate that Hilo can become the world leader in land-based astronomy.

"Part of my vision for this State is Hawaii becoming the premier health care center of the Pacific and a better medical school is crucial to our vision for Hawaii. Therefore, I am taking this opportunity to reaffirm my support for the UH Medical School and we pledge to work with the UH Board of Regents and the President to enhance the quality of the medical school.

"By now you are well aware of the plans that we have to develop a high tech park in Kakaako. To stimulate development in high tech and biotechnology, we will invite the university to become a partner in the developing of that proposed high tech park.

"Through a consortium of state, business and university interests, we hope to achieve the benefits experienced by such coalitions in North Carolina's Research Triangle and Stanford's Industrial Park. And, Mr. President, we look forward to working with you and the Board of Regents to in fact make that park a reality.

"Finally, we will convene a meeting of the leaders of all of our universities -- public and private -- to discuss and develop a common strategy to market Hawaii as the Education Center of the Pacific.

"Education, American education in particular, is the best in the world. And that is the way it is seen throughout the rest of the world. Every year, hundreds of thousands of foreigners flock to our American universities for their education. We need to get a greater share of those students here in Hawaii. That will be good for our university, good for our economy and good for our State.

"Let me turn now to tax reform. Over the past four years, we've made the state government more efficient, we reset priorities and today state government is less of a burden on the overall economy. Last year, we approved Hawaii's biggest tax cut in state personal income taxes -- $750 million over four years. I might add that the CATO Institute states that it is the second biggest tax cut in the nation.

"We wish to keep this momentum going. Therefore, we will propose the following.

For business development:

- A 50 percent reduction in corporate and franchise tax rates -- to tell the business world Hawaii's business climate has changed;
- (2) An exemption from general excise taxes for exported services -- to allow our professionals to compete on the global level;
- (3) A double deduction for employer costs for prepaid healthcare insurance -- to encourage business to hire full time workers and to give all of our businesses which have the full time workers a tax break;
- (4) A research and development income tax credit for selected new industries -- to attract new industries to diversify our economy;

- (5) A 5-year tax holiday for high tech companies and biotech companies, Mr. Speaker, which are located in the Kakaako High Tech Park; and finally
- (6) An extension of the hotel renovation tax credit, passed several years ago, now to include new construction to help our hotel industry.

For individuals, we propose the following:

- A reduction in the state personal income tax that would be triggered -- a circuit breaker would be triggered -- if revenues reach a certain level; and
- (2) A long-term care tax deduction for individuals and family members to help our senior citizens and their loved ones deal with the high cost of long-term care.

"My friends, this is not a wish list. We have looked at these measures and we believe we can afford them and we need your support to make them a reality.

"Earlier, I talked about our decisions on Ka Iwi and Hanalei, and we stated then that we would not pursue economic development initiatives at the expense of Hawaii's pristine environment. Hawaii's beautiful environment is the magnet that draws people to our State. Therefore, I propose that we begin discussion on the following proposal -- that a small and modest portion of the transient accommodation tax be earmarked to preserve, protect and sustain Hawaii's natural resources and we expect to discuss this.

"Over the past four years, you have heard me talk about my vision for Hawaii's economic future. I have stated repeatedly that I believe Hawaii will become the premier education center of the Pacific -- where the people of the world can come to teach and learn at world-class educational institutions; that I believe Hawaii will become the healthcare center of the Pacific -- a place blending the healthcare knowledge of the East, the West and the Pacific; and that I believe Hawaii will become a center for commerce -- employing a network of state-of-the-art technology touching every corner of the globe.

"For the past three years, I have kept you abreast of the progress we have made in pursuing these initiatives. This morning, however, I would like to talk in the time remaining, I would like to talk about some of the new and exciting initiatives that are on the horizon.

"Today I am pleased to announce that in March, 2000 the Pacific Basin Economic Council -- made up of over 1,100 international business organizations -- will hold its annual International General Meeting at the Hawaii Convention Center.

