PROFILE

I'm a former Special Education teacher and I continue to remain active in the field of disability awareness, education, and programs to help individuals and their families to navigate the systems of care. I have the great joy of being the parent of a son with Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities. I've watched him grow into an independent, dynamic and contributing member of his community. It is my hope that all individuals with ID/DD will be able to realize their potential and live their life to the fullest
