

THE
TWENTY-FIRST LEGISLATURE
STATE OF HAWAII
REGULAR SESSION OF 2002
JOURNAL OF THE SENATE

FIRST DAY

Wednesday, January 16, 2002

In accordance with the provisions of Section 10 of Article III of the Constitution of the State of Hawaii, the Senate of the Twenty-First Legislature of the State of Hawaii, Regular Session of 2002, was called to order at 10:02 o'clock a.m., by the Honorable Robert Bunda, President of the Senate.

At this time, the members of the Senate and guests rose to sing the National Anthem and "Hawaii Pono'i" led by Ms. Amy Hanaiali'i Gilliom.

The Divine Blessing was then invoked by the Reverend Paul Miguel.

The President directed the Senate Clerk to call the Roll. The Clerk called the Roll showing all Senators present.

The President then addressed the members of the Senate and guests as follows:

"Governor and Mrs. Cayetano; Chief Justice Moon; Senator and Mrs. Akaka; Congressman Abercrombie; Congresswoman Mink; Mayors Harris, Apana, Kim, and Kusaka; Governor and Mrs. Waihee; Mrs. Jean Ariyoshi and son Donn; esteemed colleagues; honored guests; ladies and gentlemen:

"It is indeed a pleasure and a privilege to open the 2002 Regular Session of the Twenty-First Legislature. Welcome to what promises to be another demanding and challenging 60 days of hard work.

"At the end of our last session, we congratulated ourselves on what we accomplished. We found the resources to meet the many needs of our community. The economy was rebounding, tax collections were up, and we seemed to be finally turning the corner on our long-standing budget woes. Our work done, we adjourned, relieved and satisfied with what we had achieved. But an already faltering national economy, the September 11th terrorist attacks, a local economic crisis, and three special sessions later, it is clear that our relief was not meant to last. In fact, our work had only just begun.

"This year, we'll be reopening our budget, not to add supplemental items but to find ways to fund or cut $150 million or more. How we find the money will be at the very top of our legislative agenda. As we deliberate on the issues before us, let us keep in mind the responsibilities and powers we hold as members of the Senate. I speak of our responsibility and power for oversight of government. I am speaking of control. For too many years, particularly during flush times, we have approved spending without asking the tough questions surrounding those expenses. We need to regain our control over the direction of government and public expenditures, because if we don't, who will?

"Let me give you a prime example of program spending that is out of control. The Joint House and Senate Investigative Committee on Felix revealed the flaws in our blanket approval of funding for the consent decree, now almost $1.5 billion since 1994. The fact is, no one really knows the true cost of Felix. Furthermore, neither the Department of Education nor the Department of Health can accurately account for the use of this public money . . . accurate by our standards – not the Department's, not the court-appointed monitor, and not even Judge Ezra's evaluation, but ours – the elected body given the responsibility of oversight. For this reason, we will be extending the life of the Investigative Committee and continue to search for an accurate accounting of Felix expenses.

"And while we seek to halt unchecked, unquestioned government spending, let's also give support to those who are not afraid to offer new ideas, who constantly seek new ways of doing things, and who dare to try different approaches to old problems. I want to publicly commend School Superintendent Pat Hamamoto who is taking steps to decentralize the school districts in order to put the resources where they are most needed. That kind of bold thinking must be encouraged and supported by the Legislature.

"An example of bold thinking can be found at the University of Hawaii where President Evan Dobbelle formulated and then lobbied hard for the construction of cancer and biomedical research centers as part of a medical school complex in Kakaako. We approved the funding of $150 million towards construction. He convinced Legislators of his ability to match that amount through private funds. We would not have done this if we did not feel that he and Dean Cadman were in full control of the project, one that has the potential to stimulate our struggling economy as well as provide better access to quality health care in Hawaii.

"We should likewise give serious consideration to a proposal to transfer control and management of the Aloha Stadium to the University of Hawaii. Yes, there are questions in such a move, but Head Football Coach June Jones and Athletic Director Hugh Yoshida may be able to take the athletic program and the stadium to new levels, if given a chance. I say we give them the opportunity.

"Another proposal we will examine is funding for the Hawaii Tourism Authority. We have seen how fragile our tourism-based economy really is in the aftershock of September 11. While we seem to be recovering, the fact remains that we need to look at where we are, and where we're going with tourism, given the economic problems of national and foreign markets like Japan. Hawaii already had a positive image worldwide. We need to take full advantage of this and look beyond just marketing. We need to take stock and upgrade the product we are selling. Why spend millions of dollars on advertising if public restrooms, interpretive signs, historical information and cultural explanations are inadequate for our visitors?