"PBEC represents over 1,100 corporations in 20 economies throughout Asia, North America and South America. Big corporate names like Motorola, Toyota, Sony are members. These business organizations account for $4 trillion in global sales and employ more than 10 million people throughout the world.

"This is no small gathering -- it is a major international event in which world leaders in government and business routinely participate.

"Historically, countries throughout the Asia-Pacific vie each year for the right to host this prestigious meeting. Now, PBEC is considering giving Hawaii or making Hawaii the event's permanent home.

"This would not have been possible were it not for the hard work of some individuals, and one in particular who had a tremendous role in doing this -- and he's done it and he's worked hard at it because he loves Hawaii -- I'd like to introduce to you this morning. Ladies and Gentlemen, join me in thanking PBEC's Secretary General, Robert G. Lees, for bringing this important business meeting to Hawaii. (Mr. Lees rose to be recognized.)

"For Hawaii, this is a major breakthrough. It's a major breakthrough in changing our image and establishing our State as a true international gathering place for business. And it has made Hawaii a strong contender for the annual World Trade Organization meeting this year, and all of us awaited breathlessly for the decision as to where the WTO would be held.

"Let me now turn to something that the Legislature is very interested in, that the Senate is pushing, that the Senate President is pushing in particular, and this is the business of call centers. You have introduced legislation to establish Hawaii as a call center for the rest of the world. Let me say that last week, last week Thursday I think it was, I had the pleasure of participating in a press conference for another breakthrough. The Southco Company -- a billion dollar high tech hardware company -- established Hawaii's first call center at Kapolei.

"Southco's President and CEO Stephen Kelly told us that he was amazed to discover that Hawaii may have the best telecommunications system in the world. Let me tell you what Mr. Kelly told me. They came to Hawaii for the following reasons: our location -- our strategic location allows them to service clients on the mainland and in Asia the very, very same day; we are the most western American state, and as such, they are more comfortable in dealing with American laws in doing business; our University of Hawaii has been a hidden gem to these high tech companies -- they are impressed by the quality of our graduate students at the University of Hawaii and School of Computer Sciences; they are impressed by the quality of life here; they are impressed by the fact that Hawaii, the place as a state, ranks very low when it comes to the indices of crime.

"The biggest problem they had, he said to me, was not any discussion about the poor business climate in this State -- he never mentioned it one time -- the biggest problem he had was convincing his directors that Hawaii was not just a place for fun, games, and surf -- and he did that. And with this breakthrough I believe if we help Southco succeed, I believe, Mr. President and Mr. Speaker, that the Legislature's drive to make Hawaii a call center is going to become a reality.

"I might add, the City of Kapolei has really put Hawaii on the map with its top quality telecommunications environment. Its satellite capabilities will become even greater when a company called Loral Orion, an international satellite company, launches a new satellite later this year. The people from Loral tell us that they selected Kapolei because of its unique access to both Asian and U.S. satellites.

"We have advantages that most of us never knew about. These now are being brought to the floor and we must exploit these advantages to make our economy stronger.

"Last year, working with the Weinberg Foundation, working with the private hospitals, we announced the first statewide telemedicine network in the nation — a network which links up all of our hospitals, public and private. Next week, history will be made in this State, because for the first time in world history, telemedicine will be used to perform eye surgery on a 16-year old girl on the Big Island.

"Dr. Jorge Camara at the St. Francis Medical Center in Honolulu will guide (they call it telementor) via telemedicine, a doctor at the North Hawaii Community Hospital on the Big Island, as she removes an eye tumor from her patient. I will be there personally to witness this most amazing event. It is a major step forward, once again, in our quest to become the premier health care center of the Pacific.

"Let me talk about the millennium -- something of course that we all want to celebrate. To usher in the new millennium, I will issue an executive order establishing The New Millennium Celebration Commission. This commission will begin planning a year-long celebration of the year 2000, starting with a December 31, 1999 New Year's Eve Concert in the Diamond Head crater. The concert -- featuring local musicians -- will be televised statewide. One TV station has donated this time and it will be shown not only in Hawaii but also on the mainland and in Japan.

