
HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

RECOGNIZING NOVEMBER 21ST AS INTERNATIONAL PEACE AND RECONCILIATION DAY IN THE STATE OF HAWAII.

1 WHEREAS, during the last sixty years of humanity's
2 existence on Planet Earth, the technology and knowledge attained
3 by mankind has greatly surpassed all of the advancements and 4 discoveries made in the estimated six thousand years of 5 civilization prior to our modern era; and

6
7 WHEREAS, the incredible advancements in science,
8 mathematics, and computer development made since the year 1947
9 have given rise to not only constructive technologies, but also 10 destructive weapons beyond the wildest imaginations of our 11 ancestors, unparalleled and unprecedented in their power,
12 including among others, combined effect cluster bomb munitions,
13 fuel air explosive bombs (FAEs), explosive magnetocumulative
14 generator warheads (EMGs), high energy excimer chemical lasers,
15 electromagnetic kinetic cannons, neutron enhanced thermonuclear
16 weapons, intercontinental ballistic missiles armed with multiple 17 independently targetable reentry vehicles (MIRVs), extremely low
18 altitude cruise missiles such as the 3M-80E Moskit (NATO 19 reporting name SS-N-22 "Sunburn"), and near-invisible to radar, 20 very low observable (VLO) stealth aircraft; and

21
22 WHEREAS, even a lone pilot flying a single modern-day
23 military aircraft such as the Sukhoi Su-37 Terminator has the 24 capacity to inflict more devastation than even a whole air force 25 of World War II aircraft; and

26
27 WHEREAS, as evidenced by the severity of conflicts around 28 the world, these new destructive technologies have the power to 29 annihilate or render unproductive large regions in a very short 30 period of time; and

31

1 WHEREAS, the technology of warfare presents an incredible
2 temptation to world leaders to act unilaterally and without
3 thoughtful consideration to either global political consequences
4 or moral implications; and
5

6 WHEREAS, the technology of warfare likewise presents an 7 incredible temptation to insurgents, unlawful combatants, and 8 even disgruntled persons to resort to violence without
9 thoughtful consideration to either global political consequences
10 or moral implications; and 11

12 WHEREAS, the esteemed scientist, Albert Einstein once 13 observed, " I know not with what weapons World War III will be 14 fought, but World War IV will be fought with sticks and stones"; 15 and

17 WHEREAS, the Legislature is deeply concerned about the 18 future of our Planet's ohana and keiki, all of whom are created 19 in God's image and brothers and sisters by nature of their 20 humanity; and

22 WHEREAS, on November 21, 1973 as a response to the 23 aftermath of the 1973 Arab-Israeli War (also known as the Yom 24 Kippur War), a group of concerned persons named that day "World 25 Hello Day" in which persons send communications and greetings to 26 other persons as a means of expressing mutual peace; and 27

28 WHEREAS, the Legislature recognizes the value of 29 communication, interaction, peaceful exchanges, and activities
30 such as "World Hello Day" in promoting unity, friendship, and 31 aloha; and
32

33 WHEREAS, there comes a time in the course of human events,
34 when a threat must be answered with courage and strength, and no
35 greater threat presents us today than the threat of self-
36 annihilation as a result of misunderstandings, poor 37 communication, lack of interaction, and overall indifference for 38 one another; and 39

40 WHEREAS, our ancients and forefathers fought for the right
41 to be free, and now, as children of their works, we must guard 42 that dream; and
43

1 WHEREAS, the geographic position of Hawaii presents an 2 incredible opportunity for international contact and meaningful 3 exchange with the world; now, therefore,
4
