Re: Final Report of the 2025 Advisory Committee on Penal Code Review

Dear President Kouchi and Speaker Nakamura:

Pursuant to Act 245, Sessions Law of Hawai'i 2024, I hereby transmit for your consideration and review the Final Report of the 2025 Advisory Committee on Penal Code Review (the "Final Report").

The Final Report provides the Legislature with a total of twenty-five proposals and recommendations, along with a discussion summary of issues addressed by the 2025 Advisory Committee on Penal Code Review (the "Committee").

The membership of the Committee was diverse and large, and included the Senate Judiciary Committee Chairperson, the House of Representatives Judiciary and Hawaiian Affairs Committee Chairperson, sixteen jurists representing all courts (Supreme Court, Intermediate Court of Appeals, Circuit Court, Family Court, and District Court) and all four Judicial Circuits, prosecutors from all counties and the Department of the Attorney General, lawyers from the Public Defender's Office and the private defense bar, medical professionals, law enforcement officers, advocates for victims' rights, advocates for prisoner rights, the Director of the Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation, and interested members of the public.

The Committee began work on November 1, 2024, and met in plenary session nine times. Eight subcommittees also met separately on a number of occasions to consider issues of community concern, and prepare proposals for the larger Committee's consideration and vetting.

The legislative proposals in the Final Report are made only after supermajority approval of the Committee, and reflect broad consensus of the diverse membership. Due to the supermajority approval requirement, and the diversity of members, many of the issues the subcommittees researched, prepared, and presented, did not result in legislative proposals. These issues, and the differing opinions of the membership, are nevertheless captured in the Final Report.

Finally, I am pleased to note that the Committee was able to accomplish its duties without any expense to the Legislature. By adhering to the Judiciary's interest of leveraging technology, all research was conducted online, and all meetings were conducted via Zoom teleconferencing.

On behalf of the Judicial Council and the Committee, thank you for the opportunity to be of service to the Legislature and the people of Hawai'i.

Respectfully submitted,

Sabrina S. McKenna

Re: Final Report of the 2025 Advisory Committee on Penal Code Review

Table of Contents

I. Introduction

This is the final report of the 2025 Advisory Committee on Penal Code Review (the "Committee"), appointed by the Honorable Mark E. Recktenwald (Ret.), then Chief Justice of the State of Hawai'i, and the Judicial Council, to carry out the request of the 2024 Legislature in Act 245, Sessions Law of Hawaii 2024 ("Act 245 SLH2024"), to review and recommend revisions to the Hawai'i Revised Statutes Title 37 (the "Penal Code"). The Committee's primary work product is divided into two sections of this report: (1) Section VI Legislative Proposals, and (2) Section VII Issues without Recommendations.

Act 245 SLH2024 sought from the Judicial Council a comprehensive review of the current Penal Code to ensure it is: (1) consistent and proportional across classes of offenses; (2) aligned with national best practices and utilizing evidence-based strategies; (3) cost-effective in advancing penal interests and providing equal justice to all in our community; and (4) responsive to offenders suffering from mental illness. A copy of Act 245 SLH2024 is attached hereto as Appendix A.

II. Membership of the Committee

The 2024 Legislature, through Act 245 SLH2024, sought the inclusion of a broad section of our community members interested in criminal law and civil liberties to participate on the Committee. To embrace the Legislature's direction of inclusion and breadth, the Committee was much larger than previous Penal Code Review Committees and consisted of 61 members from a diverse cross-section of the community affected by the criminal laws in Hawai'i. III. Organization of the Subcommittees

The Committee was divided into eight Subcommittees, each with the primary responsibility to review one or more chapters of the Penal Code. The following is a list of the Subcommittees and their respective Chairpersons:

1. Chapter 701: Preliminary Provisions
   Chapter 702: General Principles of Penal Liability
   Chapter 703: General Principles of Justification
   Chapter 705: Inchoate Crimes

2. Chapter 704: Penal Responsibility and Fitness to Proceed
   Subcommittee Chair: Judge M. Kanani Laubach

3. Chapter 706: Disposition of Convicted Defendants
   Chapter 853: Deferred Acceptance of Guilty and No Contest Plea
   Subcommittee Chair: Judge Matthew Viola

4. Chapter 707: Offenses Against the Person

Appendix B attached hereto contains the Subcommittee rosters, meeting dates, and other work-up information. Some members were assigned to subcommittees due to their expertise. Other members were allowed to select their subcommittee, move between subcommittees, participate in multiple subcommittees, and/or attend plenary sessions without specific subcommittee assignments.

IV. Work of the Committee

The Committee met in plenary session, usually on the first Friday of the calendar month, on the following dates:

November 1, 2024
February 7, 2025
March 7, 2025
June 6, 2025
July 11, 2025
August 1, 2025
September 5, 2025
October 3, 2025
October 31, 2025

The Subcommittees generally met on the first Friday of the months between the plenary sessions, and whenever a Subcommittee Chairperson deemed appropriate for additional meetings as reflected in Appendix B.

The Subcommittees reviewed their respective Penal Code chapters and were responsible for analyzing issues of concern and crafting legislative solutions. Through their work, the Subcommittees then presented recommended legislative changes for further discussion and vetting by the overall Committee in plenary session. Each Subcommittee identified a broad array of issues for discussion and analysis. However, not all issues resulted in legislative proposals. Many issues were discussed, but for a myriad of reasons, did not result in legislative recommendations. The inability to present a legislative recommendation could reflect the failure to obtain consensus approval because of competing societal interests, ineffective use of resources, and/or the aversion to create new penal statutes when existing statutes can address the perceived need. Essentially, from the broad array of issues identified by members in their respective subcommittees, these issues were winnowed down before any legislative proposals would be presented to the Committee in plenary session.

By agreement of the Committee, only the legislative proposals that gained supermajority approval in plenary session would result in recommendations for the 2026 Legislature. Supermajority approval required two-thirds of all voting members at any plenary session. During every plenary session, the Committee had a quorum of more than half of the total membership for voting. Given the constraints of the voting procedures, legislative recommendations made in this report reflect broad acceptance of the members of the Committee, and the respective interests that they represent.

V. Executive Summary

The Penal Code is remarkably durable in addressing the community's need of identifying and addressing antisocial behavior worthy of criminal penalties. Stated differently, the Committee believes the Penal Code is currently effective, should be reviewed and changed, but not significantly. Reflective of the large and diverse membership, the work of the Committee focused not on the technical operation of the Penal Code, but on larger policy issues that are at the forefront of the community's consciousness at the present time. As a result, the Committee approved 25 legislative recommendations by supermajority vote, and they are presented in Section VI of this report entitled "Legislative Proposals." The following is a summary of the recommended amendments to the Penal Code:

Chapter 701: Preliminary Provisions
Chapter 705: Inchoate Crimes

The amendment to Hawai'i Revised Statutes ("HRS") section 701-107 clarifies that whenever the Legislature creates statutes involving criminal liability, they are treated as such even though these legislative enactments are not within the Penal Code (HRS Title 37). Many crimes are defined outside of the Penal Code, e.g., firearm violations in HRS Chapter 134. This proposed amendment creates consistency throughout the statutory scheme of the HRS.

The "Statute of Limitations" in section 701-108 should be amended to change the time period to prosecute parking violations as the same time to prosecute petty misdemeanors, rather than a more serious misdemeanor. The recommendation would allow prosecution of a parking violation within one year of the offense, rather than two years. In contrast, prosecution for Class B and Class C felony offenses must begin within three years, and Class A felony offenses must begin within six years.

The proposed amendment to section 701-106 clarifies the standard of proof whenever a finding of fact is necessary. A fact must be proved by a "preponderance of the evidence" unless otherwise specified by the Legislature (other specified standards include "clear and convincing evidence" and "proof beyond a reasonable doubt").

The recommended amendments to sections 705-501, 705-511, 705-520, 705-521, 705-523 make the respective provisions gender neutral and consistent with the remainder of the Penal Code.

Chapter 704: Penal Responsibility and Fitness to Proceed

Consistent with the request of the Legislature in Act 245 2024SLH to review the Penal Code and be more responsive to offenders suffering from mental illness, the proposed legislative revisions to HRS Chapter 704 are the most substantive in this report. The proposed legislative revisions to HRS Chapter 704 seek to modernize and expedite the transfer of information, and patients, between the Department of Health ("DOH") and Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation ("DCR"). The recommendations facilitate faster mental examination of defendants, minimize the time between court decisions and transfer of a defendant's custody between the DOH and the DCR, leverage the medical treatment already afforded to this defendant population, and ultimately, reduce the length of stay by defendants at the Hawai'i State Hospital (the "State Hospital").

When criminal defendants manifest mental health disorders that prevent them from assisting in their defense (i.e., they are mentally "unfit"), their respective criminal proceedings are suspended until examinations by mental health professionals (psychiatrists or psychologists) are performed and the court can determine a defendant's mental "fitness to proceed." Mental health examinations can be delayed due to a variety of factors including the unavailability of relevant medical records and difficulty meeting with defendants. Revisions to sections 704-404, 704-406, and 704-407.5 codify and simplify the collection of medical records for review by the examiners. These sections are also modified to allow telehealth examination of criminal defendants.

Unfit criminal defendants are often transferred to the custody of the DOH and the State Hospital for treatment until they regain fitness to proceed. Currently, another set of court-appointed examinations is required before a defendant can be found fit, transferred from the State Hospital back to the custody of DCR, and allow resumption of the underlying criminal proceedings. This requirement of another set of court-appointed examinations omits the input of a defendant's treatment providers and lengthens the proceedings. The significant revisions of section 704-406 expedite the transfer of defendants out of the State Hospital, especially when there is no dispute that a defendant is fit to proceed and should be returned to the DCR for further criminal proceedings.

Chapter 706: Disposition of Convicted Defendants

The proposal to amend section 706-623 will reduce the initial probation term for non-violent felony defendants from four years to three years. This recommendation is in response to the Pew Charitable Trust study in December 2020 that ranked Hawai'i with the longest average probation lengths. While many factors are responsible for extending probation terms, this proposal starts to address the issue with the lowest level of felony offenders. Violent and more serious felony offenders are still subject to probation terms of four, five, and ten years.

Chapter 709: Offenses Against Family and Against Incompetents

The Committee proposes defining "physically abuse" for the offense of Abuse of family or household members in section 709-906. Abuse of family or household members is charged as felony offenses, misdemeanor offenses, and petty misdemeanor offenses. The proposed definition follows current caselaw and standardizes an element of an offense that is widely charged in criminal cases.

Chapter 710: Offenses Against Public Administration

The Committee proposes the repeal of section 710-1011 Refusing to aid a law enforcement officer. This offense is rarely charged, and complying with the requirements of this statute may place private citizens in harm's way.

The Committee proposes a heavy revision and renaming of section 710-1012 Refusing to assist in fire control to "Disobeying an order or regulation relating to the conduct of persons in the vicinity of a fire." Similar to the considerations of section 710-1011, this statute is rarely used, and compliance could endanger a private citizen. However, the renamed statute still maintains the community interest that private citizens obey the explicit commands of first responders.

The recommended amendment to section 710-1021 Escape in the second degree avoids a draconian outcome for non-violent defendants charged with a petty misdemeanor when they "flee" the custody of the DOH. Currently, these defendants could be charged with a Class C felony when their underlying petty misdemeanor charge limits the maximum incarceration to 30 days.

Chapter 711: Offenses Against Public Order

The Committee recommends amendment of section 711-1101 Disorderly conduct, the creation of a new offense entitled "Consenting to unreasonable noise on premises," and an amendment of section 711-1100 to define "unreasonable noise." These amendments clarify when the offense of Disorderly conduct is a petty misdemeanor and when it is a violation. The creation of an unreasonable noise violation in residential settings addresses a situation when noise creates a public nuisance but does not rise to the level of "disorderly conduct."

Chapter 712: Offenses Against Public Health and Morals

The Committee recommends the creation of a minimum threshold amount of dangerous drugs such as cocaine, heroin, methamphetamine, and fentanyl, before possession becomes a felony offense. The proposed legislation is a revision and renaming of section 712-1243 Promoting a dangerous drug in the third degree into an offense entitled "Possessing a dangerous drug in the first degree." This revision specifies the minimum amount of 0.5 grams of methamphetamine, heroin, morphine, cocaine, or fentanyl, and 2.0 grams of any other dangerous drug for felony liability.

The Committee also proposes the creation of a new offense of section 712-1243.5 Possessing a dangerous drug in the second degree. This new misdemeanor offense applies to cases where a defendant possesses only trace amounts or residue of dangerous drug (amounts that have no commercial value). The Committee believes the threshold amount allows less serious offenders to be treated as substance abusers with rehabilitative needs, rather than on the level akin to major criminal offenders.

The remaining legislative proposals to section 706-623 Terms of probation and section 712-1255 Conditional Discharge account for the new misdemeanor offense of Possessing a dangerous drug in the second degree and achieves code consistency if the Legislature does create the new offenses of Possessing a dangerous drug.

Chapter 804: Bail and Bonds (Pretrial Release)

The Committee recommends amendment of section 804-7.1 Conditions of release on bail, recognizance, or supervised release to ensure that release conditions, specifically electronic monitoring and surveillance, remain available to all criminal defendants. If the cost of electronic monitoring and surveillance is assessed to defendants, truly indigent defendants that cannot afford the monetary cost will remain incarcerated. This amendment specifies the cost of electronic monitoring or surveillance is borne by the DCR.

The Committee also recommends amending section 804-7. Act 179, Session Laws of Hawai'i 2019 required the creation of a statewide program that permits the posting of monetary bail seven-days-a-week for defendants who remain in the custody of the DCR. A program is not yet in place, and with this amendment, the Legislature can specify a time period for compliance with this statute.

