S.B. NO. ⁶² S.D. 2 H.D. 1

A BILL FOR AN ACT

RELATING TO MEDICAL EDUCATION AND TRAINING.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF HAWAII:

1 SECTION 1. The legislature finds that many Hawaii 2 residents are unable to obtain timely and appropriate health 3 care due to a shortage of health care providers in the State. 4 The ongoing shortage threatens individual health and may pose adverse effects to the State's health care costs. The neighbor 5 6 islands, which have been designated by the federal government as 7 medically underserved areas, have been disproportionately 8 adversely affected by shortages of physicians in all areas of 9 practice. The John A. Burns school of medicine has engaged in 10 strategies to increase the number of physicians in Hawaii, 11 including, among other endeavors:

12 (1) Enrolling more students each year;

13 (2) Rotating medical students to the neighbor islands for 14 preclinical rotations for up to twelve weeks;

15 (3) Developing longitudinal third-year rotation sites
16 where a small number of students are in the same
17 location for five months;

S.B. NO. ⁶² ^{S.D. 2} ^{H.D. 1}

1	(4)	Developing a small number of sites for four-week
2		fourth-year clinical rotations;
3	(5)	Developing residency or fellowship rotations on
4		neighbor islands; and
5	(6)	Administering the State's loan repayment program that
6		places recipients in underserved communities,
7		especially the neighbor islands.
8	Exis	ting physician workforce data indicate that Hawaii has
9	a shortag	e of about seven hundred fifty doctors when compared to
10	the gener	al United States physician-patient ratios for a similar
11	demograph	ic population. Primary care, internal medicine, and
12	some spec	ialty physician shortages represent Hawaii's greatest
13	areas of	need. Without these physicians, the people of Hawaii

14 do not have access to the health care they need.

Research from the John A. Burns school of medicine suggests that if graduates complete their medical school and residency training in Hawaii, about eighty per cent of those physicians remain in Hawaii to practice. Medical residents who train on the neighbor islands are more likely to subsequently practice on the neighbor islands. Expanding capacity for year-round medical education training will create a pipeline of new physicians positioned to initiate neighbor island practices. With a fully developed program that focuses on medically underserved areas such as the neighbor islands, it will be possible to expand the State's primary care, family medicine, internal medicine, and some specialty residencies.

In Hawaii, graduate medical costs are largely borne by the University of Hawaii and its affiliated health systems.
Although some federal funding has been used by the health systems to cover a portion of the costs, there are areas where the State can invest and expand medical education and training using available American Rescue Plan Act funding.

Existing primary care residencies hosted in Hawaii's health systems on the neighbor islands could be leveraged to expand medical education and training, which would require the hiring of dedicated teaching faculty. Funding is also required for student and resident support, including travel, housing, and other coordinated activities across all sites.

18 The legislature recognizes that ongoing funding of medical 19 education is a matter of statewide concern and is vital to 20 address the physician shortage in Hawaii. Considerable positive 21 public outcomes can be achieved by expanding capacity for

1 training medical students with the goal of having these students 2 ultimately remain in Hawaii to practice. One way to promote 3 this outcome is to reestablish the Hawaii medical education 4 special fund as a means of funding graduate medical education 5 and training programs to support an expansion of key positions. 6 In addition, there is strong collaboration between the John 7 A. Burns school of medicine and the United States Department of 8 Veterans Affairs. The United States Department of Veterans 9 Affairs health system currently invests in Hawaii-based 10 residency positions using a separate federal pool of resources for support. With additional faculty members, the capacity to 11 12 train additional Hawaii-based residents through the Veterans 13 Health Administration's program will enable the John A. Burns 14 school of medicine to expand the number of residency rotations 15 and create new training opportunities.

16 Therefore, the purpose of this Act is to:

17 (1) Reestablish the Hawaii medical education special fund;
18 (2) Appropriate funds to the John A. Burns school of 19 medicine for graduate medical education and training
20 programs;

4		training on the neighbor islands; and
5	(4)	Appropriate funds to the John A. Burns school of
6		medicine for medical student and residency training
7		opportunities through a partnership with the United
8		States Department of Veterans Affairs.

10	amended b	y adding a new section to part V, subpart C, to be