“We will be redefining the Hawaii Tourism Authority’s funding this Session and I suggest we also underwrite part of the maintenance of our state parks and trails, particularly those impacted by high tourist traffic. Our parks and beaches are heavily used by visitors and residents alike, yet our maintenance program has been woefully under-funded. The Hawaii Tourism Authority should be encouraged to partner with other government agencies to resolve tourist-related issues. This would be a new approach to an old problem, not spending any more but spending smarter.

“Another smart move to save time and money is in the area of the repair and maintenance of our schools. We will recommend that the separate repair and maintenance operations of the Department of Accounting and General Services and the Department of Education be consolidated under one roof to streamline the entire spectrum of decision-making. This should better provide control of the process and speed the design, permitting, bidding, and construction needed to eliminate the huge backlog of repairs to our public schools.

“There are many other things we can do. There are 25 sources of ideas in this chamber; there are 51 more across the hall. Countless more will come forward from the community. If we exercise our responsibilities and powers, if we dare to be bold rather than cautious, if we are hopeful rather than cynical, I know we can make a difference in the financial solvency and direction of state government.

“That said, let’s return to the budget and all its related issues.

“The most talked-about solution to our budget shortfall is the $213 million in the Hawaii Hurricane Relief Fund. I was one of the co-authors of the bill that established the hurricane fund in 1993. Our purpose was to provide protection to homeowners who had very few choices, if any. Without the fund, people would have been left to the mercy of mortgage holders who could have demanded protection for their collateral at rates much higher than the Hurricane Relief Fund was able to provide. It has been nearly ten years since Hurricane Iniki left us with $1.6 billion in property damage. Using the Hurricane Relief Fund now would be politically and fiscally unsound.

“Should another hurricane strike, we would experience even deeper financial trouble. Given the budget and the state of our economy, it would be virtually impossible to replenish the fund in the aftermath of a hurricane. Therefore, the bulk of the fund should remain in reserve. But it makes good sense to set aside a portion of the money for homeowners to install hurricane mitigation measures that help to protect homes against more serious damage. We reduce our risk by strengthening our homes, making them less vulnerable to damage. Additionally, I am introducing legislation to address the possibility of creating a homeowners mutual insurance company. This new insurance entity could help stabilize the local market in the long run as we could depend on it to remain in the State in the event of a hurricane.

“Another proposal being considered to raise revenues is gambling. Everyone seems to have an opinion on the matter, but this much is certain: Gambling will not solve our budget problems . . . not now . . . not even in the immediate future. I do not intend to advocate support for gaming under the duress of a fiscal crisis. Rather, the full social and economic impact of gambling needs to be openly and rationally discussed. Yet, this extremely controversial issue has defied attempts by the Legislature to reach any consensus. Perhaps it is time to let the voters decide. The legislative process tends to attract those strongly in favor of or adamantly opposed to a particular proposal. But we have yet to hear from the silent majority, and perhaps some form of referendum on gambling would lay this matter to rest. Individual opinions aside, we must agree that this controversy will not linger and dominate our agenda.

“A far more practical answer to our budget crisis is squarely in our corner. In 1992, the Legislative Auditor issued a report to the Legislature entitled, ‘Loss of Budgetary Control: A Summary Report of the Review of Special and Revolving Funds.’ Like gambling, trying to control these funds has defied well-intentioned efforts by the Legislature. Last July, Auditor Marion Higa released an update of the 1992 study which pointed out that there are more than a hundred of these funds still in existence, with balances totaling as much as $220 million. Seventy of these funds failed to meet established criteria, yet had cash balances totaling $96 million. We should not simply look to ‘raid’ these funds to balance our budget, but rather to make meaningful changes in the way we structure our non-general funds. We are faced with an ideal opportunity to demonstrate our will to try new approaches, as well as to institute more accountability and oversight on the budget.

“We need to regain control.

“We will also take a hard look at the Governor’s capital improvement budget request of $900 million, which includes $255 million for school repair and maintenance. Last year we appropriated roughly $500 million in CIP funding, and added another $100 million during the most recent special session. I anticipate that we will approve a moderate amount of additional money, primarily for school repair and maintenance. I would also ask legislators to support CIP funding for another area critical to the future of this State, and that is adequate infrastructure for our agricultural industry.

“Over the years, drought conditions have threatened the survival of many small farm operations. Ditches and siphons unused since the days of sugar are falling into disrepair, a condition that some say cannot easily be restored once lost. These irrigation systems together with the construction of more modern networks, can supply water to hundreds of acres of prime agricultural land on each island. Specific improvements could be made to our airports and harbors to provide refrigeration and consolidation of produce being transported to local, national and international markets. CIP funds could also be used for construction of a world-class Farmer’s Market, which would help to develop the nearly unlimited potential of our agricultural industry.