Issues without Recommendations

The legislative recommendations are one part of the work of the Committee. Also presented in this report are subcommittee discussions that did not result in legislative recommendations but may nevertheless spark the interest of the Legislature. These issues did not ultimately reach supermajority approval of the Committee, but were worthy of research and analysis, and provide insight into the current concerns of the community. The discussions of these issues are presented in this report in Section VI "Issues without Recommendations." The Committee hopes the inclusion of this section will be helpful to the Legislature if/when constituent groups seek changes to the Penal Code related to these issues.

VI. Legislative Proposals

Chapter 701: Preliminary Provisions

§ 701-107 Grades and classes of offenses. (1) An offense defined by this Code or by any other statute of this State for which a sentence of imprisonment is authorized constitutes a crime. Crimes are of three grades: felonies, misdemeanors, and petty misdemeanors. Felonies include murder in the first and second degrees, attempted murder in the first and second degrees, and the following three classes: class A, class B, and class C.

(2) A crime is a felony if it is so designated in this Code or in a statute other than this Code enacted subsequent thereto, or if persons convicted thereof may be sentenced to imprisonment for a term which is in excess of one year.

(3) A crime is a misdemeanor if it is so designated in this Code or in a statute other than this Code enacted subsequent thereto, or if it is defined in a statute other than this Code which provides for a term of imprisonment the maximum of which is one year.

(4) A crime is a petty misdemeanor if it is so designated in this Code or in a statute other than this Code enacted subsequent thereto, or if it is defined by a statute other than this Code that provides that persons convicted thereof may be sentenced to imprisonment for a term not to exceed thirty days.

(5) An offense defined by this Code or by any other statute of this State constitutes a violation if it is so designated in this Code or in the law defining the offense or if no other sentence than a fine, or fine and forfeiture or other civil penalty, is authorized upon conviction or if it is defined by a statute other than this Code which provides that the offense shall not constitute a crime. A violation does not constitute a crime, and conviction of a violation shall not give rise to any civil disability based on conviction of a criminal offense.

(6) Any offense declared by law to constitute a crime, without specification of the grade thereof or of the sentence authorized upon conviction, is a misdemeanor.

(7) An offense defined by any statute of this State other than this Code shall be classified as provided in this section and the sentence that may be imposed upon conviction thereof shall hereafter be governed by this Code.

Comment:

The existing commentary on section 701-107 notes that this section's "main thrust . . . is to govern the classification of offenses defined outside the Code." However, there are several felony offenses currently "outside the Code." See e.g., HRS section 11-412 regarding campaign fraud as a class C felony, enacted in 2010; section 132D-14 regarding fireworks offenses as a class C felony, enacted in 1994; section 161-28 regarding bribery of poultry inspectors as a class C felony, enacted in 1969; sections 329-41 and 329-42 regarding prohibited acts involving the Uniform Controlled Substances Act punishable as a class C felony, enacted in 1972; section 329C-2 regarding distribution of an imitation controlled substance to a minor punishable as a class C felony, enacted in 1984; section 329D-19 regarding alteration or falsification of medical cannabis dispensary records punishable as a class C felony, enacted in 2015; section 428-1302 regarding violations of the Uniform Limited Liability Company Act punishable as a class C felony, enacted in 1996; section 480-16 regarding antitrust and monopoly activity punishable "by imprisonment not exceeding three years", enacted in 1961; section 480E-12 regarding mortgage rescue fraud punishable as a class C felony, enacted in 2012; section 485A-508 regarding securities fraud punishable as a class C felony up to a class A felony, depending on the amount of monetary loss, enacted in 2006; section 846E-9 regarding failure to comply with sex offender registration requirements punishable as a class C felony, enacted in 1997.

Additionally, the rationale is unclear as to why the proposed language was in subsections (3) and (4) regarding misdemeanor and petty misdemeanor offenses but omitted from subsection (2) regarding felony offenses. Thus, the proposed amendment to section 701-107 is made for the purposes of clarity and consistency.

§ 701-108 Time limitations. (1) A prosecution for murder, murder in the first and second degrees, attempted murder, attempted murder in the first and second degrees, criminal conspiracy to commit murder in any degree, criminal solicitation to commit murder in any degree, sexual assault in the first and second degrees, sex trafficking, and continuous sexual assault of a minor under the age of fourteen years may be commenced at any time.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in this section, prosecutions for other offenses are subject to the following periods of limitation:

(a) A prosecution for manslaughter where the death was not caused by the operation of a motor vehicle must be commenced within ten years after it is committed;

(b) A prosecution for a class A felony must be commenced within six years after it is committed;

(c) A prosecution for any felony under part IX of chapter 708 must be commenced within five years after it is committed;

(d) A prosecution for any other felony must be commenced within three years after it is committed;

(e) A prosecution for a misdemeanor [~~or parking violation~~] must be commenced within two years after it is committed; and

(f) A prosecution for a petty misdemeanor or a violation [~~other than~~] including a parking violation, must be commenced within one year after it is committed.

(3) If the period prescribed in subsection (2) has expired, a prosecution may nevertheless be commenced for:

(a) Any offense an element of which is fraud, deception as defined in section 708-800, or a breach of fiduciary obligation or the offense of medical assistance fraud under section 346-43.5, within three years after discovery of the offense by an aggrieved party or by a person who has a legal duty to represent an aggrieved party and who is oneself not a party to the offense, but in no case shall this provision extend the period of limitation by more than six years from the expiration of the period of limitation prescribed in subsection (2);

(b) Any offense based on misconduct in office by a public servant at any time when the defendant is in public office or employment or within two years thereafter, but in no case shall this provision extend the period of limitation by more than three years from the expiration of the period of limitation prescribed in subsection (2); and

(c) Any felony offense involving evidence containing deoxyribonucleic acid from the offender, if a test confirming the presence of deoxyribonucleic acid is performed prior to expiration of the period of limitation prescribed in subsection (2), but in no case shall this provision extend the period of limitation by more than ten years from the expiration of the period of limitation prescribed in subsection (2).

(4) An offense is committed either when every element occurs, or, if a legislative purpose to prohibit a continuing course of conduct plainly appears, at the time when the course of conduct or the defendant's complicity therein is terminated. Time starts to run on the day after the offense is committed.

(5) A prosecution is commenced either when an indictment is found or a complaint filed, or when an arrest warrant or other process is issued, provided that such warrant or process is executed without unreasonable delay.

(6) The period of limitation does not run:

(a) During any time when the accused is continuously absent from the State or has no reasonably ascertainable place of abode or work within the State, but in no case shall this provision extend the period of limitation by more than four years from the expiration of the period of limitation prescribed in subsection (2);

(b) During any time when a prosecution against the accused for the same conduct is pending in this State; or

(c) For any felony offense under chapter 707, part V or VI, during any time when the victim is alive and under eighteen years of age.

(7) As used in this section, "public servant" shall have the same meaning as in section 710-1000.

Comment:

The applicable time period to commence a prosecution for a parking violation is two years as noted in section (2)(e), while the applicable time period to commence a prosecution for a petty misdemeanor or a violation other than a parking violation is one year as noted in section (2)(f). This discrepancy has been in effect for at least 24 years. During this time, the Committee is not aware of a single instance of a parking violation prosecution being brought beyond one year after it was committed. Whatever the original justification for a two-year period may have been, it no longer appears to be warranted. The Committee finds that reducing the time period to commence a prosecution for a parking violation from two years to one year will not significantly impact parking violation prosecutions and will allow parking violations to be treated in the same manner as other violations.

§ 701-116 Proving applicability of the Code. When the application of the Code depends on the finding of a fact which is not required to be found beyond a reasonable doubt:

(1) The burden of proving the fact is on the prosecution or defendant, depending on whose interest or contention will be furthered if the finding should be made; and

(2) Unless there is any authority to the contrary, t[T]he fact must be proved by a preponderance of the evidence.

Comment:

The Committee recognizes there may be instances where the appropriate burden of proof must be made by "clear and convincing evidence" instead of the lower "preponderance" standard. In 1999, the Hawai'i Supreme Court, in State v. Kotis, 91 Hawai'i 319, 340, 984 P.2d 78, 99 (1999), held that due process under article I, section 5 of the state constitution requires "that an order for the nonemergency involuntary administration of antipsychotic medications to a criminal defendant must be based upon facts found by clear and convincing evidence." Accordingly, the proposed amendment to section 701-116 is made for the purposes of clarity and consistency.

Chapter 705: Inchoate Crimes

§ 705-501 Criminal attempt; attempting to aid another. Comment:

The Committee proposes amendments to sections 705-501, 705-511, 705-520, 705-521, and 705-523 to make this Chapter gender neutral and consistent with the remainder of the Penal Code.

Chapter 704: Penal Responsibility and Fitness to Proceed

§ 704-404 Examination of defendant with respect to physical or mental disease, disorder, or defect excluding fitness to proceed.

(1) Whenever there is reason to doubt the defendant's fitness to proceed, the court may immediately suspend all further proceedings in the prosecution; provided that for any defendant not subject to an order of commitment to the director of health for the purpose of the examination, neither the right to bail nor proceedings pursuant to chapter 804 shall be suspended. If a trial jury has been empaneled, it shall be discharged or retained at the discretion of the court. The discharge of the trial jury shall not be a bar to further prosecution.

(2) Upon suspension of further proceedings in the prosecution:

(a) In cases where the defendant is charged with a petty misdemeanor not involving violence or attempted violence, if a court-based certified examiner is available, the court shall appoint the court-based certified examiner to examine and provide an expedited report solely upon the issue of the defendant's capacity to understand the proceedings against the defendant and defendant's ability to assist in the defendant's own defense. The court-based certified examiner shall file the examiner's report with the court within two days of the appointment of the examiner, or as soon thereafter is practicable. A hearing shall be held to determine if the defendant is fit to proceed within two days of the filing of the report, or as soon thereafter as is practicable;

(b) In all other nonfelony cases, and where a court-based certified examiner is not available in cases under paragraph (a), the court shall appoint one qualified examiner to examine and report upon the defendant's fitness to proceed. The court may appoint as the examiner either a psychiatrist or a licensed psychologist designated by the director of health from within the department of health; and

(c) In felony cases, the court shall appoint three qualified examiners to examine and report upon the defendant's fitness to proceed. The court shall appoint as examiners psychiatrists, licensed psychologists, or qualified physicians; provided that one of the three examiners shall be a psychiatrist or licensed psychologist designated by the director of health from within the department of health.

All examiners shall be appointed from a list of certified examiners as determined by the department of health. The court, in appropriate circumstances, may appoint an additional examiner or examiners. The examination may be conducted while the defendant is in custody or on release or, in the court's discretion, when necessary the court may order the defendant to be committed to a hospital or other suitable facility for the purpose of the examination for a period not exceeding thirty days, or a longer period as the court determines to be necessary for the purpose. The court may direct that one or more qualified physicians or psychologists retained by the defendant be permitted to witness the examination. As used in this section, the term "licensed psychologist" includes psychologists exempted from licensure by section 465-3(a)(3) and "qualified physician" means a physician qualified by the court for the specific evaluation ordered.

(3) An examination performed under this section may employ any method that is accepted by the professions of medicine or psychology for the examination of those alleged to be affected by a physical or mental disease, disorder, or defect; provided that each examiner shall form and render an opinion upon the defendant's fitness to proceed independently from the other examiners, and the examiners, upon approval of the court, may secure the services of clinical psychologists and other medical or paramedical specialists to assist in the examination. The examination shall comply with the other provisions of this section and may be conducted utilizing telehealth, as that term is defined in section 453-1.3(j), at the request of the examiner. The department of health and the department of corrections and rehabilitation shall provide secure access to defendants in their custody for any examination requested to be conducted utilizing telehealth.

(4) For defendants charged with felonies, the examinations for fitness to proceed under this section and penal responsibility under section 704-407.5 shall be conducted separately unless a combined examination has been ordered by the court upon a request by the defendant or upon a showing of good cause to combine the examinations. The report of the examination for fitness to proceed shall be separate from the report of the examination for penal responsibility unless a combined examination has been ordered. For defendants charged with offenses other than felonies, a combined examination is permissible when ordered by the court.

(5) Except in the case of an examination pursuant to subsection (2)(a), the report of the examination for fitness to proceed shall include the following:

(a) A description of the nature of the examination;

(b) A diagnosis of the physical or mental condition of the defendant;

(c) An opinion as to the defendant's capacity to understand the proceedings against the defendant and to assist in the defendant's own defense;

(d) An assessment of the risk of danger to the defendant or to the person or property of others for consideration and determination of the defendant's release on conditions; and

(e) Where more than one examiner is appointed, a statement that the opinion rendered was arrived at independently of any other examiner, unless there is a showing to the court of a clear need for communication between or among the examiners for clarification. A description of the communication shall be included in the report. After all reports are submitted to the court, examiners may confer without restriction.

(6) If the examination cannot be conducted by reason of the unwillingness of the defendant to participate in the examination, the report shall so state and shall include, if possible, an opinion as to whether the unwillingness of the defendant was the result of physical or mental disease, disorder, or defect.

(7) A copy of the report of the examination, including any supporting documents, shall be filed with the clerk of the court.

(8) Any examiner shall be permitted to make a separate explanation reasonably serving to clarify the examiner's opinion.

