II. Background and Summary

This section shall clearly and concisely summarize and highlight the contents of the request in such a way as to provide the State Legislature with a broad understanding of the request. Please include the following:

1. A brief description of the applicant's background;

The mission of the Hawaii Construction Career Days (HCCD) program is to provide the youth of Hawaii with an insight into employment opportunities and career pathways available in the multifaceted construction industry. This mission is accomplished through an annual career day event(s) called Construction Career Days (CCD).

In September 2007, the HCCD organization received its tax-exempt 501(c)(3) designation to establish a governing Board of Directors and to provide a funding mechanism to cover operating expenses. In October 2007, the inaugural CCD event was held at the Honolulu Community College (HCC). Approximately 500 students attended the free two-day event. Students operated heavy construction equipment under close supervision by trained operators and visited with representatives from educational institutions, apprenticeship and training programs, and private construction companies.

Below is a list of subsequent events held throughout the state of Hawaii.

Year	Island	Venue	No. of Attendees
2008	Oahu	HCC	1100
2009	Oahu	HCC	1300
2010	Hawaii Island	Civic Auditorium	500
2011	Oahu	HCC	1100
2012	Hawaii Island	Civic Auditorium	760
2013	Maui	UH Maui College	625
2014	Oahu	Aloha Stadium	600
2015	Hawaii Island	Civic Auditorium	700
	Maui	UH Maui College	600
2016	Oahu	Aloha Stadium	1100
2017	Hawaii Island	Civic Auditorium	500
2018	Kauai	Kauai Community College	400
	Oahu	Aloha Stadium	1100
2019	Hawaii Island	Civic Auditorium	500
	Maui	UH Maui College	1000

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, no events were held in 2020 and 2021.

In 2022, two events are planned. If County restrictions permit large gatherings outdoors, events will be held on Oahu and Kauai. This year, the Oahu event will be held over two or three days in October at the University of Hawaii West Oahu (UHWO) campus. The tentative plan to add an additional day serves to limit the number of students per day for health and safety purposes. For the first time in the history of the program, middle school students will be invited to participate. Further, although the invitation to students always included those interested in Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math (STEM) pathways, activities will be tailored to specifically attract STEM students. Activities may include LEGO car design and test drive activity, robotics demonstration, and hands on activities focusing on architecture and engineering.

For Kauai, middle and high school students continue to be the targeted audience, and like Oahu, STEM activities are expected to be highlighted. This event will likely be held in November.

2. The goals and objectives related to the request;

The goal of the event is to educate middle school, high school, and community college students about career opportunities available statewide in the multifaceted construction industry. The CCD event is divided into two (2) major areas: 1) Heavy Equipment and 2) Trade/Educational Exhibits. Participants engage in hands-on activities in each area, including operating heavy equipment and using power tools. Students and teachers receive personal protective equipment (i.e. hard hat, safety glasses, and ear plugs), tape measure, leveler, and pen, which they can keep. All participants and volunteers are provided with a bento lunch, snack, and water, which are paid for via private donations to the nonprofit.

The objectives of CCD are as follows:

1. Provide information on career opportunities in the multifaceted construction industry.
 2. Inform Hawaii's youth about career pathways in both Career and Technical Education (CTE) and STEM fields.
 3. Create an outdoor classroom in which students can participate in hands-on activities that are not offered in a traditional classroom.
 4. Provide information on construction-related careers that require college degrees and those that require a high school diploma or equivalent.
 5. Provide information on Apprenticeship Programs offered through the various Trades.
 6. Target disadvantaged and at-risk youth on Oahu and Kauai, who may not seek career counseling through traditional means (i.e. College and Career Counselors).
3. The public purpose and need to be served;

Nationally, there is a severe skilled labor shortage in the construction industry. Some experts attribute this to the aging construction workforce and the disinterest of young people to replace retiring workers in the industry. America's strong emphasis on higher education and the general death of vocational schools are a couple of key factors currently undermining the skilled labor force. Most of today's skilled laborers are middle-aged, set to retire soon, and have no reliable replacements within the current labor pool.¹

More than two-thirds of U.S. construction firms reported difficulty filling spots for hourly craft positions, which makes up the bulk of the workforce. These include bricklayers, carpenters, cement masons, drywall installers, plumbers, roofers, electricians and the like.² The percentage was even higher in Hawaii, which was at 96 percent of firms that were surveyed.³

The emphasis on higher education as a means to financial success exists throughout the nation, including in Hawaii. The 55 by '25 campaign⁴, coordinated by the Hawaii P-20 Council in partnership with the Hawaii Department of Education and University of Hawaii, established a statewide goal to have 55% of Hawaii's working adults hold a 2- or 4-year college degree by the year 2025. While this goal is admirable, it perpetuates the notion that a college degree is required to be financially successful. In reality, some construction careers that do not require college degrees can be quite lucrative. Through apprenticeships, young workers can jumpstart their careers over their college counterparts while avoiding college debt. The Georgetown University Center on Education and the Workforce estimates that construction workers earn a median salary of $59,000 a year. Many acquire skills that help them to climb quickly to management positions, which can fetch a median income of $91,000 a year.⁵

4. Describe the target population to be served; and

The HCCD program will target and serve economically disadvantaged youth through education and awareness of career opportunities in the construction industry. During this fiscal year, the target population will be middle and high school students who live on Oahu and Kauai.

An economic indicator of students who come from low income families within the state's public-educational system is whether schools are designated as Title I Schools.⁶ The table below lists all schools within the Oahu and Kauai Districts by complex.

⁴ The "55 by '25" goal was set by the Hawaii P-20 Council, an advisory council representing leaders from education, business, labor, government and the community who share a common vision and mission of improving educational outcomes for Hawaii.

⁶ Title I is the federal education program that provides financial assistance to local educational agencies (LEAs) and schools with high numbers or high percentages of children from low-income families to help ensure that all children meet challenging state academic standards. The Department's list of Title I schools is reported as schools that have a minimum poverty threshold of 47.2%. Poverty is determined via family enrollment in two federal programs — Community Eligibility Provision and the Free & Reduced Lunch Program — during the prior school year.
