

TWENTY-THIRD DAY

Thursday, February 28, 2019

The Senate of the Thirtieth Legislature of the State of Hawai'i, Regular Session of 2019, convened at 11:33 a.m. with the President in the Chair.

The Roll was called showing all Senators present.

The President announced that he had read and approved the Journal of the Twenty-Second Day.

At this time, Senator Shimabukuro honored the Cultural Learning Center at Ka'ala, and presented the following remarks:

"A tremendous conflagration swept across Wai'anae and Mākaha Valley in August of last summer, 2018. It began with two large brushfires, which devastated 17 farm lots in the state's Wai'anae Agricultural Park along with destroying five farm structures and leaving one Wai'anae family home in ashes. In its finality, it scorched almost 9,000 acres. Unfortunately, fires are commonplace on the hot and dry Wai'anae Coast and are becoming alarmingly more and more devastating. However, from those ashes rose the phoenix of a combined community effort to recover, restore, and rehabilitate the vibrancy of those lands that were left scorched. The honored guests we recognize here on this floor have made it their personal kuleana to mālama the lands of the Wai'anae Coast and to make every effort to heal its wounds inclusive of all community stakeholders from local youth to esteemed kūpuna. Through their collective efforts, they created the Wai'anae Kai Wildfire Preparedness Plan and are actively seeking to protect their ancestral lands. Their goal is to prevent ignition of fires in Wai'anae while implementing key best management practices. This includes increasing security in the upper valley and improving the ability of firefighters to respond to fires, extinguishing them quickly by increasing water availability.

"Watershed and native forest preservation go hand in hand with fire prevention. Because these groups recognize the importance of educating our future generation about their mission, a key partner among them is the 'A'ali'i Program at Nānākuli High and Intermediate School. The 'A'ali'i students drafted a resolution to restore watersheds across the state and perpetuate Hawaiian cultural practices. The students presented their resolution to the Wai'anae Neighborhood Board, the Wai'anae Moku Hawaiian Civic Clubs, and Ke One o Kākuhihewa O'ahu Council of the Association of Hawaiian Civic Clubs, who all eventually adopted it. It's here today that we come together to recognize this committed group, who are seeking to heal Hawaiian lands in a Hawaiian sort of way. We realize that in supporting their endeavors, there is so much more which we all could gain, in the absence of which, there is so much which could all be lost. I would now like to yield the floor to the senator from Kapolei."

Senator Gabbard rose to present the following remarks:

"Colleagues, as the chair of the Agriculture and Environment committee, I would be remiss if I didn't say a few words about the importance of Ka'ala Farm and their Cultural Learning Center. Just yesterday, the front page of the Star-Advertiser highlighted the publication of a new study by Kamehameha Schools, UH, and the United States Geological Survey in the journal Nature Sustainability. The study found that traditional indigenous agro systems are key to us facing the future challenges posed by climate change. And this is exactly what Eric Enos and his team are currently doing at Ka'ala Farm. They lease a 97-acre parcel from DHHL and another 1,100-acre ranch from DLNR at the top of Wai'anae Valley. Back in the 19th century, the streams were diverted for the sugar industry, but they've been restoring those streams and also kalo lo'i and 'auwai. What they have is one of the best preserved agricultural village systems in the state. Over the past four decades since their founding in 1976, they have developed expertise in the ancestral knowledge of growing food, managing valuable land and water resources, and bringing people together in a spirit of shared responsibility. Ka'ala Farm provides cultural and environmental educational experiences for thousands of visitors each year to reconnect to the 'āina through hands-on experiences. They are teaching the youth of the Wai'anae Coast and their families traditional agricultural practices, such as the planting of dryland taro and the concept of edible forests. The idea is that with this knowledge, people will plant gardens for their subsistence. We commend Ka'ala Farm, UH PALS and PLACES, Nānākuli High and Intermediate 'A'ali'i Program, and the members of the Wai'anae Moku Ke One o Kākuhihewa O'ahu Council of Hawaiian Civic Clubs for coming together in the spirit of cooperation to focus on this important watershed management and fire prevention and mitigation project. I'd like to now turn the floor back over to the senator from the Wai'anae Coast."

Senator Shimabukuro rose and stated:

"Colleagues, it's my privilege to introduce our honored guests. Representing the Cultural Learning Center at Ka'ala, also known as Ka'ala Farm, we have director Eric Enos; representing the UH Place-Based After-School Literacy Support and Community Engagement programs, which are also known as PALS and PLACES, we have Kellen Smith and Kay Fukuda; representing Nānākuli High and Intermediate School's 'A'ali'i Program, we have principal Darin Pili'aloa and teachers Jewelynn Kirkland and Kathryn Fisher; representing the Wai'anae Hawaiian Civic Club, we have pele kikenā Rochelle Kawelo; and representing the Ke One o Kākuhihewa O'ahu Council for the Association of Hawaiian Civic Clubs, we have pele kikenā Benton Keali'i Pang. In the gallery, to support our honorees, we have Bruce Tsuchida and Katie Franklin from Townscape; Mele Worthington and Stephanie Kawelo of Wai'anae Hawaiian Civic Club; Georgianna Navarro of the Wai'anae and Mākaha Hawaiian Civic Clubs; and I know that the driver for some of them was DeMont and Momi Conner of Ho'omana Pono PAC; and we also have Hailama Farden, who's the president of the Association of Hawaiian Civic Clubs. We have a gang who takes care of Ka'ala Farm: we have Stone, Mango, and Warrior Levi, and AK King. We have Wai'anae High School Hawaiian studies students. We've got Miwa and Kili Enos and her 'ohana and she is with Kua. We have Tammy Jones, Tara Ferron from Nānākuli High 'A'ali'i Program. And if anyone else is here in support of these honorees, please stand to be recognized, and will you give them a round of applause? Thank you so much."

At 11:41 a.m., the Senate stood in recess subject to the call of the Chair.

The Senate reconvened at 11:48 a.m.
