SENATE RESOLUTION

ENCOURAGING THE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH TO ESTABLISH A FETAL
ALCOHOL SPECTRUM DISORDER INTERAGENCY COORDINATING COUNCIL
TO COORDINATE AND DEVELOP FETAL ALCOHOL SPECTRUM DISORDER
INFORMATION, EDUCATION, POLICIES, AND SUPPORT SERVICES.

1 WHEREAS, fetal alcohol spectrum disorder is one of the most 2 underdiagnosed developmental disabilities in Hawaii and across 3 the country; and

4
5 WHEREAS, nationwide, approximately forty thousand newborns
6 per year are affected by fetal alcohol spectrum disorder; and

7
8 WHEREAS, according to Hawaii pregnancy risk assessment 9 monitoring system data, one thousand three hundred women who 10 gave birth in Hawaii during the years 2009 to 2011 reported that 11 they drank alcohol in the last trimester of their pregnancy, and 12 two hundred women per year reported binge drinking during their 13 last trimester; and

14
15 WHEREAS, there are more cases of fetal alcohol spectrum
16 disorder than down syndrome, cerebral palsy, sudden infant death 17 syndrome, cystic fibrosis, and spina bifida combined; and

18
19 WHEREAS, the effects of prenatal alcohol exposure are 20 lifelong and can include physical, mental, behavioral, and 21 learning disabilities; and

22
23 WHEREAS, fetal alcohol exposure is the leading cause of 24 intellectual disabilities in the United States, and individuals
25 with diagnosed or undiagnosed fetal alcohol exposure often 26 suffer from secondary disabilities such as child abuse and 27 neglect, family separation, multiple foster placements, school
28 related failure, juvenile delinquency, job instability,
29 depression, aggression, and other serious mental health 30 disorders; and

31
32 WHEREAS, the intellectual disabilities and secondary 33 disabilities come at a high cost to the individual, their 34 families, and society; and

1
2 WHEREAS, caring for someone with fetal alcohol spectrum
3 disorder costs between $1,400,000 and $1,500,000 over a
4 lifetime; and

5
6 WHEREAS, fetal alcohol spectrum disorder is completely
7 preventable, and the devastating effects of fetal alcohol 8 exposure can be substantially reduced by early diagnosis and 9 appropriate, effective intervention; and

10
11 WHEREAS, poor coordination of resources hampers prevention, 12 diagnosis, and service delivery; and

13
14 WHEREAS, fourteen states nationwide have established
15 permanent fetal alcohol spectrum disorder coordinators who serve
16 as key educational, informational, and coordinative links
17 between departments and agencies dealing with persons with fetal 18 alcohol spectrum disorder; and

19
20 WHEREAS, the fetal alcohol spectrum disorder-specific 21 services that exist in Hawaii are very minimal and the State 22 does not have any coordinated effort to address the issue; and

23
24 WHEREAS, fetal alcohol spectrum disorder is a statewide 25 public health concern that has service, policy, and economic 26 implications for virtually all state departments; now, 27 therefore,
