III. Conclusion 15

I. Introduction

The University of Hawai'i (UH), under the leadership of President David Lassner, is actively engaged in promoting efforts that support safe, inclusive, and nondiscriminatory campus environments systemwide. As part of this commitment, UH ensures that various resources and options are available for the campus community, addressing all reports received through its "offices of notice" or confidential resources appropriately.

This report, prepared in accordance with Act 242, Session Laws of Hawai'i 2022, addresses the Legislature's request for information pertaining to case management data specific to each UH campus.

II. Data for 2023-2024

Below are tables for each campus summarizing the following:

- 1) complaint data, including the total number of reports and complaints received by Title IX staff and confidential resources (advocates and mental health counselors);
- 2) training completion data, covering both online and in-person training on the University's Title IX policies and procedures, as well as other policies adopted in accordance with HRS Chapter 368; and
- 3) the types of prohibited behavior reported at each campus.

Notably, the complaint data provided may include instances of double counting. This can occur when a single report or incident is recorded multiple times across different data points, such as confidential resources and Title IX Coordinators. For example, a report may be counted more than once if the same complainant or victim seeks assistance from multiple offices, or if working with a confidential resource leads the complainant to report the incident to a Title IX Coordinator.

Furthermore, double counting can also occur with cases involving multiple campuses. For instance, if a complainant or respondent is associated with more than one campus, or if services are sought from multiple campuses, the incident may be recorded at each location involved. This year's data includes complaints and reports received from August 1, 2023 through July 31, 2024.¹

When identifying the types of prohibited behavior reported to each campus, it is noted that some cases may involve multiple alleged prohibited behaviors.

In terms of training completion, training data is organized based on the type and format of each course provided. Also, the online training for students is tailored to different educational levels, with specific versions for graduate, undergraduate, and community college students.
