

FORTY-SEVENTH DAY

Tuesday, April 11, 2023

The Senate of the Thirty-Second Legislature of the State of Hawai'i, Regular Session of 2023, convened at 10:03 a.m. with the President in the Chair.

The Roll was called showing all Senators present, with the exception of Senator Keohokalole who was excused.

The President announced that he had read and approved the Journal of the Forty-Sixth Day.

At this time, Senator Ihara introduced Mike and Laura Crimmins from Prescott, Arizona, the parents of his legislative aide, Megan Crimmins, who was accompanying them in the gallery.

The Chair stated:

"Before we start today's agenda: We have five floor amendments, three of which are on your desk, so once we get to floor amendments, we will take up the first three floor amendments that are prepared. We will then proceed on to the consent and ordinary calendar, and hopefully the other two amendments will be done prior to 11:30 this morning, since we need to lay them on the table for 48 hours. So, either we will recess until they're ready if we get through the calendar or we will recess at about 11:20 to have the other two amendments passed out and take the vote on those to make that 11:30 timing that would allow us to take action at Thursday's full session."

These amendments are in consultation with the WAM chair; deputy director of the Department of Business, Economic Development, and Tourism; director of the Department of Taxation; and the director of the Department of Business and Finance. In this floor amendment, we have a few changes to address from the S.D. 1 approved last week. In this proposed S.D. 2, we address some percentages and amounts that were inadvertently left blank in the S.D. 1. The percentage blank in section 3 is now ‘25 percent’ in concurrence with the WAM chair. The dollar amount and percentage blanks for the workforce development incentive program were filled in from the original H.B. 1373 amounts as proposed by the introducer. Additional staff position: After conferring with DBEDT, leadership, and the WAM chair, it was determined that a staff position to carry out the workforce development incentive program was needed; this floor amendment includes funding for a program specialist IV for the purpose of administering the workforce development incentive program. Clean up language: The other changes in this floor amendment are revisions for clarity and consistency provided by DOTAX, B&F, and SMA. Mr. President, this has been an all-hands-on and around-the-clock effort these past few days, working to get this bill clean and effective. I ask that you join the WAM chair and myself in supporting the floor amendment. Thank you.”

The Chair having so ordered, Senator Gabbard’s remarks read as follows:

“Senator Mike Gabbard’s Journal Remarks on HB525 HD2 SD2

“(Implements the 2022 Uniform Commercial Code Amendments) – June 12, 2023

“Mr. President. I rise in opposition of House Bill 525 and would like to have remarks inserted into the journal.

“In my humble opinion, it’s too early in the process of creating a digital currency to vote ‘yes’ on HB525.

“Much still remains unknown about the future of cryptocurrencies and CBDCs (Central Bank Digital Currency.)

“This bill would update the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC) so that only CBDC is ‘money’ – which could potentially create a monopoly of CBDCs over all existing cryptocurrencies, including Bitcoin.... the amendments in HB525 would help lay the foundation for a CBDC.

“Until we have a better understanding of how a CBDC will operate, as well as all of the relevant costs and benefits related to cryptocurrencies being classified as ‘controllable electronic records’ instead of ‘money,’ it would be unwise to rush to prohibit cryptocurrencies from being considered ‘money’ under the UCC. The UCC shouldn’t be altered until revisions include protections against the use of CBDCs.

“Unfortunately, this bill is not ready for prime time.”

Senator San Buenaventura rose to speak in support of the measure as follows:

“The Uniform Commercial Code deals with our business transactions interstate. Digital currency, as the commenters have stated in the last committee, is only dealt with by Congress. If you look at what H.B. 525 says, basically, it deals with what we have already taken into account: how we use Zelle, how we use Venmo, how we use all these e-signatures regarding real estate transactions. If, for some instance, we want to deal with real estate transactions with another bank to get them to transfer moneys over—if we want those transactions to be valid, we need to pass the Uniform Commercial Code in order for the interstate types of transactions we deal with every day. It is the 21st century; we do a lot of e-banking. If we don’t pass this, we’re basically telling interstate banks that Hawai’i is not open for e-banking; we are not open for the kind of 21st-century transactions that we deal with now on everything. And for those reasons, I am in favor, and I support H.B. 525.”

