THE SENATE TWENTY-SIXTH LEGISLATURE, 2011 STATE OF HAWAII

S.B. NO. 1460

JAN 2 6 2011

A BILL FOR AN ACT

RELATING TO MARIJUANA.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF HAWAII:

SECTION 1. The legislature finds that certain state 1. policies should be revised in response to our current economic 2 climate. One such policy that should be revised relates to 3 criminal offenses that prohibit the possession of one ounce or 4 less of marijuana. Maine, Massachusetts, Nebraska, and New 5 York, and cities in Michigan and Missouri have enacted laws and 6 ordinances that make the possession of small amounts of 7 marijuana subject to a civil violation. Other states, counties, 8 9 and cities have decriminalized marijuana possession in other 10 ways or have made the prosecution of marijuana possession the lowest police priority. The legislature finds that in Hawaii, 11 as in these other areas, the benefits of establishing a civil 12 violation for the possession of small amounts of marijuana far 13 outweigh the benefits of the current criminal treatment of this 14 15 offense.

16 The legislature finds that the costs to enforce criminal 17 marijuana possession statutes are substantial. According to a 18 report entitled The Budgetary Implications of Marijuana 2011-0436 SB SMA.doc Decriminalization and Legalization for Hawai'i, dated March 2007, 1 2 (decriminalization study) by Lawrence W. Boyd, Ph.D, an economist from the University of Hawaii West Oahu, state and 3 county law enforcement agencies spend $4,100,000 per year to 4 enforce marijuana possession laws, and an additional $2,100,000 5 6 is spent by the courts each year to process marijuana possession cases. The decriminalization study indicates that less than two 7 per cent of all arrests in Hawaii between the years of 1997 and 8 2004 were for marijuana possession. Furthermore, of the 9 misdemeanor marijuana drug cases brought in district court, 10 approximately sixty-five per cent are dismissed, stricken, or 11 not prosecuted. A relatively small proportion, approximately 12 twenty-five per cent, result in convictions. As the 13 decriminalization study concludes: "Few [of those arrested for 14 marijuana possession] are actually prosecuted under the law, 15 fewer convicted, and virtually none serve jail time. Of those 16 convicted, probation is the usual sentence for first time 17 18 offenders." Clearly, although the cost to enforce marijuana possession laws is substantial, the resulting conviction rate is 19 20 low.

21 The legislature finds that the low conviction and arrest22 rates do not act as a deterrent to marijuana users. The decriminalization study compared the findings of a study 1 2 surveying the number of households engaged in the regular use of marijuana with actual arrest rates. The results of this 3 comparison indicate that the risk of arrest is between 1.54 per 4 cent and 2.16 per cent in any given year for members of 5 households in which there is regular marijuana use. According 6 to the decriminalization study, the chance of a marijuana user 7 being arrested and convicted is approximately 0.4 per cent. Ιt 8 is clear that the arrest and conviction risks associated with 9 10 marijuana use do not act as a deterrent to marijuana use and few of those who use marijuana on a regular basis experience the 11 consequences of these risks, notwithstanding the costs to 12 enforce the criminal statutes prohibiting such conduct. 13

14 Some form of marijuana possession decriminalization has been passed in eighteen other states, whether statewide or in \sim 15 cities or municipalities. Studies evaluating the effects on 16 states that have reduced the penalties imposed for marijuana 17 18 possession have shown that those states have not suffered negative consequences. According to a report prepared by the 19 Connecticut law revision commission for the judiciary committee 20 of the Connecticut general assembly, studies of states that have 21 reduced penalties for possession of small amounts of marijuana 1 2 have found that: 3 (1)Expenses for arrests and prosecution of marijuana possession offenses were significantly reduced; 4 If marijuana use increased, it increased less in (2)5 states with reduced penalties when compared to states 6 7 that did not reduce their penalties, and "the largest proportionate increase occurred in those states with 8 the most severe penalties"; and 9 Reducing the penalties for marijuana possession has 10 (3) 11 virtually no effect on either the choice or frequency 12 of use of alcohol or illegal "harder" drugs such as 13 cocaine. Additionally, studies discussed in a report prepared in 14 15 2003 by Jeffrey A. Miron, an economics professor at Boston University, suggest that "decriminalization has little impact on 16 marijuana use[.]" As noted by Professor Miron, if enforcement 17 of marijuana laws already provides little disincentive to use, 18 there is no reason to expect a substantial increase in marijuana 19 20 use if decriminalization occurs. Further, minor non-violent criminal offenses utilize scarce state and county resources and 21 22 clog our overburdened court system.

1 Clearly, the cost of enforcing laws criminalizing the 2 possession of one ounce or less of marijuana greatly outweigh 3 the benefits of doing so. Recently, the federal Department of Justice released new guidelines addressing the enforcement of 4 5 marijuana laws and medical marijuana. The guidelines reverse 6 federal policy by instructing federal officers not to go after 7 marijuana users or suppliers who comply with their states' 8 medical marijuana laws. In Hawaii county, a voter initiative 9 was passed in 2008 by a majority of 35,000 voters that directs 10 county law enforcement officials to treat the "adult personal 11 use" of marijuana as its lowest law enforcement priority and 12 prohibits the county from accepting or expending funds for the 13 marijuana eradication program and for enforcing potential 14 offenses for the adult personal use of marijuana. Eleven other 15 cities in the United States have passed similar voter 16 initiatives or ordinances instructing local law enforcement to 17 make enforcement of marijuana prohibitions their lowest police 18 priority.

19 This Act does not amend laws regarding driving under the 20 influence of marijuana or other criminal infractions committed 21 under the influence or infractions pertaining to sales or

1 manufacturing. This Act also does no77t amend laws regarding 2 the use of marijuana for medical purposes. 3 SECTION 2. Chapter 329, Hawaii Revised Statutes, is 4 amended by adding a new section to be appropriately designated 5 and to read as follows: 6 "§329-A Possession of marijuana. (a) Intentional or knowing possession of one ounce or less of marijuana shall 7 8 constitute a civil violation subject to a fine not to exceed 9 $100. 10 (b) Civil fines and penalties for violations under this 11 section shall be deposited into the general fund." 12 SECTION 3. Section 302A-1002, Hawaii Revised Statutes, is 13 amended to read as follows: 14 "[+] §302A-1002[+] Reporting of crime-related incidents. 15 The board shall adopt rules pursuant to chapter 91 to: 16 (1)Require a report to appropriate authorities from a 17 teacher, official, or other employee of the department 18 who knows or has reason to believe that an act has 19 been committed or will be committed, which: 20 (A) Occurred or will occur on school property during 21 school hours or during activities supervised by 22 the school; and

Report Title:

Marijuana; Civil Penalties for Possession of One Ounce or Less

Description:

Establishes a civil violation for possession of one ounce or less of marijuana that is subject to a fine of not more than $100. Deletes reporting requirements of board of education for students possessing one ounce or less of marijuana. Clarifies that medical marijuana patients and primary caregiver may assert affirmative defense to prosecution, criminal or civil, involving possession of one ounce or less of marijuana. Excludes possession of more than one ounce of marijuana from authority of Hawaii paroling authority to require paroled prisoner to undergo and complete substance abuse treatment. Excludes possession of more than one ounce of marijuana from authority of courts to require a defendant to undergo and complete substance abuse treatment for probation violation.
