MESSAGE FROM KALANI

► Ke Kula 'O Nāwahīokalani'ōpu'u

As we come to the final weeks of the 2016 Legislative Session, the Senate faces the formidable task of confirming the remaining governor's nominees to the various departments, boards and commissions, passing a balanced State budget and completing conference hearings on all bills before the end of Session in May.

During this decisive and hectic time period, bills can change drastically. As policy makers we must weigh the benefits of each measure carefully, to balance the needs of each area of our districts as well as the needs of each and every resident throughout the State of Hawai'i. Be sure to stay up to date on legislation that you are interested in at the Capitol website: http://www.capitol.hawaii.gov

FUTURE MILITARY AND CIVILIAN LEADERS STUDY HAWAIIAN CULTURE & SOVEREIGNTY

Sixty-one select senior officers from 53 nations with the International Fellows Program at the National Defense University (NDU) were at the State Capitol for a closer look at Hawai'i's history and to learn the legal, cultural, and social issues that persist on the islands today.

The first ever visit to the Hawai'i State Capitol is part of the American Studies program that takes them to 10 locations across the U.S., of which Oahu is one.

NDU is the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff's premier university for joint professional military education funded by the Department of Defense. The fellowship is intended to prepare future leaders of the Armed Forces and civilian agencies, provide an understanding of factors and considerations that shape U.S. security policy and strategy, and develop firsthand knowledge of the social, political, and economic factors that shape U.S. institutions.

"We've always wanted to learn more about the history of U.S. and Native Hawaiian relations, but we've never given it full attention until this year and felt it was important to do," said Russ Thacker, NDU Director of Academic Programs for the International Defense Program. "Part of the objective of the program is to educate the Fellows on American society and institutions, our diversity as a society, our ideals, as well as our history and let them see all sides of America. At the end of the day we want them to have a balanced understanding of who we are as American people so when they go back to their countries, they have that insight and awareness and can form partnerships that will last throughout the rest of their careers."

Sen. English, was asked to speak on the challenges of Hawaiian sovereignty and how the political process is being used to advocate for Hawaiian issues both domestically and internationally. He shared that despite Native Hawaiians being divided by Federal law and a continuing struggle to establish an accepted form of self-governance, there is an aspect unique and prevalent in Hawaiii's society.

"There is a general tolerance accepted here. Because we're multi-racial, there is no majority in Hawai'i," said Sen. English. "In other words, everyone is a minority in Hawai'i. Everyone learns to respect the other culture. That's one of the things that gives us hope."

A panel of University of Hawai'i professors in the fields of Political Science and Social Sciences were also invited to speak and provide an overview of the history of the Hawaiian Islands and the current social issues affecting Hawai'i's society.

In order to meet the objectives of the American Studies program, the fellows travel across the U.S. where visits are tailored to the following objectives: Human Rights, Law of War, International Peace & Security, U.S. Government Institutions, Political Processes, Judicial System, Free Market, Media Education, Health & Human Services and Diversity & American Life.

SENATE WAYS AND MEANS COMMITTEE PROPOSES FISCALLY EQUITABLE BUDGET

Supplemental budget reflects community priorities, representative of needs statewide

The Senate Ways and Means (WAM) Committee introduced and passed budget amendments in HB1700 HD1 SD1 that reflects the priorities facing our communities, yet broadly represents and addresses needs across the state.

The Governor's operating budget proposed to add approximately $335 million in general funds for fiscal year 2016-2017. The Senate draft reduced this amount by approximately $215 million in general funds, resulting in a total operating budget add of $120 million in general funds for fiscal year 2016-2017. The Senate draft did not include 100% prefunding of Other Post-Employment Benefits, which was included in the Governor's draft, and amounted to approximately $163 million dollars.

"The WAM Committee identified ways to increase efficiencies and better utilize base appropriations to do more with less, without unsustainably adding to our budget." Said Sen. English. "Our Senate draft of the budget balances priority needs with existing resources to ensure programs and services can be maintained over time."

The Senate draft reflects a significant investment in operating support for homeless programs, totaling over $7.3M. These include the following:

KAUNAKAKAI & KILOHANA ELEMENTARY COOL SCHOOLS

Sen. English was proud to acknowledge the many individuals whose labor, diligence and vision contributed to the donation and installation of 33 solar air conditioning units at Kaunakakai and Kilohana Elementary Schools with Senate proclamations during a ceremony held earlier this month at Kaunakakai Elementary School.

Leonahemaikekaimalie Crivello, sixth-grader and Student Council President at Kaunakakai Elementary School, inspired the 'Cool Schools' project after a chance meeting with NextEra Energy Hawai'i President Eric Gleason last fall. Leonahe wanted to help in the effort to cool more classrooms at her school, and NextEra Energy Hawai'i was happy to make her vision a reality.

Over the past four months, NextEra Energy Hawai'i worked on the project and installed 33 hybrid solar air conditioning units at Kaunakakai Elementary and Kilohana Elementary Schools. The project was completed in March, resulting in the cooling of 14 classrooms at Kaunakakai Elementary and four classrooms at Kilohana Elementary. The project doubled the amount of AC at Kaunakakai Elementary and replaced two older units. Kilohana Elementary had one classroom with AC, prior to the additional four installed by NextEra Energy Hawai'i.

Senator English provided a senate proclamation to Leonahe Crivello in recognition of her vision and drive to help her school and community as well as NextEra Energy Hawai'i for helping to improve Hawai'i's schools and contribute to the Department of education's heat abatement efforts.

Ke Kula 'o Nāwahīokalani'ōpu'u is a Hawaiian language immersion school named after Joesph Nawahi and is located in Puna on the island of Hawai'i.
