October 2010

Aloha,

With the 2011 Legislative session just months away, my staff and I have been researching and preparing several pieces of legislation I plan to introduce:

- Bullying and cyber-bullying: Establish civil penalties for bullying and require anti-bullying policies in public schools.
- Public Safety: Direct the Department of Public Safety to report on key performance indicators to be incorporated in reports that evaluate the outcomes of program components.
- Excessive Speeding: Authorizes the court to order forfeiture of a defendant's vehicle if it was used in the commission of the excessive speeding offense and in at least two prior excessive speeding convictions.
- Civil Relief for Military Service members: Extension of foreclosure proceedings against active duty reservists and members of National Guard 1 year after deployment.

If you have any requests for proposed legislation, please submit them to my office by October. Interim is an ideal time to sit down with me or one of my staff to discuss your issue and begin to develop legislation for the 2011 session.

Me ke Aloha Pumehana,

Mililani 'Ike Students' Capitol District Tour

Second graders from Mililani 'Ike Elementary students toured the Capitol District on October 19. They visited the State Judiciary, Honolulu Hale and the State Capitol. Senator Kidani and Representative Marilyn Lee greeted the students and talked to them about State Government.

On Tuesday, November 2nd, don't forget to get out and VOTE!

Mililani Town Association's Make a Difference Day

As the Vice President of Mililani Town Association (MTA) Senator Kidani donated not only her time but also supplies towards the success of National Make a Difference Day on October 23, 2010. MTA organized a communal effort with local organizations and church groups to paint over unsightly graffiti throughout Mililani.

Mahalo nui loa to all the sponsors who donated paint and supplies and to all the volunteers who spent their Saturday morning beautifying Mililani!

Congratulations on your win, Go Trojans!

University of Hawai'i Economic Forecast: Strong Summer for Tourism

Hawaii's recovery continues, led by a better-than-expected performance from tourism. The visitor industry's summer strength is sustaining moderate job gains in related sectors. Much of the rest of the state economy remains relatively weak, and we continue to see net job losses in some areas. The cooling of growth in the U.S. and overseas markets will be a challenge for tourism over the next year. We expect continued Hawaii expansion, but at a restrained pace through 2011.

The majority of increased arrivals have been domestic visitors. United States arrivals increased 4.1% in the second quarter. The June total of 397,600 U.S. visitors was the highest monthly count since March 2008. Domestic arrivals growth has been strongest from the West South Central (mostly Texas) and Pacific markets, both of which have had five straight quarters of year-on-year improvement.

Surprisingly, nearly half of the growth in the large Pacific market during that stretch came from Oregon and Washington State. Despite these sizable gains, monthly U.S. visitor arrivals remain nearly 15% below their average level in 2006 and 2007. The U.S. market was particularly hard hit by the financial crisis and global recession and so has further to recover than the international markets.

This demonstrates the important role that Federal government spending has played in propping up the economy. Military-related labor income was 9.6% higher and Federal civilian labor income was 8.5% higher in the first quarter. This helped offset the net private sector losses in income and a substantial 6.1% year-on-year drop in State and Local government labor earnings, caused both by furloughs and a decline in state payrolls. Considering the fact that a large portion of Federal ARRA stimulus funds were granted to States for operational expenses, the drop in State and Local labor earnings would have been even larger if not for Federal support.

Why recycle eWaste?

Electronics contain hazardous materials that must be disposed of in an environmentally sensitive approach to avoid being released into our air, ground water, and soil. Hawai'i's Biennial Education & Government eWaste Disposal Days program provides an opportunity for safe and environmentally friendly disposal of ewaste; all equipment collected will be processed in North America in an environmentally responsible way.
