At 12:26 o'clock p.m., the Senate stood in recess subject to the call of the Chair.

The Senate reconvened at 12:27 o'clock p.m.

Senator Hemmings rose on a point of personal privilege and said:

"Mr. President, I rise on a point of personal privilege.

"Mr. President, on behalf of your Minority Caucus, we'd like to thank the Majority Party for recognizing the need to make the worksheets in the Senate Ways and Means Committee public. We understand there's a possibility, in order to make them more accessible for us to step into the technological era, of putting them on the Internet. Hopefully, this step will be taken.

"On another subject, Mr. President, I'm rising to defend this Senate, to defend the Ways and Means Committee, and most importantly, to defend my colleague from Manoa, the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, for doing something I thought everybody in this community wanted done. We got sent a budget from the House of Representatives and from the Governor of the State of Hawaii that had zero funds in it for paying collective bargaining obligations that we all know are going to happen. It was an irresponsible move on the part of the Governor.

"We got sent, from the House of Representatives, a budget with zero funding for collective bargaining. Once again, when, how, and where would we pay for what we know is coming? Obviously, we had to get our sharpened pencils out and make the adjustments to build into the process the necessary funds to accommodate this dire need. That's exactly what the Chairman of the Senate Ways and Means Committee did with the help of his Committee members and his able staff.

"I find it incredulous that one of the newspapers, the Honolulu Advertiser, had an editorial on March 15, three short weeks ago, that said things like, 'teachers deserve substantial pay raise'; headline, 'Hawaii teachers are underpaid and the state's offer falls short not only for decent wage but for fulfilling the public policy needed to make a commitment to the teaching process.' The editorial goes on and on and on saying how the responsible thing to do is to accommodate giving the teachers a fair pay raise. It says things like, 'It is unfair to blame the state's fiscal bind on the teachers. Their need is not relative to other budget considerations, but absolute.' Sounds like a pretty absolute statement on the part of the editors of the Advertiser. The editorial ends with, 'all our teachers are essential and their time has come.'

"I was quite stunned this morning when I read the newspaper and find that the editors of the Advertiser are taking us and, most especially, the good Senator from Manoa to task for doing just what they asked for. We didn't put into the budget any specific collective bargaining amounts. We didn't even designate where money could go. We just said we're being prudent and wise by putting aside money that we know we're going to have to spend to accommodate a future need. That's good planning.

"What's irresponsible, and what the editors of the Advertiser should be editorializing against, is NOT doing it! And for them to come out this morning with these statements, the issue isn't how much we value our teachers, but how much we can afford to pay them. They close by saying, 'but,' and it's a big but, I might agree, 'it may backfire by extending rather than resolving a labor dispute that has brought our public education system to a stand still.'

"Mr. President, it's time that we do what the taxpayers of this State asked us to do - to put together a realistic budget that I think can be conservative and accommodate priorities. It is a priority that we're going to have to pay adequate pay raises through the collective bargaining process, and I'm proud of the good Senator from Manoa and the Senate Ways and Means Committee for putting the money aside to start us down that road so we can resolve this thing, rather than have our teachers out on the picket line and have our State at a standstill.

“Thank you, Mr. President.”

Senator Nakata rose on a point of personal privilege as follows:

“Mr. President, I rise on a point of personal privilege.

“I would like to second at least some of the comments of my colleague from Kailua and Waimanalo. Yes, I think we need to put a bipartisan spin on this. I think my colleague from Manoa might be a little embarrassed if only the other party supported him. (Laughter.)

“I would also like to voice my strong support for the action of the Ways and Means Chair and the Ways and Means Committee. I think it makes a strong statement that the Senate does care strongly about education and the future economy of this State.

“So again, thank you and congratulations.”

Senator Hogue rose on a point of personal privilege and said:

“Mr. President, I also rise on a point of personal privilege.

“I know that these are trying times before all of us and we have a lot of matters of concern. There was a little episode yesterday at a hearing that I believe merits further attention, at least looking at and awareness of. This was a matter of the resolution of bringing the possibility of a study for gaming into the State of Hawaii.

“When we entered the hearing there, we noticed that there were a number of senior citizens in T-shirts. All of these senior citizens had come in and they were wearing T-shirts that said ‘Gaming for Education.’ And there were a number of them there. I thought, well, this is interesting, a real show of support for this very interesting study there.

“Well, about a half-hour into the hearing, suddenly some of them got up to leave, then there was a wave of exit, as a matter of fact, as they all left in mass. And I thought perhaps that the bus had come. I wasn’t sure why they all had to leave. Well, I found out just a few moments later that in fact they were there under false pretenses. They had all been brought in from a senior citizen’s home and told that they were coming to the Capitol for the teachers, for education. No one told them they were there for a measure on gambling.

“This was very, very underhanded. In fact, Mr. President, this was downright dirty. And if the proponents of this particular resolution stoop to these kinds of tactics, I don’t think that the measure deserves going forward. I just don’t think that we should have these kinds of things going on in our State Capitol.

“Thank you.”