(9) The court shall obtain all existing relevant medical, mental health, social, police, and juvenile records, including those expunged, and other pertinent records in the custody of public agencies, notwithstanding any other statute, and make the records available for inspection by the examiners in hard copy or digital format. The court may order that the records so obtained be made available to the prosecuting attorney and counsel for the defendant in either format, subject to conditions the court determines appropriate; provided that juvenile records shall not be made available unless constitutionally required. [~~No further disclosure of records shall be made except as permitted by law.~~] If, pursuant to this section, the court orders the defendant committed to a hospital or other suitable facility under the control of the director of health, then the county police departments shall provide to the director of health and the defendant copies of all police reports from cases filed against the defendant that have been adjudicated by the acceptance of a plea of guilty or no contest, a finding of guilt, acquittal, acquittal pursuant to section 704-400, or by the entry of plea of guilty or no contest made pursuant to chapter 853; provided that the disclosure to the director of health and the defendant does not frustrate a legitimate function of the county police departments, with the exception of expunged records, records of or pertaining to any adjudication or disposition rendered in the case of a juvenile, or records containing data from the United States National Crime Information Center. The county police departments shall segregate or sanitize from the police reports information that would result in the likely or actual identification of individuals who furnished information in connection with its investigation, or who were of investigatory interest. The department of corrections and rehabilitation and the department of health may disclose all relevant records between themselves regarding a defendant moved between departments. No further disclosure of records shall be made except as provided by law.

(10) [~~All~~] Within fourteen days of receipt of a court order, excluding intermediate Saturdays, Sundays, or holidays designated pursuant to section 8-1, or a longer time as the court may prescribe, all public agencies, persons, or other entities in possession of relevant medical, mental health, social, police, and juvenile records, including those expunged, and any other pertinent records of a defendant ordered to be examined under this chapter, shall provide those records to the court[~~,~~] in accordance with the terms of the order, notwithstanding any other state statute[~~.~~] and without requiring a signed consent from the defendant if the order so provides. An order may provide for a continuing obligation to provide records to the court created or received by public agencies, persons, or other entities after the initial provision of records to the court. Additionally, all public agencies shall make records available to an appointed examiner for inspection at the location where the records are maintained upon request and presentment of a court order authorizing the examiner to make the inspection, notwithstanding any other state statute and without requiring a signed consent of the defendant if the order so provides."

(11) The compensation of persons making or assisting in the examination, other than those retained by a nonindigent defendant, who are not undertaking the examination upon designation by the director of health as part of their normal duties as employees or contractors of the State or a county, shall be paid by the judiciary in the amount of $2,000, which amount includes compensation for the examination, the drafting of the report, and any consultation, preparation, testimony, and attendance in court.

§ 704-406 Effect of finding of unfitness to proceed and regained fitness to proceed.

(1) If the court determines that the defendant lacks fitness to proceed, the proceeding against the defendant shall be suspended, except as provided in sections 704-407 and 704 421, and the court shall commit the defendant to the custody of the director of health to be placed in an appropriate institution for detention, assessment, care, and treatment; provided that:

(a) When the defendant is charged with a petty misdemeanor not involving violence or attempted violence, the defendant shall be diverted from the criminal justice system pursuant to section 704-421; and

(b) When the defendant is charged with a misdemeanor not involving violence or attempted violence, the commitment shall be limited to no longer than one hundred twenty days from the date the court determines the defendant lacks fitness to proceed.

If the court is satisfied that the defendant may be released on conditions without danger to the defendant or to another or risk of substantial danger to property of others, the court shall order the defendant's release, which shall continue at the discretion of the court, on conditions the court determines necessary; provided that the release on conditions of a defendant charged with a misdemeanor not involving violence or attempted violence shall continue for no longer than one hundred twenty days. A copy of all reports filed pursuant to section 704-404 shall be attached to the order of commitment or order of release on conditions that is provided to the department of health. When the defendant is committed to the custody of the director of health for detention, assessment, care, and treatment, the county police departments shall provide to the director of health and the defendant copies of all police reports from cases filed against the defendant that have been adjudicated by the acceptance of a plea of guilty or nolo contendere, a finding of guilt, acquittal, acquittal pursuant to section 704-400, or by the entry of a plea of guilty or nolo contendere made pursuant to chapter 853; provided that the disclosure to the director of health and the defendant does not frustrate a legitimate function of the county police departments; provided further that expunged records, records of or pertaining to any adjudication or disposition rendered in the case of a juvenile, or records containing data from the United States National Crime Information Center shall not be provided. The county police departments shall segregate or sanitize from the police reports information that would result in the likely or actual identification of individuals who furnished information in connection with the investigation or who were of investigatory interest. The department of corrections and rehabilitation and the department of health may disclose all relevant records between themselves regarding a defendant moved between departments. No further disclosure of records shall be made except as provided by law.

(2) When the defendant is released on conditions after a finding of unfitness to proceed, the department of health shall establish and monitor a fitness restoration program consistent with conditions set by the court order of release, and shall inform the prosecuting attorney of the county that charged the defendant of the program and report the defendant's compliance therewith.

(3) The department of health shall periodically report to the court on the defendant's compliance with treatment and fitness restoration. When the court, on its own motion or upon the application of the director of health, the prosecuting attorney, or the defendant, determines, after a hearing if a hearing is requested, [~~has reason to believe~~] that the defendant has regained fitness to proceed, the penal proceeding shall be resumed. If requested by the prosecuting attorney or the defendant, the court may appoint one or more qualified examiner(s) as set forth below to examine and report upon the physical and mental condition of the defendant to assist the court in making the determination of fitness. If an examination is ordered, for a defendant charged with the offense of murder in the first or second degree, attempted murder in the first or second degree, or a class A felony, the court shall appoint three qualified examiners and may appoint in all other cases one qualified examiner[~~, to examine and report upon the physical and mental condition of the defendant. In cases in which the defendant has been charged with murder in the first or second~~

~~degree, attempted murder in the first or second degree, or a class A felony, the court shall appoint as examiners at least one psychiatrist and at least one licensed psychologist. The third examiner may be a psychiatrist, licensed psychologist, or qualified physician.~~] When appointing three examiners, the court shall appoint as examiners psychiatrists, licensed psychologists, or qualified physicians, provided that o[~~O~~]ne of the three examiners shall be a psychiatrist or licensed psychologist designated by the director of health from within the department of health. In all other cases, the one qualified examiner shall be a psychiatrist or licensed psychologist designated by the director of health from within the department of health. The court, in appropriate circumstances, may appoint an additional examiner or examiners. All examiners shall be appointed from a list of certified examiners as determined by the department of health. [~~After a hearing, if a hearing is requested, if the court determines that the defendant has regained fitness to proceed, the penal proceeding shall be resumed and the defendant shall no longer be committed to the custody of the director of health. In cases where a defendant is charged with the offense of murder in the first or second degree, attempted murder in the first or second degree, or a class A felony, upon the request of the prosecuting attorney or the defendant, and in consideration of information provided by the defendant's clinical team, the court may order that the defendant remain in the custody of the director of health, for good cause shown, subject to bail or until a judgment on the verdict or a finding of guilt after a plea of guilty or nolo contendere. Thereafter, the court may consider a request from the director of health to rescind its order maintaining the defendant in the director's custody, for good cause shown.~~] As used in this section, the term "qualified physician" means a physician qualified by the court for the specific evaluation ordered. If, [~~however,~~] after a determination that the defendant has regained fitness, the court is of the view that so much time has elapsed since the commitment or release on conditions of the defendant that it would be unjust to resume the proceeding, the court may dismiss the charge and:

(a) Order the defendant to be discharged;

(b) Subject to section 334-60.2 regarding involuntary hospitalization criteria, order the defendant to be committed to the custody of the director of health to be placed in an appropriate institution for detention, care, and treatment; or

(c) Subject to section 334-121 regarding assisted community treatment criteria, order the defendant to be released on conditions the court determines necessary.

(4) If an examination is ordered under subsection (3) herein, the examination and report and the compensation of persons making or assisting in the examination shall be in accordance with sections 704-404(3), (5), (6), (7), (8), (9), (10), and (11). [~~An examination for regained fitness to proceed performed under this section may employ any method that is accepted by the professions of medicine or psychology for the examination of those alleged to be affected by a physical or mental disease, disorder, or defect, and shall include a review of records where the defendant, while under the custody of the director of health, was placed; provided that each examiner shall form and render an opinion on the defendant's regained fitness to proceed independently from the other examiners and the examiners, upon approval of the court, may secure the services of clinical psychologists and other medical or paramedical specialists to assist in the examination.~~

~~(5) The report of the examination for regained fitness to proceed shall include the following:~~

~~(a) A description of the nature of the examination;~~

~~(b) An opinion as to the defendant's capacity to understand the proceedings against the defendant and to assist in the defendant's own defense; and~~

~~(c) Where more than one examiner is appointed, a statement that the opinion rendered was arrived at independently of any other examiner, unless there is a showing to the court of a clear need for communication between or among the examiners for clarification. A description of the communication shall be included in the report. After all reports are submitted to the court, examiners may confer without restriction.~~

~~(6) All other procedures as set out in section 704-404(6) through (11) shall be followed for the completion of the report of the examination for regained fitness to proceed performed under this section.~~

([~~7~~]5) If a defendant who has either been committed to the custody of the director of health for a limited period pursuant to subsection (1)(b) or released on conditions for a limited period pursuant to subsection (1) is not found fit to proceed prior to the expiration of the commitment, the charge for which the defendant was committed for a limited period shall be dismissed. Upon dismissal of the charge, the defendant shall be released from custody or discharged from the release on conditions, whichever is applicable, unless the defendant is subject to prosecution for other charges or subject to section 334-60.2 regarding involuntary hospitalization criteria, in which case the court shall order the defendant's commitment to the custody of the director of health to be placed in an appropriate institution for detention, care, and treatment. Within a reasonable time following any other commitment or release on conditions under subsection (1), the director of health shall report to the court on whether the defendant presents a substantial likelihood of becoming fit to proceed in the future. The court, in addition, may appoint a panel of three qualified examiners in felony cases or one qualified examiner in nonfelony cases to make a report as to whether the defendant presents a substantial likelihood of becoming fit to proceed in the future. The examination and report shall comply with subsections (3) and (4) above. If, following the receipt of the report(s), the court determines, after a hearing, if a hearing is requested, that the defendant probably will remain unfit to proceed, the court may dismiss the charge and:

(a) Release the defendant; or

(b) Subject to section 334-60.2 regarding involuntary hospitalization criteria, order the defendant to be committed to the custody of the director of health to be placed in an appropriate institution for detention, care, and treatment.

~~(8) If a defendant released on conditions for a limited period pursuant to subsection (1) is not found fit to proceed prior to the expiration of the release on conditions order, the charge for which the defendant was released on conditions for a limited period shall be dismissed. Upon dismissal of the charge, the defendant shall be discharged from the release on conditions unless the defendant is subject to prosecution for other charges or subject to section 334-60.2 regarding involuntary hospitalization criteria, in which case the court shall order the defendant's commitment to the custody of the director of health to be placed in an appropriate institution for detention, care, and treatment. Within a reasonable time following any other release on conditions under subsection (1), the court shall appoint a panel of three qualified examiners in felony cases or one qualified examiner in nonfelony cases to report to the court on whether the defendant presents a substantial likelihood of becoming fit to proceed in the future. If, following the report, the court determines that the defendant probably will remain unfit to proceed, the court may dismiss the charge and:~~

~~(a) Release the defendant; or~~

~~(b) Subject to section 334-60.2 regarding involuntary hospitalization criteria, order the defendant to be committed to the custody of the director of health to~~

~~be placed in an appropriate institution for detention, care, and treatment.~~

§ 704-407.5 Examination of defendant with respect to physical or mental disease, disorder, or defect excluding penal responsibility.

(1) Whenever the defendant has filed a notice of intention to rely on the defense of physical or mental disease, disorder, or defect excluding penal responsibility, or there is reason to believe that the physical or mental disease, disorder, or defect of the defendant will or has become an issue in the case, the court may order an examination as to the defendant's physical or mental disease, disorder, or defect at the time of the conduct alleged.

Whenever there is reason to believe that the physical or mental disease, disorder, or defect of the defendant will or has become an issue in the case, the court may enter into an agreement with the parties at any stage of the proceeding to divert the case into an evaluation of the defendant, treatment of the defendant, including residential or rehabilitation treatment; or any other course or procedure, including diversion into specialized courts. Such agreements may include in-court clinical evaluations.

(2) For those cases not diverted by an agreement pursuant to subsection (1), the court shall appoint three qualified examiners for class A and class B felonies, as well as for class C felonies involving violence or attempted violence, and one qualified examiner in nonfelony cases to examine and report upon the physical or mental disease, disorder, or defect of the defendant at the time of the conduct. For class C felonies not involving violence or attempted violence, the court may appoint one or three qualified examiners to examine and report upon the physical or mental disease, disorder, or defect of the defendant at the time of the conduct. In cases where the court appoints three examiners, the court shall appoint as examiners psychiatrists, licensed psychologists, or qualified physicians; provided that one of the three examiners shall be a psychiatrist or licensed psychologist designated by the director of health from within the department of health. In nonfelony cases and class C felonies not involving violence or attempted violence where one examiner is appointed, the court may appoint as examiners either a psychiatrist or a licensed psychologist. The examiner may be designated by the director of health from within the department of health. All examiners shall be appointed from a list of certified examiners as determined by the department of health. The court, in appropriate circumstances, may appoint an additional examiner or examiners. The court may direct that one or more qualified physicians or psychologists retained by the defendant be permitted to witness the examination. As used in this section, the term "licensed psychologist" includes psychologists exempted from licensure by section 465-3(a)(3) and "qualified physician" means a physician qualified by the court for the specific evaluation ordered.

(3) An examination performed under this section may employ any method that is accepted by the professions of medicine or psychology for the examination of those alleged to be affected by a physical or mental disease, disorder, or defect; provided that each examiner shall form and render diagnoses and opinions upon the physical and mental condition of the defendant independently from the other examiners, and the examiners, upon approval of the court, may secure the services of clinical psychologists and other medical or paramedical specialists to assist in the examination and diagnosis. The examination shall comply with the other provisions of this section and may be conducted utilizing telehealth, as that term is defined in section 453-1.3(j), at the request of the examiner. The department of health and the department of corrections and rehabilitation shall provide secure access to defendants in their custody for any examination requested to be conducted utilizing telehealth.

