RESEARCH AND COMMUNITY ADVOCACY EXPERIENCE

Program Coordinator – AANHPI 'Ohana Center of Excellence for Behavioral Health Population Health Specialist - Addictions, Behavioral/Mental Health, Social Justice
6/1/2021 - Present

Papa Ola Lōkahi | O'ahu

Native Hawaiian Health Care Systems | Honolulu

- Assist and support the development, writing, and publication of federal, state and local initiatives impacting the health of Native Hawaiians in areas related to substance use/misuse, behavioral/mental health, and social justice
- Design, implement, and evaluate training delivered to various constituencies and stakeholders, working in conjunction with community partners, in Hawaii, and across the United States. Trainings are aimed at increasing awareness and understanding the unique risk and protective factors contributing to the disproportionate impact of substance use, mental health, and incarceration on Native Hawaiians.

- Collaborate with other Indigenous/Native or culturally-embedded program innovations to support to improve services to Native Hawaiian communities
- Projects
  - Co-author: Conceptualizing a New System of Care for Native Hawaiians and Substance Use - ADAD state plan 2022
  - Ahupua'a model:
    - Indigenous, metaphorical, cultural, and spiritual model to address the root causes of trauma for Native peoples, and create collective healing through a Native lens, embracing a recovery perspective that recognizes substance use as a symptom of a larger trauma. The 'ahupua'a is a living, breathing example of a thriving, healthy Native system. Re-envisioning "the healing journey", utilizing cultural reconnection and methodologies that speak to Native perspectives, is more influential in creating positive health outcomes for Native peoples.
  - Continuing education from a cultural lens:
    - Series of continuing education sessions, approved for credit for social workers and all state addiction certifications focused on cultural approaches to working with those who use substances
  - State-Wide stakeholder meetings regarding substance use in Native Hawaiian communities:
    - Papa Ola Lōkahi convened virtual Native Hawaiian Substance Use Stakeholder Meetings across the pae'āina of Hawai'i in late October 2021. These gatherings engaged stakeholders in an inclusive and interactive process to understand what Native Hawaiian culture could and should look like across the continuum of care in substance use services. Utilizing the metaphor of the ahupua'a, stakeholders explored and envisioned what resources currently exist within the substance use continuum as well as the gaps that need to be addressed.
    - Developed a report outlining findings for each island and a comprehensive report illustrating a set of common themes, priorities, and recommendations identified across all communities in order to create a Hawaiian culture-based continuum of care substance use system that serves the best interests and needs of Native Hawaiians.
  - Community listening sessions on substance use in Native Hawaiian communities & cultural healing:
    - Conducted in-person sessions on 5 islands, including Maui, Molokai, O'ahu, Kaua'i, and Hawai'i Island. The sessions focused on a north star: A Hawaiian culture-based substance use care system where Native Hawaiians and their families can thrive. This work was accomplished by reaching a near star: Define cultural foundations, cultural awareness, cultural safety, cultural responsiveness, and cultural resonance within the continuum of care (prevention, treatment, recovery, harm reduction) from different perspectives (client, 'ohana, community, provider, whole system).

- Developed a comprehensive report outlining findings and recommendations for real actionable steps to create a culturally-responsive system where Native Hawaiians and their families can thrive.
- E Hui Ana Nā Moku (The islands shall unite): A harm reduction toolkit for Native Hawaiian communities:
  - This toolkit centers on a cultural approach to harm reduction focusing on reducing the harms caused by colonization in Hawai‘i, developing a community understanding of harm reduction, and providing cultural approaches to reducing harm and promoting healing.
- Culture & Addictions advisory board:
  - 2 representatives from Hawai‘i island, Maui, Molokai, O‘ahu; 1 from Kaua‘i; 1 from Lāna‘i
  - Discusses Papa Ola Lōkahi’s ongoing work: Provides feedback regarding the cultural aspects of our program development and their application in the field of substance use and mental health. Provides ongoing guidance in bringing Papa Ola Lōkahi into a more active role regarding these needs among Native Hawaiians
- Native Hawaiians & substance use working group:
  - Group is open to the public and comprised of interested stakeholders, providers, and community members who serve Native Hawaiians and their families.