“And finally, on this date last year, I came before you advocating change . . . change in the workings of the Legislature, change in government to make it more responsive. We certainly answered that call for change, as evidenced by the legislation we approved.

“This year, our problems are different. The need for exercising oversight and providing strong direction of government expenditures is more important than ever before. Seeking new and better ways of conducting the business of government must be our cause, our goal, and our obligation to the people of Hawaii. We must demonstrate to their satisfaction, and to all other entities that deal with this body, that we are indeed, in control.

“Mahalo.”

Senator Slom, Minority Leader of the Senate, responded as follows:

“Mr. President, colleagues, Governor and Mrs. Cayetano, distinguished guests, friends, families, and little guys – ALOHA!

"I am again honored and privileged to present an agenda for the Legislature on behalf of Floor Leader Fred Hemmings, Policy Leader Bob Hogue, and myself.

"Now last year, I spoke of the need for 'revolutionary change.' Regrettably, in our view, we were not bold enough. Then came September 11. Those events focused everyone's attention on the urgency to change and cope with challenges that the tragedy imposed upon us. We had an opportunity to chart a new course in special session, but in our opinion we failed those who needed us most.

"The old policies dictated old prescriptions: there were no tax cuts, there were talks of tax hikes, there was massive new government spending proposed, and increased debt. Other states took the opposite tack, they reduced their taxes, they reduced spending, and they reduced debt.

"Our position was – and remains – the priority is to keep Hawaii businesses open, to keep our people employed, and to keep capital expanding. Instead, Hawaii's government chose a path to care for the people after businesses closed, and after jobs were lost. Extended unemployment and welfare benefits, and continued health coverage for a few, is no substitute for continued employment.

"Further, your Legislature cowered before a federal judge's threats, allowed an education bureaucrat to circumvent legislative scrutiny, abdicated more of its power to the executive branch, and created additional commissions and boards instead of acting decisively on your part. Your Legislature must reestablish its accountability.

"Now there are calls for a meek and a cautious response to our changed world. You are told to be patient and not to expect too much in this Session. Well, Hawaii's overburdened taxpayers and families have waited patiently for their elected officials to lead. Our constituents are willing to change, but lawmakers have been non-responsive and timid.

"Hawaii seems to have lost its way. What is our identity? Do we want to be like Las Vegas or Tokyo or Hollywood? Creative and skilled people, young and old, continue to leave because they believe they are being penalized for their risk-taking and taxed for their success. Many perceive that Hawaii success is still based and determined on who you know rather than what you know. We must end that perception. Our people and our culture define our identity but an overabundance of government in our lives daily is threatening to destroy our unique spirit and culture.

"Several selected current issues spotlight this:

- Taliban Traffic Scameras. Besides being an affront to due process, our Aloha Spirit, and police officers, these bounty spy cameras are causing great economic loss and potential danger. Four years ago, I questioned and voted 'NO!' on this enabling legislation. We in the Minority have listened to the people – and we've also listened to the arrogance of a state department – and we don't want to 'amend,' don't want to 'fine tune,' don't want to 'tweak' this abomination – we want it repealed NOW!
- Your Minority will not gamble with Hawaii's economic future – we'll work hard to invest in economic opportunity and diversification. Some people dream of 'luck;' we believe that the harder a person works, the 'luckier' she should get. We seek economic diversification, not more social costs caused by high rollers.

- Education excellence must come now – not by dribbles, but by leaps. What good is computer Internet wiring if our children still cannot read, write or find Afghanistan on a map? If they don't have textbook of their own? If they are not safe at school? Real reform comes from attitude shifts, not just from money.

"We don't need a new education tax. The Felix Investigation provided and proved that Hawaii's kids – and their parents – are not getting what they pay for now. We must decentralize the Board of Education, expand Charter Schools and parity for all teachers, allow each school to prioritize and complete long overdue renovations. But mostly, we need students to gain self esteem, not through drugs or programs, but through educational accomplishment, and educators who settle for no less.