(4) For defendants charged with felonies, the examinations for fitness to proceed under section 704-404 and penal responsibility under this section shall be conducted separately unless a combined examination has been ordered by the court upon a request by the defendant or upon a showing of good cause to combine the examinations. The report of the examination for fitness to proceed shall be separate from the report of the examination for penal responsibility unless a combined examination has been ordered. For defendants charged with offenses other than felonies, a combined examination is permissible when ordered by the court.

(5) The court may order the examination to occur no sooner than one hundred twenty days of a finding of unfit to proceed under section 704-404 upon a showing of good cause.

(6) The report of the examination for penal responsibility shall include the following:

(a) A description of the nature of the examination;

(b) A diagnosis of the physical or mental condition of the defendant;

(c) An opinion as to the extent, if any, to which the capacity of the defendant to appreciate the wrongfulness of the defendant's conduct or to conform the defendant's conduct to the requirements of law was impaired at the time of the conduct alleged;

(d) When directed by the court, an opinion as to the capacity of the defendant to have a particular state of mind that is required to establish an element of the offense charged; and

(e) Where more than one examiner is appointed, a statement that the diagnosis and opinion rendered were arrived at independently of any other examiner, unless there is a showing to the court of a clear need for communication between or among the examiners for clarification. A description of the communication shall be included in the report. After all reports are submitted to the court, examiners may confer without restriction.

(7) If the examination cannot be conducted by reason of the unwillingness of the defendant to participate in the examination, the report shall so state and shall include, if possible, an opinion as to whether the unwillingness of the defendant was the result of physical or mental disease, disorder, or defect.

(8) Three copies of the report of the examination, including any supporting documents, shall be filed with the clerk of the court, who shall cause copies to be delivered to the prosecuting attorney and to counsel for the defendant.

(9) Any examiner shall be permitted to make a separate explanation reasonably serving to clarify the examiner's diagnosis or opinion.

(10) The court shall obtain all existing relevant medical, mental health, social, police, and juvenile records, including those expunged, and other pertinent records in the custody of public agencies, notwithstanding any other statute, and make the records available for inspection by the examiners in hard copy or digital format. The court may order that the records so obtained be made available to the prosecuting attorney and counsel for the defendant in either format, subject to conditions the court determines appropriate; provided that juvenile records shall not be made available unless constitutionally required. The department of corrections and rehabilitation and the department of health may disclose all relevant records between themselves regarding a defendant moved between departments. No further disclosure of records shall be made except as permitted by law.

(11) ~~[All~~] Within fourteen days of receipt of a court order, excluding intermediate Saturdays, Sundays, or holidays designated pursuant to section 8-1, or a longer time as the court may prescribe, all public agencies, persons, or other entities in possession of relevant medical, mental health, social, police, and juvenile records, including those expunged, and any other pertinent records of a defendant ordered to be examined under this chapter, shall provide those records to the court[~~,~~] in accordance with the terms of the order, notwithstanding any other state statute[~~.~~] and without requiring a signed consent from the defendant if the order so provides. An order may provide for a continuing obligation to provide records to the court created or received by public agencies, persons, or other entities after the initial provision of records to the court. Additionally, all public agencies shall make records available to an appointed examiner for inspection at the location where the records are maintained upon request and presentment of a court order authorizing the examiner to make the inspection, notwithstanding any other state statute and without requiring a signed consent from the defendant if the order so provides.

(12) The compensation of persons making or assisting in the examination, other than those retained by a nonindigent defendant, who are not undertaking the examination upon designation by the director of health as part of their normal duties as employees of the State or a county, shall be paid by the judiciary in the amount of $2,000, which amount includes compensation for the examination, the drafting of the report, and any consultation, preparation, testimony, and attendance in court.

(13) The time during which completion of an examination pursuant to this section is pending shall be excluded in computing the time for trial commencement.

Comment:

The proposed legislative changes to sections 704-404, 704-406, and 704-407.5 seek to modernize and expedite the transfer of information, and patients, between the DOH and the DCR.

Collection of Documents

When a court orders the mental examination of a criminal defendant, appointed forensic examiners conduct in-person (or video) interviews of the criminal defendant and perform a document review of that defendant's treatment history. To make the records review more efficient, this legislative proposal addresses the question over whether DOH and DCR may transmit records between themselves is resolved with an express authorization in sections 704-404(9), 704-406(1), and 704-407.5(10).

To ensure timely production of records to the Judiciary's Adult Client Service Branch ("ACSB"), a deadline of 14 days following receipt of a court order to produce records to ACSB (or such longer time as the court may prescribe) has been added to sections 704-404(10) and 704-407.5(11). Under current law, this subsection only applies to public agencies—this proposal expands the reach of this subsection to all persons or entities in possession of relevant documentation. For consistency with section 704-404(9) and 704-407.5(10), it further provides for the disclosure of expunged records. To address issues of records produced or received after the initial production of documents, the proposal authorizes judges to order that there is a continuing obligation to produce records created or received after the initial production. This, however, may create additional administrative burdens on those ordered to produce records.

Under HIPAA regulations, a covered entity can disclose records without patient authorization "[i]n response to an order of a court . . . , provided that the covered entity discloses only the protected health information expressly authorized by such order[.]" 45 C.F.R. § 164.512(e). The proposal amends sections 704-404(10) and 704-407.5(11) to expressly authorize the court to order that records be provided without the consent of the defendant.

The proposal expressly authorizes examiners to inspect records at public agencies on site upon presentment of a court order. This would resolve any ambiguity in the statute, and also provide for a failsafe for examiners to review records of public agencies if there is a delay in production to ACSB.

DCR expressed concern about establishing a deadline for the production of records to ACSB and to on-site inspection due to lack of resources. DCR was asked if an appropriation could alleviate concerns. DCR requested appropriations of $5,000 for a designation workstation consisting of an internet line and a computer that would need to be replaced every 3 years, and $6,700 annually per user of the workstation for a license for a total of $11,700 for fiscal year 2026-2027. The committee recommends inclusion in any proposed bill of an appropriation in that amount to DCR for those purposes and a similar amount to DOH for the fiscal year 2026-2027.

Telehealth

In the interest of efficient mental health examinations of criminal defendants, the additions for sections 704-404(3) and 704-407.5(3) codify the existing practice of allowing examination by telehealth. The DOH and DCR have already undertaken measures to permit telehealth examinations. The Committee recommends inclusion in any proposed bill an appropriation to both DCR and DOH in order to facilitate the use of telehealth in their respective facilities.

Fitness Restoration (HRS section 704-406)

Currently there are several individuals held in the custody of the DOH who are awaiting a panel examination to determine if they have regained fitness to proceed in their criminal action. With the amendments to section 704-406 in 2016 under Act 198, the court was, for the first time, required to order a panel of one or three examiners in each of these cases to determine if a defendant had regained fitness to proceed. At the time, the legislature found that it was "in the best interest of the defendants for the examination process to proceed in a timely, expedient manner by codifying procedures for appointing examiners for reevaluation of fitness." However, those amendments foreclosed any other avenue for the court to make a determination that a defendant understood the proceedings against them and could assist in their own defense, regardless of other evidence available to the court.

The revisions proposed attempt to address some of the overcrowding at the State Hospital by reverting to the pre-2016 provisions of section 706-406(3) and thereby permitting the court, with the agreement of the parties, to hear evidence and make a determination of fitness without the necessity of a panel examination. This revision would allow the court and the parties to reinstate the criminal action when the court determines, after a hearing, that a defendant is fit to proceed. Should either party request an examination, then a panel examination may be ordered by the court to aid in its determination. As noted, these revisions would reinstate the practice that was occurring prior to Act 198 SLH2016 and will likely eliminate unnecessary delays in those cases where the State, the defense, and the court agree that a defendant has the capacity to understand the proceedings against them and to assist in their own defense. In addition, eliminating unnecessary panel examinations will aid in the timeliness of the examination for those defendants that do require panel examinations.

The revisions proposed to section 704-406(3) are to address the fact that currently the statute only requires a report from the DOH on whether there is a substantial likelihood of the defendant becoming fit to proceed in the future. These reports are currently required for those committed or released on conditions (those who are found unfit but who may be released without danger) "within a reasonable time."[1] There is no statutory obligation for a report from DOH on any other issue or within any other timeframe. The court itself currently orders DOH to provide reports to the court in the original determination of unfitness order and subsequently at each fitness review hearing regarding the defendant's compliance with treatment and fitness restoration. This provision merely puts those court orders into statute to make clear that DOH is required to provide reports to the court regardless of the status of the defendant.

The other revisions to section 704-406(3) are proposed to make section 704-406(3) consistent with all the other provision of Chapter 704 wherein a three-panel examination is ordered (sections 704-404, 704-407.5, 704-411, and 704-413) by removing the requirement that one of the examiners be a psychiatrist for all "A" felony charges, murder, and attempted murder. After the enactment of Act 26 SLH2020, this section was the only remaining section that required a psychiatrist to be on the panel. This has made it difficult to maintain continuity in the cases where panel examinations are ordered along the continuum of the criminal case and has further exacerbated the delays for section 704-406 examinations as there is only one psychiatrist on the DOH approved list for the First Circuit. The argument for maintaining a psychiatrist on the panel stems from the belief that only psychiatrists can opine on whether a defendant is suffering from an organic brain issue (trauma/damage). However, practically speaking, all examiners are permitted to request, and those requests are unfailingly granted, a neuropsychological examination of the defendant in order for them to render an opinion. This obviates the need for mandating a psychiatrist on the panel.

The last revision to section 704-406(3) reverses unnecessary revisions made in Act 198 SLH2016. Prior to Act 198, where a defendant who had been unfit for a period of time and committed to the custody of the DOH had stabilized and, in the opinion of the panel examiners and/or the court, had "regained fitness," and was, at that time, prepared to either proceed via jury-waived trial on the penal responsibility defense, or to change their plea, then the court would make the determination of fitness just prior to the trial or entry of the plea. Therefore, a defendant would remain in the custody of the director of health until a finding of fitness and the simultaneous "judgment on the verdict or finding of guilt after a plea of guilty or nolo contendere" regardless of charge. The option of keeping a defendant who would likely decompensate if transferred to the custody of the DCR pending the imminent resolution of their case should not be restricted to those charged with "A" felonies and above. Implicitly requiring those lower level offenders to be transferred needlessly increases the necessity for subsequent examinations for fitness (i.e. if a defendant decompensates while awaiting their change of plea hearing date, a new panel examination would be required before going forward with the change of plea hearing).

The amendments to sections 704-406(4)-(6) are proposed for efficiency and consistency. The language is consistent with the language in sections 704-411(3) and 704-714(1) which reference back to section 704-404 for the examinations ordered in those sections. The proposed revisions have no substantive effect on the examination, content of the report, or the compensation provided to the examiners.

The revisions to the remaining sections 704-406(7) and (8) condense two duplicative subsections into one new subsection 704-406(5) that applies to both committed defendants and those defendants that were released on conditions. The proposed revisions have no substantive effect on those provisions.

Chapter 706: Disposition of Convicted Defendants

§ 706-623 Terms of probation. (1) When the court has sentenced a defendant to be placed on probation, the period of probation shall be as follows, unless the court enters the reason therefor on the record and sentences the defendant to a shorter period of probation:

(a) Ten years upon conviction of a class A felony;

(b) Five years upon conviction of a class B or class C felony under part II, V, or VI of chapter 707, chapter 709, and part I of chapter 712; ~~and~~

(c) ~~f~~Four years upon conviction of any other class B ~~or C~~ felony, a C felony under part III, IV, and VII, of chapter 707, and a C felony under part V and XIII of chapter 708;

(d) Three years upon conviction of any other class C felony;

(~~e~~e) One year upon conviction of a misdemeanor; except that upon a conviction under section 586-4, 586-11, or 709-906, the court may sentence the defendant to a period of probation not exceeding two years; or (~~d~~f) Six months upon conviction of a petty misdemeanor; provided that up to one year may be imposed upon a finding of good cause; except upon a conviction under section 709-906, the court may sentence the defendant to a period of probation not exceeding one year.

The court, on application of a probation officer, on application of the defendant, or on its own motion, may discharge the defendant at any time. Prior to the court granting early discharge, the defendant's probation officer shall be required to report to the court concerning the defendant's compliance or non-compliance with the conditions of the defendant's probation and the court shall afford the prosecuting attorney an opportunity to be heard. The terms of probation provided in this part, other than in this section, shall not apply to sentences of probation imposed under section 706-606.3.

(2) When a defendant who is sentenced to probation has previously been detained in any state or county correctional or other institution following arrest for the crime for which sentence is imposed, the period of detention following arrest shall be deducted from the term of imprisonment if the term is given as a condition of probation. The pre-sentence report shall contain a certificate showing the length of such detention of the defendant prior to sentence in any state or county correctional or other institution, and the certificate shall be annexed to the official records of the defendant's sentence.

Comment:

The Pew Charitable Trust published a study in December 2020 on the variability of probation term lengths in the United States. Hawai'i ranked #1 with the longest average probation length of 59 months. Hawaii's 2019 Recidivism Study (the latest available) reveals that most probationers, if they violate their supervision terms, do so early in their probation terms. This data leads the Committee to conclude that if a probationer is no longer violating probation conditions after two years, they no longer need active supervision, and probation can be terminated. Accordingly, this recommendation allows a court to sentence non-violent Class C felony offenders to a probation term of three years (a reduction from the current four years).[2]

The Committee members discussed even shorter terms of probation such as two years since recidivism generally occurs with eighteen months of being placed on probation. The interest in shorter probation terms was counterbalanced with the need for time to complete services to address criminogenic needs such as long-term substance abuse/mental health treatment, and the interest to insure the payment of court-ordered restitution.

