“We’ve had this measure before us, and in fact there is another bill that we’ll be voting on soon. This bill severely restricts any business that sells or assigns its business in that it must retain all of its employees. Currently the way the bill is drafted, it only applies to those businesses with 50 or more employees, but as we’ve seen in legislative history a bill such as this, when it is passed, is usually amended or modified shortly thereafter to apply to all businesses. This would make it extremely difficult for a business to put itself up for sale or to get additional information and investment if, in fact, management’s hands were tied and were forced to retain all employees. Thank you.”

Senator Slom rose to speak in opposition to the measure and stated:

"This bill also is a bill that has mandatory retention of employees, thus tying the hands of the business and making it difficult for investment or for sale. Thank you."

Senator Takamine rose to speak in support of the measure and stated:

"Basically, this measure is an attempt to strike a balance between when an employer comes into the state, and especially when it's a larger employer because this would apply to employers of 50 employees or more. Rather than a termination and the disruption in lives and additional unemployment, this provides for a transition period of 90 days, when an employer would be required to retain the employees at that establishment.

"Under this measure, there are exceptions to the employee retention requirement which would provide flexibility to the employer. If the workforce requirements of the new employer are not the same and require fewer employees, then that employer will have flexibility to reduce the number of employees. In addition, Madam President, on page 3 of the bill, there are provisions that allow two exceptions to this requirement: (1) during the 90 day period, if there are employees who are not qualified or who are not good employees, where a written performance evaluation of that employee can be done, and if that employee's performance is not satisfactory, and (2) where the employee's performance is not satisfactory, where a warning is given, and that allows the employee to make improvements, under those circumstances, the employer does have flexibility. As indicated earlier, this measure would only apply to employers with 50 or more employees. Therefore in the State of Hawai'i, where we have over 35,000 employers, this bill would apply to about 5 percent of that number, and being the larger employers, probably those with the greater capacity. Thank you, Madam President."

Senators Sakamoto, Nishihara, and Ige requested their votes be cast "aye, with reservations," and the Chair so ordered.