H.B. No. 300, H.D. 1, S.D. 1:

Senator Dela Cruz moved that H.B. No. 300, H.D. 1, S.D. 1, having been read throughout, pass Third Reading, seconded by Senator Keith-Agaran.

Senator Dela Cruz rose to speak in support of the measure as follows:

"I'd like to begin by thanking you, the Senate leadership, and the Senate subject-matter committee chairs for their leadership and for assisting the Ways and Means committee in crafting a budget that closely aligns with Governor Green's statewide priorities that addresses long-standing challenges, such as homelessness, threats to our fragile ecosystem, and replacing or modernizing our aging government infrastructure, just to name a few.

"The biennium budget was unique and challenging. First, the steady state budget was lean and scaled back, followed by Governor's Messages 2, 3, and 5, which comprised a host of requests ranging from new positions, millions for programs and services, vehicle replacements, and overdue electricity payments. With a carryover of $2.2 billion from fiscal year '23, we made prudent and strategic economic decisions that we believe will ensure that Hawai'i can be affordable and livable for every resident of our state. Many hours were dedicated to identifying specific ready-to-go projects to help realize the administration's ambitious statewide goals. The Ways and Means committee shares the administration's urgency and commitment to appropriating funds to areas in government that have been resource-strapped but now can be addressed because of the $2.2 billion in carryover funds.

“We are presenting a solution-oriented biennium budget that is both bold and financially sustainable. For fiscal year ’24, we appropriated funds that many one-time, non-recurring, large expenditures for infrastructure repairs; maintenance or replacements; construction projects; land acquisitions; climate change initiatives; and paying down the state’s unfunded liabilities, including debt service, the Employees’ Retirement System, and replenishing the rainy day fund. We invested strategically in programs that will assist thousands of low- and middle-income individuals and families through rental and child-care subsidies, increases in payments to nursing facilities, Medicaid, and state-contracted service providers who have not been provided an increase in over five years, therefore impacting their ability to continue providing essential programs and services across the state.

“In an effort to recruit and retain a qualified, skilled workforce for state government, funding was appropriated for the department, high school, and college internships; retention incentives for education loan forgiveness; and salary repricing for hard-to-fill positions in various departments, such as Law Enforcement, the Office of the Attorney General, Education, Health, and Human Services. There are many more noteworthy priorities that are addressed in the Senate’s biennium budget, but with our limited time, I’ll end with sharing a couple more critical budget priorities, and the remaining can be found in the Senate budget worksheets.

“First, funding is being provided for long-overdue technology modernization projects for various departments and agencies, including the Office of the Attorney General, Department of Taxation, Department of Law Enforcement, Department of Commerce and Consumer Affairs, Department of Human Resources Development, and the Department of Accounting and General Services.

“Also important to note is that our education institutions are experiencing a growing demand for specialized intensive and more expansive student support services. As a result, appropriations have been earmarked for workforce development for our special-education students, after-school care for students with disabilities, contracted skilled nursing services, applied behavior analysis, and bilingual school-home assistance.

“With increasing operating costs and greater demands for state-funded programs and services, the Senate’s approach to balancing the budget included considering the costs of the administration and the Senate priorities, the Council on Revenues’ general fund forecast, and, for the next two years, while ensuring the base budget was one that could be sustained in the outyears. Leveraging federal dollars through state-matching funds and increased expectations for select departments and agencies to be more entrepreneurial should result in additional sources of funding. Additionally, department vacancies were reduced to offset new positions requested so that we can continue to limit the growth of government.