Several committee members raised concerns that shorter terms of probation would negatively affect the collection of restitution. During a probation term, the court has power and jurisdiction over a defendant to enforce payment, whereas upon termination of probation, victims would have to resort to private debt collection actions. Probation related collection of restitution is generally more effective than private debt collection, notwithstanding the availability of free standing orders of restitution. These committee members, therefore, were concerned that shorter terms of probation would shift the burden of enforcing court ordered restitution onto individual victims and result in lower collection rates.

The Committee was able to reach a consensus recommendation because actual probation supervision, despite the length specified by statute, can still be modified on a case-by-case basis. If a probationer is successful in their rehabilitative efforts and satisfy the court-ordered terms and conditions, they are able to petition the court to terminate their probation supervision before the statutorily provided length is completed. If a probationer is struggling to satisfy their court-ordered terms and conditions, a Motion to Revoke Probation can be filed, and a court can extend probation or impose another term of probation to further monitor a probationer's rehabilitative efforts.

The Hawai'i Revised Statutes specify particular terms of probation on some offenses. These particular crimes include Habitual Property Crime (section 708-803) and Habitual Operation of a Vehicle Under the Influence of an Intoxicant (section § 291E-61.5). After discussion, the Committee decided to not make any recommendations outside the structure of normal probation codified in HRS Chap. 706 and give deference to the inherent legislative intent to punish these particular crimes differently.

Chapter 709: Offenses Against Family and Against Incompetents

§ 709-906 Abuse of family or household members; penalty.

(1) It shall be unlawful for any person, singly or in concert, to physically abuse a family or household member or to refuse compliance with the lawful order of a police officer under subsection (4). The police, in investigating any complaint of abuse of a family or household member, upon request, may transport the abused person to a hospital or safe shelter.

(2) Any police officer, with or without a warrant, may arrest a person if the officer has reasonable grounds to believe that the person is physically abusing, or has physically abused, a family or household member and that the person arrested is guilty thereof.

(3) A police officer who has reasonable grounds to believe that the person is physically abusing, or has physically abused, a family or household member shall prepare a written report.

(4) Any police officer, with or without a warrant, shall take the following course of action, regardless of whether the physical abuse or harm occurred in the officer's presence:

(a) The police officer shall make reasonable inquiry of the family or household member upon whom the officer believes physical abuse or harm has been inflicted and other witnesses as there may be;

(b) If the person who the police officer reasonably believes to have inflicted the abuse is eighteen years of age or older, the police officer lawfully shall order the person to leave the premises for a period of separation, during which time the person shall not initiate any contact, either by telephone or in person, with the family or household member; provided that the person is allowed to enter the premises with police escort to collect any necessary personal effects. The period of separation shall commence when the order is issued and shall expire at 6:00 p.m. on the second business day following the day the order was issued; provided that the day the order is issued shall not be included in the computation of the two business days;

(c) If the person who the police officer reasonably believes to have inflicted the abuse is under the age of eighteen, the police officer may order the person to leave the premises for a period of separation, during which time the person shall not initiate any contact with the family or household member by telephone or in person; provided that the person is allowed to enter the premises with police escort to collect any necessary personal effects. The period of separation shall commence when the order is issued and shall expire at 6:00 p.m. on the second business day following the day the order was issued; provided that the day the order is issued shall not be included in the computation of the two business days. The order of separation may be amended at any time by a judge of the family court. In determining whether to order a person under the age of eighteen to leave the premises, the police officer may consider the following factors:

(i) Age of the person;

(ii) Relationship between the person and the family or household member upon whom the police officer reasonably believes the abuse has been inflicted; and

(iii) Ability and willingness of the parent, guardian, or other authorized adult to maintain custody and control over the person;

(d) All persons who are ordered to leave as stated above shall be given a written warning citation stating the date, time, and location of the warning and stating the penalties for violating the warning. A copy of the warning citation shall be retained by the police officer and attached to a written report which shall be submitted in all cases. A third copy of the warning citation shall be given to the abused person;

(e) If the person so ordered refuses to comply with the order to leave the premises or returns to the premises before the expiration of the period of separation, or if the person so ordered initiates any contact with the abused person, the person shall be placed under arrest for the purpose of preventing further physical abuse or harm to the family or household member; and

(f) The police officer shall seize all firearms and ammunition that the police officer has reasonable grounds to believe were used or threatened to be used in the commission of an offense under this section.

(5) Abuse of a family or household member and refusal to comply with the lawful order of a police officer under subsection (4) are misdemeanors and the person shall be sentenced as follows:

(a) For the first offense the person shall serve a minimum jail sentence of forty-eight hours; and

(b) For a second offense that occurs within one year of the first conviction, the person shall be termed a "repeat offender" and serve a minimum jail sentence of thirty days.

(6) It shall be a petty misdemeanor for a person to intentionally or knowingly strike, shove, kick, or otherwise touch a family or household member in an offensive manner; subject the family member or household member to offensive physical contact; or exercise coercive control, as defined in section 586-1, over a family or household member and the person shall be sentenced as provided in sections 706-640 and 706-663. Upon conviction and sentencing of the defendant, the court may order that the defendant immediately be incarcerated to serve the mandatory minimum sentence imposed; provided that the defendant may be admitted to bail pending appeal pursuant to chapter 804. The court may stay the imposition of the sentence if special circumstances exist.

(7) Whenever a court sentences a person or grants a motion for deferral pursuant to subsections (5) and (6), it shall also require that the offender first complete, within a specified time frame, an assessment at any available domestic violence intervention program, and then complete a domestic violence intervention or anger management course as determined by the domestic violence program, and, if the offense involved the presence or abuse of a minor, any available parenting classes ordered by the court. The court shall revoke the defendant's probation or set aside the defendant's deferred acceptance of guilty plea and enter an adjudication of guilt, if applicable, and sentence or resentence the defendant to the maximum term of incarceration if:

(a) The defendant fails to complete, within the specified time frame, any domestic violence intervention course, anger management course, or parenting classes ordered by the court; or

(b) The defendant violates any other term or condition of the defendant's probation or deferral imposed by the court; provided that, after a hearing on an order to show cause, the court finds that the defendant has failed to show good cause why the defendant has not timely completed the domestic violence intervention course, anger management course, or parenting classes, if applicable, or why the defendant violated any other term or condition of the defendant's sentence. However, the court may suspend any portion of a jail sentence, except for the mandatory sentences under subsection (5)(a) and (b), upon the condition that the defendant remain arrest-free and conviction-free or complete court-ordered intervention.

(8) For a third or any subsequent offense that occurs within two years of a second or subsequent conviction, the offense shall be a class C felony.

(9) Where the physical abuse consists of intentionally or knowingly causing bodily injury by impeding the normal breathing or circulation of the blood by:

(a) Applying pressure on the throat or the neck with any part of the body or a ligature;

(b) Blocking the nose and mouth; or

(c) Applying pressure to the chest, abuse of a family or household member is a class C felony; provided that infliction of visible bodily injury shall not be required to establish an offense under this subsection.

For the purposes of this subsection, "bodily injury" shall have the same meaning as in section 707-700.

(10) Where physical abuse occurs in the presence of a minor, as defined in section 706-606.4, and the minor is a family or household member less than fourteen years of age, abuse of a family or household member is a class C felony.

(11) Any police officer who arrests a person pursuant to this section shall not be subject to any civil or criminal liability; provided that the police officer acts in good faith, upon reasonable belief, and does not exercise unreasonable force in effecting the arrest.

(12) The family or household member who has been physically abused or harmed by another person may petition the family court, with the assistance of the prosecuting attorney of the applicable county, for a penal summons or arrest warrant to issue forthwith or may file a criminal complaint through the prosecuting attorney of the applicable county.

(13) The defendant shall be taken into custody and brought before the family court at the first possible opportunity. The court may dismiss the petition or hold the defendant in custody, subject to bail. Where the petition is not dismissed, a hearing shall be set.

(14) This section shall not operate as a bar against prosecution under any other section of this Code in lieu of prosecution for abuse of a family or household member.

(15) It shall be the duty of the prosecuting attorney of the applicable county to assist any victim under this section in the preparation of the penal summons or arrest warrant.

(16) This section shall not preclude the physically abused or harmed family or household member from pursuing any other remedy under law or in equity.

(17) When a person is ordered by the court to complete any domestic violence intervention course, anger management course, or parenting classes, that person shall provide adequate proof of compliance with the court's order. The court shall order a subsequent hearing at which the person is required to make an appearance, on a date certain, to determine whether the person has completed the ordered domestic violence intervention course, anger management course, or parenting classes. The court may waive the subsequent hearing and appearance where a court officer has established that the person has completed the intervention ordered by the court.

(18) Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, the court may grant a deferred acceptance of guilty plea pursuant to chapter 853 for misdemeanor or petty misdemeanor offenses of abuse of a family or household member when the defendant:

(a) Has no prior conviction; or

(b) Has not been previously granted a deferred acceptance of guilty plea, for any offense charged in family court under this section regardless of the final plea.

(19) For the purposes of this section:

"Business day" means any calendar day, except Saturday, Sunday, or any state holiday.

"Family or household member':

(a) Means spouses or reciprocal beneficiaries, former spouses or reciprocal beneficiaries, persons in a dating relationship as defined under section 586-1, persons who have a child in common, parents, children, persons related by consanguinity, and persons jointly residing or formerly residing in the same dwelling unit; and

(b) Does not include those who are, or were, adult roommates or cohabitants only by virtue of an economic or contractual affiliation.

"Physically abuse" means to engage in conduct that injures, hurts, or damages a person's body."

Comment:

The offense of Abuse of family or household members is frequently charged by prosecutors in Hawaii. During the 2022-23 fiscal year, more than 600 charges were filed in the Circuit and Family Courts.

"Physically abuse" does not have a statutory definition. However, in State v. Nomura, 79 Hawai'i 413, 903 P.2d 718 (App. 1995), the Intermediate Court of Appeals defined the term "physical abuse" as "treatment that injures, hurts, or damages a person." See also State v. Ornellas, 79 Hawai'i 418, 903 P.2d 723 (App. 1995), (holding that a trial court's jury instruction that defined "physically abuse" as "treatment resulting in physical pain, illness, or any impairment of physical conditions" was proper).

In light of the number of criminal cases brought under section 709-906, defining "physically abuse" within section 709-906(19), in a manner consistent with case law and the Hawai'i Pattern Jury Instructions, promotes a uniform and predictable approach for the public, prosecutors, defense attorneys, trial judges, and jurors.

Chapter 710: Offenses Against Public Administration

~~§ 710-1011 Refusing to aid a law enforcement officer. (1) A person commits the offense of refusing to aid a law enforcement officer when, upon a reasonable command by a person known to him to be a law enforcement officer, he intentionally refuses or fails to aid such law enforcement officer, in:~~

~~(a) Effectuating or securing an arrest; or~~

~~(b) Preventing the commission by another of any offense.~~

~~(2) Refusing to aid a law enforcement officer is a petty misdemeanor.~~

~~(3) A person who complies with this section by aiding a law enforcement officer shall not be held liable to any person for damages resulting therefrom, provided he acted reasonably under the circumstances known to him at the time.~~

Comment:

"Posse comitatus" refers to the "legal power of sheriffs and other officials to summon armed citizens to aid in keeping the peace." "Posse comitatus" statutes make it illegal to refuse to comply with a request from law enforcement to aid in arrests or prevent the commission of offenses. These statutes originate in medieval England where citizens were obligated to assist sheriffs and constables in the pursuit of criminals. In 2019, California repealed its posse comitatus law which imposed a fine of up to $1,000 on persons who refused to aid "peace officers." The bill's author stated:

> In California, citizens who refuse to join a posse can be held criminally liable for a misdemeanor, for which they can be fined up to $1,000. This 'posse comitatus' law is a vestige of a bygone era, and when invoked, subjects our citizens to an untenable moral dilemma: join and potentially put one's life at risk, or refuse and become a criminal. SB 192 does away with this unnecessary penalty and helps bring California law into the 21st century.

The Committee believes that section 710-1011 is rarely, if ever, used. A search of Hawai'i appellate cases revealed only one instance where section 710-1011 was cited. This was a civil appeal which discussed the immunity-from-liability provisions in subsection 710-1011(3). There were no criminal appellate cases which involved section 710-1011. The Committee members also raised concerns about the propriety of requiring citizens to choose between assisting a police officer in a potentially dangerous situation (i.e., effectuating or securing an arrest or preventing the commission of a crime) or refusing and being subject to penal liability. Other concerns were the potential civil liability if the citizen were injured while assisting the officer.

§ 710-1012 ~~Refusing to assist in fire control.~~ Disobeying an order or regulation relating to the conduct of persons in the vicinity of a fire. (1) A person commits the offense of ~~refusing to assist in fire control~~ disobeying an order or regulation relating to the conduct of persons in the vicinity of a fire when:

~~(a) Upon a reasonable command by a person known to him to be a firefighter, he intentionally refuses to aid in extinguishing a fire or in protecting property at the scene of a fire; or~~

~~(b)~~ ~~U~~upon command by a person known to him to be a firefighter ~~or~~, law enforcement officer, emergency medical services personnel, or emergency medical technician, ~~he intentionally~~ the person knowingly disobeys an order or regulation relating to the conduct of persons in the vicinity of a fire.

(2) "Firefighter" means any officer of a fire department or any other person vested by law with the duty to extinguish fires.