- Another issue is the HA-ALOHA Monopoly Merger – and it should be opposed by lawmakers and the Attorney General of this State as a further erosion of jobs, consumer choice, and competitive interisland commerce. Our Senate package focuses on breaking monopolies to provide competitive advantage and incentives;
- The age-old Jones Act and Passenger Carrier Act make Hawaii a less attractive and more costly port of call at a time when the cruise industry is exploding; we need revisions now;
- Health care coverage is declining and premiums are climbing in part because of the mandated Prepaid Health Care Act which fosters monopoly and inflexible policies which must be changed so that cafeteria-style choices are available to more of our families;
- Workers' compensation is breaking the backs of businesses with the worst yet to come unless we act to balance claims and legislate reform this Session;
- And now about that Budget Bloat – How much is that manipulated budget deficit today? Why is there a deficit when we are overtaxed? We know the supplemental budget is challenging, but, like every single mom, every family, every single business, government must learn to prioritize. Instead, it continues to outpace the ability of working men and women to support it and makes promises that it can't deliver. With change orders it hikes the cost of most public projects. It's not that government has too little revenue; it's that government spends and grows too much. Hawaii's government is 'rightsized' only for bureaucrats; it must be privatized and put on a strict allowance and diet, so not to bankrupt any more businesses or families forced to support it;
- Raid the Hurricane Non-Relief Fund? – We have consistently said NO to a raid on this fund by the Executive and others, and don't want a tempting $213-plus million target; this money MUST be returned to the people who were forced to pay into it to save the insurance companies from their responsibility.

"And by the way, if the State can't find its own records as to who it owes, then it should be sued for breach of fiduciary responsibility and not trusted for creation of any new special funds.

- Further, cut the gasoline tax and rebate any judicial recovery. The State helps keep Hawaii's gas rates the highest in the nation by both its tax and regulatory policies. Drivers should be given relief and if there is a recovery it should go to those that paid the excessive costs, not back to government;

- Tax the beer drinkers? If we really want a revolt in this state, tax the beer drinkers some more. Is it a sin to drink a beer or sip a wine, or is it a 'luxury' while your government mismanages your taxes? We think not. Hawaii is already the highest taxed beverage state; don't raise these taxes, Mr. Governor.
- A New Hillary-Type Health Tax? – No, to a $10 a month (and that's just to start) monthly long term ill-conceived new tax that is vague and would be government-operated. We need private incentives; and by the way, don't medicate our pure water.
- Tax Reduction – ah, there's the solution to your family's cash flow! We want those who earn the money to keep more of it and support further personal income and general excise tax relief. We think it is outrageous that this State continues to tax food and sickness. Capital gains reform will bring Hawaii new money. Retail tax holidays stimulate economic vitality.

"In answer to the cry of 'lost' government revenues, we must remind government it has NO revenues — all taxes are the result of the sweat of labor and risk capital. ALL national empirical evidence shows that tax reduction equals more consumer spending and investment, which then equals greater taxes.

"But more than money, Hawaii cries out for leadership. Your Minority remains positive, determined, energetic, and committed to provide this leadership. Many colleagues share our goal, and we welcome their support. We want the hard issues on the table at the start of this Session, not at the end, and open discussions of Hawaii's problems with all 25 Senators, not with any closed-door meetings. Let the sunshine in this Session!

"We extend our willingness to work diligently with the Majority. We continue to seek broad citizen inclusion in the legislative process. We pledge to honestly discuss options, alternatives, and ultimately, solutions to Hawaii's problems.

"Everyone now looks at us not as Democrats, not as Republicans, but as their trusted, elected representatives. We must not disappoint you. Accountability is not just for teachers, or public employees; it is for all of us.

"We will be 'bipartisan,' but we will not betray our beliefs and philosophy, and never for a moment forget that our loyalty resides with the citizens of our State who place their trust in us. We are your public servants and we owe you respect.

"It is your money and your lives that our actions – or inactions – affect. We must deliver this year and not be blinded by any political consequences. Can we do it?

"One person can define leadership and can affect change in the most difficult of situations. Todd Beamer, a passenger on UAL Flight #93 on September 11, 2001, was such a person. As that flight was over Pittsburgh, his final words heard by his wife on a cell phone and repeated by a nation as he rallied fellow passengers and crew to act against terrorist hijackers, can be paraphrased as our call to action this Session:

"Let's Roll Hawaii! It's time to rebuild. Aloha and Mahalo."

At 10:40 o'clock a.m., the Senate stood in recess subject to the call of the Chair. At this time, the members of the Senate and their guests were entertained by the Leeward Community College "Kanikapila Singers" and Ms. Amy Hanaiali'i Gilliom.

The Senate reconvened at 11:37 o'clock a.m.

At this time, the President directed the Senate Clerk to return to the respective committees all 2001 bills that were returned to the Clerk's desk after the Regular Session of 2001.

The President then announced that Senator Kokubun would be added as a member of the Committee on Ways and Means.