“In conclusion, I’d like to thank the Senate subject-matter chairs for their countless hours spent with the departments and the Ways and Means team as well as scrutinizing and asking critical questions on hundreds of budget requests. Your good work is reflected in this Senate draft. I’d like to thank the Ways and Means committee members for their hard work, time, and dedication in putting forth a budget that is reflective of action-oriented leadership and a spirit of collaboration between the legislative and executive branch. As always, thank you to the vice chair and his team for putting together the CIP budget. And, lastly, thank you to the Ways and Means budget staff for their commitment, diligence, and extended hours they have put in to help shape the Senate draft.”

Senator Dela Cruz acknowledged members of the Ways and Means budget staff and his office staff who were present in the gallery: committee clerk Chung Chang; budget chief Stacy Ferreira; budget analysts Colin Peros, Parker Spencer, Shirley Kan, and Alex Ozawa; advisors Kathy Sokugawa and Ford Fuchigami; legislative assistants David Cho and Makoa Nakamura; and office manager Dot Fujinaga. Senator Dela Cruz then introduced members of the Ways and Means bills section, who had assisted the budget team. Seated in the gallery were bills chief Duncan Osorio; bills researchers Cody Rex, Malcolm Iwami, and Nathaniel Isei; and legislative aides Mary Deneen and Carey Price.

Senator Keith-Agaran rose to speak in support of the measure as follows:

“The capital improvement portion of the Senate draft reflects the priorities of the communities and people we represent, including $203.5 million for harbors on all islands, $1.03 billion for our airports, and $1.03 billion for our highways. We also dedicated $381 million for our community colleges and university campuses, $156.2 million for public hospitals throughout the islands, including important projects for Kona and Hilo. We also provided additional funds for modernizing our state laboratories in preparing for the next pandemic as well as investing in our state parks and our watersheds and trails. We’re providing $10 million in help to the Honolulu Board of Water Supply to monitor key aquifers providing fresh water for Central O’ahu, including residents affected by the Red Hill leak. The Senate draft also makes an investment of $175 million in our public schools for new schools and classrooms, $265 million in additional resources for repair and maintenance in addressing ADA and athletic equity.

“I would like to thank my colleagues for identifying the priorities and public-works projects that may provide value to the lives of their friends, neighbors, and communities. I would also express my appreciation to the hard work of the Ways and Means chair and his operating budget staff for their assistance since this Senate draft, like last session, continues the effort to address the backlog of repairs and maintenance for public facilities in our schools or in our campuses or community colleges and other public buildings through the appropriate use of general funds. I’m also grateful to our various partners in the various departments and state agencies for their work in responding in a timely way to our questions and requests for information. I finally want to thank my own staff: my office manager, Susan Wong; my session staffers, Moya Gray and Jimmy Nelson; and the two staffers who worked on the CIP portion of this draft, Danielle Evangelista and Robert Nishimoto. I think they’re upstairs still working on the bill. With that, I also have some written remarks I’d like to submit in support of the bill.” (The Chair so ordered.)

The Chair having so ordered, Senator Keith-Agaran’s additional remarks read as follows:

“Thank you Mr. President. I rise in support of H.B. No. 300, S.D. 1, and specifically on the capital improvement projects portion of the measure. With a general fund surplus, we have an opportunity to continue what was started last session in using general funds for repair and maintenance projects that would be difficult and impractical to finance with general obligation bonds— projects that need to be done, can be accomplished without a lot of design or planning work, but are not the kind of improvements that align well with the twenty to thirty year life of a bond issuance. A good portion of our backlog of deferred maintenance can be characterized in this way— painting, small repairs, and roof replacements. Also, we can purchase alarm and bell systems at our schools, and even fund the security cameras and newer equipment, carpeting and furniture that many of our aging public school campuses would like. I support the prudent approach of the Ways and Means Chair in strategically investing general funds for these types of projects.

"I urge my colleagues to support the Senate Draft of the State Budget."

Senator DeCoite rose to speak on a point of personal privilege as follows:

"So, just clarification on the specialist position: I made a statement as 'specialist IV' and it's a 'specialist VI.' Thank you."