(3) ~~Refusing to assist in fire control~~ Disobeying an order or regulation relating to the conduct of persons in the vicinity of a fire is a petty misdemeanor.

~~(4) A person who complies with this section by assisting in fire control shall not be held liable to any person for damages resulting therefrom, provided he acted reasonably under the circumstances known to him at the time.~~

Comment:

The Committee recommends that section 710- 1012(1)(a), "Refusing to Assist in Fire Control," be revised and renamed.

The Committee raised specific concerns about the propriety of subsection (1)(a), which requires citizens to choose between assisting a law enforcement officer or firefighter in a potentially dangerous situation (i.e., the scene of a fire) or refusing and being subject to penal liability. The term "reasonable command" is also vague and ambiguous. How would a citizen distinguish between a "reasonable command" or an "unreasonable command"? Other concerns were the potential civil liability if citizens are injured while attempting to extinguish a fire at the command of a law enforcement officer or firefighter.

The Committee agreed that subsection 710-1012(1)(b) may have some utility and should be maintained. Subsection 710-1012(1)(b) requires persons in the vicinity of a fire to obey an order of a firefighter or law enforcement officer or regulation relating to the conduct of persons in the vicinity of a fire. There may be instances where law enforcement officers or firefighters need to ensure compliance with orders or regulations, in order to ensure the safety of persons in the vicinity of a fire. Similarly, emergency medical services personnel and emergency medical technicians on-site may issue orders or regulations to persons in the vicinity, in the interest of assisting anyone requiring medical attention. Under such circumstances, it is not wholly unreasonable to impose penal liability to persons who fail to comply with such orders or regulations, when failure to do so may endanger themselves, other persons or property, or impede the actions of these emergency responders.

The Committee further recommends changing the applicable state of mind from "intentionally" to "knowingly." This would make it clear that people are prohibited from knowingly disobeying the orders or regulations of emergency personnel in these situations, even if it is not the person's specific intent to disobey. For example, if a person is told to stay away from an automobile that is on fire, a "knowing" state of mind would preclude any argument that the person's only intent was to collect important belongings from the vehicle (i.e., the person had no specific intent to disobey orders from emergency personnel).

§ 710-1021 Escape in the second degree. (1) A person commits the offense of escape in the second degree if the person intentionally escapes from a correctional or detention facility or from custody.

(2) Escape in the second degree is a class C felony.

(3) Notwithstanding subsection (2) above, if the offense was committed by a person under the custody of the director of health solely pursuant to section 704-421(1) for a petty misdemeanor not involving violence or attempted violence, it shall be a petty misdemeanor; provided that if the person is arrested for a new felony offense in the course of the escape or during the pendency of the escape, this subsection shall not apply.

Comment:

The Committee recommends amending section 710-1021, Escape in the second degree, to include a lower, petty misdemeanor level penalty for individuals charged with non-violent petty misdemeanors, who unlawfully leave a community-based facility after being diverted there for fitness examination via section 704-421.

Maintaining this type of escape as a crime will facilitate such individuals being brought back into the custody of the Director of the DOH quickly and effectively, without penalizing them with a felony offense. The only exception to this, which would remain a class C felony, would be if such an individual is arrested for a new felony offense in the course of the escape or during the pendency of the escape.

If the individual commits a violent misdemeanor or petty misdemeanor offense in the course of the escape or during the pendency of the escape, those could still be charged separately and would not qualify for the diversion program under section 704-421. Moreover, if the individual "intentionally employs physical force, the threat of physical force, or a dangerous instrument against the person of another in escaping…from custody," that could be charged as Escape in the first degree instead.

Chapter 711: Offenses Against Public Order

§ 711-1101. Disorderly Conduct (1) A person commits the offense of disorderly conduct if, with intent to cause physical inconvenience or alarm by a member or members of the public, or recklessly creating a risk thereof, the person:

(a) Engages in fighting or threatening, or in violent or tumultuous behavior;

(b) Makes unreasonable noise;

(c) Subjects another person to offensively coarse behavior or abusive language which is likely to provoke a violent response;

(d) Creates a hazardous or physically offensive condition by any act which is not performed under any authorized license or permit; or

(e) Impedes or obstructs, for the purpose of begging or soliciting alms, any person in any public place or in any place open to the public.

~~(2) Noise is unreasonable, within the meaning of subsection (1)(b), if considering the nature and purpose of the person's conduct and the circumstances known to the person, including the nature of the location and the time of the day or night, the person's conduct involves a gross deviation from the standard of conduct that a law-abiding citizen would follow in the same situation; or the failure to heed the admonition of a police officer that the noise is unreasonable and should be stopped or reduced. The renter, resident, or owner-occupant of the premises who knowingly or negligently consents to unreasonable noise on the premises shall be guilty of a noise violation.~~]

(2) Except as provided in subsection (3), disorderly conduct is a violation.

(3) Disorderly conduct is a petty misdemeanor if it is the defendant's intention to cause substantial harm or serious inconvenience, or if the defendant persists in disorderly conduct after reasonable warning or request to desist. ~~Otherwise disorderly conduct is a violation.~~

§ 711- Consenting to unreasonable noise on premises. A renter, resident, owner-occupant, or other person responsible for a premises who intentionally, knowingly, recklessly, or negligently allows another person to make unreasonable noise on the premises shall be guilty of a violation.

§ 711-1100 Definitions. In this chapter, unless a different meaning is plainly required, or the definition is otherwise limited by this section:

"Animal" includes every living creature, except a human being.

"Equine animal" means an animal of or belonging to the family Equidae, including horses, ponies, mules, donkeys, asses, burros, and zebras.

"Facsimile" means a document produced by a receiver of signals transmitted over telecommunication lines, after translating the signals, to produce a duplicate of an original document.

"Law enforcement animal" means any dog, horse, or other animal used by law enforcement or corrections agencies and trained to work in areas of tracking, suspect apprehension, victim assistance, crowd control, or drug or explosive detection for law enforcement purposes.

"Make unreasonable noise" means make noise that, considering the nature and purpose of the person's conduct and the circumstances known to the person, including the nature of the location and the time of the day or night, involves a gross deviation from the standard of conduct that a law-abiding citizen would follow in the same situation; or make noise that fails to heed the admonition of a police officer that the noise is unreasonable and should be stopped or reduced.

"Necessary sustenance" means care sufficient to preserve the health and well-being of a pet animal, except for emergencies or circumstances beyond the reasonable control of the owner or caretaker of the pet animal, and includes but is not limited to the following requirements:

(1) Food of sufficient quantity and quality to allow for normal growth or maintenance of body weight;

(2) Open or adequate access to water in sufficient quantity and quality to satisfy the animal's needs;

(3) Access to protection from wind, rain, or sun;

(4) An area of confinement that has adequate space necessary for the health of the animal and is kept reasonably clean and free from excess waste or other contaminants that could affect the animal's health; provided that the area of confinement in a primary pet enclosure shall:

(a) Provide access to shelter;

(b) Be constructed of safe materials to protect the pet animal from injury;

(c) Enable the pet animal to be clean, dry, and free from excess waste or other contaminants that could affect the pet animal's health;

(d) Provide the pet animal with a solid surface or resting platform that is large enough for the pet animal to lie upon in a normal manner, or, in the case of a caged bird, a perch that is large enough for the bird to perch upon in a normal manner;

(e) Provide sufficient space to allow the pet animal, at minimum, to do the following:

(i) Easily stand, sit, lie, turn around, and make all other normal body movements in a comfortable manner for the pet animal, without making physical contact with any other animal in the enclosure; and

(ii) Interact safely with other animals within the enclosure; and

(5) Veterinary care when needed to prevent suffering.

"Obstructs" means renders impassable without unreasonable inconvenience or hazard.

"Pet animal" means a dog, cat, domesticated rabbit, guinea pig, domesticated pig, or caged birds (passeriformes, piciformes, and psittaciformes only) so long as not bred for consumption.

"Primary pet enclosure" means any kennel, cage, or structure used to restrict only a pet animal as defined in this section to a limited area of space, and does not apply to the confinement of any animals that are raised for food, such as any poultry that is raised for meat or egg production and livestock, rabbits, or pigs that are raised specifically for meat production because these animals are not pets when raised for meat or egg production.

"Private place" means a place where one may reasonably expect to be safe from casual or hostile intrusion or surveillance, but does not include a place to which the public or a substantial group thereof has access.

"Public" means affecting or likely to affect a substantial number of persons.

"Public place" means a place to which the public or a substantial group of persons has access and includes highways, transportation facilities, schools, places of amusement or business, parks, playgrounds, prisons, and hallways, lobbies, and other portions of apartment houses and hotels not constituting rooms or apartments designed for actual residence.

"Record", for the purposes of sections 711-1110.9 and 711-1111, means to videotape, film, photograph, or archive electronically or digitally.

"Torment" means fail to attempt to mitigate substantial bodily injury with respect to a person who has a duty of care to the animal.

"Torture" includes every act, omission, or neglect whereby unjustifiable physical pain, suffering, or death is caused or permitted.

Comment:

The Committee recommends amending and clarifying the offense of Disorderly Conduct by: 1) adding a subsection to section 711-1101 to create separate petty misdemeanor and violation level offenses; 2) deleting subsection 711-1101(2) and adding the definition of "unreasonable noise" to section 711-1100; and 3) creating a standalone offense of "Consenting to unreasonable noise on premises."

Currently, section 711-1101(3) combines both petty misdemeanor and violation level penalties under the same subsection. Consequently, a criminal records check may not distinguish between the two offense levels, and any attempt to generate statistics on this offense may be skewed as the two different levels of offense are inextricably combined.

In addition, section 711-1101(2) explains when noise is "unreasonable," and also presents a completely separate offense when a renter, resident, or owner-occupant of a premises knowingly or negligently consents to unreasonable noise being made [by another person] on the premises. Establishing the separate offense under a separate statute would provide greater clarity for the public and for law enforcement. Also, because both section 711-1101 and the separate statute would contain the phrase, "make unreasonable noise"--and that phrase is not used anywhere else in the Hawai'i Revised Statutes--the definition should then be added to the other defined terms under section 711-1100.

Chapter 712: Offenses Against Public Health and Morals

§ 712-1243 ~~Promoting a dangerous drug in the third degree~~ Possessing a dangerous drug in the first degree. (1) ~~A person commits the offense of promoting a dangerous drug in the third degree if the person knowingly possesses any dangerous drug in any amount.~~ A person commits the offense of possessing a dangerous drug in the first degree if the person knowingly:

(a) Possesses three to twenty-four capsules, tablets, ampules, dosage units, or syrettes, containing one or more dangerous drugs;

(b) Possesses one or more preparations, compounds, mixtures, or substances of an aggregate weight of:

(i) 0.5 grams up to 3.53 grams containing methamphetamine, heroin, morphine, cocaine, or fentanyl or any of their respective salts, isomers, and salts of isomers; or

(ii) 2.0 grams up to 6.99 grams containing any dangerous drug.

(2) ~~Promoting a dangerous drug in the third degree~~ Possessing a dangerous drug in the first degree is a class C felony.

§ 712-1243.5 Possessing a dangerous drug in the second degree

(1) A person commits the offense of possessing a dangerous drug in the second degree if the person knowingly possesses any dangerous drug in any amount.

(2) Possessing a dangerous drug in the second degree is a misdemeanor.

(3) Whenever a court sentences a person, grants a motion for deferral, or grants a conditional discharge, it shall also require that the person completes a substance abuse assessment and treatment, if necessary.

(4) For a third or any subsequent conviction within five years of a second or subsequent conviction, the sentence shall be six months incarceration as a term and condition of probation with early release to a substance abuse treatment program or up to one year incarceration.

§ 706-623 Terms of probation. (1) When the court has sentenced a defendant to be placed on probation, the period of probation shall be as follows, unless the court enters the reason therefor on the record and sentences the defendant to a shorter period of probation:

(a) Ten years upon conviction of a class A felony;

(b) Five years upon conviction of a class B or class C felony under part II, V, or VI of chapter 707, chapter 709, and part I of chapter 712 and four years upon conviction of any other class B or C felony;

(c) One year upon conviction of a misdemeanor; except that upon a conviction under section 586-4, 586-11, or 709-906, or 712-1243.5, the court may sentence the defendant to a period of probation not exceeding two years; or

(d) Six months upon conviction of a petty misdemeanor; provided that up to one year may be imposed upon a finding of good cause; except upon a conviction under section 709-906, the court may sentence the defendant to a period of probation not exceeding one year.

The court, on application of a probation officer, on application of the defendant, or on its own motion, may discharge the defendant at any time. Prior to the court granting early discharge, the defendant's probation officer shall be required to report to the court concerning the defendant's compliance or non-compliance with the conditions of the defendant's probation and the court shall afford the prosecuting attorney an opportunity to be heard. The terms of probation provided in this part, other than in this section, shall not apply to sentences of probation imposed under section 706-606.3.

(2) When a defendant who is sentenced to probation has previously been detained in any state or county correctional or other institution following arrest for the crime for which sentence is imposed, the period of detention following arrest shall be deducted from the term of imprisonment if the term is given as a condition of probation. The pre-sentence report shall contain a certificate showing the length of such detention of the defendant prior to sentence in any state or county correctional or other institution, and the certificate shall be annexed to the official records of the defendant's sentence.

§ 712-1255 Conditional discharge. (1) Whenever any person who has not previously been convicted of any offense under this chapter or chapter 329 or under any statute of the United States or of any state relating to a dangerous drug, harmful drug, detrimental drug, or an intoxicating compound, pleads guilty to or is found guilty of promoting a dangerous drug, harmful drug, detrimental drug, or an intoxicating compound under section 712-1243, 712-1243.5, 712-1245, 712-1246, 712-1248, 712-1249, or 712-1250, the court, without entering a judgment of guilt and with the consent of the accused, may defer further proceedings and place the accused on ~~probation~~ deferral upon terms and conditions. Upon violation of a term or condition, the court may enter an adjudication of guilt and proceed as otherwise provided.