"The Commission, and I would like to introduce the chair because I've asked him to serve as chair and I'm not sure that he knew how big it was going to be. Former Governor John Waihee will chair this Commission. (Former Governor John Waihee rose to be recognized.) This Commission will plan a series of events, including multicultural celebrations. But the one thing that really strikes me and excites me is that we will embark on a campaign to bring home -- to bring home -- every Hawaii resident who is outside the State . . . bring them home. It will be called 'Come Home Hawaii.'

"This celebration, of course, is designed to boost our tourist industry and we are targeting -- we are targeting -- an additional 500,000 visitors in the year 2000 -- a great way to showcase Hawaii in the first year of the New Century.

"Though I have focused today primarily on economic issues, we all know that there are many other important issues facing our State. The fact that I haven't discussed them today does not mean they are not important. Nor does it mean that we have abandoned them.

"Earlier in my remarks, I said that my administration would shape solutions according to the values we hold as a community.

"There are many pressing social issues, such as Native Hawaiian rights, death with dignity, domestic partnerships, child abuse, domestic violence and others that I have not discussed here today. But we will present proposals dealing with all of these areas to the Legislature in the coming days. While these social issues may draw controversy, we believe they are important and should be debated and discussed and considered.

"Let us follow the wisdom of our great Queen Liliuokalani, who said, 'Never cease to act for fear that you may fail.'

"Let me close now with these thoughts. Over the years, Hawaii's economy changed from sea trading, to big sugar and big pineapple, and over the past forty years, to a strong reliance on tourism. Throughout these changes, however, the spirit of aloha -- our host people's greatest gift to the rest of the world and to us non-Hawaiians -- has remained constant. It has endured because our forefathers -- in spite of their differences -- understood its central role to the unique greatness of Hawaii as a society. It has endured because they lived it, they strengthened it, they nurtured it and they passed it on, unchanged, from generation to generation.

"The spirit of aloha is the glue which holds us together. It is the heart and soul of the Hawaii we all love today and the Hawaii that we want to pass on to our children.

"Today, I ask you to join me in pledging that all of us here will work together to assure that the spirit of aloha will be strengthened, preserved and passed on to the children of the New Millennium.

"We owe this to our children -- as one day they too will owe it to theirs. In these times of frequent, rapid and sometimes unwanted change, that will be our greatest gift to them of all.

"Soon we will enter the twenty-first century. We have been blessed as the generation of leaders which will take Hawaii into the New Millennium. What we do over the next four years may set the direction for the next decade, perhaps longer. "Knowing this -- I am awed by the enormity of the responsibility -- grateful for the privilege of leadership -- and excited by the possibilities of making positive and meaningful changes to build a better Hawaii.

"Members of the Legislature, I look forward to working with you!

"Thank you and aloha."

Senate President Norman Mizuguchi then rose and stated:

"Thank you very much Governor Cayetano, for sharing your message with members of the House of Representatives and Senate and the people of Hawaii.

"I'm sure I speak for the House when I say that the leadership of both the House and the Senate will give your proposals our full attention and consideration.

"We pledge to work collaboratively with you during this session. Our minds and doors are open to your ideas and proposals.

"In an age where change is the rule, we've heard your call for change -- and change we must.

"It is each of us, representatives of the people, along with our consciences, who will bring about this change. Achieving economic recovery and reclaiming the lost dreams of the less fortunate -- the displaced workers, the sick and the aged -- are our common goal.

"As Robert Frost wrote, 'We have promises to keep and miles to go before we sleep.'

"Governor, mahalo again for your insightful, bold and challenging state-of-the-state address.

"If there is no further business by the members of the Senate and the House of Representatives, I now declare this Joint Session adjourned."

At 10:57 o'clock a.m., President Mizuguchi declared the Joint Session adjourned.