(2) Upon fulfillment of the terms and conditions, the court shall discharge the person and dismiss the proceedings against the person.

(3) Discharge and dismissal under this section shall be without adjudication of guilt and is not a conviction for purposes of this section or for purposes of disqualifications or disabilities imposed by law upon conviction of a crime.

(4) There may be only one discharge and dismissal under this section with respect to any person.

(5) After conviction, for any offense under this chapter or chapter 329, but prior to sentencing, the court shall be advised by the prosecutor whether the conviction is defendant's first or a subsequent offense. If it is not a first offense, the prosecutor shall file an information setting forth the prior convictions. The defendant shall have the opportunity in open court to affirm or deny that the defendant is identical with the person previously convicted. If the defendant denies the identity, sentence shall be postponed for such time as to permit the trial, before a jury if the defendant has a right to trial by jury and demands a jury, on the sole issue of the defendant's identity with the person previously convicted.

Comment:

The Committee recommends changes to the treatment of criminal defendant substance abusers that possess minute quantities of illegal narcotics. Currently, possession of any amount of a dangerous drug such as cocaine, methamphetamine, heroin, and fentanyl, results in a Class C felony. Many of these Class C Felony cases involve possession of drug paraphernalia (such as a pipe) that contain residue or trace amounts of the illegal narcotic when a defendant is not actually ingesting the narcotic. The Committee believes that many of these defendants should be focused on treatment and rehabilitation without the weight of a felony conviction.

Defendants with cases involving trace or residue amounts of illegal narcotics occasionally seek dismissal of the charge under section 702-236 as De Minimis infractions. To preserve the Legislature's prerogative to regulate the possession and use of illegal narcotics, the Committee recommends the replacement of section 712-1243 with a new offense entitled "Possessing a dangerous drug in the first degree" and creating another new offense entitle "Possessing a dangerous drug in the second degree."

The proposed changes aim to divide possessors of illegal narcotics with a usable (and commercially viable) amount from possessors of illegal narcotics in trace or residue amounts. The Committee also recommends amendments to section 706-623 (Terms of Probation) and section 712-1255 (Conditional Discharge) to account for these new offenses and maintain statutory consistency.

Chapter 804: Bail and Bonds (Pretrial Release)

§ 804-7.1 Conditions of release on bail, recognizance, or supervised release. Upon a showing that there exists a danger that the defendant will commit a serious crime or will seek to intimidate witnesses, or will otherwise unlawfully interfere with the orderly administration of justice, the judicial officer named in section 804-5 may deny the defendant's release on bail, recognizance, or supervised release.

Upon the defendant's release on bail, recognizance, or supervised release, however, the court may enter an order:

(1) Prohibiting the defendant from approaching or communicating with particular persons or classes of persons, except that no such order should be deemed to prohibit any lawful and ethical activity of defendant's counsel;

(2) Prohibiting the defendant from going to certain described geographical areas or premises;

(3) Prohibiting the defendant from possessing any dangerous weapon, engaging in certain described activities, or indulging in intoxicating liquors or certain drugs;

(4) Requiring the defendant to report regularly to and remain under the supervision of an officer of the court;

(5) Requiring the defendant to maintain employment, or, if unemployed, to actively seek employment, or attend an educational or vocational institution;

(6) Requiring the defendant to comply with a specified curfew;

(7) Requiring the defendant to seek and maintain mental health treatment or testing, including treatment for drug or alcohol dependency, or to remain in a specified institution for that purpose;

(8) Requiring the defendant to remain in the jurisdiction of the judicial circuit in which the charges are pending unless approval is obtained from a court of competent jurisdiction to leave the jurisdiction of the court;

(9) Requiring the defendant to submit to the use of electronic monitoring and surveillance;

(10) Requiring the confinement of the defendant in the defendant's residence;

(11) Requiring the defendant to satisfy any other condition reasonably necessary to ensure the appearance of the defendant as required and to ensure the safety of any other person or community; or

(12) Imposing any combination of conditions listed above; provided that the court shall impose the least restrictive non-financial conditions required to ensure the defendant's appearance and to protect the public. Unless specifically required by another statute, to the extent the conditions of release require electronic monitoring and surveillance, the Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation shall be responsible for the cost, and the defendant shall not be charged. This does not prohibit the department from seeking reimbursement from the defendant or filing a claim/complaint for lost and/or damages to the equipment. The Department’s responsibilities regarding electronic monitoring and surveillance shall be subject to legislative appropriations specific for this purpose.

The judicial officer may revoke a defendant's bail upon proof that the defendant has breached any of the conditions imposed.

Comment:

Pretrial release of a criminal defendant can include the requirement of electronic monitoring to ensure they abide by court orders such as curfew and not having contact with witnesses. However, there are costs associated with electronic monitoring and surveillance. This proposal recognizes that fees tied to pretrial conditions of release could be unfairly burdensome on defendants and ensures that defendants entitled to release will not remain incarcerated due only to their inability to pay. For example, defendants are currently charged approximately $3.50 per day or $105 per month for electronic monitoring. Many people do not have the financial resources to pay $105 per month to stay out of custody for the duration of a criminal case, resulting in disparate pretrial incarceration of indigent defendants.

§ 804-7 Release after bail. The judiciary, in consultation with the department of corrections and rehabilitation and the department of the attorney general, shall establish, on or before _____, and administer a statewide program that permits the posting of monetary bail seven-days-a-week for defendants who remain in the custody of the director of corrections and rehabilitation. This program shall be made available to any defendant for whom a monetary amount of bail has been set by the police, other law enforcement agency, or the court. The judiciary may contract with a single vendor to administer the program. The vendor may charge users of the program a service fee. Upon posting of bail, the defendant shall be released from custody forthwith.

Comment:

The 2019 amendments to HRS Chap. 804 included an amendment to section 804-7 requiring the "establishment and administration of a statewide program that permits the posting of monetary bail seven-days-a-week for defendants who remain in the custody of the director of corrections and rehabilitation." To date, such a program has not been implemented. The legislative amendment in this section allows the Legislature sets a deadline by which to establish and administer a statewide program.

VII. Issues without Recommendations

Chapter 702: General Principles of Penal Liability
Chapter 703: General Principles of Justification

Section 702-230 Intoxication

The Subcommittee discussed the Intoxication statute in section 702-230 in light of new caselaw from the Hawai‘i Supreme Court. Intoxication can complicate a criminal case. The language and structure of section 702-230 can be challenging. First, the statute in subsection (5) distinguishes "self-induced intoxication" from non-self-induced and "pathological intoxication."

Self-induced intoxication ("SID") occurs when the defendant "knowingly introduces" intoxicating substances into the body that have a "tendency of which to cause intoxication the defendant knows or ought to know[.]" That is, unless the defendant does it "pursuant to medical advice or under circumstances that would afford a defense to a charge of a penal offense[,]" SID is not a defense according to sections 702-230(5) and 702-230(1). But evidence of SID is admissible to prove or disprove conduct or state of mind in subsection (2). It is not admissible to disprove state of mind. In other words, defendants cannot present evidence or argue to the trier of fact that they were so intoxicated after drinking or using recreational drugs that they could not have intentionally, knowingly, or even recklessly committed the offense.

The Hawai'i Supreme Court has refined when SID occurs and, thus, is not available as a defense. The key here is the introduction of substances. In State v. Abion, 148 Hawai'i 445, 457, 478 P.3d 270, 282 (2020), SID "applies only when a defendant is under the temporary influence of voluntarily ingested substances at the time of an act." The Hawai‘i Supreme Court has also held in State v. Eager, 140 Hawai'i 167, 174, 398 P.3d 756, 763 (2017), that criminal conduct attributed to the defendant's refusal to take prescribed medication is not SID.

In the Abion case, the Hawai'i Supreme Court examined the interplay between the intoxication statute and the insanity defense. The insanity defense shields defendants from guilt when—at the time the criminal conduct occurred—a "physical or mental disease, disorder, or defect" prevents them of the capacity to either appreciate the wrongfulness of their conduct or conform their conduct to the requirements of the law. But, according to section 702-203(3), intoxication "in itself," does not "constitute a physical or mental disease, disorder or defect within the meaning of section 704-400." The Hawai'i Supreme Court read the statutes together and confirmed that intoxication is an exception to the insanity defense. And it clarified that SID, as an exception to the insanity defense, should be read narrowly and applies only "to acts committed while a person is temporarily under the influence of voluntarily ingested substances." Thus, defendants can assert the insanity defense when the cause of their disease, disorder, or defect resulted from the effects of long-term substance abuse (but not from being under the influence of an intoxicant at the time of the act).

Pathological intoxication ("PI") in subsection (5) occurs when the intoxication is "grossly excessive in degree," the defendant "does not know the defendant is susceptible" to this excessive form of intoxication, and the defendant actually has "a physical abnormality" resulting in the intoxication. PI is an affirmative defense. There are few cases directly discussing PI. The last part of the PI defense contemplates evidence that the defendant suffered from a physical defect. And so, it seems that PI is really nothing more than a specific type of "physical . . . disease, disorder, or defect" absolving the defendant of criminal responsibility.

Finally, there is another kind of intoxication, which the statute calls "Not self-induced intoxication" ("NSID") in section 702-230(4)(a). NSID, like PI, is an affirmative defense. There is no statutory definition of NSID. This complicates things. Because NSID is an affirmative defense, the defendant must show that there was intoxication and that it was not self-induced. That means the burden is on the defendant to show that the intoxication was not knowingly introduced, or it was introduced and but the "tendency of which to cause intoxication" was not known or was not reasonably known, or the defendant introduced the substances based on medical advice or "under circumstances that would afford a defense to a charge of penal offense."

It appears that this statute, though difficult to read at times, makes sense and appears to meet the general public's expectation that a person cannot get drunk or high, commit a crime, and be acquitted because of their intoxication. The Subcommittee believes that the Judiciary's Committee on Pattern Jury Instructions is best suited to craft appropriate jury instructions when these issues are raised at trial, rather than legislative changes in the attempt to clarify the statute that encompasses a wide array of factual circumstances.

Section 702-236 De Minimis Infractions

From a separation-of-powers standpoint, section 702-236, "De minimis infractions," is an example of healthy checks and balances. Normally, the executive branch's "broad discretion" to prosecute defendants goes unchallenged.[3] But here the Legislature empowered courts to "dismiss a prosecution" under certain circumstances.

[3] See State v. Radcliffe, 9 Haw. App. 628, 640, 859 P.2d 925, 933 (1993).

The three circumstances where a court may dismiss a prosecution are listed in subsections (1)(a) through (c). Out of the three, the most commonly litigated is subsection (1)(b) where the defendant's conduct "[d]id not actually cause or threaten the harm or evil sought to be prevented by the law defining the offense or did so only to an extent too trivial to warrant the condemnation of conviction[.]"

There appears to be no impetus for a substantive change to these three subsections. And allowing judicial review of the prosecution's discretion under these circumstances appears to be settled. But questions have arisen as to when defendants should bring a de minimis challenge. It is not uncommon to raise a subsection (1)(b) challenge as a pretrial motion. But in doing so, the defense is in the awkward position of admitting or conceding that the offense occurred before being found guilty. Of course, litigants should be able to circumvent this by pointing out that even if the facts are established as the prosecution alleges, the charge should be dismissed. Another avenue for defendants is to simply rely on the finding of probable cause for the offense and then provide additional evidence to apprise the court of the "nature of the attendant circumstances" surrounding the offense. Yet another possibility is to raise the de minimis challenge after the State rests. Defendants can then move for dismissal and present evidence of the attendant circumstances.

The absence of statutory guidance gives defendants flexibility as to when the de minimis challenge may be raised. Nevertheless, there does not appear to be overuse of this statue and the Subcommittee believes amendments are unnecessary.

Section 703-304 Use of force in self-protection

In connection with HRS Chapter 703, the Subcommittee primarily centered its attention on this chapter around section 703-304, "Use of Force in Self-Protection," specifically the language of "immediately necessary." At the request of a Subcommittee member, this discussion evolved to the corresponding issue of "Stand Your Ground." A stand-your-ground law, sometimes called a "line in the sand" or "no duty to retreat" law, provides that people may use deadly force when they reasonably believe it to be necessary to defend against certain violent crimes (right of self-defense). Under such a law, people have no duty to retreat before using deadly force in self-defense, so long as they are in a place where they are lawfully present. The exact details vary by jurisdiction.

Hawai'i adopts the alternative to stand your ground: "duty to retreat." That is, even a person who is unlawfully attacked (or who is defending someone who is unlawfully attacked) may not use deadly force if it is possible to instead avoid the danger with complete safety by retreating. The political ramifications between the two doctrines are beyond the scope of this Committee.

Nonetheless, section 703-304 prescribes specific requirements regarding the duty to retreat, but not without arguable differences between ordinary self-protection and self-protection using deadly force. Sections 703-304(1) and 703-304(2) differ when the requirements of "immediately necessary" and "necessary" are applied to self-protection (without deadly force) and use of deadly force, respectively. That is, it was raised by Subcommittee members that the word "immediately" was absent from 703-304(2). In State v. Reis, WL635324, and In Re DM, 152 Haw. 469, the appellate courts discussed these same issues and raised concerns. After a review of current case law, it was determined that the language of section 703-304 is correct and the Judiciary's Committee on Pattern Jury Instructions is working on the issue for trial judges when this issue is raised in specific cases. As such, no modification to section 703-304 is proposed.

Chapter 706: Disposition of Convicted Defendants
Chapter 853: Deferred Acceptance of Guilty and No Contest Plea

Individualized Conditions of Probation

The 706/853 Subcommittee discussed changes to section 706-624 and whether the mandatory and discretionary conditions of probation should be specifically tailored to the individual's particular risks/needs.

Mandatory and discretionary conditions are tool kits for the court and probation officers to address the needs of probationers according to risk level. The mandatory conditions in section 706-624 are sensible and the discretionary conditions have been reasonably related and applied by the probation department and the court. Inconsistencies in the application could be addressed through training. Statutory changes are unnecessary at this time, and administrative adjustments can be addressed internally at the Judiciary.

The Subcommittee discussed the need for a collaborative process to loop the public defender into the risks/needs assessment and monitoring of compliance to avoid the accumulation of violations that lead to probation revocations and open terms of imprisonment. The identified barriers in the compliance of mandatory and discretionary conditions are the lack of treatment for individuals with mental health and/or drug dependency, and the lack of stable housing.

Early Discharge of Probation

The Subcommittee discussed codifying a proof of compliance hearing (no later than midpoint of probation term) to evaluate progress made by a defendant utilizing a checklist for possible early discharge for certain offenses, and possible creation of a compliance calendar to manage hearings. These proof of compliance hearings could trigger early termination of probation. Part of the discussion included how victims are notified of possible early termination of probation and how to amend section 801D-4 (the "Basic bill of rights for victims and witnesses"). If adopted, a legislative funding request may be required for additional court resources. Collaboration is needed with prosecutors' office to support early discharge when appropriate. The Subcommittee favored recommending a legislative change for midpoint reviews at plenary session.

When presented to the Committee during plenary session, this recommendation did not achieve supermajority approval. While this proposal created a statutory mechanism to trigger early termination of probation, the plenary discussion recognized that early termination of probation is already possible under the current statutory scheme. Ultimately, the costs associated with the midpoint proof of compliance hearings outweighed any benefits.

Chapter 853 Deferred Pleas

Section 853-1 specifically authorizes a court to defer the acceptance of a no contest or guilty plea "upon any of the conditions specified by section 706-624." There are no analogous provisions in HRS Chapter 853 to those in section 706-623. The only provision in HRS Chapter 853 that addresses the length of deferral periods is found in section 853-1, which provides that the maximum duration of a deferral period for a felony cannot "exceed the maximum sentence allowable[.]"

A number of subcommittee members noted that in practice, judges tend to order durations of deferral that are equal to the duration of probation that would apply to the same offense. In addition, notwithstanding the fact that there is no express mechanism in Chapter 853 for early discharges from deferrals, in practice motions for early discharge are filed and heard. As a result, it was suggested that changes to section 706-623 would be followed in deferral cases, whether or not Chapter 853 were amended to reflect those changes.

Finally, concerns were raised about the wisdom of importing changes in Chapter 706 into Chapter 853 on a piecemeal basis.

At the conclusion of these discussions, there was a consensus against amending Chapter 853 to reflect any of the changes to section 706-623 under discussion by the Subcommittee.

Chapter 134: Firearms, Ammunition and Dangerous Weapons

"Ghost Guns"

The Subcommittee devoted great time and discussion to address the increase in gun violence. Of particular concern was the current proliferation of "ghost guns," their prevalence in law enforcement investigations, and how they were not adequately addressed by the Penal Code. The Subcommittee reviewed statutes of other states and their treatment of ghost guns, the Gun Control Act of 1968, the National Firearms Act of 1988, the Undetectable Gun Act, legislative history of HRS Chapter 134, and current Hawai'i caselaw on the treatment of firearms. The Survey "ghost gun" treatment in other states is included in Appendix B1

The ghost gun issue was resolved with Act 18 SLH2025 (the former House Bill 392) that not only defines a "ghost gun," but amended section 134-8 to prohibit possession, and created the new section for imprisonment when a ghost gun is used in the commission of a felony.

Chapter 708: Offenses Against Property Rights

Theft in the First Degree

The Chapter 708 Subcommittee recommended a mandatory minimum period of 18 months incarceration when a person is convicted of Theft in the first degree involving loss of more than $250,000, whether as a part of a ten-year indeterminate term of imprisonment or as a condition of probation.

The Subcommittee's recommendation sought to differentiate the punishments of theft of $20,000 (the general minimum threshold for Theft in the first degree) and theft of more than $250,000. The rationale being that theft of the greater amount reflected greater criminality and resulted in greater harm.

Despite the recommendation of the Subcommittee, this recommendation was not approved by the Committee in plenary session. Concerns about mandatory sentencing, and limiting judicial discretion, were discussed. Examples were shared where thefts, even those involving large amounts, can be distinguished by motive, sophistication of the scheme, and actual harm to the victim(s). That a sentencing judge should be able to consider all the relevant factors and fashion an appropriate sentence for each individual case weighed heavily on the recommendation failing to achieve supermajority approval.

Organized Retail Theft

The Subcommittee investigated and discussed "Organized Retail Theft." Incidents involving a group or groups of people committing theft in ways that overwhelm retail security measures and/or law enforcement measures have captured media attention and appear to be on the rise in Hawai'i as well as on the continent. Further analysis and examination of the issues surrounding organized retail theft is of interest to determine if such a statute is needed, and if so, what approach will be the most effective at targeting professional thieves who prey on the commercial retail establishments in our community.

The Subcommittee surveyed many states that established statutes to combat organized retail theft. A chart of organized retail theft laws across the country is included in Appendix B2. The focus and elements or these various statutes vary greatly in approach, proof required, and penalties imposed. These differences include the requirements of the number of suspects needed to prosecute, the type of cooperation between the suspects needed to be proved, and the appropriate financial threshold for this offense. Given the lack of available data regarding organized retail thefts affecting the current community, a future group including more stakeholders from retail businesses and law enforcement might be best suited to determine what evils a potential organized retail theft statute should seek to address.

Theft Value Thresholds

This Committee, unlike the 2015 Penal Code Review Committee, was not directed by the Legislature to consider the theft thresholds. Nevertheless, the Subcommittee did raise the issue, discussed it, and was cognizant of the concerns of the business community and law enforcement regarding property crime, and the potential effects that are concomitant with increases in value thresholds.

Hawaii's current thresholds are relatively low compared to the rest of the country. Thresholds for Theft in the Second Degree, Theft in the Third Degree, and Theft in the Fourth Degree have not changed since 2016 (pursuant to the last Penal Code Review). The $20,000 threshold for Theft in the First Degree has not changed since 1986. The State currently has the seventh lowest felony threshold among the states and Washington D.C. (a survey of theft thresholds is included as Appendix B3). This ranking is especially low in the context of inflation in recent years and Hawaii's high cost of goods and services. Raising value thresholds would reduce the number of felony cases and avoid labeling lower-level offenders as felons. The Subcommittee believes that these laudable goals would reduce the amount of government resources spent on felony property crimes and increase the chances of rehabilitation for low-level offenders.

While Act 245 SLH2024 did not focus on theft value thresholds, this issue will be increasing in importance to the community, especially in light of the current and turbulent economic environment. The next Penal Code Review Committee should be directed to focus on this issue if the Legislature, on its own, does not address it prior.

Chapter 710: Offenses Against Public Administration

Section 710-1010.5 Interference with reporting an emergency or crime

The Subcommittee recommended amending section 710-1010.5 Interference with reporting an emergency or crime, from a petty misdemeanor to a misdemeanor offense. The recommendation also added the reckless state of mind to further effectuate the perceived legislative intent of the statute.

This offense was created to deter perpetrators of domestic violence who prevent victims and witnesses from contacting authorities for assistance in situations of domestic violence. Because Hawaii's body of law surrounding domestic violence—and victims of crime in general—has greatly evolved since this statute was created in 2001, to embrace a more victim-centered approach, the Subcommittee believed that a misdemeanor offense would serve as a more effective and appropriate deterrent to would-be perpetrators, and provide a more appropriate message to would-be victims and witnesses that such behavior is a high priority to the community and will not be tolerated.

When presented to the Committee in plenary session, this proposal did not obtain supermajority approval.

Chapter 804: Bail and Bonds (Pretrial Release)

Codification of factors for least restrictive conditions for pretrial release

The Subcommittee proposed the creation of a new section defining "least restrictive conditions" for pretrial release to further the intent of Act 179 SLH2019. The proposal provided more guidance by defining "least restrictive conditions," and requiring (or alternatively suggesting) that courts specifically consider less-restrictive alternatives before ordering secured, monetary bail. These proposed amendments also required consideration of relevant factors and how they will be impacted by a bail decision. For example, the court would consider the defendant's employment and housing, and what would be necessary for the defendant to maintain stable employment and housing.

Consideration of these factors is not only important for bail decisions, but necessary to facilitate re-entry and rehabilitation, in the event a defendant is convicted. Consideration of the impact of bail on a variety of aspects of the defendant's life will ensure that bail decisions are individualized and not "mechanically confirming unaffordable amounts" of money bail.

During presentation at a plenary session, the Committee had an extensive discussion on the need for new legislation. The discussion focused on whether or not courts were already following the requirements of Act 179 SLH2019. Many factors in the proposed legislation were already actively considered by courts when making pretrial release decisions, including a defendant's ability to afford bail. Ultimately this set of proposals failed to attain approval by a supermajority of the Committee.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
THIRTY-SECOND LEGISLATURE, 2024
STATE OF HAWAII

H.B. NO. 1953 H.D. 1 S.D. 2 C.D. 1

A BILL FOR AN ACT

RELATING TO THE PENAL CODE.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF HAWAII:

SECTION 1. The legislature finds that the Hawaii Penal Code is the fundamental document by which the State addresses crime. It is imperative that such an important part of state law receives full and deliberate attention from time to time to ensure the Code's continued force and effectiveness.

Since the Hawaii Penal Code was enacted in 1972, there have been four significant reviews of the Code by means of:

(1) Act 291, Session Laws of Hawaii 1983, which resulted in the enactment of many of the committee on penal code revision and reform of the judicial council of the Hawaii supreme court's recommendations as Act 314, Session Laws of Hawaii 1986;

(2) Act 284, Session Laws of Hawaii 1993, which did not result in legislative action on the recommendations of the committee on penal code review;

(3) Act 125, Session Laws of Hawaii 2005, which led to enactment of many of the committee on penal code review's recommendations as Act 230, Session Laws of Hawaii 2006; and

(4) House Concurrent Resolution No. 155, S.D. 1, Regular Session of 2015, which led to the enactment of Act 231, Session Laws of Hawaii 2016.

The legislature concludes that it is time for another review. The purpose of this Act is to require the judicial council to conduct another comprehensive review of the Hawaii Penal Code to be completed no later than forty days prior to the convening of the regular session of 2026.

SECTION 2. The judicial council, as established pursuant to section 601-4, Hawaii Revised Statutes, through an advisory committee on penal code review, shall conduct a comprehensive review of the Hawaii Penal Code and recommend to the legislature necessary amendments to ensure:

(1) That the Hawaii Penal Code is consistent and proportional across the various types and classes of offenses;

(2) That the Hawaii Penal Code is aligned with national best practices and based upon evidence-based strategies;

(3) That grades and punishment are appropriate and proportionate to other sentences imposed for criminal or civil offenses and are cost-effective in deterring crime, reducing recidivism, and providing restitution to victims in a manner that provides equal justice and punishment regardless of socioeconomic class or ethnicity;

(4) That the response of the criminal justice system to mentally ill offenders is appropriate to the situation; and

(5) The continued force, effectiveness, and enforcement of the Hawaii Penal Code.

SECTION 3. (a) No later than September 1, 2024, the judicial council shall appoint an advisory committee on penal code review. The advisory committee shall include the following members:

(1) Representatives of the judiciary;

(2) A member of the senate standing committee on judiciary;

(3) A member of the house of representatives standing committee on judiciary and Hawaiian affairs;

(4) The attorney general, or the attorney general's designee;

(5) A representative of the office of the public defender;

(6) The administrator of the office of Hawaiian affairs, or the administrator's designee;

(7) A representative of the department of corrections and rehabilitation;

(8) A representative of the department of law enforcement;

(9) The governor's senior advisor for mental health and the justice system;

(10) The prosecuting attorney of each county, or each prosecuting attorney's designee; and

(11) A representative of the police department of each county, at least one of which shall be in a role that focuses on mental health.

(b) The following members shall be invited by the judicial council to participate on the advisory committee:

(1) Representatives from citizen participation bodies, such as neighborhood boards;

(2) Private citizens interested in criminal law and civil liberties;

(3) Hawaii-licensed attorneys in private practice who handle criminal cases;

(4) Representatives from advocacy groups for incarcerated individuals;

(5) Representatives from advocacy groups for crime victims;

(6) Psychologists or social workers; and

(7) Any other members the judicial council deems necessary.

(c) The members of the advisory committee shall serve without compensation but shall be reimbursed for expenses, including travel expenses, necessary for the performance of their duties.

(d) The advisory committee shall submit a report of its findings and recommendations, including any proposed legislation, to the legislature no later than forty days prior to the convening of the regular session of 2026.

SECTION 4. The judicial council may appoint a reporter for the review and other research and clerical staff, as may be necessary, without regard to chapter 76, Hawaii Revised Statutes. In selecting the reporter and research and clerical staff, the judicial council is urged to use, to the greatest extent possible, the faculty and students of the university of Hawaii at Manoa William S. Richardson school of law.

SECTION 5. There is appropriated out of the general revenues of the State of Hawaii the sum of $10,000 or so much thereof as may be necessary for fiscal year 2024-2025 for the purposes of this Act.

The sum appropriated shall be expended by the judiciary for the purposes of this Act.

SECTION 6. This Act shall take effect on July 1, 2024.
